McRAE-GRAHAM.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnised on Thursday, April 30th at "The Portage" the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Graham, Longford Mills, when their daughter Estella was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to John A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McRae, of Longford Mills. At twelve-thirty o'clock the bride, beautifully gowned in cream crepe cloth, with corsage bouquet of bridal roses, entered the parlor, leaning on her father's arm, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Nina, sister of the bride. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Edith, and Mr. R. G. Martin, of Peterboro, very ably assisted the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Mackersie, B.D., in the presence of a few friends and neighbors. After congratulations were received, all partook of a dainty repast, after which Mr. and Mrs. McRae left on the four o'clock train for Toronto, Buffalo, and Pittsburg, Pa. The bride travelled in a navy blue tailored suit with hat to match. On their return they will reside in Longford Mills.

LONG—STENTON.

The young couple were unattended and will reside in Otonabee.

BIG VAUDEVILLE PROGRAMME AT ROYAL THEATRE

The Local Theatre-Goers Will Have an Opportunity to Show Their Appreciation for Good Vaudeville

Before the alterations to the Royal Theatre are begun, Manager Clayton has decided to test whether the people of Peterborough want to see a good vaudeville circuit brought into Peterborough. To that end he has arranged for a programme of eight big time vaudeville acts for next week. They include the famous Dixie Minstrels, comprising twelve people, and in addition, a fine line of pictures will be shown. Mr. Clayton believes that vaudeville is wanted in this city, but has decided on a test week to get an idea of the public feeling. Next week will therefore be vaudeville week. A special matinee will be given each afternoon with the admission 10c., but the night show will be 20c. Remember the pictures will be the regular lines, and the eight vaudeville acts from Big Time will give a splendid entertainment.

MURDERESS IS INSANE.

WHEN DUKE OF ARGYLL WAS GOVERNOR GENERAL

The death of the Duke of Argyll will recall to old Canadians many memories of the sojourn in the Dominion of the Marquis of Lorne (as he was then known) and his wife, H.R.H. the Princess Louise, during the Marquis' five-year term as Governor-General. The arrival of Lord Lorne and "the Princess," as her Royal Highness was generally called in those days, at the port of Halifax in the fall of 1878 was perhaps the greatest social and political event in the history of the city, which has often been called "the ball-room of British North America." The old garrison town was fairly covered with flags, society was on the tip-toe of expectancy and the interest was especially heightened by the arrival of the Government train from Ottawa, bringing Sir John Macdonald and nearly every member of his cabinet. The Old Chieftain, who had been returned triumphantly to power on the eighteenth day of the previous September, remarked to Mayor Stephen Tobin (at that time one of the first social lights in Eastern Canada, but who died a poor man in Montreal a few years ago), that had the train gone into Bedford Basin "Lorne and Louise would never have seen a batch of the prettiest men in the Dominion." Everyone knew Sir John, and many cheers were raised for the old man as he passed dressed in his Windsor uniform. Another important figure was Sir Hector Louis Langevin, then leader of the French Conservatives. It was the great National Policy cabinet which had gone to Halifax to meet the new Governor-General and the daughter of the Queen, and these men, who had just received the sanction of the Canadian people, naturally shared with His Excellency and Her Royal Highness the interest which the event evoked along the route from the landing place to Government House, and along the line of the Intercolonial from Halifax to Quebec. His Excellency Lord Lorne, who had succeeded the Marquis of Dufferin, occupied second place to his wife before reaching the old Parliament House in Hollis Street, Halifax, but as soon as he was sworn in as Governor-General, the Marquis took precedence over his royal spouse as head of the country. The Governor-General remembered and referred to the circumstance, while conversing with the mayor of the city, that it was Sir George Provost who had laid the cornerstone of the historic old building in which they were gathered on that stormy fall day, and His Excellency repeated the words to the then governor of Nova Scotia: "May the building that shall rise from this foundation perpetuate the loyalty and liberality of the people of Nova Scotia."

Memorable Scenes.

The trip up through Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and especially through French Canada, was one of especial interest to the representative of the sovereign and his royal wife. The priests and students from the colleges of Memramcook, in Westmoreland County, N.B., of Rimouski and of St. Anne de la Pocatiere, in Quebec, repaired to the train to greet the party, and the scenes will never be forgotten by those who were present at these demonstrations of Canadian loyalty and devotion to authority. Amongst those who accompanied the ministerial party was the then Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, minister of customs, who was then as now a particularly benevolent and kindly looking man. He, however, had lately been Grand Master of the Orange Order, and as such had been held up by a certain section of the press in this province as the "devil incarnate."

Although the assembled clergy of French Canada were anxious to greet the daughter of their beloved Queen, much of the interest was centred around Mackenzie Bowell, whom they expected perhaps to see with cloven feet, or, as Sir John put it, with a couple of horns sticking out of his forehead. It was also the old leader's great pleasure to present "Mac," as he called his colleague, to the religious superiors of the different colleges. All were delighted with his appearance, and the passage of the cabinet train on the occasion of Lord Lorne's arrival in Canada did a great deal to endear Mackenzie Bowell to the French people of the Dominion.

A Crisis at Ottawa.

It was no bed of roses which Lord Dufferin had bequeathed to Queen Victoria's son-in-law, for it will be remembered that the federal cabinet had recently dismissed Luc Letellier d St. Juset, then Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, for having conspired, so the Tories alleged, with George Brown, Luther Holton and others to get rid of Premier De Boucherville and his Quebec Cabinet. The latter had gone out, and when Sir John had come into power at Ottawa, August Real Angers, J. A. Mousseau and J. A. Chapleau demanded the official head of Luc Letellier. The French Blues had in act laid seige to the capital, and at last Sir John had to give way by decreeing that Letellier's usefulness had departed. His impeachment, or rather his dismissal from office, was moved in the Canadian House of Commons by Mr. Mousseau, and seconded by Dalton McCarthy, then one of the foremost lawyers in Ontario, and member for Cardwell.

The debate was a memorable one, and party feeling was worked up to fever heat, but the inevitable happened, as Governor Letellier was doomed from the start. The government received, however, a temporary check, when the lately-arriving Governor-General refused to sign Mr. Letellier's decapitation, preferring to seek the advice of the Imperial authorities rather than abide by the behest of his responsible advisers in Canada. When his action became known, the heather was on fire in French Conservative circles, and a meeting of the Cartier Club was hastily convened in Montreal. Amongst those present were Chapleau, J. A. Ouimet, J. G. H. Bergeron, C. A. Cornellier, and many others who had been prominent on the hustings of the province a few weeks before. Lord Lorne was denounced in unmeasured terms, and many advocated a petition for his recall. The gathering ended in a strong resolution being adopted favoring the principle of responsible government and condemning the attitude of His Excellency. Many people at the time accused Sir John of having decreed Letellier's fall and then privately advising the Governor-General to withhold his assent. This, however, is not probable, although it was known that Sir John Macdonald was a strong personal admirer of the man whom he had practically expelled from the gubernatorial precincts of Spencerwood. Lord Lorne was then a young and inexperienced man, a little beyond thirty years of age, and having met and admired the courtly Quebec governor, His Excellency naturally felt that it was a cruel thing to dispossess him of his official attributes.

Victory for a Cabinet.

The battle royal proceeded throughout this province, and the cabinet at Ottawa delegated Sir Hector Langevin and the Hon. J. C. Abbott, afterwards prime minister of the Dominion, to proceed to London and lay the case of the ministry before the Colonial Secretary and the Imperial authorities. The weeks following the departure of the delegates were anxious ones, not only for the Government, but for His Excellency as well. The Imperial answer to the Queen's son-in-law was, however, the only one that could be given under the circumstances. His Excellency being very briefly told that he would have to abide by the advice of his responsible ministers, who possessed the confidence of the Canadian people. Lord Lorne signed the dismissal, the Government breathed freely, and in a few hours a messenger arrived at Spencerwood, with a document from Ottawa, informing His Honor that his usefulness was gone. The Hon. Luc Letellier was succeeded by Hon. Dr. Robitaille, whose reign at Spencerwood was a popular one. It is likely that Lord Lorne's comparative inexperience saved the situation, as it did not take long for the ill-feeling to pass away, and in a short time those who were bitterly assailing the position which he had taken in the Letellier matter were enjoying his charming hospitality at Rideau Hall.

Marquis Was Popular.

The Marquis was generally popular throughout the country. He was, like his father, an every-day man, and those who met him, either socially or officially, were charmed with his manner and his conversational powers. His Excellency proceeded to British Columbia, when the Onderdonk section of the Canadian Pacific was under construction from the Pacific eastward, and it was only a week or two since a retired engineer of the C. P. R. published an article on that great work, sending to the Duke of Argyle a copy of the Montreal Gazette containing the contribution in question. The visits of the marquis to the different educational institutions of the land are talked about to this day by those who were present, and his splendid knowledge of the French language was greatly admired by those who listened as he read the speech from the throne or replied to addresses in the colleges and convents of the country.

POTATO DISEASES

There has been issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa a remarkably well executed folder, Farmers Circular No. 4, entitled "Potato diseases transmitted by the use of unsound tubers," showing in natural colors, representations of specimens of diseased potatoes. Diseases and other blemishes represented are potato canker, powdery scab, hollow potato, internal brown streak, little potato disease, dry rot, wet rot, common potato scab, and stem end rot. Special reference is made to potato canker and powdery scab, the latter of which occurs in Canada and should be carefully avoided. The folder points out that, under the destructive Insect and Pest Act of Canada, any person using for seed potatoes infected by potato canker or powdery scab is liable to prosecution. Potato growers who suspect the presence of either of the latter diseases are requested to send specimens to the Dominion Botanist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. This folder, prepared by Mr. H. T. Gussow, Dominion Botanist, will be sent free to those who apply for it to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

HEALTH OFFICERS IN SESSION

People Would be Vegetarians if They Knew All Says Dr. McCullough

Health officers from Ontario to the number of about 140, are meeting in Toronto, for their third annual conference, which was opened yesterday morning in Convocation Hall. President Dr. J. C. Hastings, M.H.O. of Toronto, was in the chair.

The session opened with the reading of two interesting papers on the difficulties and duties of medical officers, which were followed by a discussion. Dr. T. W. Vardon, Galt, spoke on "Difficulties of the Medical Officer of Health in Town and Country"; and Dr. John W. C. McCullough read a paper on "What are the duties of the medical health officer of health in Ontario."

Difficulties of Work.

The disinclination of the average person to be compelled to live a healthy life was dealt with in the opening address of the morning session, given by Dr. T. W. Vardon, M.H.O., of Galt, Ont., under the title "Difficulties of the Medical Officer of Health in town and country."

According to Dr. Vardon, the chief question was one of inducing people to take serious matters pertaining to their own health, and legislation to this end, especially when any monetary outlay was necessitated. "I have found," he said, "that one of the main difficulties was in persuading house owners to make connections with sewers where houses were built before sewers were installed. Even ordinary connections, to say nothing of bath rooms, etc., undoubtedly entail a considerable expense, and are a hardship where families are of small means.

Garbage Collection.

"Where there is no garbage collection, it is also a very difficult matter to induce every householder to keep his premises in a sanitary condition. I strongly advise the installation of a garbage collection system in every community—even in small villages.

"When a waterworks system has been introduced the closing of old wells is another source of opposition to the work of the Health Department. In small communities everyone knows everyone else, and it may mean almost a life feud for the Medical Health Officer to compel arbitrary the closing up of a well."

Infectious Diseases.

In the matter of regulations regarding infectious diseases, the speaker admitted that there had been much gain in the past few years. Only a few years ago it had been very difficult to secure registrations, but by making the attending physician responsible a great part of this had been eliminated and people were becoming less opposed to the idea of quarantine, and of cards tacked up on the front of their house.

Health regulations pertaining to school children, he thought, were doing a great amount of good. The health of the child had a great effect upon the earning power of the man, and could not, therefore, be too seriously considered.

Inspection of Milk Supply.

"But the most important branch of the work," concluded the speaker, "is the careful inspection of the milk supply. Canada has a very high rate of infant mortality, far above the English standard. This should not be, and it need not be if we are more particular as to the quality of the milk which is given our children."

Slaughter House Conditions.

Dr. John W. S. McCullough, Chairman of the Provincial Board of Health, expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present at the conference, and went on to deal with the duties of the Medical Officer of Health in Ontario. These he discussed very fully, outlining the powers conferred upon these officers with regard to control of outbreaks of contagious diseases, and the expenses they may incur in combatting outbreaks.

The question of slaughter houses was also discussed by Dr. McCullough. "Conditions are such in this Province," he said, "that if generally known, they would quickly make us all vegetarians." The milk supply and the inspection of schools were also gone into at some length. In conclusion, Dr. McCullough, urged greater activity upon Medical Health Officers in the discharge of their duties. He regretted that the remuneration was not in itself sufficient to provide incentive, but he held that higher salaries would be forthcoming for those who showed great interest in their work. He bespoke for them all the deep interest of at least the women of the communities in their endeavors.

Ten Dollars for Services.

Dr. Powers, Rockland, astonished and amused the delegates by telling them that for carrying out all the duties of medical officer of health in that town, he received the magnificent salary of $10 a year. He was told that he could sue the municipality; and if medical officers would back him up he was willing to make a test case that would act as a guide for the medical officers in the Province.

The president considered it a disgraceful honorarium to give a medical officer of health, and suggested that outside the town there should be erected a large illuminated sign setting forth the munificent sum.

Dr. E. N. Coutts, Agincourt, spoke of contagious diseases in schools, and of the help he had received through pointing out to the ratepayers and the children, in the Sunday School, the necessity of quarantine in such cases. Six weeks for scarlet fever, he considered, was too long in most cases.

Inspection of Milk.

Dr. G. A. Dickinson, Port Hope, suggested that Boards of Health should have power to appoint sanitary inspectors. He spoke of the apathy shown by many municipalities towards health matters, which he could not explain. Speaking of the inspection of milk, he said, it was stated that in Toronto $90,000 a year was saved through milk inspection; and at Port Hope they claimed to save $5,000 a year. At Port Hope, before they had inspection, the milk was watered to the extent of one-third. He gave it as his opinion that a medical health officer should be with a salary of $1,500 a year. He referred to the accumulation of garbage, and said he was not aware of any diseases which were caused by it.

The president said, although garbage did not transmit disease, he thought they would all agree that it was a breeding place for flies, and flies were transmitters of disease.

Question of Salaries.

Dr. Crain, Crysler, gave it as his opinion that the Medical Health Act was not enforced as it should be, because doctors could not go out and perform the duties at the inadequate salary they received. He gave notice that he would move to-morrow that in the opinion of the conference the salary of medical officers of health should be $700 in township municipalities, and in towns $200 for each thousand of the population.

The discussion was continued by Dr. A. W. McPherson, Peterborough, and others.

AUTOIST TOOK TO THE COUNTRY AND REMAINED THERE

Motorists who contemplate taking a run into the country are advised by those who have tried it, to postpone their trial for a few days. One of these enterprising autoists of the city thought it would be well to scout out some good motoring roads in case he had some visitors to take out. He decided on an evening run which ended in a midnight walk to a farm house, and a scene, staged somewhere about ten miles from the city showed a large motor car being hauled out of the mud by a team of horses.

W. H. ADAMSON, M.A.
Mr. Adamson, a Peterborough man, was medallist in Mathematics at Queen's University, 1914, and is at present on the teaching staff of the Collegiate.

BAKERS TO MEET HEALTH BOARD

Bread Makers Will Give Their Side of the Case

The bread question is due for a rehash at the meeting of the Board of Health, which is billed for next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Recommendations and suggestions are anticipated from the bakers, who are holding a meeting in regard to the matter. Being adverse to some of the suggestions of the Board, a deputation of the bakers, it is understood, will wait on the Board and express their views.

Clean Up Days

Speaking of the "Clean Up Day," Sanitary Inspector Spence expressed himself to-day that this would have met with better results a month ago. The general aspect of the city at present, as to cleanliness, is better than any spring since his appointment. The yards are in fairly good condition. There could, however, be considerable improvement. The "Clean Up Day," as carried on in other cities bad proved a remarkable success, and proved to be an essential point in the sanitation of the city.

However, Mr. Spence says, it's better late than never.

INCREASES FOR CLERKS AT LOCAL POST OFFICE

Minimum Salary of $600 is Increased $100 Per Year Till Maximum of $1400 is Reached

Superannuation for Veteran Clerks, is Also Provided For

The proposed amendments to the regulations governing the civil service which provide for a minimum of $600 per year, superannuation for clerks and officials reaching the age of 65 years will have effect here according to Postmaster Edgar, who stated that when the latter amendment goes into effect, veteran clerks would be retired from the local service. It is the intention of the government to pay those superannuated a sum representing about two-thirds of their salary, each year, until death.

The postmaster speaking of the raising of the minimum salary from $500 to $600 per year, with an increase of $100 per year until a maximum of $1400 is reached, stated it would tend to induce clerks to remain with the service.

That latter amendment, which along with the others was given its third reading in the House will affect only the clerks in cities, but the superannuation clase will affect everyone from the postmaster down in the city offices. The regulations will likely date back to April 1, which is the commencement of the postal year.

"At present we are not allowed to accept anyone under the age of eighteen years. A minimum of $600 and an increase of $100 per year until $1400 is reached, will mean that a clerk will receive $1400 when he is twenty-six years of age. That is a very good salary for a young man, especially when it is certain he will always be employed providing he behaves himself," said the postmaster.

Insurance Regulations.

It is also the government's intention to improve the insurance regulations and in the future a clerk will be able to secure $5000 life insurance for the payment of $1500 in premiums. The premium can be paid in a lump or in instalments, and if death intervenes before the total premium is paid, the outstanding will be deducted from the policy value.

Mr. Edgard would not say which clerks in the local office the superannuation clause would affect.

GENERAL FUNSTON WILL SOON RECEIVE REINFORCEMENTS FOR EXPEDITION TO MEXICO CITY

Canadian Press Despatch.

Washington, May 8.—The War Department has under consideration to-day early and adequate re-inforcement of General Funston, to enable him to undertake an expedition to Mexico City, if necessary. The British Ambassador is believed to have information from Admiral Craddock at Tampico that further trouble is anticipated there, and has advised the British Consul at Tampico that nobody leaving for Tampico at present would be allowed to land.

Representatives of sixty-eight Mexican oil companies in a meeting at New York, requested President Wilson to order American gunboats to Tampico harbor once more, as a protection for oil wells and from hostile demonstrations directed against Americans, is urgently needed.

Mrs. Mary McWilliams took a permit for a $500 dwelling on Rober Street. A $1,600 dwelling will be erected on Ware Street by Morris Mulcahy.

Nearly one hundred men are engaged by the city at present, according to the payroll. This is a sure sign of the coming of summer with dusty streets.

Mayor Buller will attend the opening of the sewerage and sewage disposal plant at Weston to-morrow.

POPULATION AT ORILLIA LESS THAN YEAR AGO

Assessors' Roll Shows Falling Off of 275.

Orillia, May 8.—Assessor J. B. Henderson has returned his roll for 1914, which shows the town's population to be 7,377, as against 7,652 a year ago, a falling off of 275 during the year. Orillia still maintains its lead as the largest town in the county, although Barrie is again close having increased 752 during the past year, and now contains 7,215 people. Every ward shows a small decrease.

The total assessment this year is $4,065,065, as against $4,176,840 last year. The exemptions this year total $573,715, about $48,000 more than a year ago, so that the net assessment will be about the same as in 1913. The value of lands and buildings shows in increase of $27,530. The decrease is in business and income, which has shrunk from $446,760 to $343,895.

ACCIDENT WAS FATAL TO GILBERT GLASS

Brother of Bridgenorth Man Passes Away at London

London, May 8.—Gilbert Glass, for 60 years a resident of London, and widely known throughout the city, died at the home of his nephew, A. N. Udy, 434 Maitland Street. Death was caused from septic poisoning, the result of an accident which happened last September, during a trip to Cleveland. Mr. Glass had been seriously ill for several months.

Mr. Glass was in his 83rd year, and was born in Toronto in 1831. He came to London in 1864, and was in the employ of W. J. Reid & Co., crockery, until that firm went out of the retail business, shortly after the Crystal Hall disaster in 1905. Since then, he had lived retired.

Had Narrow Escape.

When the walls of the Reid building collapsed, killing several persons, Mr. Glass had a narrow escape. He was standing on a scaffold in the new building, placing some goods on a shelf. When the plaster started to crumble at the roof, just before the collapse of the walls, Mr. Glass noticed it in time, jumped to the floor, and was shielded from the falling debris by a pile of lumber near him. He crawled out to the street unharmed, but the experience was a terrible shock to him, and soon after he retired.

Mr. Glass had been one of the trustees of the Dundas Centre Methodist Church since 1881, and was one of the oldest and most respected members of the church.

He is survived by four brothers, and two sisters: Mrs. Robert Dobson, of Michigan; Mrs. William Udy, of Bridgenorth, Ont.; William Glass, of Bridgenorth; Thomas Glass, of Toronto; and John and Samuel Glass, of Cleveland.

Son in Victoria Disaster.

Only two weeks ago, Mrs. Joseph Dobson, a sister, died in Acme, Mich. Mrs. Glass died 17 years ago, in this city, and his one son, William D. Glass, was drowned in the Victoria disaster, 1881.

The funeral was held to-day.

Dr. Herridge will preach the anniversary services at St. Paul's Church on Sunday.

PULMOTOR IS DEMONSTRATED

Before an Interested Gathering at the Fire Hall.

The demonstration of the pulmotor at the fire hall this afternoon proved the great need for one in this city. Representative men of the different walks of life attended the demonstration and expressed themselves that it was certainly needed here.

The pulmotor costs $200, and is manufactured by the Drgewerk-Lubeck Company of Germany, with the Canadian Sanx Ltd. Company of Toronto, a sthe Canadian representatives. Mr. Bertling of the Canadian firm was present, and demonstrated the various principles of the apparatus. The smoke helmet was also demonstrated.

"It will save two or three lives each summer," remarked one city official.

HINDUS COMING

The Flood of Orientals Expected at Victoria in a Few Days

VICTORIA, B.C., May 8—Shipping men here are looking for the arrival of the Komagata Maru, on which there are said to be some seven hundred Hindus, within a few days. There has been a good deal of doubt as to the existence of such a craft as there is no record of the vessel's name in the shipping lists, but the Shanghai Mercury of April 16, a copy of which has just been received, says that the steamer "with between 500 and 600 Indians on board, about 70 of whom are from Shanghai, left port yesterday for British Columbia. She is expected to pick up 50 more Indians in Japan, who are also proceeding to Canada."

EXTRA TRAINS ON C.P.R. COMMENCING JUNE 1ST

Word has been received at the local C. P. R. offices to the effect that two more passenger trains will be added on and after June the first, to the number at present passing through the city. A morning train stopping at all depots, from Toronto to Montreal, will precede the 11.43, which will be changed to a through train. The train going west at 4.33 in the afternoon will be changed to a local and will be followed by a through train.

On July the first the Lake Shore route will be opened with a train running between Ottawa and Toronto. This, however, will not affect the local service. The dispatchers' offices on the new road will be at Trenton, while the offices on this line will still remain at Havelock.

SARNIA IS NOW A CITY

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT PERFORMS INAUGURAL CEREMONY

SARNIA, May 8. — The Duke of Connaught spent a busy afternoon here yesterday, standing sponsor for the town on the occasion of its formal inauguration as "The Imperial City"; visiting the collegiate institute, where 2,000 children waving flags greeted the royal party; the General Hospital where tea was served by the nurses, and various other points of interest. Big crowds lined the route of procession. The Indian bands and other societies turned out in force. The Walpole Indians marched along the street in full war dress and feather, while the Scots' pipers, the cadets and the band of the 27th Regiment also took part.

At 6.30 the party returned to the station, where good-byes were said, and where Mayor J. B. Dagan presented His Royal Highness with two beautiful pictures, one of the duke, and the other of the duchess.

The Governor-General and Princess Patricia waved farewell to the crowd on the platform as the special train steamed out of the station.

Crowds at Strathroy.

STRATHROY, May 8.—His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and party arrived here at 8 o'clock last night and made a stay of about 50 minutes. Neither the duke nor the princess alighted from the train, but as it pulled out eastward they both came out upon the platform of the observation car and waved to the cheering crowds who had come in from all parts of the district to greet them.

BUTCHERS SAY IT'S NOT FAIR

They Pay License Fee While Outsiders Sell Without

At a meeting of the butchers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association held last evening, it was decided to ask the association's committee appointed to investigate market conditions, to seek some changes regarding butcher's fees. The city butchers are called upon to pay a yearly fee of $10, for which their interests are supposed to be protected. They have been paying the fee for many years without getting any protection whatever, so they claim. It was pointed out last night that under present conditions any butcher from an outside town can come to the market and sell his goods without paying any fee whatever. The butchers are in accord with the idea to encourage farmers in coming to the local market, but are opposed to regular butchers making a practice of using the market without paying a fee.

ADDRESS TO THE AD. CLUB THIS EVENING

To-night at 6.30 at Coleman's, the Peterboro Ad. Club will hold a luncheon, after which those present will be addressed by Mr. J. C. Kirkwood, of Toronto, and London, England, on the subject of "Business Salesmanship."

Mr. Kirkwood brings to his theme a ripe experience. For several years he was a retailer in a Western Ontario town. For the last thirteen years he has been an advertising man, identified chiefly with newspapers, both as a writer and in an advisory capacity—in Canada, the United States, and England.

Salesmanship on its theoretical and practical sides has always been a subject of supreme interest with Mr. Kirkwood. He calls it "The Greatest game in the world, the most alluring, the most profitable and the hardest." His address to-night will be brightened by references to actual successful selling experiences, and should prove both stimulating and entertaining. The business men of Peterboro are invited to attend.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1914

THE DAILY JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.

THE FIRST NUMBER of the Daily Journal of Commerce has been received by the Review. We have read its editorial page and inspected the other seven pages. While the Editor-in-Chief, the Hon. W. S. Fielding, is of opposite political creed to our own we have the impression that the first issue foretells success. Difficulty will be experienced perhaps in keeping the new paper free from partisan expression. No one expects it to be absolutely devoid of political discussion. Legislation is finding its way to the statute books of all progressive countries that is having a far-reaching effect on their finances and trade or on what might be termed the materialistic side of human activities. In Canada most newspapers support either Conservative or Liberal policies and the majority which includes leading journals like the Toronto Globe and Montreal Star are politically or municipally biased. A newspaper of pure commerce and finance that will discuss questions from a fair financial or commercial point of view, and not from the standpoint of party politics will be a distinct benefit to Canada.

There are also other rocks threatening its voyage in the sea of journalism. Organized interests such as the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Grain Growers' Company, the Bankers' Association, the Canadian Press Limited are legitimate within a certain range but the self interest of these might exercise an undue influence on a newspaper of this standing.

The piloting of the new enterprise will disclose its skill with the passage of time. In the meantime, we may again say that the first issue is indicative of a successful and useful career.

NEW NATURALIZATION ACT.

THE HON. C. J. DOHERTY, Minister of Justice introduced the new Naturalization Act in the House of Commons two or three days ago. The new act aims to establish an Empire-wide naturalization system.

Hon. Mr. Doherty, in explaining the Naturalization Bill, said its purpose was to provide the legislation necessary under the agreement arrived at between the Home Government and the governments of the self-governing dominions, to bring about an Empire-wide naturalization. The first part of the bill, dealing with the definition of natural-born subjects, modifies the existing law to this extent ; that whereas, a person born out of the realm, whose father or grandfather was a British subject, is under the existing law a natural-born British subject, under the proposed legislation it is only required that the father of such a man had been a natural-born British subject, this being the legislation enacted by the Parliament of the United Kingdom. The bill also adopts the conditions of naturalization of the British bill.

The Secretary of State of the Dominion is given power to issue certificates of naturalization which shall have the same effect as certificates issued by the Secretary of the State in Britain, namely, that they are effective throughout the British Empire. As to the requirements, the principal difference between the existing law and the proposed Act is that a five-year term of qualification is requisite, but it is sufficient that the last one of these five years has been passed within the Dominion of Canada, provided the other four were passed within other British possessions. Another requirement is that the applicant for naturalization in Canada must have adequate knowledge of English or French. Possession of these requirements is to to established before the courts, as at present, before issue of certificates by the Secretary of State.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CLEAN-UPS.

AS WE HAVE SEEN a lot in the papers, particularly in Montreal papers about clean-ups and clean-up weeks, we might make a few helpful suggestions. In the first place, don't bother about your own place—it never needs cleaning and is always better than your neighbors'. Don't be afraid to draw the attention of your neighbor and of your friends to the disgraceful condition of their premises. You might inform them that paint is not very expensive and that a coat of it would not do their house, fence or back kitchen any harm. If they cannot afford paint, whitewashing is better than nothing.

Tell them that flower seeds are very cheap this year, and that for the mere price of a postage stamp, they can get all kinds of plans for the growing of flowers about their premises. A beautiful vine climbing over the old shack would make it a delight to the eye. The back yard fence which on anybody's lot but your own is such an eye-sore, could easily be improved with paint or running vines like morning glories or wild cucumbers.

A nice patch of green grass around the house gives it a bit of setting ; this will involve the purchase of a lawn mower, a mere incidental, and also the necessity of pushing it over the grass at regular intervals—another incidental. Instruct your friends that this is not labor, merely a bit of pleasurable exercise some evening when they have returned home from a picnic in the office, store or factory. Of course, cutting the grass also involves raking it, but having experienced the joy of cutting your own lawn, no one will be able to tear you away from the pleasure of raking it. Then, after you have raked it, do not forget to sprinkle it. While this is the easiest in some respects it is the most monotonous, and therefore, the hardest to perform by those who take pleasure in doing things. Always use more water than is necessary, the city has more than it requires and while you are at it you might as well give the Waterworks system a good test. You will find it a very difficult task to kill the grass by watering it.

If there is a small boy about the place be sure and teach him a few home-like pleasures, such as pulling weeds, raking the grass and watering the lawn. Of course it will be a sacrifice on your part to give up any of these occupations, but the boy is to be considered and it will surprise you how many inventions he will produce concerning them. Thus, a great impetus will be given to the child's inventive faculty. As a usual thing this faculty has to be cultivated, for children are so backward in developing excuses that they need a few lessons from the head of the house.

But do not let your criticism end with your neighbors' property. Be sure and tell the mayor how to run the city ; you likely have a lot of helpful ideas that the mayor never thought of and wasn't expected to think of. Tell him how to fix up the streets, especially the one you live on, and what he should do about the parks. He will likely fall over himself putting into operation your suggestions. Come down to the newspaper offices and tell them how to clean up there, ask them why they do not put out a decent sheet, and explain to them what real news is. Ask the grocer why he exposes food products to the dust and microbes of the street. Tell him this is no way to do at all. In fact, tell everybody you meet just how they ought to do things, and very soon you will have the whole community run to your satisfaction, if they pay any attention to you. With these few suggestions we trust everybody will give their earnest attention to the problem of getting their neighbors and friends to do real cleaning up.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

COL. ROOSEVELT has returned from a saunter into the wilds of Brazil. A pleasant time was had. Reports fail to mention the Colonel's attire, but we suppose details will be forthcoming when the society reporters interview him. Before setting out the Colonel with the help of his son reviewed his old school geography and now says he has discovered a new river one thousand miles long. While the length of the river is subject to thirty per cent. discount in thirty days like most of the Colonel's big things, the discovery should have been suppressed, because it shows how deficient the Colonel's early education was. Not having anticipated this river, plans were somewhat upset, by the necessity of providing an extra luncheon. Nevertheless, the Colonel says a pleasant time was had. Congress will likely take over Brazil and christen the new river the Teddy in the near future.

THE LAURIER OPPOSITION is making desperate but unavailing attempts to assail the Government on its management of the Intercolonial Railway. The chief criticism was that the road had been taken out of politics by the Borden Cabinet and business methods introduced into its operation. Naturally many of the satellites that Laurier used to drug it with, were removed hence the vote of censure on the Borden method of administering it and hence for the same reason the failure of the Grits to prove anything wrong.

THE BIG PLANT of the Canadian Sardine Company at Chamcook, Charlotte County, is to resume operations soon. The announcement was made some weeks ago that the company had found financial accommodation, and arrangements have been made by the management to open up business without further delay. More may soon be heard of Canadian sardines.

THE MONACO Sea Bathing Co., which has gambling concessions at Monte Carlo, shows receipts for year just ended of 46,450,000 francs and net profits of 21,073,712 francs ($4,214,740). A dividend of 350 francs ($70) has been declared on every 500 franc ($100) share. These shares are quoted at 5,595 francs ($1,119).

THE GLOBE does not think the C.N.R. can earn the interest bill when it costs $35,000 to $45,000 per mile. If so, would the Globe kindly state what it thinks of the earning capacity of the G.T.P. which cost $85,000 to $100,000 per mile ?

DR. GEO. R. PARKIN in England has expressed the opinion that Irishmen should meet together and themselves settle terms on which they may administer the country's affairs. The meeting could easily be arranged but the settlement would be the prerogative of the winners.

THE LARGE NUMBER of questions about details of the C.N.R. proposition that are arising in the House indicate that one of the most important debates for a long time is in preparation.

About Immoral Music.

Calgary Herald.

According to the statement of a Minneapolis woman, much of the popular music to be found in the homes of the people today is "musically and morally degenerate." It isn't necessary to go into particulars or give illustrations of samples. Everyone who has given the matter a moment's thought will agree that what this woman says is true. The cure for the condition lies with parents, and the trouble is that parents are more and more shifting responsibilities that rightly belong to them upon the state, which, powerful as it may be, cannot do some things.

SOMETHING TO DO

By Walt Mason

Oh, ye who complain of the grind, remember these words (which are true !) : The dreariest job one can find is looking for something to do ! Sometimes, when my work seems a crime, and I'm sorely tempted to sob, I think of the long vanished time when I was out hunting a job. I walked eighty miles every day, and climbed forty thousand high stairs, and people would shoo me away, and pelt me with inkstands and chairs. And then, when the evening drew dark, I knew naught of comfort or ease ; I made me a bed in the park, for supper chewed bark from the trees. I looked through the windows at men who tackled their oysters and squabs, and probably grumbled again because they were tired of their jobs. And I was out there in the rain, with nothing to eat but my shoe, and filled with a maddening pain because I had nothing to do. And now when I'm tempted to raise the grand hailing sign of distress, I think of those sorrowful days, and then I feel better, I guess. I go at my labors again with energy vital and new, and say, as I toil in my den, "Thank God, I have something to do !"

ON GARDEN-MAKING

HAVE ye ever noticed that every spring there are people who get th' garden-makin' microbe and got it right bad? They get busy in their back yards and dig and delve and sweat, and plant ten dollars' wuth of seeds in a leetle eight by ten plot and then thank th' Lord it's all over, and set down to wait fer the prize tomatoes and squashes to grow up and thank 'em fer givin' 'em life!

The' chances are if them people had ever realized that the seedin' was jest the start of a successful garden and that th' harvest depended on elbow-grease, patience, perseverance and, above all, hard work, they wouldn't have started.

Come to think on it success in anythin' can only be won by clear-thinkin', backaches and hangin' on. Life's nuthin' but a garden arter all. Some of us plan and plant and set down and wait, and others keep delvin' and coaxin' the green shoots along until some day they have somethin' well wuth while. Yep, it takes more than a college eddication to put a man by t'-day, and maybe you've noticed too, that it's not so much yer ability to get hold of a thing as yer ability to keep hold, that counts!

Russia in 1913 harvested 947,964,900 bushels of wheat.

CANADA'S OUTLAY IS ONLY FIVE PER CENT. SAYS COL. HUGHES

DEFENCE NOT COSTLY HE CLAIMS

Minister of Militia Introduces Estimates and Reviews Extensive Work Which is Being Done for Protection of Country—Defence Costs 47 Per Cent. of U. S. Revenue

OTTAWA, May 8.—Hon. Col. Sam Hughes presented his long-expected Militia Department estimates in the House yesterday and a vigorous debate ensued in which the Minister and several Opposition members participated.

Col. Hughes, in opening, said that the general preparations now going on for the celebration of the centenary of peace beween Great Britain and the United States, so absorbed the attention of many well-disposed people, that they had not a thought to spare for the elementary duty of national defence.

Col. Hughes denounced as a bogie, the danger of militarism. We had in Canada a standing army or permanent force of only three thousand men. Canada's expenditures upon military and naval defence absorbed only five per cent. of her revenue to the upkeep of the army and navy, and the expenditures of the Federal Government of the United States, for army and navy (including pensions), absorbed forty-seven per cent. of the revenue, and this apart from the state militia.

Twelve hundred school teachers had been trained to instruct the school children through the course and drill halls were being erected as rapidly as possible where really needed. Of drill halls, perhaps fifteen hundred will be erected in the next five years, but the Government only intended for the present to erect fifty such halls. The drill hall in a town or village was the rendezvous for the boys and girls who heretofore ran wild and wasted their time in moving picture shows. Since Confederation Canada had only expended five million dollars upon drill halls, although the single state of New York had spent ten times that sum.

The Minister then touched upon the fact that he had created 85 honorary colonels and pointed out that his predecessor, Sir Frederick Borden, had created 170.

The Minister then explained that the apparent increases in the Militia estimates was largely due to the fact that the Borden Government had had to pay for guns, cannons and other armament obtained by the Government in 1911 upon the recommendation of Sir John French.

Col. Hughes, after defending his administration from the charge of extravagance, went on to say that the primary object of military training was not militiarism, but physical, intellectual and moral improvement.

Mr. McCrea (Lib., Sherbrooke) complained that a house belonging to, Mrs. Worthington in Sherbrooke had been rented by the Militia Department at $100 a month as an officers' mess. He claimed that the building was being occupied by the St. George's Club, although the rent for it was being paid by the Government. Col. Hughes doubted this was true and promised an enquiry.

Mr. Carvell, who followed, said that whisky flowed like water at every instruction camp in Canada last summer. He was astonished to hear the Minister say that the morals and manners of young Canadians would be benefited by joining the militia. Mr. Carvell's impression was to the contrary. He regarded the Minister as "military mad." His European trip last summer was simply a big junket at the expnse of the country.

The Minister, Mr. Carvell said, had stated that he had 77,000 men ready to take the field and 78,000 more ready to join the militia. As a matter of fact few corps were up to strength and there was no rush of men to enlist. Personally Mr. Carvell could not understand against whom we were arming and why $4,000,000 had been expended on artillery. He believed the entire artillery service might well be abolished, because our artillery would not be a protection. The engineering corps he also regarded as utterly unqualified and worse than useless. In conclusion, he said that only two million of the fourteen million asked by the Minister would be spent on the real militia. The great bulk of the money would be wasted on the headquarters' staff and on gold lace and military millinery.

"The Canadian militia," said Dr. Neely (Lib., Humboldt) "is nothing more or less than a vast boozorium." He also said the average Canadian did not view with favor the military policy of the present Government. If the Minister kept increasing the construction of military works of various kinds Canada would have to double her revenues in order to meet the fixed charges on those works.

Polar Hero Disbelieves Rumor.

WINNIPEG, May 8.—"Of course it is not true," said Commander Evans when on his arrival in Winnipeg yesterday he was shown a despatch from London, Eng., to the effect that it was rumored that Sir James Matthew Barrie, Bart., had been secretly married to Lady Scott. Its contents at once amused and amazed him, and he asked for a copy of the despatch as a memento.

To Wait on Sir F. Barker.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 8.—Governor Wood said yesterday that he would wait for a few days to see if the health of Sir Frederick Barker would permit him to act as chairman of the royal commission to invetigate the Dugal charges against Premier Flemming. If he still would be unable to act some one else would be appointed.

WEDDING AT WHITE HOUSE

President's Youngest Daughter Marries Secretary McAdoo

WASHINGTON, May 8. — Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the President and Mrs. Wilson, became the bride last night of William Gibbs McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, in the blue room of the White House. Less than one hundred persons—and but a few were officials—heard the low-toned voice of Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Princton, N.J., where the Wilson family has worshipped for years, as he united the pair in marriage.

It was a simple ceremony, but the presence of the uniformed aides, and the presence of Cabinet members and the vice-president preserved for the service an official aspect. The ceremony started at 6 o'clock sharp, and lasted but 15 minutes.

WEDDED SIXTY YEARS

KINGSTON, May 8—At the village of Portsmouth, J. W. Henstridge and his wife celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday. Mr. Henstridge, who is village clerk, taught school many years, and served as chairman of the Public School board. They were married in London, England, in 1854, and came to Kingston in 1859.

Say Cost Is Too Great.

LONDON, Ont., May 8.—Representatives of the municipalities through which radial railways have been planned, from St. Thomas to Aylmer and Union to Sparta, have approached the London and Lake Erie Transportation Co. to take a vote to have the company make the extensions. The statement is made that when the municipalities discovered the cost of the proposed Hydro-radial they were of the opinion that it would be too great, and as a result the vote on the proposal to guarantee the bonds of the traction line extension will be taken within a short time.

Stay of Execution Likely.

OTTAWA, May 8. — The Haynes murder case at Sydney, N.S., is out of the hands of the Justice Department, which about a week ago decided that the man must be hanged. Though representations were still being made to the Department by the condemned man's lawyers, J. M. Madden and A. R. Gunn, of Sydney, it was officially stated that the proper course in view of the confession, implicating others, was to make the application for a stay of execution to any judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, who has the power to act.

MANAGER FOR CITY

on their overcoats and drove street cars. Staid business men wielded brooms in the streets, while clerks and bookkeepers drove garbage carts The strikers threw a few bricks at the blacklegs, as strike-breakers are called in this country, but Alderman Wilson had control of the police, and the result of it all was that on January thirteenth, the strikers applied to be allowed to return to work unconditionally.

During his experience as city boss, however, Alderman Wilson had been finding out things that shocked him as a business man. He learned that the various departments worked quite independently of each other, and that no chief of one department had any idea of what any other chief was doing. He discovered, for instance, that the gas works and the street railways were making separate contracts for coal at different prices, and that neither price was as low as could be obtained if the whole city contract for coal were placed with one colliery. He discovered that that every department had its own transportation department with horses, carts, firemen and superintendents, and that some of these plants were lying idle a great part of the time. He also discovered, what is probably the case in every city, that a number of old and inefficient men were being carried on the payrolls and that there were also a number of well-paid officials whose only claim to their jobs seemed to be the possession of influence with leading members of the council. He figured out that in the street cleaning department alone there were 400 more men than were needed, and that the work of street paving, etc., done by the highway department, could be done at about half the price by private contract. He also pointed out that if the street railways were used for removing refuse at night a large force of horses and carts could be saved.

The result of it all was that Alderman Wilson, who, by his success in breaking the strike, had earned the confidence of Leeds, proposed what practically amounted to the abolition of the city council, and, what is more, persuaded the council to commit suicide. Under his plan, which was adopted last week, the council, instead of meeting once a week, will meet only once every three months. All its administrative power has been delegated to an executive committee of seven aldermen, of whom, of course, Wilson is one. This committee of seven has appointed J. B. Hamilton, who was manager of the street railway department, boss of Leeds. Hamilton's salary has been raised from $5,000 a year to $7,500, and he is to be allowed 100 free days every year to earn more money if he wishes by acting as consulting engineer to other towns. His first act was to dispense with the heads of the street cleaning and highways departments, who were paid $3,000 a year each, and to sack a number of minor chief and superintendents. So far the changes he has made represent an annual saving of $30,000, and he declares that he will be able to give Leeds a better administration that it ever had before.

Hamilton proposes to run Leeds' just as he would if he were the manager of a great business. Every department of the municipal administration will come under his hands, and he will go through it department by department seeing where expense can be saved and efficiency increased. Superfluous men will have to go, no matter what their pull may be, and competence and ability to get results will be the only factors considered in making promotions. Hamilton will be responsible only to the seven, who will be in the position of the board of directors of a great company, and who will, of course, give their manager a free hand so long as the results are satisfactory.

Of course this revolutionary change has not been accomplished without some opposition. The labor party, which has sixteen members out of 68 in the council, is furious and declares that it will do all in its power to upset the scheme. Of course it was hopelessly outvoted, but it hopes to be able to upset the whole scheme in the courts. This hope is based on the theory that under the English law no municipal corporation, or for that matter, no company, has the right to delegate its powers to a committee. Whether this plan to upset the scheme succeeds or not, the labor party is going to make a great campaign against it at the polls. In any case, Hamilton has at least a year in his new job as boss of Leeds and much depends on his success. There is no doubt that Englishmen are getting tired of the political and amateur management of their cities and are ripe for some sort of reform.

Something similar to the Leeds experiment, on a much more restricted scale, was undertaken in London about a year ago, when the London County Council appointed a general purchasing agent. Before that each department of the government of the metropolis bought its own supplies without reference to the others, with the result, of course, that all sorts of varying prices, and all too high, were paid. No report has been issued by the council since this appointment, but it is stated that the saving has been enormous.

It is also evident that the British public is growing tired of the petty graft, which is just as prevalent in English municipal life as it is in America. In many of the towns and London boroughs the councils are made up largely of contractors and tradesmen who benefit directly by work done or goods supplied to the public and, of course, such circumstances, no efficient checks on prices or quality can be kept. It looks as if the Leeds strike might lead to a revolution in English municipal life

CHICAGO, May 7.—Well-grounded notions that the government crop report might turn out more bearish than had recently been looked for hindered today any decided advance in wheat. The Washington figures, however, indicating a harvest of 20,000,000 bushels more than trade estimates, came too late to have a direct effect on the market. A few minutes beforehand prices had closed easy ⅛c off to a like advance compared with last night. Corn showed a net decline of ⅛c to ¼c, oats were ⅜c down to ⅛c up, and provisions at 5c to 25c loss.

Canadians Detained by U. S.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 8—Nineteen Canadian sailors are being detained at the Erie County Jail under orders of the United States immigration officers. They are to be used as witnesses by the Government in the prosecution of vessel owners who are alleged to have violated immigration laws covering the shipping of men from foreign nations to American ships.

The sailors were taken from the fleet of steamers that brought down the first cargoes of wheat from the elevators at Fort William, Ont., where most of the steamers wintered. Under the law it is said the men should have been discharged upon their arrival here.

The "Letters of Junius."

The vexed question of the real authorship of the "Letters of Junius" has never been positively settled. Mr. Chabot's learned work to show that Sir Philip Francis was the author of the famous letters, while a strong production, fails of absolute proof. The attempt was made to prove that Thomas Paine wrote the letters, but that, too, failed to convince. The question is still a mystery, though the balance of the evidence is in favor of Sir Philip Francis.

The Oldest Treaty.

The oldest text of a real treaty now in existence is that of the convention between Rameses II., King of Egypt, and the Prince of Kheta, which embraces the articles of a permanent offensive and defensive alliance, with clauses providing for the extradition of emigrants, deserters, criminals and skilled workmen. This treaty was drawn up in the fourteenth century, B.C., and is the earliest record that we have of any international transaction.

TECK TO FOLLOW DUKE

Prince Alexander Will Be Canada's Next Governor-General.

Official Announcement of Appointment Is Made In London — His Serene Highness Is Third Son of Late Duke and a Brother of Queen Mary—The Princess Is the Duchess Alice of Albany.

LONDON, May 8.—Prince Alexander of Teck, third son of the late Duke of Teck, and brother of Queen Mary, it is officially announced, will succeed His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of Canada. He assumes his new duties in October of this year.

The prince was married to H. R. H. Princess Alice of Albany, daughter of the late Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany, youngest son of Queen Victoria. Their children are Princess May Helen Emma, born Jan. 23, 1906, and Prince Rupert Alexander George Augustus, born August, 1907.

Prince Alexander of Teck is personally quite popular and is said to be the favorite brother-in-law of King George. He has had little practical experience in administration, but has had distinguished service as a soldier. In England he has striven to further the cause of charity, especially in the way of hospital extension and cancer research.

The Princess of Teck has great personal popularity and is declared to be the prettiest and best dressed of the British royal princesses.

Prince Alexander is the descendant of soldiers. His grandfather was an Austrian general of cavalry, and his father, who began his military career in the Austrian army, served in the British army in the Egyptian campaign. The present Prince Alexander of Teck entered the army as second lieutenant of the 7th Hussars in 1894. This corps is one of the most distinguished in the British service, was formed in 1690 as the Queen's Own Regiment of Dragoons, and has fought in Flanders, Germany, Holland, the Spanish Peninsula, Canada, the Indian Mutiny and South Africa. It also fought at Waterloo. With the regiment, Prince Arthur served in the Matabeleland and South Africa campaigns. For his services in the army he was honored with the distinguished service order, which after the Victoria Cross, is the most desired by British soldiers.

At home, Prince Alexander, three years ago, took up the work of freeing the Great Middlesex Hospital from a big debt, and making its finances sound. This task had been undertaken by his brother, Prince Frances of Teck, who left it unfinished when he died in 1911. As a result of Prince Alexander's efforts a large addition was secured to the annual income of $35,000, and the Prince Francis of Teck memorial fund was founded to aid the institution.

The prince resides at Windsor Castle and takes considerable interest in sport. He is one of the best shots in the United Kingdom.

As Prince Alexander was born on April 14, 1874, he is now forty. He is a Grand Commander of the Victorian Order and Knight of Justice of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. He is a major in the 2nd Life Guards.

REVIEWS SUFFRAGE

Dr. Anna Shaw Reports on "Votes for Women" Movement.

ROME, May 8.—At yesterday's meeting of the quinquennial session of the International Council of Women, now being held in Rome under the presidency of the Countess of Aberdeen, the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, of New York, presented a report on woman suffrage.

Dr. Shaw delivered an effective address in which she describes the results of the woman suffrage movement in the newly-enfranchised countries, and her remarks were received by the delegates with much applause.

It was decided to urge the American Congress and the women of the United States to support President Wilson in this attitude. Numerous letters and cablegrams have been received by the delegates from American women, favoring arbitration of the controversy between the United States and Mexico.

POULTRYMEN ENDORSED.

Last night the Peterboro Poultry Association endorsed the letter of "Poultryman," of recent date. which was criticized at some length by a lady in a letter to the press. They quite concur with "Poultryman's" argument that it is impossible to know diseased fowl without producing the head and intestines as advocated by him.

MANAGER FOR CITY

Leeds, in England, Appoints One to Run its Affairs, With the Help of an Active Board of Directors

EXPECTS TO SAVE MUCH MONEY

When the United States started municipal government by commission all the world hailed it as an almost revolutionary step in the science of city administration, but England has gone one better. Leeds, one of the great industrial cities of Yorkshire, has gone in for a business manager. While the American experiment may be described as a step from municipal democracy to oligarchy, that of Leeds is a further step to municipal autocracy.

In order to understand what has happened at Leeds, it is necessary to know the recent municipal history of the Yorkshire city. It may be well to say at the start that Leeds has been a fairly well managed city, even according to the English standard which is high. It has a population of about 500,000 keen headed Yorkshire manufacturers and workmen, who are used to driving a hard bargain in their private business and who carried this habit into their municipal affairs. Its death rate is low, its streets are clean, it has an excellent street railway system and gas works, both municipally owned, and altogether, were it not for the smoky atmosphere inseparable from English industrial towns, it would be alomst an ideal place to live in.

The tendency towards driving a hard bargain, however, brought trouble, for some months ago the municipal workmen, of whom there are between 3,000 and 4,000, all told, made up their minds that they were not getting enough money. Often cities of equal rank with Leeds, they declared, were paying higher wages and they sent a deputation to the city fathers and asked for a rise of 50 cents a week all round. The city council refused to grant the advance and told the men that they were being as well paid as similar workmen in private employment and had many advantages, such as pensions, holidays and shorter hours, which private workmen did not enjoy.

In the end, after much negotiation, the men went on strike last December, and for five weeks the public services of Leeds were more or less disorganized. For two or three days there were no street cars, and no light, and the streets were not cleaned. Then came the strong man in the person of Alderman C. H. Wilson, leader of the Conservative party in the city council. Alderman Wilson is a successful manufacturer who is accustomed to getting things done and he told the council that if it would give him a free hand he would break the strike. The council gave him full powers and Alderman Wilson in a few days had organized a fairly efficient municipal service manned by volunteers. Students at Leeds University took off their shirts and shovelled coal in the gas works, while others put

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The following letter has been received from the Librarian:
Editor Review:
Dear Sir:—

The Public Library Board, through its chairman, Mr. Hazen Ritchie, has received a communication from the Inspector of Public Libraries, Toronto, in regard to the opening of the Summer School for Librarians. The members of the Board thought that it would be as well to have the information contained therein made public in order that any lady or gentleman wishing to take advantage of the opportunities afforded might have a chance of doing so. The main items in the communication are as follows:—

The Library School will be held in the University of Toronto Library Building. The registration of students for the course will take place at 9.30 a.m. sharp on Monday, May 25th.

The course is a four weeks' course. The Education Department pays transportation expenses to and from Toronto of any library worker or any one contemplating taking up library work, if resident in Ontario. There are no fees, and all necessary materials are provided free. The one expense would be board and lodging. As only a limited number of students can be accommodated, an early application is essential.

Applications for entrance must be forwarded to the Inspector of Public Libraries not later than May 20th.

If any further information is needed in regard to this course I shall be very glad to supply it to intending students.

MOTHERS' DAY WILL DRAW MANY TO CHURCHES

Some of the Forgetful Ones Are Quizzed by Review Scribe

"Why," asked the reporter, "don't you go to church on Sunday?"

The man, a professional, by the way, scratched his head in pursuit of an idea. "Well," said he, "I guess I just got out of the way of going." It was about the sixth similar answer the scribe received. His curiosity was piqued. He shifted his base of attack and made an assault from the rear. "Do your children go?" he asked mildly. "I should hope so," was the indignant reply of the man. "Do you think I am bringing them up to be heathens?"

"Why do you send them?" persisted the scribe.

"Because," he said, becoming rather flustered, "it's a duty to send them and their duty to go."

"Must be something more than habit, then," generalized the pencil pusher as he sauntered out to look for another victim.

Is Too Busy.

"Do you go to church on Sunday?" said he to the new found victim.

This astounded tradesman gazed at his inquisitor rather suspiciously.

"What's the graft?"

The scribe explained that he was trying to locate church people in the business section.

"To tell the truth it's not very often I attend. Been too busy you know. It seems different now."

"Ever since I first heard of Mothers' Day I've been thinking of going. His face softened as he evidently remembered when as a lad he went with his father and mother and for a few minutes he was lost in retrospection."

A nondescript specimen of humanity, draped languidly against the sunny side of a doorway near the corner of Charlotte and George.

"Why don't you go to church?" questined the scribe.

"Huh," cnorted the man. "I'd look nice in a church, I would."

"You have your health and you would look all right with a slight repairing," announced the news gatherer. "Then it's Mothers' Day."

"That's so, too, ain't it," remarked the human sunflower. "Mebbe I'll go and then, as an after thought struck him. "Say, have you got the price of a —." But, then with a supreme effort he checked himself and said, "Well, never mind, I'm through with the game."

Back to his typewriter the scribe vamoosed. Taking an average, the answers of the six were practically the same. Either they had lost the habit or were too busy. It pays to advertise.

Extensive preparations have been made for Mothers' Day, which will be observed in all the churches of the city. From the evasive answers of the citizens who have lost the habit of attending church, evidently the church accommodation will be taxed on Sunday.

CATCHY SONGS, GOOD JOKES AT ST. LUKE'S MINSTRELS

Capacity House Greets First Perforance and Audience is Highly Pleased

The Petes accomplished a win yesterday afternoon in the little port on the north of Pennsylvania, but it was a tame affair when compared with the victory scored last night by the St. Luke's Minstrels in the East City Town Hall. The old hall was filled a la election campaign, and well it might be, for the production was far superior to usual presentations of its kind. Only too often when simon-pures are getting away with the negro dialect, the amateur dope is quite thick, but the east side troupe got away from it, which more or less accounts to a great extent for their success.

The hall is by no means the best adapted place in the world to stage a show, but through the efforts of Mr. R. Beach and a few of his colleagues, the building was used to advantage, and the small stage fitted as it never was before. Mr. Beach filled the role of interlocutor and brought everything out in a manner that secured well earned applause. The end men, Messrs. W. Fitzgerald, M. Drysdale, G. Butcher, S. Gibbs, G. Quartermaine and B. Long just couldn't leave the East City garbage collection question alone. Time after time they advised their friends to start a chicken farm and the climax came when one put forth the idea that Brooklyn didn't want a garbage collector because there was too much 'Spence about it. Bob Long spoke very touchingly of Police Chief Thompson, who was according to Bob the most gallant man in the city. Bob and the Chief were in a street car, and after going a couple of blocks, six young ladies entered, and the handsome officer of the law demonstrated his chivalry (also his dimensions) when he gave the six young ladies his seat.

Mr. George Lynch tendered a very sad little ballad, which had a title on the program, "Never." Jack McCann's street cars running to Stoney Lake, the Public Library pillars made straight, and Mr. Lynch responding to too many curtain calls were some of the things to take place—never. Mr. Lynch sang very pathetically of the C.P.R. freight sheds and the Hydro, and was encored several times, but the applause was growing greater every time, so he saved some for to-night.

All the musical numbers were well received, especially Mr. S Gibbs' "Make that engine stop at Louisville" and "Ship Ahoy," by little Arthur Knott. The little tot had the house in convulsions, and scored a big hit. The sextette and the mandolin selections were recalled repeatedly, while the Art Quartette, rendering several southern lullabies, were enthusiastically encored. Mr. Frank Clarke, with his banjo selections, needs but his name on the program as an assurance of something extra good. His work last night was well up to previous performances. Owing to illness, Master Sam Whitehouse was unable to sing, but will be on hand to-night.

The Orchestra, Mrs. A. P. Stock, pianist; Mr. F. Whitehouse, violin, and Mr. George Chambers, drums and traps, played excellent accompaniments. To Mrs. Stock, who was musical directress, great credit is due, and the result of her tedious work in preparing the music, speaks well for her efficiency.

The complete program:—

First Part.

"Sailing Down Chesapeake Bay," Mr. W. Fitzgerald.

"I'm on My Way to Mandalay," Mr. H. Evans.

There's one thing that should comfort. Come what they may in the way of new styles, nothing can be anything worse than we've been through the last two years.

ARMY STAFF CONSIDER SOME OMINOUS NEWS FROM FRONT

Although No Statement is Given Out it is Said That U. S. Officials Are Now Assured That Huerta's Plight is Critical and Anarchy May Break Out at Any Moment in Mexico City.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Upon receiving a long cipher cablegram from Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz last night, Secretary Garrison called into conference at the War Department Major-Gen. Wotherspoon, chief of staff, and the entire staff of the army.

The conference lasted until nearly midnight, and when Secretary Garrison finally left his office he said there would be no announcement. He and the army officers wore grave faces, and it was no secret that news of importance had been received.

Later Secretary Garrison said Gen. Funston had transmitted some information which refugees had brought from Mexico City as to conditions in the Mexican capital. The Secretary declined to comment upon them. He said, however, that no aggressive movement of any kind by the American forces was ordered.

It was understood that the refugees from Mexico City had informed Gen. Funston of the critical aspect of affairs in the Huerta regime; that a collapse might be expected momentarily and that conditions of anarchy might ensue. The purpose of Gen. Funston in making known these reports to the War Department was believed to be to advise the Washington administration of the possibilities that might develop from a fall of Huerta in order that if the American army is compelled to rescue foreigners or restore order it may be fully equipped for such an expedition.

Though not officially stated, it is known that the high officials of the War Department are anxious to place at Vera Cruz or on transports within striking distance a large enough force, perhaps 50,000 or 60,000 men, to make an expedition to Mexico City if it becomes necessary.

The American army officers also regard the situation at Vera Crus as likely to become desperate in the event that anarchy breaks out in Mexico City, or the forces of Gen. Maas should make an attack on their own initiative irrespective of the Huerta Government's promise of a suspension of hostilities against the United States.

A large number of bluejackets could be landed from the warships to reinforce the seven thousand troops and marines in Vera Cruz, but in order to hold the positions outside of Vera Cruz up to the waterworks, more infantry is believed to be required by Gen. Funston. There have been persistent reports that he has asked for more men, but the War Department has not made any announcement on the subject.

THOUSAND BARS CLOSE

Prohibition Campaign in Illinois Towns Comes Into Effect

CHICAGO, May 8.—Following the thirty days of grace which the laws of Illinois allow the saloons which were voted out largely by women at the recent local option elections, approximately 1,100 saloons in all parts of the state—in cities as large as Decatur, and in hamlets whose only industries are the liquor house and a blacksmith shop — closed their doors at midnight.

In all, more than 200 cities and villages are made saloonless, and more than twenty counties already partly "dry" become totally so, crowding the liquor forces back into the larger cities.

No disorders were reported yesterday from the cities whose saloons closed last night, and there was far less excitement than on election day a month ago. In the larger towns, such as Decatur, several hundred men are made idle, a hundred business buildings are closed, and numerous industries accessory to the liquor business are dealt an indirect blow.

Machinists Seek Increase.

OTTAWA, May 8.—The machinists of the Ottawa Car Co. here have asked for a board of conciliation to pass on their wage dispute. The men ask 33 cents per hour. They are now receiving about 27 cents, there being no fixed rate.

Did you ever stop to think how much time we waste worrying over things that don't suit us, when, in that length of time, we might just as well be learning to like them as they are?

APPEAL IS LOST

Father Gnam Fails to Have Decision Reversed

TORONTO, May 8.—After hearing a warm plea from D. S. McMillan, of Sarnia, for Rev. Father Gnam, who declared that the decision of the court meant ruin for his client, over whose head hung the threat of excommunication, a penalty in comparison with which hanging would be light, the Appellate Division dismissed the appeal of Father Gnam from the decision of Mr. Justice Britton, dismissing his action against Archbishop McNeill. Mr. McMillan urged that owing to the death of his brother, Mr. Justice Britton at the time of the trial was neither mentally, nor physically fit to try the case.

Winter Port Season Ends.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 8. — The winter port season has practically ended, as export manifests of liners which have departed during the winter have been filed at the custom house, and only one cargo remains to be forwarded, that for the New Zealand liner Southern, which is icebound at Sydney.

The value of the exports this year is less than the previous season by $5,079,036. This year the manifest values totalled $24,277,850 and in 1913 the total was $29,356,880.

WRITER NAMED

Attack on Nova Scotia Legislature Made by Civil Servant.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 8.—The man who wrote the letter attacking the Nova Scotia Legislature, which was printed in The Evening Mail on April 16 was stated under oath yesterday to be J. McL. Fraser, an employe of the Marine and Fisheries Department. This fact was brought out at yesterday afternoon's session of the investigating committee, despite the fact that the telegraph message containing this name was so mutilated that it was necessary for George Laidlaw, manager of the Western Union Co., to testify to his recollection of the name contained in the message.

Railway Strike Begins.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 8. — In response to an order issued Wednesday night by the brotherhood of federated employes calling a strike on the Pennsylvania Railroad system, shopmen at Harrisburg and vicinity struck yesterday. A statement issued by the railroad said that 200 men had "left the service of the company." Brotherhood officials claim 2,000 on strike. Officials of the State Department of Labor and Industry are trying to bring about an adjustment of differences.

GRIT PREMIERS FAVOR AID

Mr. Borden Tables Interesting Document Relating to C.N.R.

OTTAWA, May 8.—Appeals to the Federal Government to come to the assistance of the Canadian Northern Railway have been made by three Liberal Provincial Premiers and one Conservative, according to a return placed on the table of the Commons yesterday by Premier Borden.

Premier Murray of Nova Scotia, Premier Sifton of Alberta, Acting Premier Calder of Saskatchewan and Sir Richard McBride of British Columbia made the appeals.

On March 14 last Premier Murray sent Premier Borden a telegram which concluded as follows:

"The Government feels that any reasonable assistance, consistant with the public interest that can be accorded by the Dominion to the Canadian Northern would be a policy which would be acceptable to our people, as it would enhance provincial credit."

Sir Richard McBride wired Mr. Borden on March 16, pointing out the work done by the C. N. R. in B. C., and saying: "Considering that the undertaking is of national importance, I do not hesitate to say if representations made to you for aid to enable them to complete at once arrangements for first-class transcontinnetal service are based on fair, reasonable grounds, there should be ample justification in extending support."

Premier Sifton cables from Paris, in part, as follows: "With present financial conditions, I would consider advisable a Federal guarantee with proper safeguards sufficient to ensure the early completion and operation of the main line of the Canadian Northern."

Hon. J. Calder, who came to Ottawa to discuss the question with Mr. Borden, wrote to him on April 17, in part, as follows: "If upon thorough investigation by your Government it is ascertained that the company in question must have further Federal aid to enable it to complete the undertakings to which it and the country are already committed, it appears to me that there is but one course to follow, namely, to grant the aid required."

King George and Queen Mary yesterday opened a new wing of the British Museum which has just been completed at a cost of a million dollars. It is the first part of a large scheme of extension.

The U. S. National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, now in session at Washington, reports two thousand anti-tuberculosis agencies well established in the United States, compared with 150 ten years ago.

Flames Destroy Lake Steamer.

ERIE, Pa., May 8.— The wooden freight steamer City of Rome, Buffalo to Toledo, was burned to the water's edge off Ripley, N.Y., early yesterday. The crew escaped in boats.

The fire was discovered between decks shortly after midnight by Mate John McNamara of Cleveland, and all hands were summoned to fight the flames, which gained rapid headway and were soon beyond control. After two hours' struggle, in which the crew was hampered by the dense smoke and the heated deck plates, Captain Dunn gave orders to beach the vessel.

Roosevelt After Wilson.

NEW YORK, May 8. — A cable from Para, Brazil, says: In an interview yesterday Col. Roosevelt bitterly attacks President Wilson's proposed surrender on the Panama Canal tolls. Roosevelt also attacks the proposed treaty by which the United States apologizes to Colombia, and gives her $25,000,000 — as "blackmail" he says—in settlement of the Panama Canal controversy. He insists on coupling the two issues and considers the administration's course as infamous.

PETES PLAY ERRORLESS BALL BEHIND LOUIE SCHETTLER AND WIN BY 3-1

NEW WHITE CAP TWIRLER WAS EFFECTIVE THROUGHOUT AND HIS TEAM GAVE HIM SUPPORT AT THE BAT. THE UMPS GOT ROUGH USAGE

WITH THE PETES

LOUIS SCHETTLER (Pitcher).

Born at Pittsburgh, Pa., in the year 1886. Height 5 ft. 10 in., weight 165 lbs. Started his professional career with the Milvale Club of the Pennsylvania League in the season of 1903. 1904, Etna Club in the same league. 1905, Sharon Club of the O. and P. League. 1906-7, Youngstown in the O. and P. League. 1908, started out with the Youngstown Club, but was sold to the Uniontown Club of the Pennsylvania and West Virginia League, to help this club win the pennant.

1909 again started out with Youngstown and was sold to the Lancaster Club of the Tri-State League. Sold to Philadelphia National League Club at the close of the season, and played with the Phillies during 1910, and until June, 1911, when he was transferred to the Birmingham Club of the Southern League. The climate did not agree with him down there, and they sold him to the Lancaster Club of the Tri-State League, where he finished the season. In 1912 sold to the Erie Club of the Central League, where he played that season. 1913, with Erie Club of the Interstate League, until the league disbanded. Finished the season with Greenville, playing independent ball. Although a veteran of the game, Lou is still young, being only 28 years of age. Started in organized ball when 17, a youngster in knee trousers. Since that time he has been on 7 pennant winners, and led most of the leagues in pitching. Last season he hit .393 and was leading batter of the league when it disbanded.

Schettler is often referred to as the Iron Man, has a reputation of being a hard working pitcher, worked in as many as 44 games a season. Will be very popular with the fans.

Lou is showing good form this spring, and expects to add another good season to his already excellent record.

SPORTING COMMENT

Another popular or fossilized idea, which ever way you are inclined in belief, has been smashed.

History repeatheth itself, so says the philosopher.

But it does not always.

Take yesterday for instance.

Twice before have the Petes struggled to conquer in the first skirmish, believing that the jump is half the battle.

Twice before they failed, but not yesterday. Far be it from such, Mr. History.

Yesterday at Erie, General Blount's forces stood before the battle, eager for the firing of the first ball, determined to win. And they did. When General Blount signalled for a rally the local artillery fairly stepped into the cannonade of Mr Ryan, the eminent dispenser of shoots for the Erieites, and came through in grand style.

When the smoke of battle had cleared away, the invaders had triumphed by the score of 3-1.

About one hundred and one years ago—Joe Joe Keenan and Old Folks Templin will remember — Admiral Perry of the U.S. navy scored a victory over the British, somewhere in the vicinity of Erie. The field on which the Petes scored their victory was called after the dead hero.

It has all been cut and dried by this time in Brantford. It will be nothing to it but the Deneau men, because the Telephone City crow beat Hamilton yesterday by a score of 2-0. It must have been a tidy little game, as the winners secured but five hits and the losers four. Let it be remembered that ever since the Canadian League commenced, Brantford had it on Hamilton regardless of the former's class, so it now looks as though the old hoodoo is still sticking with the Athletics.

London and Toronto put up a classy game for the benefit of the residents of the Forest City, the final tally being 4-3 in favor of the home boys. It is the usual custom to turn the street lights out on a moonlight night in London in order to save money, but last night they left them on in order that the fans might get a glimpse at Doc. Reisling's smile.

What's the use of having a $25,000 per year manager? Frank Chance took sick a week ago, and while his Yankees were being managed by Roger Peckinpaugh, the big shortstop, who took charge in the absence of the manager, the team won four and lost two games. Chance cambe back yesterday, and Boston shut his team out 4-0. Go and take another cold, Frank, old chap.

St. Thomas Times: "Shaughnessy may be a good manager, but he's no gentleman. He was so annoyed when Nevitt threw out Rogers stealing that he began to abuse the chief, who, because of his full Indian blood, is darker than most Indians seen around Ottawa. "Nigger, all swelled up because he threw out a man; nigger, nigger, nigger," yelled Shag at Nevitt, but the Indian took no notice.

It was necessary for Umpire Walsh to call down Shaughnessy before the Ottawa manager let up on his abusive talk.

Toronto shut out Providence 6-0, Rogge, the new addition to the hurling staff letting the clams down with two hits.

McGraw says the only team he fears is the Pirates. He has some cause. The Clarke boys are going better than in any spring since the flood.

BLOUNTMEN CLOUT AND FIELD THEIR WAY 10 GRAND VICTORY IN OPENER OF CANADIAN BASEBALL LEAGUE

"Willie" Swartz Drives Two Runners in With Bingle in the Second

SCHETTLER'S FINE WORK ON THE MOUND

(Special to The Review.)

Erie, May 8.—The Canadian League season was opened yesterday when the Peterboro club captured a hard earned victory over the Erie aggregation by a score of 3-1 in a game which was featured by air-tight hurling by Schettler and Brown, and had a climax as thrilling as ever witnessed on Perry Field. There were three thousand in attendance, and the crowd which had been on its toes throughout the game surged on the field in the ninth inning, and protection of policemen with drawn revolvers was required to prevent the mob from doing bodily harm to Umpire Miller, who made his debut on the Canuck circuit yesterday.

CURLEY BLOUNT.
The new leader of the Petes made a a good getaway.

How it Started.

The incident which caused all the excitement occurred in the last frame, when after Behan had doubled the bleacherites encroached on the field. Umpire Miller arranged with Manager Smith, that a wallop into the crowd would go for three bases. Miller waved and shouted to Blount, and Behan, thinking that Miller was waving him to third base, started for the difficult corner and was tagged out. A big howl went up from the crowd, but the ump. stuck to his guns. It was after the side had been retired that the crowd attempted to mob him.

Good Baseball.

The game was one of the best played in these parts in some time. It was the opinion of the fans that the standard of ball attained in the Canadian League was almost on a par with that dished up by the International. Erie fans did not take kindly to the Canadian League proposition at first, but yesterday's game convinced them that the city was represented in a real live league.

BOB STERLING.
The Iron Man may be given the honor of pitching the opening game here next Thursday.

Schettler was Steady.

Both teams shaped up like pennant contenders. There was very little, if anything, to choose between them on the day's play and a couple of wobbles by the Erie infield turned the tide. Schettler and Brown, both right handers, had the batters eating out of their hands, but the Petes supported their heaver better and were stronger in the pinches. Schettler, who is a new addition to the Petes' hurling staff, shaped up in grand style, and as he is a .300 hitter will prove a great strength to the club. He forced seven to whiff in vain, and did not issue a pass.

When They Scored.

The Petes shoved two runs across the pan in the second, when King drew a ducket. Gorman was safe on Smith's error, King meandering to third. Swartz followed with a bingle, and both King and Gorman scored. Byrne singled, but died on the base, as Brown tightened up and Price. Ryberg and Schettler were easy outs. There was nothing more doing for the winners until the seventh, when Schettler came through with a hit and advanced to second when Gygli let a throw from Brown get away from him. He came home a moment later when Manager Blount smote the hide to centre. Erie scored their only run in the sixth, when singles by Brown, Dawson and Gygli sent the pitcher across the plate. The Erie boys were dangerous in this period, but Schettler put the screws on and retired the side.

The fielding of the Peterborough team was sensational, Gorman, King Price and Byrne handling everything without the slightest sign of a bobble. Blount had a busy day in the centre patch, pulling off four neat catches, two of which were labelled for extra bases.

LARGE TURNOUT OF MEMBERS AT FIRST SHOOT OF THE GUN CLUB

TRAPSTERS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

The Peterborough Gun Club held their first regular shoot of the season last evening. There was a large turn-out of members, several of whom were new members this year, and it being their first appearance at the traps, accounts for some of the low scores.

Judging from the enthusiasm shown by all present, the club will be a busy one this summer. A practice shoot will be held on Thursday evening next, May 14th, and the two shoots for the Prize Competition for the month of May will be on the third and fourth Thursdays of the month, instead of the first and third, when all members wishing to be in the competition must attend.

The scores last evening were as follows:

FANS WHO SAW GAME ARE PLEASED

LEAGUE PRESIDENT SAYS PETES ARE A MUCH STRONGER TEAM

The majority of the local delegates who took in the game at Erie yesterday, arrived home this morning perfectly satisfied that the team which Curly Blount has collected is far superior to that which represented this city last year. It is the general opinion that the local team will be right up near the top all the time. The new additions to the club are very well thought of. Gorman at first, although he did not get a slug at the pill yesterday, has a good slugging average, and handles himself very cleverly at first. His work was clean both on ground and fly balls, and he has a neat whip. King at the keystone sack is very speedy and possesses a grand wing as well as using excellent judgment on infield plays. Price at short covers a great deal of ground and shoots 'em across the diamond like a bullet, and his work should make the fans forget Harry Brant. Ryberg shaped up in good style behind the bat, while Schettler fulfilled all the nice things which have been said about his ability. He possesses a great curve and a puzzling slow ball, and grand control, and on his showing yesterday his arm which he injured while sliding to a base a year or so ago, is as good as ever. Manager Blount's showing also pleased the local fans. He has the team going like big leaguers, the players displaying all kinds of pep.

James P. Fitzgerald, president of the league, was a spectator at the game, and he gave it as his opinion that the Petes were a hundred per cent. stronger all round. Erie is also strong. The president stated that all the clubs measured up to the standard of the Erie and Peterboro clubs, and he looked forward to the best season in the history of the organization. He claimed that right now the Canadian League teams were every bit as strong as some of the clubs in the International.

In the evening the local followers were the guests of George O'Neil, owner of the Erie club, at a banquet tendered them at the Hotel Lawrence. The feed supplied by the genial George is said to have surpassed anything ever offered the local fans in the line of "eats."

Chris. Graham and a few more of the delegation stopped over at Toronto and will, among other things, attend the Providence-Toronto game at the Island Stadium this afternoon. They will be the guests of Jay Jay McCaffery and President Fitzgerald.

MERCANTILE BASEBALL.

The various teams in the Mercantile Baseball League are requested to have a representative on hand to-night in the Y. M. C. A., when the constitution will be gone over and final preparations made for the coming season. This is a very important meeting, and a good attendance is needed.

The Peterboro club has been hidden away over in Youngstown for the past couple of weeks, and it looks like the dark horse of the league. Curly Blount will be heard from before the race is over, though if all reports about his managerial ability are true.—London Advertiser.

A Lesson in Curling.

I.O.D.E. AT TORONTO.

Toronto, May 8.—The sessions of the Daughters of the Empire yesterday were marked by splendid enthusiasm on the part of several hundred delegates and Toronto members attending the meetings. Considerable business was dealt with in amendments to the constitution and election of councillars and officers, and it convinced one of the capability of the officers to note their grasp and appreciation of parliamentary procedue in the conduct of the meeting.

The most interesting feature of the morning's meeting was an inspiring address by Mrs. Langstaff, president of the Daughters of the Empire in the United States, where numbers of chapters all over the States have been organized and are doing splendid work. Mrs. Langstaff expressed the conviction that ere long every State will be represented by a chapter. The New York chapter has had for its aim the establishment of a Home for Aged British men and women, and through a bequest of $10,000 recently left towards this work, and $5,000 already in hand it is expected the home will be established within a year. Illinois chapters have promised a similar establishment in Chicago.

Mrs. Langstaff spoke of her staff of helpers and declared that in choosing a regent for a chapter one should choose the busiest woman, if one hoped for an efficient one.

A resolution of good wishes and appreciation for their interest was drawn up and sent to T.R.H. the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, and a resolution of sympathy was sent to the National Chapter in Newfoundland, to those who have suffered loss in the seal fisheries.

The Councillors elected for the ensuing year were: Mrs. John Bruce, Mrs. E. F. B. Johnston, Mrs. Featherstonhaugh, Miss Boulton, Mrs. Murray Clark, Mrs. E. V. Raynolds, Mrs. C. A. Henshaw, Mrs. James George, Mrs. Auden, Lady Mackenzie, Mrs. R. S. Wilson, Mrs. W. D. Spence, Mrs. Mackenzie Alexander, Mrs. Peuchen, Mrs. Colin Campbell, Mrs. W. J. Wright, Mrs. Tupper, Mrs. Ross Gooderham, Mrs. John Cawthra, Mrs. Angus MacMurchy, Mrs. H. C. Hannington, Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. Arthurs, Mrs. McGillivray, Mrs. H. Croft, Mrs. Alton Garratt, Mrs. F. J. Clark, Mrs. Van Wort, Mrs. Norreys Worthington, Mrs. Harry Burkholder, Mrs. W. H. Burns, Mrs. H. R. Frazer, Mrs. W. H. Gooderham, Mrs. Ambrose Small, Mrs. W. R. Riddell, Miss Dixon.

Nine-tenths of the things that have been said might as well have been left unsaid for all the benefit they are to humanity.

Isn't it a great day for the ball game?

THE SMART EFFECT OF TAFFETA.

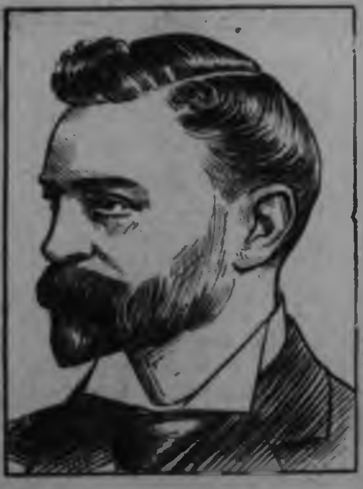
Taffeta is so fashionable at this season that the ultra style note of this afternoon frock is its material in a dark green. The bouffancy about the hips is effected by means of two flaring cut flounces above which is a puff to simulate a bustle. Below, the skirt falls narrow, and is the proper length to reveal the dainty buttoned boot of patent leather with upper of gray cloth. The high standing collar and loose sleeves are essentials of the present fashions.

G. G. S. LINDSEY, K.C., IS AN EXPERT MINERALOGIST

Lawyer and Geologist—He Has Divided His Attention Between the Two.

G. G. S. Lindsey, K.C., of Toronto, has been elected president of the Canadian Mining Institute which has been holding its annual meeting in Montreal.

Mr. Lindsey has had a wide experience in mining and for many years was president and general manager of the Crow Nest Pass Company and its allied companies. He has also been president of the Western Coal Operators Company, of British Columbia and Alberta, and is now president of the North Alberta Coal Company. He is also president of the Western Development Company and vice-president of the Vancouver Portland Cement Company, as well as the Canadian representative of one of the largest English mining companies.



G. G. S. LINDSEY.

Mr. Lindsey was appointed chairman of the coal resources committee of the 12th International Geological Congress, which committee published a monograph on the coal resources of the world in three volumes of letter press and one of maps, which received the warmest praise of the congress and of the scientific world. Besides filling the position of chairman he was a member of the executive committee of the congress and head of the finance and transportation committees. He is an honor graduate of Toronto University in natural science, and is counsel in the legal firm of Gregory & Gooderham, of Toronto.

PROBLEMS IN MAGNETISM.

Work of the Carnegie in Charting the Erratic Currents.

When the Carnegie, the sailing vessel which circumnavigated the globe charting the earth's magnetic currents, returned recently to New York it had been away four years and covered a distance of 93,000 miles. The scientists of the Carnegie wished to chart the vagaries of the magnetic currents which the mariner relies upon to guide him safely across the pathless seas.

There are many things remaining to be learned about magnetism. Why do the magnetic poles change their location? They have changed in the course of the last century in some places as much as five degrees, and in some parts of the earth they may change ten degrees in the course of the same period of time. It is necessary for the sailor to know the worldwide as well as the local deviation in order to determine to what extent his compass will change in sailing a certain course, at what points the changes will occur and the allowance which must be made in each case to avoid shipwreck.

The supplying of magnetic charts and compass data is one of the chief objects of the magnetic survey which the Carnegie is making. It is expected that it will require fifteen years to complete this work. It is reported that many errors in existing charts were found and corrected. The instruments have been taken to Washington for tests in order that any inaccuracies in the data may be detected.—Exchange.

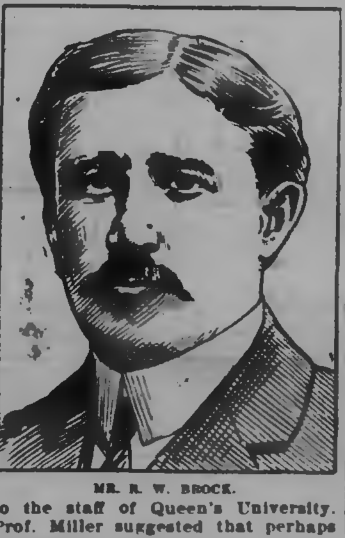
R. W. BROCK TOOK UP MINING BECAUSE EYES WERE WEAK

Canada's Deputy Minister of Mines Entered the Arts Course at the University, but His Eyesight Was Against Him, and Prof. Miller Befriended Him and Helped Him Through in Mineralogy.

Not only the newest but the youngest of the Deputy Ministers in the Dominion public service is Mr. Reginald Walter Brock, of the Department of Mines. He has just turned forty, and the enthusiasm of his glance and the clear smoothness of his skin give him an almost boyish look, says Francis A. Carman in Toronto Star Weekly. But though young in years and looks, he is not unexperienced. He knows men. He has trained them on the gridiron and on the hockey ice. He has lived with them in the wilds, where they were face to face with the difficulties and dangers of nature. He has wrestled with them in the carrying out of public policy, where private interests were claimant, and he has withstood private interests in the name of the public and of science.

His preparation for his life work was achieved under difficulties. He is a son of a Methodist parson, born at Perth, Ontario. His early education was received in the public and collegiate schools of Ottawa and Mount Forest. Then he entered Toronto University with a view to pursuing the general course in arts. It was here that his difficulties came—difficulties which finally turned his attention to the problems and opportunities of science. He completed his first year in arts successfully, but the strain upon his eyesight proved too great. For two years afterwards, each autumn he tried to carry on his college work, only to be forced to give it up on account of his inability to do sustained reading.

His "god from the machine" came in the person of Prof. Miller, now provincial geologist. At the time referred to, he had just been appointed to the staff of Queen's University. Prof. Miller suggested that perhaps he would be able to follow the work in chemistry and mineralogy without reading, and young Brock accepted the suggestion and went to Kingston. There he attended closely to the work in the lectures and in the laboratory, while Prof. Miller assisted him in the evenings. Mr. Brock indeed considers that he was not handicapped but specially favored; and in eighteen months he was able to complete the remaining three years work of the university course.



MR. R. W. BROCK.

It was this chance—what would usually be called ill-fortune—which led Mr. Brock to take up the work of the Geological Survey. And it is to the field work of the survey, too, that he gives credit for his present health. Under the bracing conditions of outdoor life with field parties of the survey, his eyes regained almost their original strength, so that he was able to stand long hours at the microscope without strain, and he now uses glasses but little. He began his connection with the survey as far back as 1891, when he was only seventeen, so that he put in a good part of twenty-three years in the work of the department of which he has this winter became the head.

The department over which he presides is a pioneer in the development of the natural resources of the Dominion. Until a few years ago there were practically two departments of the Dominion service engaged in this work. One was the Geological Survey, to which Mr. Brock was attached. The other was the Department of Mines, which was under the control of the Minister of the Interior. Since they have been consolidated, the head of the joint department has always been taken from the Geological Survey. The first deputy of the larger department was Dr. A. P. Low, and the second is Mr. R. W. Brock.

An example of the work which the Geological Survey has done is the prospectus for oil in the Prairie Provinces. For a number of years survey parties have been out in various fields, examining the geological formation for indications of oil. Mr. Brock is hopeful that oil will be found under these western lands, but he discourages the small man from entering into search. Unless a company has plenty of capital its resources are very likely to be dissipated in preliminary work.

The new Deputy Minister of Mines has a high standing among scientists. In addition to his training at Queen's University he has spent some time in research at Heidelberg and other German universities. He was selected as professor of mining at the opening of the School of Mines in connection with Queen's University, a position which he held for several years. He is a member of a number of scientific societies, and he is joint author, with Mr. F. T. Congdon, of the Yukon, of our present mining laws.

LINCOLN'S STATEROOM.

The President Thought He Had Shrunk In Size Overnight.

In "The Everyday Life of Abraham Lincoln" Mr. F. F. Browne includes an amusing anecdote told by Admiral Porter about the president's short visit to the front in the latter part of March, 1865. Mr. Lincoln had changed his quarters from the River Queen to the Malvern, Admiral Porter's flagship, which was then lying in the James river, near City Point. Admiral Porter says:

The Malvern was a small vessel with very poor cabin accommodations and was not at all fitted to receive high personages. She was a captured blockade runner. I offered the president my bed, but he positively declined it and chose to sleep in a small stateroom outside the cabin that my secretary occupied. It was only 6 feet long by 4½ feet wide, a very tiny place to hold the president of the United States, but Mr. Lincoln seemed pleased with it.

When he came to breakfast the next morning I asked how he had slept. "I slept well," he answered, "but you can't put a long sword in a short scabbard. I was too long for that berth." Then I remembered that he was over six feet four inches and that the berth was only six feet! That day while we were away from the ship all the carpenters were put to work. They took down the stateroom partitions and enlarged the room to eight feet by six and a half feet. A mattress four feet wide was put in the new berth.

Nothing was said to the president about the change in his quarters, but the next morning he came out of the room smiling and said, "A miracle happened last night. I shrank six inches in length and about a foot sideways. I got somebody else's big pillow and slept in a better bed than I had on the River Queen." He enjoyed it greatly, but I think if I had given him two fence rails to sleep on he would not have found fault. That was Abraham Lincoln in all things that related to his own comfort. He would never let you put yourself out for him under any circumstances.

FIFTEEN INCH GUNS.

Britain's Standard Naval Weapons and What They Can Do.

The fifteen inch gun, which now becomes—though for how long no one knows—the standard weapon of British battleship armaments, is the heaviest weapon now carried or intended for carriage in modern fleets. It weighs ninety-six tons and fires a shell of 1,950 pounds, with a muzzle velocity of 2,655 feet per second, and the projectile is capable of penetrating nearly six feet of wrought iron at the muzzle and just over two feet of tough steel at a range of two miles.

Twenty-five years ago three battleships were built for the navy (Sans Pareil, Victoria and Benbow) armed with two 16.25 inch 110 ton guns, but these fired a shell of only 1,800 pounds, while the projectiles of the famous "Woolwich Infants" — sixteen inch eighty ton muzzle loaders mounted in the old battleship Inflexible, launched in 1876—weighed 100 pounds less.

The two battleships which Germany is laying down this year will carry the same armament as the Queen Elizabeth—eight fifteen-inch and sixteen six-inch. The Krupp fifteen inch gun, however, fires a shell of only 1,675½ pounds, so that they will be considerably inferior in weight of broadside to the British ships of the 1912 program.—London Leader.

Microscopic Engraving.

Perhaps the greatest feat of microscopic engraving was accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who prepared an address of welcome to the Duke of Connaught. The address was inscribed in Hebrew on a grain of wheat and contained no fewer than 300 letters. So fine was the lettering that a microscope was necessary to read the inscription with any ease.—Liverpool Post.

COACHING ASQUITH

Haldane is Again in Limelight Since Curragh Affair.

Lord Haldanae has come into the limelight again as a result of Premier Asquith's taking up the burden of Secretary for War, following Col. J. E. B. Seely's resignation. The Lord Chancellor was for some years the successful political head of the army in the Asquith Cabinet, and the cables say he is busy coaching Mr. Asquith for his new office.

Fifty-seven years of age, the first Viscount of Cloan and Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain is the most famous representative of a very ancient Scottish family. His mother was the daughter of Mr. Richard Burdon Sanderson, of West Jesmond, Northumberland. Lord Haldane was educated at Edinburgh Academy and afterwards at Edinburgh and Gottingen universities. At the latter place he gained his mastery over the difficult German language and his love for German philosophy and literature. At the age of twenty-three he was called to the Bar, and after eleven years' hard work on the Chancery side, during which time he gathered together a very large practice and the consequent profits, he was made a Q.C. in 1890 at the early age of thirty-four. Five years previously he had sought and gained Parliamentary honors as M.P. for Haddingtonshire, which division he represented for twenty-seven years, until his promotion to the Woolsack in 1911.

Lord Haldane's immense intellectual powers are not lightened by too much humor. He takes himself and the world in general very seriously. He has made several incursions into the world of literature, and besides translating Schopenhauer's famous work, "Will and Idea," is author of "Life of Adam Smith," "Education and Empire," and the "Pathway to Reality." He has a wonderful facility in elucidating facts and a more than wonderful facility in expressing the result. He can speak for hours on any topic he is interested in and at a pace which is the subject of admiration to his friends and the despair of the poor shorthand writers transcribing in his wake. He is still a bachelor and ever likely to remain so. It is a pity, as given an ordinary self-respecting woman there would have been a masterly struggle for "the last word."

The Lord Chancellor, in addition to being somewhat Germanic in appearance, is a great admirer of German literature and philosophy. He speaks and reads German with equal facility as his own language. He is a great protagonist of the movement for the general reduction of armaments.

Also Lid, Dicer, Etc.

Among the slang synonyms for "hat" is "cady," which is supposed to have a Hebrew origin, and has been long in use in Whitechapel in London, as witness a popular song of 1886, in which the refrain supplies one of the few rimes to "lady": "Met a lady, raised my cady." It is doubtful whether any article of apparel has so many slang alternatives as a hat. A by no means exhaustive list would include "tile," "golgotha," "canister," "castor," "chimney," "colleger," "cock and pinch," "cow shooter," "david," "digget's delight," "fantail," "gomer," "goss," "mushroom," "pill box," "stove pipe," "thatch," "truck" and "weejee."—London Chronicle.

Told of the Duke of Wellington.

A prominent art collector in London tells the following story of the Duke of Wellington:

"The artist who painted the battle of Waterloo, being sent for to receive the price of his picture, found the duke counting over a number of piles of bank notes. Venturing to observe that a check upon his grace's bank would have answered the purpose and given less trouble, the artist was interrupted by the ducal growl:

"'Do you think I am going to let the people at may bank know I've been such a fool as to pay a price like this?'"

First Life Insurance Policy.

William Gibbons, who deserves to be better known, was the first man to insure his life. This policy was made in June, 1583, and was for the sum of £383 6s. 8d. for twelve months, sixteen underwriters dividing the risk. And this first policy also produced the first insurance law case, for when William died in the following May the underwriters attempted to maintain that twelve months meant twelve periods of twenty-eight days and had to be taken into court before they would pay up.—London Graphic.

Stockholm's Telephones.

There are in Stockholm about 80,000 telephone subscribers for a population of a little over 350,000, or one for every four and a half inhabitants. Practically speaking, there is not a person in Stockholm who has not the telephone or who cannot be reached by it. The telephone exists not only in nearly every house and every shop, even the humblest, but in most houses on every floor and in hotels and pensions in every room in the establishment. In the principal streets and thoroughfares there are telephone kiosks which any passer by can enter and use by dropping a penny in the slot.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

TUB FROCK WITH TAFFETA.

Many of the tub frocks this season seem particularly untubbale in that they combine taffeta with the cotton material. It is best to design the frock so that the silk will be removable, for there is nothing like water and soap in the cleaning of a cotton frock. Here is a smart yet practical design in which the simple under frock is surmounted with a separate tunic and suspenders of black taffeta, the outer arrangement to be worn with other frocks as well.

TORONTO LOSING BUILDING THAT HOUSED EARLY BANK

Razing of the First Home of the Bank of Upper Canada.

"Sold—A warehouse will be erected here." These are the words of doom written largely against the old structure at the southeast corner of King and Frederick streets. But, perhaps, it is just as well that the old landmark be removed and a new and brighter brass plate be erected to mark its grave, for scarcely any passer-by ever stops now to read the dingy old bronze sign which bids the wayfarer stop and examine. This old building was once the first bank in Toronto. More even than this; for it was the home of the first chartered bank west of the Ottawa river, says Lyman B. Jackes in The Toronto Globe.

Ninety-six years have gone by since the erection took place. In those bygone days the thick-set building occupied the most prominent corner of the town of York. Look along the south side of King street some day, between George street and Sherbourne street, and you will see the remains of a business row where once the elite of the town did their trading. What a change seven or eight decades will make! Shops that were once patronized by York's foremost society ladies in their search for dry goods and finery have degenerated into little tobacco shops. Fashionable bookshops have been replaced by little eating houses which appeared to have solved the problem of the increased cost of living. A little brass foundry has taken up its abode over the shadow of former greatness; and the bank—the institution that did so much for our forefathers—has sunk to the level of a second-hand furniture shop. So, again I say that perhaps it may be better for the old bank to give way than remain the sole object with a history in a row where everything else has been forgotten.

Let us then roll back the pages of time and look upon the old pile, not as a member of this dismal row as we see it to-day, but in the year 1818. This is the year when William Allan put up the building and opened a general store, with its miscellaneous collection of wares ranging from silks to cheese on the one side and strong spirits and hardware on the other.

But the town of York must have a bank. Ten years before the merchants of the town had pressed the governor, Sir James Craig, for action, but he presented the bill before the legislature and requested that the bill be excluded on the ground that the people of York were not sufficiently cultured to understand the various denominations and guard against counterfeits. The bill was not passed. But doesn't it seem funny to us now to think that a people brave and bold enough to resist the United States just four years later should be so looked upon by this same English gentleman—Sir James Craig? Sir Isaac Brock was the next to seriously attack the problem of the bank, but the war brought his proposals to a bitter end.

June of 1822 saw the proposal fairly established, and a charter was issued to the Bank of Upper Canada. At a meeting in The Grange — the spacious home of D'Arcy Boulton—Mr. William Allan was elected president of the bank, and with a loyalty that was characteristic of the man, offered the premises of his general store as a home for the new institution. Thus it was that toward the end of June in the same year the bank opened its doors. Mr. Thomas Ridout was cashier, but the title then signified duties not pertaining to that office to-day. One hundred years ago the title of cashier implied more of the chief clerk or officials just under the president.

The year 1837 brought the ill-understood insurrection of William Lyon Mackenzie, and against this bank he proceeded to work one of his little ideas which had proven successful in Montreal and Quebec, but kind fate forewarned the Bank of Upper Canada officials a few short minutes before the scene was staged. On Nov. 24, 1837, the bank officials received notification in the post from Montreal that the banks there had suspended specie payment, owing to a run on the vaults following the harangues of the insurrectionists, and that the Bank of Upper Canada was to be the next object of their attack. After a hasty consultation, Mr. Ridout advanced a scheme for the defeat of the attack, and his plans were set in motion.

The scene changes now to that of the old Doel Brewery; a portion of which still stands, encased in bill posters, at the northwest corner of Adelaide and Bay streets. Here the followers of Mackenzie, the same evening, arranged for the run on the Bank of Upper Canada to commence the following morning. When they arrived to commence the operation they were not accorded the first place in the line—some few others were ahead of them and had been standing there since early morning. The old town clock struck the hour of nine, and doors were opened for the business of the day. The first to enter was an old millwright—a friend of the bank—and he presented four one-pound notes for payment in farthings. It took so long to count the money and so long to recount it that over one hour was saved for the bank. Other supporters of the bank advanced slowly to the paying window and demanded payment of notes in the smallest of currency, and while they were counting out the coins their predecessors were depositing their withdrawals into the bank again. After two days spent in this fashion the insurrectionists saw the impossibility of draining the funds and departed.

SPECIAL CORNER FOR AFTER DINNER READERS

Good Form

Unneighborly Noises.

Lack of neighborly responsibility seems to be conspicuous through all ranks of society. You can understand the conduct of the knife grinder who blows his horn or rings his bell under your window, regardless of the rest or work he may be interrupting, just as you can excuse the yells of the itinerant vegetable or fruit vender who cries his wares raucously along the street.

These noise producers are working for their living, and their calls and clangings are part of their stock in trade. Without them you would not know their goods were offered for sale. You can even tolerate the banging of the beaters on rugs on the roof or in the back yard, because you know the cleaning must be done, and it is being performed in the only locality that presents itself.

But what good is gained by the unnecessary honkings of an automobile which wake the echoes of your street at midnight? Why should the collectors of ashes and garbage make unnecessary noise in the discharge of their duties? And to come within the house and in touch with those who are supposed to have gentler tendencies, why should persons of like nature with ourselves keep so called music—either vocal or instrumental—going at an hour when ordinary, every day folk are supposed to be asleep?

Rings For Bridegrooms.

A custom rather strictly observed in Germany is the exchange of rings by bride and bridegroom on the wedding day, and it is a very pretty idea. "Why shouldn't the man have some outward symbol to show that he is married as well as a woman?" asked a little dark eyed bride who had used this double ring ceremony. And why not? Very few brides now select a plain diamond solitaire that was for so long considered the only proper engagement token; the larger the stone the more the girl loved to flash it. Now a diamond is used if the girl wishes it, but it is cut and set in some individual manner and is made with the promise that no duplicates will be sold.

Some new rings are being shown which on first appearance seem to be very handsome seals, but on closer examination show that they are to be divided when the "time" comes into two separate rings. They are made to order, as is much of the jewelry worn nowadays by those who wish to have exclusive styles in their articles of adornment.

Table Manners.

When we consider good table manners in a general way there is one point that is emphasized. Quietness without haste is the thing that will do more than anything to give attractive table manners. Any one can be quiet and dignified. It may be a difficult thing to master the uses of the different utensils and to keep in mind the order of courses; it may seem a stupendous task to review the different positions and ways of eating different foods, but it is the easiest thing in the world to do things in a quiet manner. They are the essence of good table manners, and on this foundation it is possible to build an intricate structure that will take you through any formal dinner in satisfaction.

Dancing Etiquette.

"When dancing with a young girl," asks a perplexed masculine reader, "is it necessary to continue dancing with her—perhaps three or four dances—until some other man relieves you by asking the girl for a dance? Is there no way in which a man can gracefully get away?"

The nice thing to do is to dance with the girl until another partner comes to claim her, but in case you have the next dance with another girl you must make your excuses gracefully, explaining the situation, and then go to claim the other girl. If you are free for the succeeding dances you should remain with your first partner until some one else relieves you of this duty.

Street Introductions.

An introduction is not always necessary when people meet on a public street, but it prevents a momentary embarrassment to say, "Miss C., Mr M." Such an introduction need not be considered a basis for a future acquaintance. Merely to bow and smile in acknowledgment, with a pleasant word, is all that is necessary, and if the lady does not choose to recognize the man in meeting him afterward that is her privilege.

Consideration For Servants.

Respect your maid's privacy. Make it a point always to knock on her door before entering, and if you have occasion to go to the kitchen in the evening always knock there too. If practicable do not disturb her at night. Some women have a most pernicious habit of getting their maids up to unhook clothes, while others will remember in the small hours a number of orders that should have been given at dinner time.

Choose One of the Dainty New Creations of Cretonne or Dimity.

Very charming are the bed covers made of plain rep or cotton taffeta upon which are appliqued garlands of flowers cut from chintzes or cretonnes

Such a spread was shown in a lavender and gray room. The bed itself was of gray enameled wood, embellished with a narrow white line.

The bed cover was of pale gray rep the color of the bed, upon which was appliqued lavender cretonne flowers. This same cretonne appeared again as window hangings.

The cotton spreads may be had in cream, tan, dull blues or any other neutral tint which can be made to tone in with any color scheme. They are quite expensive when made by an upholsterer or bought from a decorator, but any woman who is clever with her needle could make one.

Dainty dimity bed covers are also shown, either in plain white or cream or with narrow stripes in color. They are made long enough to tuck under the roll. Occasionally one sees separate slips, into which a round bolster may be slipped. The covers hang down the sides of brass beds, nearly touching the floor, the two sides at the bottom being split to allow the corners to lie flat.

With very sheer material a deep flounce sometimes appears. On wooden beds the cover merely touches the wooden sides. When a roll or bolster is used, slipping pillows are tucked away out of sight during the day and are only placed upon the bed at night.

It is almost a necessity to have a couch in one's bedroom, for a bed to remain immaculate should never be used for lounging or resting on during the day. No guest room should be without such a convenience.

A Season of Colors.

You can buy wigs dyed to match any sample of material you may take to the dyer and wig seller. You may buy stockings dyed within twenty-four hours to match exactly a frock or slippers of a most unearthly hue. And now you can have smelling salts made to match any samples you take to the chemist who puts up smelling salts. They may be colored yellow to match the odd shade of the hangings in your bedroom or boudoir, or a strange shade of lavender to match your Japanese crape negligee, or a queer green to match one of the new shades you have chosen for your summer suit.

Plant Lavender Seeds.

Those who like sachets of dried lavender in their linen closets and bureau drawers may raise all of the delicate flowers they can use by planting the seeds in a shallow box filled with finely sifted soil. When the tiny plants are a few inches high transplant them in small flowerpots and when the ground is warm set them out of doors. Two or three plants will yield all the lavender one will be likely to use.

Cat Is Charity Collector.

A London shopkeeper has a cat which from its youngest days has been a faithful worker in the cause of charity. At the call of its master Fluff jumps on the counter and sticks its head through a hole in a card on which is printed a request that the public contribute a penny for the hospital fund.

To Build Huge Hotel.

The finest hotel in the world, according to the plans of its projector, Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, a member of Parliament, is to be erected in London, opposite the entrance to Hyde Park, London, Eng. It will occupy nearly two acres and will cost more than $6,000,000.

GERMAN RED TAPE

A Most Irritating Brand Is Used In the Postoffices.

SENDING A PARCEL BY MAIL.

Experience of an English Tourist Who, With Joyous Confidence, Undertook to Perform What Was Supposed to Be a Perfectly Simple Operation.

In all innocence and lightness of heart I set out one morning to send a small parcel to England from the town in Germany where I was staying. At the postoffice I was confronted by three booking office windows, each having a weird and formidable inscription over it. These inscriptions were not to be comprehended at a glance; so, not wishing to gaze up at them too long, I selected the least crowded window and handed over my parcel. It was promptly returned to me with a curt "Go to the next window!" It was just that window I specially wished to avoid, being the most crowded, but I waited my turn and then made another attempt. The official looked at me sternly.

"Have you the circulars?" he asked.

"No," I replied faintly.

He handed me three circulars, for which I had to pay a small sum and which I was requested to fill up. Picking up my parcel, I sat down to study those circulars. They were covered with instructions, the language used was magnificent, and the effect was so overwhelming that I found it difficult to grasp what I was instructed to do. If my papers were not filled up accurately it was not from untruthfulness, but owing to my limited German vocabulary.

By the time I had described the parcel, the gross weight thereof in grams and kilograms, the gross value thereof in marks and pfennigs and given a detailed description of each article contained therein, with its separate weight and value, I felt like an old inhabitant of that postoffice. I had seen, as it were, generation after generation of stamp purchasers come and go, and still I remained. As to the weights, my idea of kilograms was about on a par with my knowledge of definite integrals. However, I did my best. I guessed at the probable weight of the parcel and divided the articles into it.

At length I came to the end, and, feeling like a candidate at an examination, I gathered up my papers and the parcel and went over to the window. After waiting my turn I handed over the papers. The official glanced at them, then at the parcel, and frowned.

"Did you weigh the articles?" he asked sternly.

"Ya-a-a!" I stammered.

"Then go home and weigh them again. You have put them down at half a ton!"

There was no help for it. With a sigh I gathered up my papers and went back to a secluded corner. After patiently reducing all the weights I again presented the papers. This time they were passed, and I was sent on to the next department, where I had to purchase and fill up another document. I was now getting into form, and this paper was soon dealt with.

Then, with my heart beating fast, I handed over the parcel. It was once more returned to me. The official said he could not take it in that condition—it was insecurely made up.

Now, if there is one thing upon which I pride myself it is upon the neat way in which I turn out a parcel. So, smothering my indignation as well as I could, I assured him that it would be all right, that it was perfectly safe and that there was nothing in it which was breakable. He repeated firmly that it was insecure and that he could not take it. So I sadly collected my papers and the parcel and went home to dinner.

I spent all the afternoon trying to purchase a cardboard box of exactly the right proportions and some waterproof cloth to wrap round it. I next procured a stick of sealing wax and a German seal, and by the time I had finished that parcel looked as if it were prepared to travel to the north pole.

It was now getting toward evening, and I was feeling wearied after my day's work, so I besought my brother—a willing, guileless youth—to take it to the postoffice. He took it so innocently that my conscience reproached me for not having given him a word of warning. He was a long time gone, but that was to be expected. When I saw him come in my heart sank in despair.

"They won't take it like this," he said cheerfully.

I groaned and asked:

"Why not?"

"There's not enough sealing wax on it."

"Not enough sealing wax?" I cried incredulously.

"No. You must put a blob wherever the string crosses and wherever there's a knot."

In desperation I seized the sealing wax and worked away until I had used it to the last speck and the parcel was one intricate mass of string and wax. Then I conveyed it once more to the postoffice. It was now almost closing time, and the officials were in a hurry to get away. I handed over the papers and the parcel without a word.

Two minutes later I walked out of the postoffice with joy in my heart and a smile of satisfaction on my face. I had sent the parcel off.—London Family Herald.

CLOTHES HANGERS.

Their Variety and Convenience Should Banish Wrinkles From Garments.

If the closet room is small make the most of it by having a bar placed on which the hangers can be hung. Of course, the sort of hangers used must have hooks big enough to get over the bar. The bar can be bought. Sometimes it is made of nickel. A broom handle is quite satisfactory. The broom, of course, must be sawed off and the handle secured firmly at each end to the closet walls, lengthwise of the closet. A bar three feet long will accommodate at least a dozen frocks and coats on hangers.

An emergency peg for the camper can be made from a clothespin. Saw off the prongs of the pin, leaving just the knobby head—two or three inches long. Through the middle of the end of the knob drive a long, strong wire nail, longer than the piece of clothes pin. Fasten this securely in a board on the wall, and you have a peg that will not tear the things hung on it.

Some dainty new clothes hangers are these: Two little clamps to clamp over the band of a skirt or over the rim of the inside of the seams of the bodice are fastened to two pieces of ribbon, each six or eight inches long. Sometimes, to give additional strength, these ribbons are double. At the other end of each ribbon is a little bone ring which is to hang over the peg. The two rings are hung over different pegs and so hold the skirt or frock attached to the clamps in shape.

For the thin lingerie frock or waist a scented hanger is delightful. Any of the cheap hangers can be covered first with wadding in which the scent is sprinkled and then with figured lawn or with silk. A good way to cover a scented hanger is first to put on a silk or satin cover and over that to put a lawn cover which is in two parts, like two slips, to go over the two ends, fastened about the middle of the hanger with ribbons run through the hems. This slip cover can be washed to keep the hanger fresh and clean.

New Moving Picture Effects.

Powerful arc lights combined with newly designed moving picture apparatus are used in one of the London theaters to produce some wonderful effects. The characters are seen in life size, moving about without the use of any visible screen, so that they appear to act upon a real theater scene, which is lighted, as is customary in such cases. This remarkable result is brought about by optical combinations, which have as yet not been made public.

Adrianople Postage Stamps.

The Turkish government recently took an unusual way to celebrate its retention of the ancient city of Adrianople, the object of so much desperate fighting and bitter controversy during the Balkan war. It issued a special series of three postage stamps, each of which bore the word "Adrianople" and a picture of the famous mosque of Selim II. The stamps were used only one month and only in the Turkish empire.

Switzerland and Its Army.

Even little Switzerland is crying out against the increasing cost of the military arm of government. The total estimated revenue of Switzerland for 1914 is $20,000,000. The total estimated expenditure of the government is $21,083,000. By far the heaviest item of expenditure is the army, which calls for $9,150,000. Trade, industry and agriculture call for $3,375,000 and the home office for $3,228,000.

SHREWD SAMMIS

The Elevator Boy Puts One Over on Busy Mr. Wassoon

By M. QUAD

ONE day, just after Mr. Wassoon had moved into No. 8 with his mining stock, I stopped at the fourth floor to see a fight between a telegraph boy and the barber shop bootblack. I didn't hear any one ring, but pretty soon Mr. Wassoon came down the stairs from the eighth floor.

"You either attend to business," he said, "or get another job!"

"Yes, sir," I said.

I was waiting for something to turn up when I caught him making eyes at the assistant teacher in the school of stenography on the fourth floor. The next day he handed me a dozen roses and said:

"Sammis, it is our duty, no matter how much business we have on hand, to let rifts of sunshine into the lives of others.

"Should you see Miss Alden of the fourth, you can hand her this. Here is a slip of paper on which is written a few words. Don't give my name right out, but hint at it."

I took the bouquet down to old Mr. Graham on the fourth floor and told him he could rely on me to keep still. The slip of paper said that the bouquet was from one who admired at a distance, and the old man smiled as he said:

"I'm no masher, but I've known for a week past that I had an admirer on the fourth floor."

The next morning I slipped a note under Mr. Wassoon's door. It was a note of thanks. Late in the afternoon old Mr. Graham called me in.

"Sammis," he began, "here is a box of chocolates. I wish them delivered to the person who remembered me yesterday. You need give no name."

The chocolates went up to Mr. Wassoon. He smiled like a June morning, but asked no questions. It took me three days more to get the thing down fine, but at length all was ready—that is, Mr. Wassoon and old Mr. Graham appeared on the fourth floor as the clock struck 12.

At that moment Miss Alden came out. Both men smiled and bowed. Both observed in the same breath that it would give them the utmost pleasure to escort her to lunch. But she drew herself up and said:

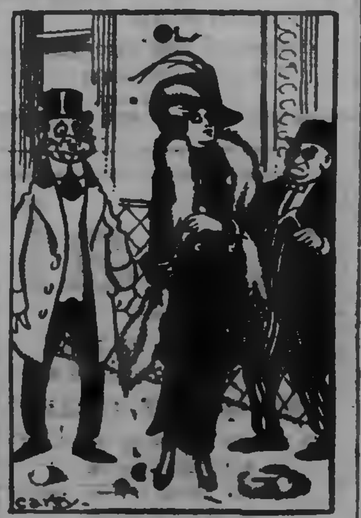
"Permit me to pass, please. I don't know either of you."

She had been out of sight two minutes before they recovered. Then Mr. Wassoon turned on Mr. Graham.

"You old viper, you must have been poisoning this woman's mind against me!"

"You cock eyed buzzard, you have slandered me!" yelled Mr. Graham.

They pitched into each other, and it took five men to separate them. After it was all over the agent of the building sent for me.



"PERMIT ME TO PASS, PLEASE."

"Sammis," he said, "the owner of a skyscraper is a great man."

"Yes, sir."

"But an elevator boy who knows his gait is greater."

Two days later Mr. Wassoon said:

"Sammis," did I understand you to say that you were fatherless and struggling to pay off a mortgage on the widow's home?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, here's a dollar on the mortgage. I have no son of my own, and any time you feel lonely just slip up and I'll pat you on the back and call you 'sonny.' No more putting up jobs on your papa, Sammis."

An hour later old Mr. Graham put a dollar into my hand.

"For the mortgage, Sammis, and between you and me, I'll be a father to you! We won't say anything outside, but as father and son we'll work together to bring that old villain of a Wassoon to justice."

I don't like to be mixed up in rows, but a fellow's got to watch out for chances to get along in the world.

SISTER'S PICTURE.

She makes an awful fuss.
She thrashes round until she has
The whole house in a muss.
She starts to gettin' ready
Long before it's time to go,
And the family's in an uproar
For a good long week or so.

She daubs the powder on her nose
And on her cheeks some paint.
She thinks that in the picture she Must look like what she ain't.
She puts her best silk stockin's on
And fusses with her hair
And combs it like it never was
On her or anywhere.

She gets down to the gallery,
And then the fun begins.
She practices a lot of smirks
And frowns and scowls and grins.
She tries to pose, unconscious like,
With easy poise and grace,
But most that she makes out to do
Is just twist up her face.

And when she gets the proofs up home
The folks all have to laugh,
For the expression on the face
Is like a dyin' calf.
The picture ain't like her at all—
'Tain't natural a bit—
But sister thinks it is just grand
And says there's class to it.

It makes her look a good deal like
Some fourth class actorine
And ain't got no resemblance to
No one we've ever seen.
She never gits dolled up like that
Nor has that painful look
Exceptin' sometimes when she goes
To get her picture took.

On His Guard.

"What did the old man say when you asked him for his daughter's hand?"

"He asked me if I had any money."

"I suppose you showed him your bank book."

"No; I evaded the question. I don't know what will happen after I am married, but he isn't going to make a touch on me before that."

Didn't Dare.

"He told his wife that he was going out with the boys and wouldn't be home much before morning."

"What!"

"Fact."

"Right to her face?"

"Oh, no!"

"How was it?"

"Over the telephone."

Scientific.

"Why is it that all widows know how to manage men?"

"Can't you see at a glance?"

"No."

"The man is dead that was her husband."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Simply the survival of the fittest."

For Everybody.

Happiness is free to all.
Do not be so glum,
And, to know you'll be delighted
That it is not copyrighted,
Help yourself to some.

Neither is it patented,
You should understand.
On a claim at once be filing.
You cannot be pinched for smiling
In this happy land.

Clever.

"Can I have the last word?" said the tenacious husband to his wife.

"The last word?"

"Yes."

"What will you do with it?"

"Keep it."

"Yes; you can have it if it will be a promise of $10."

Sure.

"Riches have wings."

"Certainly. That's the fun of it."

"But they get away from you."

"But not till you have flown high with them."

Hot vinegar is good to serve with spinach.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

SOME men are so obtuse that you have to show them the door when they are looking right at it.

It doesn't follow that because a man continually makes thoughtless remarks he is remarkably thoughtless.

A thick skin is not beautiful, but it is often comfortable.

There are as many different kinds of women as there are women.

Nobody is going out of his way to carry a barrel of flattery to you just from love of you or because he is needing exercise. Remember that.

You may be rich without being happy, but you can't be happy without being rich.

Speak well of your friends. Their enemies will do all the knocking necessary.

Don't listen to the voice of trouble, for trouble is apt to be a liar anyhow.

Thanksgiving.

No fireworks to light the skies
And neighbors' barns to burn.
No shooting crackers while you walk
And everywhere you turn,
No shouting in the public streets
Nor spouting in a hall,
On this delightful, festive day—
Just eating; that is all.

No presents that you have to buy,
Although you may be broke,
For nieces, nephews, neighbors' kids
And all the other folk;
No heavy packages to mail,
No janitors to treat—
Just coming home to see the folks
And sitting down to eat.

Not even postal cards to send
To comrades far away
Or mottoes wishing them returns
Of this auspicious day.
No pranks to play on any one,
No jokes, refined or crude—
Just simply drawing up a chair
And dallying with food.

Yes, only on Thanksgiving day
Of all the festive dates
On which the world puts by its work
And gayly celebrates
Is there the single, central theme
That makes this day the best.
Just bring along your appetites.

A NAVAL COMEDY.

Surrender of the Spanish Gunboat Callao at Manila.

On the afternoon of the 12th (May 12, 1898) a small Spanish gunboat came steaming up Manila bay, directly toward the American fleet. The surprise of the people in the fleet was great; this little vessel seemed so confident and friendly. Finally one of our ships fired a shot across her bow. This did not seem to make any difference to her, for she kept on just the same. Then we saw an officer go alongside from the flagship.

We found out that evening that this vessel was the Spanish gunboat Callao and that she had been cruising in the southern part of the Philippines for a long time and had not heard about the war, and, the time of her cruise being finished, she was now returning to Manila. The officers and men had been looking forward to this for a long time, because in Manila they were to find their wives, children, parents, friends, theaters, clubs, hotels, newspapers and all the things that make sailors look forward with happiness to getting home. They saw a great many ships in the harbor flying the American flag, but this did not give them any uneasiness, and when the first gun was fired by the American ship they did not notice that the shot came across the bow of their own ship, and thought it was simply the first gun of some salute.

But when the second shot was fired and they heard the whizzling of the shell they knew something was wrong. And when the American officer came on board and told them that every ship in the fleet was destroyed and that they themselves were prisoners of war their feelings of joyful hope went through a change that, let us hope, few of us will ever know.—From Admiral Bradley A. Fiske's "War Time In Manila."

CANADIAN SLEIGH SONG.

(By James Lewis Milligan.)

The setting sun, like an artist bold,
Paints the snow on the billowy wold,
The shadows are blue and the lights are red,
Deeper they grow as he sinks his head;
Afar, where the pine-clad hills arise,
'Tis purple against the saffron skies;
While I step in my sleigh
And drive away
Fifteen miles at the end of day.

'Tis cold! They say it is ten below,
'Twill be twenty-five in an hour or so;
I cover my ears and muffle my chin,
And tuck my feet all cosily in;
I speak to my horse, as drivers do,
And she seems to understand me, too.
We're off, I tell her, to fourth-line,
She cocks her ears as a knowing sign,
While her hoofs beat time
To the sleigh bells' chime.
And my heart indites this swinging rhyme.

The fires of day burn low and red,
The stars are bright'ning overhead;
I ride alone on the top of the world,
The woods and streams in sleep are furl'd;
O'er hill and dale, through rocky glade,
I glide like a ghost — a wand'ring shade—
What more am I? as I came I go,
I glide through life as over the snow;
The shapes fly past ere they're half-discern'd,
The years slip by and to dreams are turned,
And nought remains but these stars that rise
Like a wall of gems before my eyes—
A bright enigma, a dream too high,
Which lures me upward, I know not why,
As I sit in my sleigh
And drive away,
Ever on till the dawn of day!

—From The London Graphic.

Buxton's Fishing.

"The other day, when the Prime Minister was good enough to ask me whether I would take up the responsible position of Governor-General and High Commissioner for South Africa, I need hardly say that the first question I asked him was, 'Is there good fishing there?'" said Sir Sydney Buxton, in presiding over the annual dinner of the Fly Fishers' Club. "Well, so far as I can recollect, he is not a fisherman himself, and did not appreciate the whole force of my question, but he understood that there was some trout-fishing and salmon-fishing, and therefore, of course, I asked him if he would allow me to think it over, and in the end I accepted."

Sir Sydney, in accepting the badge of the Order of Fly Fishers' Club, a fly, dressed in black and white colors, in recognition of his services in connection with the Copyright Act, said: "I cannot help thinking also that at the present moment, so far as I am concerned, it is somewhat appropriate, because in the duties which I am about to take up the great problem is the problem of the black and white."

Delays Are Dangerous.

Station Master—I think some one will get into trouble on account of that train starting three minutes late.

Assistant—Why? Any of the passengers complaining?

Station Master—No, but the restaurant man vows he'll make it hot for whoever is responsible. The passengers have had time to eat what they paid for.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Wider Sphere.

"So your wife is a suffragette?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton.

"Why does she want to vote?"

MME. MONTESSORI'S SYSTEM HAS WORKED A REVOLUTION

Italian Woman Who Teaches Children While They Are at Play Has Accomplished Marvels In the Development of the Young Mind and Her Method Is Being Copied In Every Part of the Globe.

The title of "the most interesting woman in Europe" has been bestowed upon Mme. Maria Montessori, the Italian lady doctor whose system of teaching children has astonished the educational world.

She became attracted to the problem when, as assistant doctor at a Roman clinic, she noticed that feeble-minded children were herded with those who were actually insane. The sufferings of the fairly intelligent infants so impressed her that she threw up her medical work to take charge of an asylum for deficient and feeble-minded children, intending to conduct it on new principles she had thought out. The result was dramatic. One of her pupils, originally supposed to be half-witted, was sent, after her training, to the ordinary public school and passed in with higher marks than any of his companions.

This happened several times, and Mme. Montessori realized that her system must be considerably superior to the one followed by most preparatory schools. She decided to apply it to normal children, and re-entered the University of Rome for three years to supplement her knowledge. It seemed to her the whole world of children were crying for help.

In 1907, in one of the poorest districts of Rome, inhabited by the vicious and criminal, she opened her first school. To all appearance it is just a large nursery, where children either sit in little chairs or sprawl at their ease on rugs playing with wooden blocks, pieces of colored silk, buttons and other fascinating objects to the child mind.

One of them is engaged in a new and absorbing game. He has in front of him smooth pieces of cardboard on each of which is a letter in raised sandpaper. His eyes are blindfolded, which is part of the fun, and his chubby finger traces over the sandpaper outline, of which he has been told the name. He follows the outline again and again, until he hardly needs the rough surface for guidance. He is learning to write! A few days hence, when the letter is called, the muscles of his little hand will instinctively move in the right direction.

If he feels bored, which really means tired, he will tear off his bandage and ask for something else to play with. That is the whole secret of Dr. Montessori's system. She develops the infant mind naturally, encouraging it to awaken from within rather than learn from without.

Because the children are not forced and driven, they learn to love school, and come gladly, even implanting a desire for knowledge in the hearts of their parents. One day a child at home, seeing a plate of bread and butter on the table, cried out, "Rectangle," and when the mother cut off a piece with a knife the child said, "Triangle." The whole family were curious and came round to know what the words meant.

Rough and drunken parents who usually spent their evenings in wine-shops stayed at home in the evening to learn for themselves the lessons which their children brought from school. Mothers became interested in the mysteries of writing, and timidly visited the school to acquire the art themselves.

Pupils began to despise playthings because they gave no chance to exercise their reasoning faculties, but they would preserve any odd scrap of paper that contained food for thought.

Most marvellous of all was the improvement in the health of the children. They grew plump and vigorous, and looked like the offspring of healthy parents living in the country rather than mites from the heart of the slums.

A happier school never existed, and it is now being copied all over the world. Teachers of all nationalities visit Mme. Montessori to learn her system, and the Franciscan schools and orphanages propose to adopt it.

After the Messina earthquake the Franciscan nuns at Monteverde housed and cared for three hundred wild and half-civilized girl orphans who had been saved from the wrecked villages, and ultimately turned them into well-mannered young ladies. If, with all their experience, the nuns deliberately adopt a new system of education, there must be many exceptionally strong points to recommend it.

Systematic Birds.

"Doubtless," said the professor of natural history to the returned traveler, "you have picked up many strange bits of information regarding the animals and birds of the countries you have visited."

"A few," answered the traveler. "The most interesting thing I ever heard, however, was a story I got in Africa. It seems that a year or so ago a representative of a rubber stamp house went through there and lost his sample case, containing all kinds of office stamping apparatus. It appears that some ostriches found his sample case, broke it open and swallowed the samples."

"I see nothing odd about that. Ostriches will eat anything."

"Yes, but now every ostrich egg that is found there is seen to be numbered and dated!"—London Tit-Bits.

Sites of the Capital.

The capital of the United States has been located at different times at the following places: At Philadelphia from Sept. 5, 1774, to December, 1776; at Baltimore Dec. 20, 1776, to March, 1777; Philadelphia, March 4, 1777, to September, 1777; Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 27, 1777, to Sept. 30, 1777; York, Pa., Sept. 30, 1777, to July, 1778; Philadelphia, July 2, 1778, to June 30, 1783; Princeton, N. J., June 30, 1783, to Nov. 20, 1783; Annapolis, Md., Nov. 26, 1783, to Nov. 30, 1784; Trenton, N. J., from November, 1784, to January, 1785; New York, Jan. 11, 1785, to 1790. Then the seat of the government was removed to Philadelphia, where it remained until 1800, since which time it has been in Washington.

Decimated.

We speak of a city or an army being "decimated" when we mean to imply that it has suffered from many fatalities. The term is taken—and taken wrongly—from an old and barbarous custom of punishing mutinous regiments, town defenders, etc., by killing one man out of every ten ("decimus" being the Latin word for "tenth"). Thus, unless we mean that precisely one person in ten was killed, our use of "decimate" is incorrect.

Very Considerate.

"Dis ain' de same umbrella I lent you," said Uncle Rasberry.

"Cohse it ain'," replied Erastus Pinkley. "Wif all dem good umbrellas to pick f'um you didn' s'pose I were g'ineter bring you back yoh same ol' cotton rain proof, did you? When I borrows I says interest."—Washington Star.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Diet In Anaemia.

A German professor gives some valuable hints on diet which, though ostensibly for the use of anaemic women, are worthy of the attention of all housekeepers, particularly those who have to cater to growing girls. He says that anaemia is the result, more frequently than not, of a badly chosen dietary, and says that the trouble can be averted—and even cured—by the persistent eating of spinach, lentils, limes, black currants and of all fruits and vegetables containing iron. Another splendid article of diet for such women, declared to be infallible by some doctors, is marrow. The contents of a marrowbone taken daily on toast are said to be the most blood making of food.

SCIENTIFIC FAIRYLAND.

Some of the Wonders Wrought by the Use of Liquid Air.

Professor H. H. Turner has been introducing British children to a new fairyland—the fairyland of science—in the rooms of the Royal institution in London. He demonstrates phenomena that are more entertaining than any tricks of magic, because they are not only marvelous and picturesque, but real.

For example, one day recently he introduced the children to liquid air and showed them some of the wonders that can be wrought with it. He poured liquid air from one of Sir James Dewar's vacuum vessels upon water and cast the beams of a powerful light upon it. A dense layer of white clouds rose from the surface, and the children were invited to waft this away with fans. As the clouds rolled back the water was seen to be scattered with small floating cups of ice, each containing a few drops of liquid air rapidly boiling away and liberating oxygen. The professor's assistant held a splinter of glowing wood over one of the ice cups and the oxygen that rose from this caused the wood to burst into flame.

Professor Turner also repeated the familiar experiment of the pendulum, which enabled the children actually to watch the earth "go round."—New York World.

Placing the Minor Planets.

The discovery of minor planets still goes on apace. During the year ended June 30, 1913, sixty-seven of these bodies were given provisional numbers, though five of these subsequently proved to be old members of the asteroid family. Of the remainder, nineteen were discovered at Heidelberg, seven at Johannesburg, nine at Neuchatel, eleven at Simeis, three at Vienna and thirteen at Winchester. All minor planets from No. 1 to 727 have now been named.

VILLAGES ARE DESTROYED BY VIOLENT EARTHQUAKE

Fifty Persons Are Killed at Linera, Sicily ---Enormous Damage

Canadian Press Despatch.

Catania, Sicily, May 9. — A violent earthquake of the magnitude approaching that of six years ago, has spread destruction among a dozen villages in this vicinity. Linera and Consentini were transformed into a heap of ruins. At Zafferana every house was destroyed and enormous damage was done in the hamlets of Santa Maria, Ammalati, Carico, Guardia, Mangano, Santa Tecla, Bongiardo and Santa Maria, Vergine and Catena.

Fifty persons were killed at Linera and twenty more bodies are being taken from the ruins at Ammalati, Bongiardo and Passo Pomo.

Catania, May 9.—City authorities are doing everything possible to aid the afflicted inhabitants. All soldiers in the district are at work removing dead bodies and extricating the living who are imprisoned in the ruins. Along the roads from one village to another, the scene of desolation is heartrending. Groups of people are seen carrying improvised litters bearing injured and dying relatives to places where doctors have started temporary surgical stations. About Santa Venerina, the number of injured is very great. All available automobiles have been commandeered and all nurses in the neighborhood have been mobilized, and are assisting in gathering the homeless and orphan children into temporary shelters.

Death List 100.

Rome, May 9.—Reports hitherto received from the earthquake disaster in Catania vicinity indicate a death list of one hundred, with several hundred injured.

ALL FARMERS DO NOT COMPLY WITH BY-LAW

Many Names Are Missing From The Baskets

FOWL NOT WEIGHED

Saturday number two has passed and still the market by-law looks like a joke. According to this law, fowl must be sold by weight, but a Review scribe asked four or five farmers the weight of fowl they had for sale, and all they could give was a rough guess. The same thing applies to the regulation of having the farmer's name on the produce. About seven or eight out of the large number have adhered to the decree. One gentleman who had his name on eggs claimed that the farmers have no cause to complain unless they are ashamed of their goods. If a lady sells good butter, why it will assist her in her trade, but if she has butter that is little better than oleomargarine, well, she'll be blacklisted. In this respect, he thought the law would tend to make the farmers a trifle more particular.

A funny thing about this law is that there is no attempt to enforce it. Sanitary Inspector Spence informed The Review that he could confiscate all the fowl on the market, but he did not take any action this morning.

AUTO ASSOCIATION TO HOLD MEETING

Addresses by President Doolittle of O.M.L. and Mr. Peck.

A meeting of the chairmen of the various committees of the Auto Association was recently held and a programme outlined for the summer. Various interesting outings were proposed for the entertainment of the members, an outline of which will be given later. A strong committee with Dr. Sutton at its head, will canvass for membership, and it is expected that each auto owner will show his appreciation of the services of the O. M. L. by becoming a member of the local association. On Tuesday evening, 19th inst., a rally of members and those interested will be held in Bank of Montreal Chambers. Addresses will be delivered by President Doolittle, of Toronto, E. A. Peck, M.L.A., and several local men.

Mark the date on your calendar, and attend this interesting meeting.

AUTOMOBILE ROUTE EXCLUSIVELY FOR AUTOS AT LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY

Peterboro and visiting autoists will be glad to learn that the undertaking to provide an automobile route around the Little Lake Cemetery, is progressing favorably and when the work is completed, automobiles will be allowed in the cemetery and this auto way will be used exclusively by automobiles.

It will be sufficiently wide for large cars, and turnouts will be provided to permit of passing. The route will circle the cemetery.

It will be some time before the work is completed but local autoists say it is something that will be worth waiting for.

The Company is also constructing a new fence, which will greatly enhance the general appearance.

COUNTY MAGISTRATE EDMISON GIVES JUDGMENT BEARING ON TRANSIENT TRADERS BY-LAW

NOMINAL FINE IMPOSED ON DEFENDANT

The following is the judgment given by Magistrate Edmison to-day in the case of Village of Havelock vs. Boardman for a breach of the Transient Traders' By-law:

Havelock vs. Boardman.

In this case the complaint is laid by the Village Constable against the defendant under By Law No. 237, entitled a by law to license transient traders.

The first section of the by-law provides that no transient trader or other person whose name has not been duly entered on the assessment roll in respect of income or business assessment for the then current year shall offer goods or merchandise for sale in the village without having obtained a license to do so, but on the evidence I find as a fact that the defendant's name had been duly entered on the assessment roll for the current year, in respect of business assessment when the alleged breach of the by-law was committed, although the assessment roll had not at the time been returned, he is therefore not liable to be convicted under section 1 of the by-law.

Section 2 of the by-law provides that no transient trader who is not entered upon the assessment roll or who may be entered thereon for the first time shall offer goods or merchandise for sale without having paid the license fee mentioned in section 5, and the third section declares that the words "transient trader" whenever they occur in the by-law shall extend to and include any person commencing in the municipality of Havelock, the business in the preceding sections, numbered 1 and 2 mentioned, who has not resided continuously in the said municipality for a period of at least three months next preceding the time of the commencement by him of such business therein, and the business mentioned in the preceding sections, number 1 and 2, is the offering of goods and merchandise for sale in the said municipality, and the defendant, who hearing, admitted that on or about the fourteenth of March, 1914, he commenced business and did offer goods and merchandise for sale in the said municipality, and that he had no license to do so. He also admitted that at the time he so commenced the said business he had not resided continuously in the said municipality for three months next preceding the commencement by him of the said business. I must therefore find under section 3 of the by-law that he was a transient trader offering goods and merchandise for sale without a license, for although I find as a fact that his name had been duly entered on the assessment roll, I find also that it was for the first time, and under section 2 I am of opinion that he committed a breach of the by-law and I therefore convict him of the same. The business he commenced in respect of which he is convicted was maker and repairer of harness, and in connection therewith he kept a few whips and curry combs for sale, was what constituted the breach of the by-law. If he had resided continuously in the village for three months or more next preceding the commencement of such business, the offering of such goods for sale would not have been a breach of the by-law, his name having been duly entered on the assessment roll for the current year, and the offence of which he is convicted is by no means of a serious character, and as under the by-law I have a discretion regarding the penalty to be imposed, more than a nominal fine. I will therefore impose a fine of only one dollar and $4.70 costs, to be paid within ten days and in default of payment the same to be levied by distress and sale of the defendant's goods and in default of sufficient distress then imprisonment in the common gaol for five days unless said fine and costs together with the costs of his commitment be sooner paid. was examined as a witness on the Dated this 9th day of May, 1914.

CHERRY BLOSSOM TIME.

It's cherry blossom time in Otonabee. Mr. D. Thompson of that township was in the city to-day and showed The Review several twigs from one of his cherry trees which were in blossom. The warm weather of the past few days undoubtedly helped to bring out the tiny flowers, which are very rarely seen the first week in May.

Woodstock and Stratford Look Their Best as Royal Visitors Enter

STRATFORD, Ont., May 9. — A right royal welcome was accorded to the Duke of Connaught, Princess Patricia and their suite on their arrival here at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The royal party remained here for three hours, leaving at six o'clock for New Hamburg, where they spent the night and received the official welcome of the municipality before proceeding to Berlin.

Mayor Stephenson welcomed the party on behalf of the city. In his reply the duke referred to a visit which his brother, the late King Edward paid to the city when he was Prince of Wales.

From the city hall the visitors proceeded to Avon School, where the duke laid the cornerstone with a beautifully engraved silver trowel, which afterwards was presented to him by Dr. J. A. Botbwell.

WOODSTOCK, May 9.—The finest of weather, a city looking its best and a crowd of 20,000 people who cheered themselves hoarse greeted H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia here yesterday. The duke and party arrived here at 10 o'clock over the G.T.R. from Beachville. They were greeted at the station by Mayor Hobson, the city councillors and their wives, Lieut.-Col. McMullen, commanding the 22nd Regiment, Lieut.-Col. White, a guard of honor, commanded by Capt. W. J. Taylor, and a troop of Boy Scouts under Scoutmaster S. A. Johnston.

At Beachville, where the train stopped over night, the citizens turned out en masse to greet the royal visitors just before the train left for Woodstock. One hundred school children, led by mounted marshals, paraded to the station, sang patriotic songs, and waved Union Jacks.

LADY ABERDEEN AGAIN HEADS COUNCIL OF WOMEN

Mrs. Harriet S. Sanford, of Hamilton, is Treasurer of the International Organization and Mrs. Willoughby Cummings is President of Committee on Finance—Countess Had Hoped to Retire.

ROME, May 9.—The Countess of Aberdeen yesterday was re-elected president of the International Council of Women. Her re-election was almost unanimous. The countess will hold office for five years. Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Eliot, Maine, was re-elected honorary president.

Among the other officers chosen yesterday were: Mme. Jules Siegfried, France, first vice-president; Froken Henni Forchhammer, Denmark, second vice-president; Mrs. Henry Dobson, Tasmania, third vice-president; Fraulein Dr. Alice Saloman, Germany, corresponding secretary; Mme. Alphen Salvador, France, recording secretary, and Mrs. Harriet Sophia Sanford, Hamilton, Ont., treasurer. Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, Toronto, was elected president of the committee on finance.

When the announcement of her re-election was made the Countess of Aberdeen delivered an address to the assembly. She said she had hoped a woman of another nationality would relieve her of the responsibilities of the office of president of the council. The members of her family, she added, desired her to abandon the trying position, and she had only consented to be a candidate for re-election when she was unanimously requested to do so. The countess said she doubted if the council had done the best thing it could have done by re-electing her, but that, nevertheless, she would continue her work, putting her whole heart into it. In concluding, she expressed her thanks for the confidence that again had been reposed in her.

Mrs. Sewall also addressed the assembly and thanked the council for her re-election as honorary president. She held the attention of the officers and delegates as she dwelt on the international character of the work being done by the National Council, which, she said, gradually was making for an era of international sisterhood.

PETERBORO TO GET TRADE FROM NORTH

The Lindsay Post fears that Peterboro is to get some of Lindsay's trade, because of some changes on the C. P. R. The Post says:

This train will return in the afternoon.

BASS FRY TO BE PLACED IN CLEAR AND STONEY LAKES

Inspector to Report on Fish Hatchery for the Lakes

Bass fry will be placed in the waters of Clear and Stoney Lake, and immediate action will be taken along this line, by the Department at Toronto.

This is a reply to the request of the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association, and no doubt this news, which is given with authority, will be hailed with delight.

Regarding the request of the Board of Trade, for a fish hatchery at Stoney Lake, the department is sending an inspector, with instructions to make a report, and on this report the department will decide if the situation warrants the work at Mount Pleasant hatchery, being supplemented by providing another hatchery at Stoney Lake.

The undertaking cannot, however, be carried out this year, as there has been no money voted for the work.

Mr. E. A. Peck has given his assistance to the Association, and the Board of Trade and satisfaction will be felt at the outcome.

Identifying Himself.

One of the guests at a wedding, seeing a dismal-looking young man who appeared to be on terms of familiarity with the principals, asked:

"Are you related to the bride or to the bridegroom-elect?"

"No," was the gloomy reply.

"Then," said the guest, "what interest have you in the ceremony?"

"Well," replied the young man, "I'm the defeated candidate."—Ladies' Home Journal.

GRATIFYING PROGRESS IS SHOWN IN Y.W.C.A. BY ANNUAL REPORTS

Association Has Membership of 236—Departments Are Growing

Miss Peacock to Take Office of Secretary on June 15th

The reports submitted at the annual meeting of the Y.W.C.A. last evening were received with great enthusiasm as all of them showed the institution to be in a state of prosperity. The good work carried on by the ladies interested in the work, was received with favor by the large audience, which packed the lecture hall of the building. The secretary's report submitted by Mrs. Stevenson reviewed in detail the work carried out during the year, while the financial statement presented by Miss Morrow showed the institution to be in excellent standing financially. Miss Dickson, president, occupied the chair, and in some well chosen remarks congratulated the various heads of the work's branches.

236 Members.

The reports showed that there were 236 members of the association. The Rev. J. R. Webb conducted the devotional portion of the meeting. The ladies elected to the board of directors follow: Mesdames Walsh, Stevenson, Nugent, Cressman, Hill, R. R. Hall, Robert Nell, Middleton, Chisholm, Gardner, V. Eastwood, Roger, Scott, Schurter, Kendry, R. Turner, Huycke, Morrison, Denham and Misses Ferguson, Dickson, Morrow and Wood, Weir, Jessie Hall, Rush, and the president of the girls' auxiliary, who has not been appointed as yet. From the list of directors the board will elect officers at its next meeting.

The New Secretary.

It was announced at the meeting that Miss Agnes Peacock, who has been appointed secretary of the association, will report on June 15. Miss Peacock has had wide experience in the work, being identified with the educational department at Toronto for some time. Compliments were paid to Miss Belts of Tilsonburg who has been acting temporarily, for the manner in which she has conducted the duties of that important office.

During the evening, Miss Drummond of Toronto, addressed the meeting. She spoke on the work being carried out by the Y.W.C.A. and the great good it is doing.

Refreshments were served in the green room after the meeting, while the program which was supplied was very delightful. Miss Weir's recitation was excellent, while Miss Richardson rendered a vocal number which was very pleasing. A violin solo by Miss Logan was received with much favor, the playing of Miss Logan displaying excellent technique and tonal qualities. A piano duet by the Misses McKee was very good and the contributors were loudly applauded.

Searchers Cannot Find Third Boat From Columbian

New York, May 9.—No trace of the missing third lifebot of the steamship Columbian, with the first and second officers and 17 of the crew aboard, burned at sea last Sunday, was found by the White Star steamer Adriatic, which arrived here last night. The Adriatic was 233 miles distant from the scene when notified at noon on May 6 by Captain D. S. Miller, of the Franconia, which had picked up one of the boats, that another boat might still be in the vicinity of the wreck. Captain John Mathias, of the Adriatic, changed his course, and arrived on the scene at midnight.

A double lookout was posted and a search for the boat was maintained throughout the night. There was a strong wind, rain and a heavy sea, and it was impossible to say that the boat was not in the vicinity, Captain Mathias said, but it could not be located, and soon after dawn the Adriatic resumed its journey, arriving in this port many hours late.

PETTY THIEVING AT RICE LAKE POINTS

Cobourg, May 9.—During the winter months some parties at Rice Lake make a practice of entering the summer cottages there and taking everything removable. Some time during the past month Messrs. Field's cottage at Round Island, and the cottage of Chas. Brown, of Roseneath were entered. At Field's Cottage articles of wearing apparel, cutlery, bedding, cooking utensils, paddles, tools, etc., were taken, and similar articles at Mr. Brown's. Mr. Brown's boathouse at Dunnet's Landing was also broken into and paddles taken. This petty thieving has been going on at cottages on Rice Lake year after year, and it is time either the Provincial or Counties' police took the matter up and have it stopped.

GALLEY SLAVE THAT SHOOK THE NATION

"The Galley Slave that Shook the Nation," was the subject of an inspiring and interesting address by Rev. H. J. Keith, of Knox Church, to the members of the Protestant Benevolent Federation last evening, in the S. O. E. Hall. A musical programme was also rendered. Those who assisted in the evening's enjoyment were: Messrs. Foster, Naish, Miller, Stanford, Thorpe, Brown, James, Moynes, James, Winsor, and others.

The talented playing of the Saxaphone trio, Messrs. Brown, Moynes and James, was one of the hits of the evening, and called for repeated encores.

WEAR THE WHITE CARNATION.

TO-MORROW, Sunday, May 10th, is Mother's Day. The emblem is a white carnation worn in honour of the wearer's mother. Whether she has ceased from her labours or still lives to bless her children with a ministering kindness, wear the white carnation to-morrow. Seas may separate, vast areas of rolling plains or snow-capped mountain ranges may separate you from the mother who nursed and cared for you, but she will be pleased that the son or daughter, strong in manly vigor or glowing in the beauty and freshness of youth, was not ashamed of the kindly old woman. She may be stooped, and wrinkled, she may have lost the vigor and beauty of her youth, but still she loves her children with as great and nourishing a tenderness as the sunbeam has for the naive, pure face of the emblem of her devotion.

Youth fades; love droops; the leaves of friendship fall;
A mother's secret hope outlives them all.

MORE ABOUT CIGARETTES.

THE INVESTIGATION into the cigarette evil moves on apace and is daily bringing to light new facts.

That tobacco dealers be segragated and subjected to license regulations the same as hotels, and that tobacco packages be labelled with a statement of the analysis as to the percentage of nicotine contained, were suggestions made to the cigarette committee of the house, by Dr. Lemieux, sheriff of Montreal. After reading a medical paper as to the effect of nicotine on the system, Sheriff Lemieux stated that of 2,500 delinquents before the juvenile court last year, 80 per cent. used cigarettes; of girls up to 16 committed to the Good Shepherd's home, 10 per cent. used cigarettes; in the federal jail 90 per cent. were cigarette smokers, and in the common jail nearly every prisoner had used tobacco in some form. He did not consider a moderate use of tobacco harmful. He would make it an offense liable to cancellation of license where a dealer was convicted three times of selling cigarettes to boys and girls, and advocated a central bureau at Ottawa with branches outside to disseminate knowledge as to the evil effects of cigarettes. In his experience in the jails and reformatories, the two great causes of crime were liquor and cigarettes.

Dr. Lemieux believed that the remedy against the cigarette evil consisted more in education and regulation than in any attempt at prohibition of the manufacture and sale.

Dr. R. Bruce Smith, of Toronto, appeared before the Broder Committee and stated he was opposed to further prohibitory laws in regard to smoking, for, if a youth wanted to smoke, laws would not prevent him. The doctor thought that the way to deal with youthful cigarette smokers was through children's welfare bureaus and similar organizations and also stated that smoking by adults was no more harmful than tea drinking. Moral reformers will likely be shocked at Dr. Smith's evidence, but the fact remains that the evidence before the committee is already sufficient to warrant more stringent supervision of the sale of cigarettes to the young.

CAREFUL OF THE PEOPLE'S MONEY!

THE BORDEN GOVERNMENT is taking good care of the money invested in public works, as is well in evidence in the negotiations for the purchase of the site of Toronto's new post office. The total asked by the owners amounted to $1,648,884; the Government offered $719,462; and Judge Cassels awarded $928,457. Thus it will be seen that the Borden Government had taken good care of the interests of the public, as is proved by its having to pay $218,995 more than it offered. No middleman was allowed to come in and take a big rake off. A sum of $720,387 was saved to the Canadian people—a credit to the Conservative Government and a contrast to methods adopted on the G.T.P. and T.V.C.

A PARTIZAN ATTACK.

THE LONDON ADVERTISER charges the Borden Government with inconsistency in recouping depositors of the Farmers' Bank and refusing to do so for those of the Dale Bank. The Advertiser shows much ignorance of the facts or else a regrettable and weak attempt at partizan distortion. The Farmers' Bank was given a certificate by the last Liberal Finance Minister in spite of various warnings from high authorities as to the unsoundness of the venture. The Farmers' Bank was a chartered bank and the Dale bank was not. Mr. Fielding made the Government responsible to a considerable degree by chartering it, and, to discharge this responsibility, Mr. White has proposed to reimburse depositors for their loss. The Government was under no similar obligation to the Dale Bank which was a private concern. Depositors in it knew that quite well and took the consequent risk. There was no bad precedent established. The Conservative Government was not inconsistent. The Advertiser has failed to prove its assertion and stands charged itself with the crime of inconsistency.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY has returned to his office. The Liberal press should now be able to sleep o' nights.

THE GRITS STARTED IT.

TORONTO SATURDAY NIGHT takes a crack at Mr. G. Howard Ferguson for his attack on Mr. Rowell and alleges that Mr. Ferguson's methods have operated to lower the standard of discussion in the Ontario Legislature. Saturday Night apparently forgets Mr. Rowell's attack on Mr. Ferguson. The Liberal opposition were fond of speaking about the whitewash for Mr. Ferguson as they termed the Bill of Indemnity. This Bill, which simply re-enacted a clause that had been passed by the Liberal-Ross Government and which had been accidentally left out of the statute when it was revised, was small ground for the abuse that Liberal members heaped on Mr. Ferguson. So when it was learned that Mr. Rowell had received pay for acting as legal adviser to the Oka Indians who were wards of the Dominion Government, some Conservative members took advantage of the opportunity to assail Mr. Rowell, who necessarily occupied the same position as Mr. Ferguson did. Tit for tat, according to Saturday Night is not fair play. The Toronto Weekly evidently would favor the Grits criticizing Mr. Ferguson on a basis which they would deny to Conservatives. No good was accomplished by Mr. Rowell's or Mr. Ferguson's bitter attacks on each other, but since they were begun by Liberals, the blame rests with them.

OLD NEWSPAPERS.

A RECENT ARTICLE in the Toronto Globe brought out much information about old copies of the Sacred Book. Ontario has been found to be rich in old Bibles, some of which date back to the fifteenth century, the oldest one being printed in Germany. But old Bibles are not the only curio that interests the lovers of books. The other evening, Mr. Williams, of Boswell Avenue, showed us a copy of the first Sunday newspaper, the Observer, which was started in 1791. The paper was first sold at eight pence a copy, the price which was also charged for the Weekly Dispatch.

The copy Mr. Williams has was date April 13th, 1800, and the price was six pence a copy, showing that the price of the paper had dropped two pence since its first publication. The result of the high price of newspapers in those days was that the average person could not afford to buy one, but used to pay for the hire of one. A line at the bottom of the fourth page states that the paper is printed by John Desmond, in the Strand, where advertisements, etc., are taken in. It has a four column page of very small close-set type, no black face letters being used in its make-up. Its appearance shows a striking similarity to English newspapers of the present time, and illustrates the conservatism of the English press.

The news in it is under the head of such captions as foreign intelligence, East Indian intelligence, country intelligence, extraordinary intelligence. One of the dispatches states very briefly that the first Consul of the Republic has appointed Mr. Carnot, Minister of War, and is signed Bonaparte. Another dispatch states that a printer in Paris is in disgrace for publishing the likeness of Bonaparte with this inscription, "The second Alexander on transparent paper." It is also stated that the Turks are preparing transports to convey the French troops to Egypt. Those were the days of Nelson, Napoleon and Wellington, when all Europe was engaged in war. Another item throws light on the Administration of law a century ago. Thus, several men were sentenced to death for forgery for uttering Bank of England notes. Henry Long, the paper states, who was sentenced to death for uttering a five-pound note, knowing it to have been forged, was in possession of considerable property acquired in business from which he some years since retired. It would seem that the said Henry Long was sentenced to death for trying to palm-off a forged bank bill. Another item states that the planet Mercury is now visible, doubtless a newsy and interesting piece of extraordinary intelligence. A glance over the advertising columns shows that patent medicines were much in vogue one hundred years ago. Thus we notice Dr. Volney's Vegetable Lozenges, under the head of Spring Physic; Newton's Restorative and a Preventive against plagues and fevers. Another advertisement puts forth the advantages of a Dancing Academy, artificial hair is also advertised, as well as ruled account books and a school for indigent blind. When one considers the colored wigs that ladies of to-day are wearing, as well as the large manufacture of patent medicines and the use of dancing schools, one is constrained to think, that after all, times are not so very different to-day from those in 1800 when Napoleon was disturbing the peace of the civilized world.

THE C.N.R. DEBATE.

MONDAY OR TUESDAY will see the opening of the debate on the C.N.R. resolution. In the meantime both sides are preparing their case and the Opposition is fairly deluged with information. Mr. R. B. Bennett and Mr. W. F. Nickle, the two dissenting Conservatives, are spending considerable time in the library these days, and it is understood will have suggestions or amendments to be incorporated in the proposed agreement. Their speeches will consequently be awaited with some considerable interest. Members of the Government have been amused at the assiduity with which the Liberal press has been circulating reports of alleged changes and amendments in the resolution upon which the agreement will be based. The facts are that the agreement has not been changed since first brought down in any particular.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WE OBSERVE that London papers are showing a skeptical attitude to Col. Roosevelt's find of a new river. They agree with us.

GUELPH REPORTS total building permits for the year to date as $245,000 as against $164,000 a year ago, while in Stratford building permits for the month of April alone were $151,000. This does not look like hard times and our Western Ontario friends are entitled to congratulate themselves on their good showing.

THE BYSTANDER

By Walt Mason

I stand at my window alone, and look at the people go by, pursuing the shimmering bone, which is so elusive and shy. Pursuing the beckoning plunk, and no one can make them believe that roubles and kopecks are junk, vain baubles got up to deceive. Their faces are haggard and sad, from weariness often they reel, pursuing the succulent scad, pursuing the wandering wheel. And many are there in the throng who have all the money they need, and still they go racking along, inspired by the demon of greed. "To put some more bucks in the chest," they sigh, as they toil, "would be grand;" the beauty and blessing of rest is something they don't understand. We struggle and strain all our years, and wear out our bodies and brains, and when we are stretched on our biers, what profit we then by our pains? The lawyers come down with a whoop, and rake in our bundle of scrip, and plaster a lien on the coop before our poor orphans can yip. I stand at m ywindow again, and see the poor folks as they trail, pursuing the yammering yen, pursuing the conquering kale; and sorrow is filling my breast, regret that the people won't know the infinite blessing or rest, that solace for heartache and woe.

Birthdays of Note

SATURDAY, MAY NINTH

This is the natal day of President George C. Creelman, head of the Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph, and one of the foremost agricultural educationalists in America. He was born in Collingwood forty-five years ago and was among the first students of the institution over which he now presides. On graduation he went to the United States, where he became a professor in the Mississippi Agricultural College. Returning to Canada in 1897 he was made superintendent of farmers' institutes, a position which he filled most acceptably owing to the geniality of his character. He was appointed to his present position just ten years ago. Big, jovial, whole-souled, he is the life of any party in which he is included, and through his abundant energy he is doing much for the improvement of Canadian agriculture.

Also born to-day:—

Hon. W. A. Charlton, Toronto, born New York State, 1841.

W. S. Dingman, Stratford, born Lambton County, 1859.

D. W. Robb, Amherst, N. S., born Amherst, 1856.

SUNDAY, MAY TENTH

James William Tyrrell, second of the three Tyrrell brothers whose explorations in Northern Canada have been of great value to the country, was born fifty-one years ago to-day in Weston, Ont. He is by profession a civil engineer and on graduation became topographer of the Geological Survey of Canada. In 1885 he joined the Hudson Bay expedition as hydrographer and since then with his brother, J. B. Tyrrell, he has been pretty well all over the interior of Northern Canada. The results of his journeys have been published in a book, the contents of which make exceedingly interesting reading. He now resides in Hamilton, where he carries on the business of a civil engineer.

Also born to-day:—

Mahlon K. Cowan, Toronto, born Blytheswood, Ont., 1863.

S. H. Ewing, Montreal, born Londonderry, Ireland, 1834.

Society Woman a Candidate For State Senator of Colorado.

MRS. JAMES J. BROWN.

Colorado is to witness an interesting campaign for the office of state senator. Mrs. James J. Brown, prominent in Newport and Denver society, is the candidate in opposition to Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson. Mrs. Brown is a survivor of the Titanic disaster.

While Denver is her home, she has of late years spent much time in the east. Her niece, whom she chaperoned, was recently married to William J. Harper, Jr., of New York, and since then she has felt she had more leisure to devote to personal and public affairs.

Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson became widely known through the fact that she was the first woman elected to the office of state senator. She is a good public speaker and has lectured throughout the country. In the senate she gave her attention to a bill intended to ameliorate the condition of women and children—a field in which the woman legislator may find much opportunity for usefulness.

Appreciation of Cats.

Cats have many sins for which to answer, but some of them should be forgotten for a little while in recognition of the act done by one wise and faithful cat in a suburb of another city, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Some time ago this animal awakened its master from a sound sleep by its persistent pawing. On getting his eyes open the man instantly realized that his house was on fire. Having time to check the flames, he finally put them out.

There is no doubt that cats vary much in disposition and intelligence. Some resemble dogs very much in their faithfulness, while others, like the cats in Kipling's "Just So" story, like to "walk by themselves" and are not interested in people.

The suburban cat is not always appreciated by neighbors who love birds and who see in the feline only a bitter enemy of bird life. When one loves both cat and birds it is hard to reconcile such a viewpoint. One way to help matters is to keep pussy in the house every night during nesting time, for there are more depredations during the night than in the daytime.

Dishwashing Problems.

That dishwashing problem, we all know, is always with us! Labor may be saved by wiping greasy plates with a piece of paper before putting them in the water. If the plates are scraped with a knife before putting them in the dishpan a lot of unnecessary washing can be saved.

In cleaning forks, which are really awkward things, for so much lodges between the prongs, a stiff brush is preferable to a cloth, and in drying glasses a warmed cloth gives excellent results.

These may seem trifling matters, and perhaps they are, but they save both time and labor—and temper, too, sometimes.

Saucepan covers are often hung up exposed to the air and, where gas is used, to fumes which have a discoloring effect. The result is a great deal of unnecessary polishing and cleaning, which might all be avoided if the covers were inclosed in calico bags or even in paper covers, cut to shape and pasted together so that they could be easily slipped on and off. The frequent burnishing by this simple method would be avoided.

Lighting a Fire.

A capital way to light a fire quickly if sticks of wood are not obtainable is to put a few pieces of newspaper at the bottom of grate and soak a few lumps of coke for a minute or two with kerosene. Place these on the paper and apply a match. The flame will be found to "get hold" immediately and in a very few minutes there will be quite a good fire.

Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

A safe, reliable regulating medicine. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, $1; No. 2, $3; No. 3, $5 per box. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Free pamphlet. Address: THE COOK MEDICINE CO. TORONTO, ONT. (Formerly Windsor.)

WAKEFUL BABIES

If your baby does not sleep, if he is cross, cries a great deal and will not be comforted, that is the time to give him Baby's Own Tablets. They promote sleep—not the drugged unnatural kind obtained through the use of "soothing" mixtures, but that refreshing natural sleep of the healthy child. The Tablets banish all stomach and bowel complaints—the direct cause of crossness and sleeplessness. Concerning them Mrs. E. Medras, Grand Bois, Que., says: "When I began using Baby's Own Tablets baby was so troubled with constipation he would not sleep day or night. Now all this trouble has vanished and he is a strong healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Bachelor's Proposal.

"I heard today the statement that among every 1,000 bachelors there are thirty-eight criminals, while among married men the ratio is only 18 per 1,000," said the sweet young thing.

"Would you," he said, looking wistfully at the girl, "would you keep me from being a criminal, or at least get me in the 18 per 1,000 class?"—Yonkers Statesman.

World's Tallest Building.

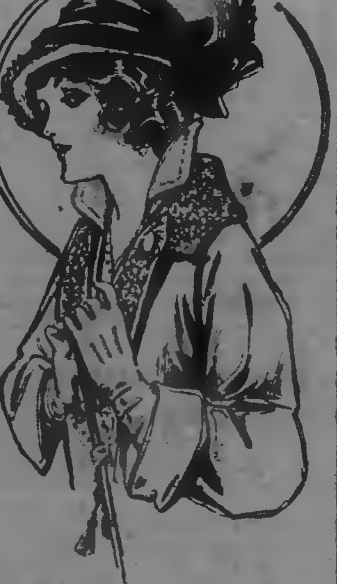
Plans have recently been filed with the bureau of buildings, New York, for an office building which on its completion will be the tallest in the world, reaching a maximum height of 804 feet 6 inches. The structure is proposed to be built on the block bounded by Broadway, Eighth avenue, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets. It will be fifty-one stories high, with basement and subbasement. The facade will be of brick and light stone, and the design will be ornamental, following broadly the Gothic style. The building is to be built by the Pan-American States association, and the tower is to be surmounted by an allegorical figure representing the association. The estimated cost is $12,500,000.

The average man's idea of a charming woman is one who gives him to understand that he is quite the nicest man in all the world.



THE FLARE IN NEW HATS.

It is a rule of the present fashions that hats flare decidedly in some part of them and here is one of the little plaque shapes that shows how attractive is the upward turning back brim when it is softened with trimming in ribbon or flowers. There are so many sorts of tilts that one is sure to find just the becoming sort and be fashionable at the same time.

Cooking Points

About Ham.

Baked ham keeps better than boiled ham, and what is left from the first meal may be served cold or form the ingredient in some other savory dish for a later day.

Baked corned ham is a novelty. Soak the ham in water overnight. In the morning take a brush and scrub it and pare the bare side until meat and fat look red and white. Then use vinegar to wash it with. When it drains lay with the skin side down in a roasting pan. Make a thick paste of flour and water and cover the pared side with this. Mix together a half cupful of vinegar, a cupful of cold water, a tablespoonful each of molasses and onion juice. Pour this around the ham. Cover the pan closely and bake, allowing half an hour to each pound after the water becomes hot. Baste several times with the liquid in the pan. When done take out of the oven and scrape off the paste. Then instantly dust with cracker crumbs to stop the flow of the juice. Then set back in the oven to brown.

Orange Custard Pudding.

To make this pudding take a quart of milk, allow it to heat over the fire, but not to boil. Put the lightly beaten yolks of five eggs and the whites of two and four ounces of sugar into it. Take from the fire and stir well, adding the well grated rind of an orange. Pour into a buttered pudding dish. Put this in a pan of boiling water in the oven and bake. Beat the whites of three eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar to a stiff froth and when the pudding is done and has been removed from the oven spread this froth over and return to the oven for two or three minutes to harden.

Orange Sauce.—Take five tablespoonfuls of butter and rub them into a cupful of granulated sugar. Take a saucepan and put the sugar into it, adding a cupful of boiling water, the juice of two oranges, the juice of half a lemon and the whites of three eggs. Beat until it is foamy and then serve.

Apple and Nut Meringue.

To prepare this dish wash, halve and core some baking apples. Place in a rather deep baking dish, and into each half put a dot of butter, teaspoonful or more of sugar, depending upon the acidity of the apple, one-half cupful of water. Bake slowly. If apples are not good bakers stew covered on top of stove until tender, then place in the oven to brown slightly. Beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth, beat in one-half cupful of sugar, cover the apples and sprinkle over top broken nut meats and shredded cocoanut. Lightly brown in the oven.

Celery With Hollandaise.

Boiled celery with hollandaise sauce can be made into a delicious entree and served as a separate course. The bunches should be washed as carefully as possible without separating the stalks. They are then tied to preserve their shape while boiling. Small, tender bunches require almost an hour's cooking. To serve split each bunch in half, which is a single portion, and serve with hollandaise sauce made from the water in which the celery has boiled, as this strengthens the vegetable flavor.

A Pudding Economy.

Sometimes the housewife has two or three scraps of different puddings left over.

Take a fork and break and mix them well together, put them into a clean pie dish, make about a pint of custard, mix half of this with the cold pudding and pour the rest over the top. Bake in a slow oven.

Cakemaking Hint.

To bake a cake well and with very little trouble have two cake tins the same shape and size. Put the cake mixture into one tin and place the other over it so that the rims meet. The cake rises better, as the cooler air caused by opening the oven door is not allowed to penetrate.

Baked Apples.

When baking apples cut through the rind all round just a little way from the stem before putting the apples in the oven. The apples will keep their proper shape without bursting, and the cut part will not show when they are placed on the dish.

Kippered Herring.

After the herring are cleaned rinse in warm water, dry and put on tin or agate plate in hot oven fifteen minutes; then pour on a little melted butter, cover and leave in five minutes more. They should be served on pieces of toast.

Worth Knowing.

Beef suet is used not nearly as much as it might be. Doughnuts fried in it are not greasy like those fried in lard and are much nicer. Beefsteak fried in suet is also better than that fried in butter, the suet making a richer gravy.

To Prevent Burning.

When you are making a thick soup or cooking any starchy food in a saucepan the best way to prevent its burning or boiling over is to bring it to the boil on the top of the stove, then cover and finish cooking in the oven.

A TRAP FOR MARINERS.

Salmadina Bank, Off Colombia's Coast, Is a Perilous Shoal.

One of the most dangerous places for navigation is the Salmadina bank, which lies just outside the harbor of Cartagena, Colombia. Many vessels have come to grief on the treacherous sands of Salmadina in the past, and because of the impossibility of keeping buoys on it the shoal is a constant menace to ships plying those waters.

This dangerous bank is about four miles long and two miles wide. There is scarcely more than twelve feet of water over it at any time. The sea is usually smooth in that part of the Caribbean, and unless there is ground swell enough to cause waves to break on the reef there is nothing to warn the navigator that he is approaching this shallow spot. He may have his lead going and get plenty of water one minute and be bang up on the shoal the next.

The lighthouse people will probably never be able to put buoys on Salmadina that will stay there. They are invariably carried away in the terrific hurricanes that periodically sweep these waters. So it seems as if Salmadina was a bad spot put there for the permanent worriment of shipmasters.—New York Sun.

Penalties For Sabbath Breaking.

Sabbath breaking in Dundee was an expensive business in former times, to judge by the table of fines, etc., drawn up by the local Guild of Bonnetmakers in 1665. For traveling or drinking in a tavern on Sunday the fine was fixed at 40 shillings for each offense. For "hanging out bonnets, clothing or fish to dry—penalty for bonnets, 6s. 8d.; for clothes, 4 shillings; for fish, 3 shillings. Carrying water from the well or washing meat thereat in time of sermon, penalty, 8 shillings; gathering kail in time of sermon, penalty, 5 shillings; going to neighbors' houses in time of sermon without lawful excuse, such as sickness, penalty for first fault, 12 shillings, and for second twice as much, with rebuke before the craft, and for the third, summons before the kirk session."—London Chronicle.

China's Millions.

Any figures for the population of China must necessarily be more or less unreliable, inasmuch as the census man is not much in evidence in the land of the Celestials. The estimate, which is probably somewhere near correct, is 402,700,000. As to whether the millions of China will ever become thoroughly modernized in the sense that the Japanese are remains to be seen. The Chinaman possesses plenty of good sense and there seems to be no valid reason why he should not some time "catch on" to things and forge ahead with the rest of the folks.

Driven Nearly Insane

By the Tortures of Sciatica

Such has been the experience of many a poor sufferer from this affliction. The sciatic nerves, when inflamed are capable of giving the most excruciating torture possible to imagine. Thanks to a discovery by Dr. Stohr, an Austrian specialist, relief quickly follows a dose of Kephaldol. The fame of this prescription has spread all over the civilized world and Kephaldol is heartily endorsed by the medical profession because Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism or Neuralgia, yield to a few doses and no safer or more reliable prescription has been found. If you find it difficult to obtain locally, the manufacturers will send you a large tube on receipt of 50c. Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour St., Montreal. 20

HANDSOME HANDBAGS.

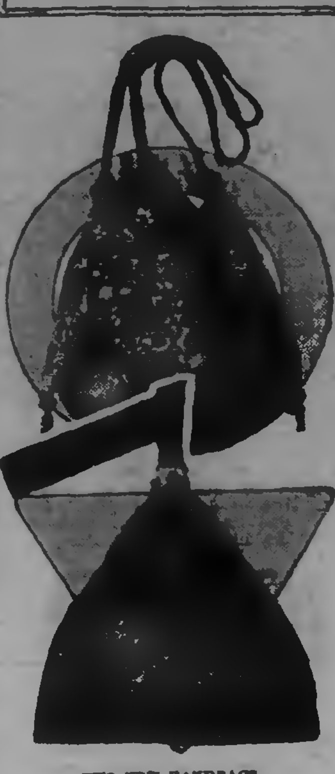
They Must Harmonize With Fashionable Gown.



TWO NEW HANDBAGS.

Coquettish bags to carry with the modish gown are a feature of spring fashions. Handbags, whether for day or evening use, whether of silk, velvet, beads or kid, nearly always match the toilet.

They are of reasonable dimensions, the smart woman making up for moderation in size by the number she possesses. She must have one for each toilet—nay, one for each occasion, almost one for each hour of the day.

The bags may be made of Ottoman silk of any color, or to match the shoes. Sometimes, for evening use, the bag will match the belt. Belt, shoes and bag to match look particularly harmonious.

Two handsome handbags are illustrated here. One of these is a little French theater bag made of the lovely printed silk that has been the fashion of late and which receives its inspiration as to color and design from Vienna, a harmonizing blending of blues, greens, reds and yellows. The pointed scallops are finished with wooden beads in the several shades, the rest is green silk and green cord.

The oriental rage that has seized Paris is expressed in no prettier way than in the other bag to be carried with an afternoon frock. Chinese dragon embroidery in gold and blues and greens on heavy black silk is fastened to a clasp of dull gold and held on the single loop strap that has replaced cords on the fashionable Parisian day bag. The bag is fitted with vanity case and tiny change purse.

KITCHEN ECONOMIES.

Scraps Ordinarily Thrown Away May Be Successfully Utilized.

There is a great deal of waste in the American kitchen. Thus the green tops of certain vegetables, such as beets, carrots, onions and radishes, all of which are utilized by cooks of other countries as soup greens, are often thrown away, although they are of food value. Pea pods make a delicious soup if boiled with a small piece of fat pork and some barley or rice and then strained clear.

The stock pot, that treasure of the Tuscan and the French cook, receives all the clean waste that is thrown away by other nations. Even fruit peelings go into it, and the daily boiling, skimming and straining leave it a jar of broth which quickly jellies in the cold icebox and can be used as a foundation for purees and gravies, as an addition to all gravies and as a factor in the making of forcemeats and sauces.

The lemon, orange and grapefruit peelings, thrown away in many households, make a delicious sweetmeat candied with ginger which would cost next to nothing in the putting up, but not one native cook in ten thinks of utilizing them.

Turnip tops make a fine salad, healthful as the dandelion. At a dinner given by a woman's club the question of what would go in a salad was tested by the service of a bowlful containing dock leaves, young mint, wood sorrel, chopped chives and sassafras buds. This mixture was garnished with honeysuckles and wild flowers. It was voted a success.

An Automatic Stirrer.

A large, clean marble boiled in milk, porridge, custards, sauces, etc., will automatically do the stirring as the liquids cook. Any chance of burning will be prevented and also the fatigue of constantly stirring. It saves time, as by this means the cook can be attending to several things at once instead of having to give her whole time and attention to one.

Saving Fuel.

All waste paper should be rolled or crushed into loose balls, placed in buckets and well dampled with cold water. These paper balls may be placed in the center of the fire, coal on top and round it. This will cause the fire to burn well and give out a good heat for four or five hours without touching it.

A man may marry for money and woman for alimony.

Dean of the Arches.

There are thirteen parishes in the City of London, Eng., which from very ancient times down to about sixty-five years ago did not form part of the Diocese of London, but had for their bishop not the Bishop of London, but the Archbishop of Canterbury. They were called the Archbishop's Peculiars in the City of London. The chief of these thirteen parishes is represented by Bow Church—St. Mary de Arcubus, St. Mary of the Arches. It was originally built in William the Conqueror's reign on arches, the ground being marshy—hence, no doubt, the name. One can see the arches or "bows" to-day in the beautiful crypt under the church. The vaulting consists of a large number of intersecting arches springing from fine Norman columns and partly supported by basement walls containing much Roman work. There was an official who exercised ecclesiastical jurisdiction over those thirteen parishes on behalf of the Archbishop of Canterbury. He held his court in Bow Church, and from that circumstance acquired the title of the Dean of the Arches.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ABOUT GAMBLERS.

Editor Review.

Dear Sir:—

The following timely reprimand appeared on the editorial page of the Globe: "Dr. Hincks wants the gambler's friends to bring him to church. Some of the biggest of Toronto's gamblers are pillars of the Church. All the gamblers do not put their money up on the horses."

The actions of preachers who in a braggadocio manner make "challenges," or ask to have evil-doers brought into their presence, would lead to a suspicion that they were trying to divert attention from the gamblers who have put up their money on churches.

Human nature has not changed much since Christ said: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye devour widows' houses and for a pretence make long prayer!"

Such preachers should follow the example of housekeepers at this season of the year and do a little housecleaning (in their own congregations.)

Yours truly,

TRUTH.

ALEXANDER IS VERY POPULAR

But Canada's Next Governor-General is Not Wealthy

Prince Alexander of Teck as a brother of the Queen is, of course, the King's brother-in-law, but he is second cousin, once removed, to his Majesty, who himself stands in that relation to his own consort. Princess Alexander is not only Queen Mary's sister-in-law, but she is also her second cousin once removed, and she is the Kings first cousin as well as his sister-in-law by marriage. The King has already created his wife's eldest brother, the Duke of Teck, a "Highness," instead of a "Serene Highness," which is the courtegy title borne by the other members of the Teck family. And it is probable the same favor will be shown to Prince Alexander. Moreover, it is likely that he will be made a Peer of the realm — probably a Duke, as the number of Dukes at present is below its normal strength. Princess Alexander, is of course a "Royal Highness."

The late Duke of Teck, father of the present Duke and of Prince Alexander, was a "Highness," while his wife and their mother, the sister of the late Duke of Cambridge,, was a "Royal Highness." Many people thought that Queen Victoria should have made the late Duke a "Royal Highness," but (whether correctly or not), it was fairly generally imagined that Queen Victoria was not too pleased at the vast popularity of the late Duchess of Teck—"jolly Mary," as she was known to the British public—and so was indisposed to do her husband this honor.

Far From Rich.

The Teck family have always been poor, and to this day, in the neighborhood of Richmond and Kew, where they lived for many years, one can hear many a story of the pecuniary straits to which they were at times reduced before Queen Mary made her brilliant match. The present Duke of Teck married a daughter of the late, and an aunt of the present, Duke of Westminster, and as the Grosvenor family is one of the wealthiest in Great Britain, it may be presumed that she brought her husband a nice little sum by way of dowry. But Prince Alexander, when he married sweet Prince Alice of Albany, married a maiden of Royal blood, but one who is not likely to have been too well dowered. It has often been rumored in American papers that Queen Mary makes Prince Alexander an allowance to enable him to live in a style befitting her brother, and he occupies apartments assigned to him by his Majesty at Windsor.

It is commonly said in the Old Country that no man without a good private insomo can afford to be Governor-General of Canada—that the annual $50,000 which he receives from the Dominion by no means covers the expenditure of a Governor-General.

Amurath to Amurath.

It is believed in Great Britain that there is a settled policy that Canada, once having had a Royal Governor-General, will not be suffered to fall from her high estate—that Amurath will succeed Amurath. It is certain that the Duke of Connaught, before his own appointment, expressed the hope that he would one day see, in each of the self-governing Dominions, a son of the King representing him. Until the King's many sons are old enough there are plenty of men Royalties — Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Duke of Teck, the Battenbergs—to keep Canada supplied with Royal Governors-General for many a long day. Prince Alexander has quite a reputation as an after-dinner speaker, and has always—at Eton, at Sandhurst, and in his regiment—been very popular.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When carpets are lifted and beaten it is a good plan to lay several thicknesses of newspaper underneath either in place of or above felt paper. The printers' ink is a splendid moth preventive.

The skin of a boiled egg, moistened and applied to a boil, will cause suppuration, and relieve sorness in a few hours. It is an excellent application for a sty or inflamed eyelid.

COMMANDER EVANS,---THE MAN

Commander Evans, C. B., R. N. who is to speak in this city was the second in command of the British Antarctic Expedition of 1910-1913. He is so saturated with the idea of his own unimportance; he is so sublimely indifferent to what others think of him, and so impressed with the degree of importance that should be given to the expedition itself, to Captain Scott and to those other heroes who died after giving to the world the best that was in them to give; that it is difficult at times to realize, when listening to his accounts of what took place in "The Frozen Hell," that it was he and no other who is the remaining, living chief character in the play that was enacted with such realism in the name of a sciense and in the cause of the further enlightenment of the human race. When Evans tells of what was done by "the second in command," or by "the party in charge of the second in command," it is not always quite clear to the listeners that it is he, the speaker, who was the leader at this particular time; that it was to him that we are indebted for what was done; that it was he who brought to the outer world the results of the expedition that has meant so much to the cause of heroism and to the advancement of the world's knowledge of the frozen south.

As a matter of fact, it was Evans who took upon himself the brunt of many a petty hardship, to relieve the man in charge of the expedition and to permit him to remain at the front, unhampered by the worries of the details that go to make up the life of any company of men who are devoting their lives to so strenuous and so arduous an undertaking as the proposed discovery of a pole. There never was an expedition of like nature, an expedition that made such demands upon the patience and good nature of the members of the company; that kept its men in close quarters, isolated from all other companionship, but their own, that was brought to termination with so little friction. It is usual in such companies to find animosities, strife, hatreds engendered by the very fact of the constant rubbing against one another's private lives; it is the record of every other such an attempt to herd men in such close quarters for so long a time that the very fact that the men could not get away from one another for an hour's respite, worked havoc among them and bred such rancor that outbreaks were frequent and disastrous to the ultimate good of the undertaking. That no such displays of temper were recorded during this expedition was due in large measures to the thoughtfulness of Commander Evans. Did the men find stories dull and tedious and too often rehashed, another form of entertainment was planned for the long evenings. Photographic reminders tell the outer world of hours spent with illustrated lectures and informal talks upon lands seen by only one or at most a few of those in the little company; lectures upon topics intimately connected with the work in hand, and lectures upon matters as far removed from the day's drudgery as could be planned. One of the pictures in the Scott book shows a table at which the men are seated, enjoying the dinner given to Captain Scott on his 43rd birthday; others show the games in which the men participated, out doors and in. Was one of the men ill, it was Evans who consulted with the doctor about the case and cheered up the individual. Did discouragement brood heavily over their after supper conversation, it was Evans who tactifully turned the subject of discussion into other channels and brought harmony out of discord; had the diverse views of the various departments brought about something bordering upon dissention, it was Evans who carefully led the men back to a sane and safe elimination of what was objectionable in the line of debate.

Evans was leaned upon by Scott at every turn. It was Evans whose counsel brought about this remedy or that advance; it was Evans' judgment that was sought and followed when the mental faculties of the others were dimmed and clouded by too long tension upon some one thought or plan of action; and once in command, never did the men waver in their obedience. Yes, once they flatly refused to obey orders, when Evans ordered them to leave him and seek safety for themselves, unhampered by his dead weight. Evans was the last to leave Scott, and to see him alive. With two companions he had almost gone to the pole with Scott, reaching 88 parallel 35 feet, when he in turn had to start on the homeward journey. But the hardship had done its work and he was soon down with scurvy. Ill beyond expression, harassed with a thousand and one details and knowing that he would be but a stumbling block to their own advancemtn and probable hindrance to their escape from the death that threatened him, Evans ordered his men to abandon him and seek safety for themselves. But, telling him that they would stick together "come what may," they brought him to a comparatively safe retreat, and dividing their forces, one of the men staying with the sick commander while the other went in search of help, which happily, was successfully found and brought back to the retreat, the brave learer was dragged out to safety upon one of the sledges.

No witness of the gruesome happenings is so well equipped to tell of the achievements as well as the sufferings of these members of this advance guard of science as is Evans; no one so well qualified, by reason of his experience and training, to recount the advance made by the expedition. When it is remembered that the original company numbered 56 men, and that in this little band there were the best surgeons, the best zoologists and bacteriologists, chemists and photographic artists, geologists and magnetic and meteorological workers, in addition to the engineers, motormen, etc., that the British navy could supply; and, when it is further remembered that the expedition started out for and accomplished one of the great achievements of the present century, the leader, of this expedition who has returned to tell the world of the deeds done, is more than ordinarily worth hearing. Commander Evans' modesty, the cloak behind which he shrinks when speaking of things inseparable connected with his personal efforts, often but accentuates the giant figure who stalks ahead of the men who are only too eager to follow so gallant and intrepid a man, of commanding presence, and with a voice the penetrates to every corner of his auditorium, of whatever size it may be, Evans tells in a simple, unaffected manner the great things that inspired in and around "One Ton Camp,' and Mount Erebus and upon the King Edward VII Plateau. Clarity of vision, directness of purpose, a mastery of details and a pictorial sense of fitness and background, these added to a distinctness of utterance and a magnetic stage charm, give to the speaker a forcefulness rarely found in the mariner lecturer. Commander Evans' story is well worth hearing.

Corsets That Solve the Problem of Reducing the Natural Figure with Hygienic Comfort and Safety

Visit the Children's Department

American Lady - Nemo - Frolaset - D. & A.

Three of these lines are absolutely controlled by us in Peterboro, and we can safely say they represent the highest standard of Canadian and American Corsetry. Amongst them are specialty lines built to suit any figure, in an immense range of qualities and styles. If you imagine you are hard to fit, pay us a visit; special fittings can be arranged any morning you may wish.

American Lady Corsets for 1914 represent incomparable values as to fit and finish; good for slender and medium figures. The models are lightly boned over the hips, low and medium busts, extra long boning at the back to give the desired flat effect, another good point is the safety hook to end of steel to insure fastening. Priced from $1.00 to $5.00.

The Nemo comfortably meets the requirements of a first class Corset Department, and forms the backbone of a well-selected corset stock. The main features of the Nemo are the Duplex self-reducing qualities for slender, medium and stout figures, made with very long skirt, low and medium busts, fashioned in white coutil, duplex boning is used throughout, and each model is fitted with Lasticops hose supports, which outwear the corset. Priced from $2.50 to $5.50.

D & A Corsets are suitable to all figures. Girdle tops, low and medium busts, made of very fine white coutil or batiste, durable, heavy boning, lace trimmed, with four and six hose supporters. See our $1.75 corset with inlaid pieces which give the ideal front effect and reduces the abdomen, hips and back. Priced from $1.00 to $3.00.

Frolaset. Most women lace and adjust their corsets when new and leave them that way. Why? Simply because they wear back laced corsets. When you learn the merits of the front laced, you will undoubtedly wear one. With flexible boning, low bust, and the perfect fitting back, this model insures perfect lines, absolute freedom, and what is more—solid comfort, placing it far ahead of other front lacing corsets. The Frolaset is priced at $4.25.

WHERE PROMISES ARE MADE GOOD

Every detail of our workshop, including the mechanical equipment, is planned to make it a model of accuracy and convenience, which from your standpoint means satisfaction and prompt service in the manufacture of new glasses or repairs on old ones.

Whether we originally made your glasses or not, we can immediately duplicate a broken lens, no matter how complicated. If you meet with a misfortune of this kind, simply telephone us and if we haven't your prescription on file, we will send for the broken glasses, and when you call a little later, you will find them waiting for you.

We have all Mr. Browett's Prescriptions, covering the entire time he was in business in this city.

"PEBLO" Quality Lenses are what we use in all our work. They are the Best—we use no others.

JUDGMENT DAY TO LAST FOR ONE THOUSAND YEARS

Mr. F. G. Hammes who delivered an earnest lecture to an interested audience last Sunday is to lecture again on Sunday, May 10th at 3 p.m., in the Princess Theatre. His subject will be, "The Judgment Day." It is said that he departs from the unreasonable 24-hour theory of the judgment day, and yet proves his claims by the Scriptures in a way that should set reasonable men thinking. In this lecture we have not one opinion of some man, but indisputable facts based upon the Holy Scriptures which are made to harmonize from Genesis to Revelation.

These lectures are to be continued by the I.B.S.A. through the month of May, in the Princess Theatre every Sunday at 3 p.m. Come out and get some good ideas on the harmony of God's wisdom, justice, love and power. The work is supported by voluntary contributions so do not expect to be asked for money in any way.

At the Vesper Service in the Y.W.C.A. Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Mrs. Palmer will give a talk on Incidents from the Life of Christ, and Miss Palmer will contribute violin selections.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING A NECESSITY

SAYS J. C. KIRKWOOD IN ADDRESS TO THE AD. CLUB.

SALESMANSHIP

A large number of ad. club members were treated to a beneficial talk last evening at Colemans Savoy by J. C. Kirkwood of Toronto who spoke on salesmanship. The speaker confined himself to illustrating ideas which salesmen had used effectively. He also laid stress on the necessity of newspaper advertising which was the greatest selling medium of all. The speaker stated that in some cases men had their regular customers and called on them each morning. In other cases the telephone was brought into use. The newspaper introduced the goods however, but a salesman with initiative could sell to men who had decided they would not buy. Advertising reached the people, and painted the picture of the goods.

A man behind a counter could not be the best salesman. He was forced to wait for trade to come to him. He relied on window display to attract customers and also on the newspapers advertising. The real salesman was the one who could get out and induce the man to buy whether he wanted to or not. The speaker paid a tribute to the book agent. He stated that he was schooled before he went out after business. He had his argument, his tricks and the ability. The insurance man was also a salesman who knew his business from the ground up. He had answers for every question that might be asked of him, because he had studied his business. The editor of a paper was a salesman because by brightening up the paper he increased its sales. The lawyer who won a case was a salesman because he convinced the court he was right. The success of a salesman was in getting the prospective buyer to agree with him and win him to his point of view.

Initiative was one of the great essentials. The man who had ambition, wit and go in him could sell where the one who lacked those essentials could not. A lesson in salesmanship had been taught by a florist who conceived the idea of mother's day.

On the other hand the ad. man was a big factor. When Eastman the camera man, perfected his machine he decided to advertise, but the market was so overcrowded with cameras at that time that ad. men thought it a useless proposition. However during a conversation Eastman said, "Just press the button." The ad. man immediately took him up and said it will be a grand success with the result that the display read, "Just press the button, we do the rest."

The bicycle was sold through advertising as was the auto. The ads. pictured the comfort, time saved and other benefits to be derived by buying one.

G. O. Cameron, president of the ad. club, thanked the speaker for his timely remarks and also urged the members of the club to seek to increase the membership.

The repast served by Host Coleman was all that could be desired and the cravings of the inner man were amply satisfied.

PETERBORO BOY SCOUTS

All the Boy Scouts of the city will in the future meet at the armouries each Friday night at 7.30.

Steps will be taken to re-organize the Scouts and strengthen the movement in this city by the addition of many of the younger boys.

Scoutmaster S. Milvey, with the assistance of Scoutmaster Brookes, is working along this line.

MOTHERS' DAY AT MURRAY ST. CHURCH

Tomorrow being Mother's Day two special sermons will be preached at Murray St. Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb. The subject announced for the morning is "Our Mothers," and for the evening "Sons and Daughters."

Since this day has been adopted as a day for thanksgiving for our mothers and in which to pay a tribute to the memory of those who have passed into the other world it is most suitable that this should be done by participation in the services of God's house and in consideration of our debt to those who gave us life.

Doubtless Murray St. will have a large and earnest congregation at each service.

At George Street.

Mothers' Day will be observed in a very special manner at George Street Methodist Church to-morrow. Arrangements have been completed to bring the aged people to the service by auto or cab. At this service old hymns will be sung. Mr. Peever will preach on the "Beauty and Glory of Old Age."

The Sunday School at 3 o'clock will be addressed by General Secretary Meserve, of the Y. M. C. A. "Mothers' Day and the Duty of Youth," will be the subject of the evening service.

GRATIFYING PROGRESS IS SHOWN IN Y.W.C.A.

defatigable exertions on behalf of the welfare and advancement of the association. It was with the utmost regret that the board accepted her resignation. Fortunately for the welfare of the association the vice-president was Miss Dickson who has since acted in Mrs. Morris' place. Other changes in the staff were the resignation of the secretarys, Mrs. Grey and Miss Dyer as well as that of Mrs. Read who for so many years filled the position of superintendent of the boarding home so acceptably to the board."

"Considerable sums were expended upon improvements to the building, particularly that part concerned with the heating system, which was extended to all rooms on the west side—twenty in number—necessitating the complete overhauling and renewal of the furnace, the results of which have been most satisfactory."

"Owing to the increased scope of the work the financial system was changed to conform with that provided for in the constitution and the present financial statement is based upon the new system."

"The boarding home is at present under the able management of Mrs. Barnes. The house has been practically filled to its capacity since last September and there are at present sixty-three boarders."

"We are thankful to be able to say there has been no serious illness in the house during the year. Miss Jelts is temporarily in charge of the office."

WHITE PHOSPHOROUS MATCH IS DUE TO SOON DISAPPEAR

Premier Borden Announces That C.N.R. Information Laid on the Table Will be Printed For Members and Bill Cannot Therefore Come up on Monday.

OTTAWA, May 9.—The House of Commons put in a busy day, dealing with many public and private bills. The Senate amendments were concurred in, and the bill finally passed, which prohibits the importation, manufacture and sale of matches containing white phosphorus. No matches are to be manufactured after Jan. 1, 1915, and their sale is prohibited from and after Jan. 1, 1916.

At the opening of the House the Prime Minister stated that a considerable portion of the information respecting the application of the Canadian Northern Railway recently laid upon the table of the House, would be printed for the use of the members. He regretted the delay as he had hoped to move the C. N. R. resolution on Monday. While no definite announcement was made it is generally understood that the legislation will not now be proceeded with until Wednesday next.

Hon. C. J. Doherty introduced a bill to amend the Scott Act. The amendments make the Canada Temperance Act applicable to Saskatchewan and Alberta; and provide for elections under the act in the unorganized districts of Ontario. It is also provided that any persons entitled to vote at an election under the act may contest the result by an appeal to the Superior Court of the province.

The bill extending the charter of the Toronto, Niagara & Western Railway was taken up at night, and Mr. Carroll (Lib., Cape Breton) spoke in support of Mr. Lancaster's motion to strike out section seven of the bill, which gives the City of Toronto power to require the road to cross all highways at an elevation.

Mr. Macdonell (South Toronto) desired to have the bill disposed of last night, but it finaly went over until Monday.

The House took up Dr. Roche's bill to amend the Indian Act. One clause forbids Indians to leave their reservation for the purpose of taking part in dances or other public exhibitions for profit.

Mr. Oliver thought that no obstacles should be thrown in the way of the Indians taking part in their tribal ceremonies. Their dances might appear grotesque to us, but so would many of our dances to them.

Mr. Knowles: "Do their dances resemble the tango?"

Mr. Oliver: "No; as I have already said, the Indian is naturally a gentleman." (Laughter.)

Mr. Borden observed that the Indians would be free to dance the tango or anything else upon their own reservations.

The clause, however, stood over, and the House then went into supply.

DOUBT REGARDING DANGER OF VIOLATING ARMISTICE

High Army Officials Are Strongly in Favor of Sending 50,000 Men to Funston—Gun Running is Rumored.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—High tension marked the Mexican situation yesterday, both on the military and the diplomatic side. The War Department was the chief centre of activity, and while no authoritative statement was made beyond Secretary Garrison's formal reply, that "no orders for additional troop movements have been sent," it became known that the sending of additional troops to Vera Cruz was under consideration, and probably would be carried out. This step would not be intended in any way as an aggressive measure, but as a reasonable precaution to support the force already there in case of any untoward event.

Of equally serious portent to the troops' preparations was the report, late in the day, that two German merchant ships were about to arrive at Puerto Mexico with large supplies of arms and ammunition for Huerta. It was realized that this, if true, would present an incident similar to the arrival of the Ypiranga at Vera Cruz with her cargo of munitions, which led immediately to the American occupation of that port.

Huerta's protest to the mediators, that the United States had broken the armistice by landing additional troops at Vera Cruz was considered by the Cabinet, and later Secretary Bryan announced that the reply of this Government stated that no aggressive steps had been taken by the United States forces and that nothing has been done in violation of the suspension of hostilities. The American reply was delivered to the mediators late yesterday. The mediators themselves also took the view that the question raised by Huerta over the observance of the armistice could be cleared away and that Huerta could be convinced that the United States had not violated, in spirit at least, the armistice which had been agreed upon.

The discussion of reinforcing Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz has developed a marked difference of opinion in the Cabinet. Some of the members take the view that the mediation negotiations might be embarrassed by such an act, while others believed that it was a necessary precaution against a sudden attack on the American forces stretched along the railroad to the waterworks. Gen. Funston is understood to have told the War Department that with the 7,000 men he now has his lines are vulnerable at different points and that a sudden attack along the railroad would necessitate the withdrawal of forces from other points which would be left unprotected. He has informed the War Department that he will need at least 15,000 or 18,000 men in order to hold Vera Cruz, as well as the outlying districts which he has now garrisoned.

The fact that the high officials of the army had recommended the sending of at least 50,000 or 60,000 men to Vera Cruz in preparation for all eventualities became known during the day generally in executive quarters. A number of officials admitted that the administration was now confronted with the problem of deciding whether it would limit its military activities to protecting the forces already at Vera Cruz from attack, or whether a sufficient number of men would be placed in readiness at Vera Cruz for a flying expedition to Mexico City in case the Huerta regime collapsed and irresponsible bands threatened the lives of Americans and other foreigners in the Mexican capital.

Huerta Clinging To His Job.

VERA CRUZ, May 9. — Mexicans arriving here yesterday from Mexico City say that Gen. Huerta shows no indication of having any intention to abandon the Presidency of Mexico. The President, they assert, popularly is credited with having made the statement that he would see the capital in ashes before he left it.

That the American forces at Vera Crux are violating the armistice by landing more troops, ordnance and supplies, is the charge made by Mexico City papers which are under the domination of Huerta.

OBJECTS TO APPOINTMENT

LIBERAL EX-MEMBER DISAPPROVES OF CHOICE OF PRINCE OF TECK

OTTAWA, May 9.—On the orders of the day, yesterday afternoon, Hon. H. R. Emmerson asked if there was any truth in the press reports respecting the appointment of Prince Alexander of Teck, as Governor-General of Canada. Speaking for himself, individually, Mr. Emmerson said, that he hoped the report was untrue.

The Prime Minister said in reply that a cable had been received by His Royal Highness the Governor-General, apprising him that His Majesty had been pleased to approve the appointment of Prince Alexander as Governor-General. This closed the incident so far as the House was concerned.

In an interview later, Mr. Emmerson said that he thought it was contrary to Canadian public policy to have a Governor-General selected from royalty. There were special reasons for the appointment of His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, which did not exist in the case of Prince Alexander, who was, after all, a German and not an English prince, but apart from that, Mr. Emmerson thought that some capable business man, rather than a member of the royal family, should be selected by the British Government. He intimated that when the House was next moved into committee of supply, he would discuss the subject more fully, and possibly call upon the Dominion Government to take some action.

Lifeboat Not Yet Found.

NEW YORK, May 9.—No trace of the missing third lifeboat of the steamship Columbian, burned at sea last Sunday, was found by the White Star steamer Adriatic which arrived here last night. The Adriatic was 223 miles distant from the scene when notified at noon on May 6 by Captain D. S. Miller of the Franconia, which had picked up one of the boats, that another boat might still be in the vicinity of the wreck. Captain John Mathias, of the Adriatic, changed his course, and arrived on the scene at midnight.

COMMITTEES FOR SUMMER SPORTS

A conference of young men interested in summer activities of the Y. M.C.A. was held last evening. Mr. H. B. Cowan acted as Chairman, and Secretaries Meserve and Galley of the Y.M.C.A. assisted in the proceedings. Some rather good suggestions were advanced by those present. Various plans will be put into operation this season. The conference resulted in committees being drawn up. These will have charge of the tennis, baseball and aquatic sports. They will meet once a week to discuss plans. Mr. Cowan was elected chairman. The committees are:

Tennis Committee: P. M. McCarrell, Chairman, T. Gilchrist, B. Hamilton and C. Sissou.

Baseball Committee.—Wm. Heaslip, chairman, A. Morrow, S. Laing.

Aquatics—H. Lees, Chairman, E. Brown, S. H. Cunningham and A. Theobald.

Mr. D. A. Loucks will also act on the general committee which comprises the above committees. It is expected that as a result of the organization, that considerable work along various lines as suggested will be put into ofrce immediately. The committee voted for a baseball team to be entered in the Church League. The war canoe club are considering means of securing another canoe of a racing type.

On the arrival of Physical Director Carson of Winnipeg here at the first of next month, it is hoped to have a field day for the Association, for both young and old members. The Association now has a very full schedule for both senior and boys' department, and if the proposed Young Men's Cabinet, as suggested, is organized the first of September, the fall and winter sessions will be unusually successful.

THIRTY YEARS AT EPSOM WITHOUT SEEING DERBY

Retiring Station Master to Be Present at Classic Race This Year

London, May 8.—After forty-four years of service with the London, Brighton & South Coast Railway Company, R. S. Sparks, the station master at Epsom Downs, is retiring, and says that this year he will see his first Derby. For thirty years he has been at Epsom, but despite the lure of the track, the insidious influence of the huge crowds rushing raceward past him, he has never seen the Derby run.

"No, I have never seen it. Of course the staff went; I always let them go; but I have never been able to leave my station. I have had lots of tips on the race and have been asked for them, too, but I always tell people my best tip is to leave the horses alone."

Whenever King Edward came in state on Derby Day it was Sparks' task to see that the Royal Standard was broken at the station flagpole befor His Majesty's arrival, and also to arrange that the King's carriage and horses should be drawn up ready for the King's arrival.

After the race, immediately following the departure of the royal train, Mr. Sparks telephoned to Buckingham Palace or Windsor to order the carriage at that end.

Mr. Sparks is convinced that Derby Day crowds grow bigger with the years. "The great change," he said, "is that they are far more sober than they used to be."

Sparks has other activities besides those of a station master. Once he rented 500 acres of the Downs from the Epsom Grandstand Association and gave pleasure to nearly half a million children on the breezy uplands. Besides the Downs, and the air, Mr. Sparks saw to it that the children had such sustenance as picnic parties chiefly love. He did more. He provided "all the fun of the fair"—roundabouts, swings, donkeys and other delights—by the simple expedient of hiring a fair in its completeness. "I sub-let the donkeys," added Mr. Sparks meticulously.

It was Mr. Sparks who provided Cheam with its first gas lamp. He had the lamp put up first, and then collected subscriptions to defray the expense. Cheam has gas lamps by the score in these days, but that is how it came by its first one.

Some years ago Mr. Sparks used to have a particularly well cut grassy roadway between Platforms 8 and 9. It was the station master's croquet green. There he and his family and friends fleeted the time as carelessly as they did in the Victorian age.

Now that Sparks is to retire at the age of sixty-two, the thousands of sporting people to whom he is well known have started a testimonial for him to help him on in his future years.

Hamilton Herald.

Despite their defeat and apparent lack of hitting ability, Dac Yates' squad made a favorable impression. It was only one of those blunders that crop up in the best regulated ball clubs that cost the battle, one that in a game hardly so close would never have been taken notice of. True, only four hits were corralled off Gero, but it was the gilt-edged support given the Brantford hurler that prevented several more. There is no alibi. The Brants won on the day's play and they deserved to. Their fielding was of a high order, and they took advantage of the Athletics' miscues.

The changes in the line-up announced by Manager Yates were made, with Dudley on third base, and Sheckard, the new outfielder secured from the Allentown club of the Tri-state league covering the centre portion of the unpopulated area. Baldwin was not able to jump into the game, his torn finger not having quite mended, but Dudley proved a worthy substitute, and his only error did not have any bearing on the result. Sheckard in centre accepted the only chance he had, and made a nice peg to third on Fisher's overthrow to second, catching Burns in his attempt to go on to third in the third inning. Sheckard did not get a hit, both of his raps being to the infield, but he shapes up like a ball player, and should get back his hitting optic in a short time.

Jack White in left field had a big day, with five chances. He made two nice pegs to the plate on sacrifice flies, but the ground was sticky, and the ball would not take the one hop, with the result that both runners scored. It was not any sign of weakness on White's part though.

Hamilton Spectator.

Remembering that both teams are suffering from a decided lack of practice, due to the rain of the past few weeks, and that the players were far from good condition, the game that was furnished must be classed as a rattling good exhibition with both the teams fighting hard from start to finish. Manager Yates selected Billy Donohoue to do the heaving for Hamilton, while Harry Gero was the choice made by Rube Deneau. That both boys are pretty much in advance of the season and that the managers made no mistakes in choosing them to work, was self-evident from the start. Both twirled excellent ball, with honors about even. True, Donohue was beaten, but the defeat was not his fault, two costly errors at critical times handing the Brants the two runs which in the ordinary course of events they should not have had. Gero was given better support than Donohue, and it was not until the ninth inning that his team faltered behind him, two errors being chalked up in this inning in a row, but Gero came through with colors flying.

Brantford Courier.

Before a crowd of some 3,500 wildly enthusiastic baseball fans, the 1914 Canadian League ball season was ushered in at Agricultural Park, when the Red Sox defeated Hamilton Athletics by the score of 2 to 0. It was a great game. The work was fast and both teams played excellent ball.

London, Ont., May 9.—The opening game of the Canadian League here yesterday could not have been more ideal from the standpoint of baseball, weather and enthusiasm. Coupled with this a ninth inning victory by the locals over the Toronto Beavers by the score of 4 to3, made it a fitting finale.

London led with a two-run lead for five innings, when the visitors crept up and nosed them out by tallies in the fifth and seventh, only to be tied by the Tecumsehs in the seventh. Then, with two men out in the ninth, an error by Murphy put Lamy on first, who then purloined second and scored on Bierbauer's hit along the third base line with the winning run.

The contest was a pitcher's battle between Kirley and Heck, although the latter received slightly poorer support as he kept the seven hits secured by the Beavers well scattered.

The 4,500 crowd which piled in broke all attendance records for this city on an opening game.

London scored in the first inning on a single by Long, who went to third when Kirley threw Lamy's bounder wide to Schneider, and both men scored on Whitcraft's single. In the seventh Linneborn stole second, and scored on Danford's double, and cleverness of Lamy in the ninth coupled with Bierbauer's hit won the game.

A double by Isaacs in the fifth and closely followed by a single through the infield scored Toronto's initial run. In the seventh Kirley singled and went to second on an overthrow by Danford. Lour walked, and both scored on a single by Schultz.

ON TOBACCO

I'VE never used tobaccer, but I'm not handin' myself anythin' on that account. If I've been lucky enough to have missed one bad habit I've likely picked up two wuss ones to make up fer it, so I'm not braggin'.

Tobaccer is not sech an awful curse, if used in moderation, I'm thinkin', though I will say that I've never met a single user of the weed who wasn't ready to condemn it.

Old Jake Tucker, who is ninety years old and as spry as a cricket, has allars claimed that usin' tobaccer would shorten any man's life one-half and one day when his attention was called to the fact that he was ninety and had been—'cordin' to his own tell—a tobaccer-user most of his days he actually bridled up and claimed that if he hadn't been sech a fool as to smoke he'd be one hundred and eighty instead o' ninety. Now what d'ye think o' that?

TO WELCOME ENVOYS.

Canada Will Extend Special Reception to "A.-B.-C." Mediators.

OTTAWA, May 9. — The Government has under consideration the reception and entertainment to be tendered the Mexican and American peace envoys upon their arrival, and during their stay in Canada. The meeting of the envoys will be the greatest historical event of the kind since the representatives of Russia and Japan, as the guests of the United States Government, negotiated and concluded the treaty of Portsmouth which terminated the Russo-Japanese war.

While the peace commissioners are not coming here at the invitation of the Canadian Government, it is deemed only proper that they should receive a generous welcome and hospitality. It is understood that a formal welcome will be extended to the visitors by some member of the Government who will go to Niagara Falls for that purpose, and that a guard of honor will be detailed probably from Toronto and Hamilton regiments. It is also understood that the envoys will be invited to visit the principal cities of Canada as the guests of the nation.

THREATENED HIS WIFE.

Members of Larue's Family Testify Against the Prisoner.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 9.—The trial of Joseph Larue for the murder of his wife here on or about March 11, 1913, began Thursday night. The first witness for the prosecution was Isadore Larue, a brother, who told of the threats Larue had made against his wife following frequent quarrels between the couple.

Prosecutor Gamble is conducting the case for the crown and U. McFadden is defending Larue. In all about 20 witnesses will appear. Larue is accused of killing his wife and shoving her body beneath the ice in the river. The case for the crown rests principally upon the evidence of members of the family and admissions made by accused following the alleged murder.

Fish and Jam Election.

LONDON, May 9.—On the three bye-elections pending, that in Grimsby is certainly the most interesting. Both the present candidates, T. G. Tickler (Unionist) and Alfred Bannister are natives to the soil, or rather, belong to home waters. The former is a jam maker, the latter is a trawler owner. The present contest, in fact, is known as the fish-and-jam election, the Unionist candidate starts electioneering at four o'clock in the morning, addressing a meeting in the early hours at the docks. Seven of his eight sons are working equally hard with him.

Year In Prison For Militant.

LEEDS, Eng., May 9.—Lillian Lenton, a militant suffragette, was sentenced at the Assizes here to a year's imprisonment on a charge of setting fire to Westfield House, Lancaster, in June last year. Miss Lenton, while awaiting trial for the crime, to which she confessed, was released owing to her serious condition of health, brought about by a hunger strike. She disappeared, remaining in hiding for almost a year and was rearrested only a few days ago at Brighton.

THE PETES VICTORY FROM OTHER SIDE OF THE FENCE

Erie Press Speaks Well of Schettler and Other Players

The Erie Despatch has the following to say of the engagement with the Petes:—

Erie's formal entry into Canadian League baseball, made at Perry Field yesterday, when Peterboro won, 3 to 1, was featured by an attempted assault upon Umpire Miller, by nearly 500 spectators. Policeman Charlie Brown, with drawn revolver, gave Miller protection against assault until other policemen, scattered about the grounds, came to his assistance. In the rush to get at the umpire, a sixteen-year-old boy was struck on the head with a pop bottle, thrown from the bleachers, and received a bad scalp wound.

The attack upon Umpire Miller was provoked by an incident in the ninth inning, when Erie seemed on the brink of a rally. Schaeffer, first up, had doubled, when the bleacher crowd swarmed over the fence into left field. Miller, standing behind the plate, waved and called to Manager Blount, of Peterboro, in centre field, that a hit into the crowd would go for three bases.

Schaeffer is Trapped.

Schaeffer, thinking that Miller was motioning him to third, left the second bag and was tagged out. A howl of protest went up from the Erie players and the crowd, but Miller insisted that Schaeffer retire. In defense of Schaeffer's action, Manager Heinie Smith called attention to the fact that, though play had been stopped when Umpire Miller was talking, time had not been called.

Miller admitted this, after the game, saying:

"There was no need to call time—the ball was still in play. I was merely telling Blount that a hit into the crowd would go for three bases. Schaeffer had no right to leave second."

The assault upon Miller was commenced a few moments later, when the game had ended. The bleacher crowd was over the fence in short time, surrounding the umpire and jostling and shoving him about. Miller was backed into the Peterboro bench, where he could go no farther. Policeman Brown took a hand here and with his revolver held the crowd back.

Miller was escorted from the grounds half an hour later, with a crowd in his wake, yelling and jeering.

In the excitement attending the incident, Manager Blount declares that his men lost many of their bats, gloves and other paraphernalia.

Thousands Attend Game.

As an opening day crowd, yesterday's compared favorably with the ones of other years. It is estimated about 3,500 were there. The better part of the initation ceremonies were held at Perry Field, where the Moose band gave a concert, and the flag raising exercises were carried out.

After batting practice by both teams, the men of both clubs, carrying an American flag, and headed by Judge Walling, Thomas O'Connor and George O'Neil, Erie owner, marched to the centre field fence. Judge Walling raised the flag as the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and the stand arose, bareheaded. The teams then marched back to the diamond, abreast.

Sharp fielding and throwing practice occupied the attention of the spectators for another ten minutes, when play was commenced.

The first ball was pitched by Judge Walling to Manager "Curley" Blount of Peterboro. It was a strike.

At 2.30 o'clock the street parade, formed in front of the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, with city and county officials and players in autos, headed by the Moose band, started on its way. The procession circled West Perry square, moved south on State to Seventeenth Street, doubled to Twelfth and broke up, the autos making a flying trip to the park.

Along the line of march hundreds of baseball enthusiasts were gathered, cheering the players as they passed.

At the baseball park the bleachers and grandstand were well filled when the teams arrived. Both Erie and Peterboro were applauded as they trotted to their benches, a crowd of Peterboro fans in the grandstand setting up a wild yell for their favorites. Sweaters were cast off and in a moment or two the men were at work, warming up.

Play is Called.

With the parade and ceremonies preceding the game, play was not called until after 3.30 o'clock. Blount was the first man to face Brown, pitching for Erie, and he struck out. Fox followed suit and King grounded to Behan.

Erie threatened to score for a few brief moments in the first inning when, with Harris down, Jack Dawson doubled to right. Gygli advanced him on an out to Price, but Dawson died in third when Shafer lifted a high fly to centre field.

Peterboro won its game in the second inning. Gorman waited and worked Brown for a pass. Swartz skied to Harris. Byrne rapped a grounder through short, advancing Gorman to second. Price's out to Gygli, unassisted, sent Gorman to third and Byrne to second. Both scored when Ryberg doubled to the right field fence. Harris came in on the ball, missed it, and it rolled to the fence. Louis Schettler pitching for Peterboro, closed the inning by striking out.

The visitors grabbed their other run in the eighth, although in the third they had worked a man around to Wiltse's corner. King hit to short, Behan fielded the ball prettily, but the throw drew Gygli a step off the bag. With time to spare, Gygli waited for the runner instead of touching the sack. King ducked and was safe. Gorman sacrificed him to second, Swartz's out moved him to third, and he scored on Byrne's hit to Brown. Brown checked the ball with his gloved hand, but failed to hold it. With Price up Byrne attempted to steal second and was caught.

Erie's only run came in the sixth. Brown led off with a hit over short. Harris struck out, but Dawson and Gygli singled to right, Brown reaching third. Shaffer's sacrifice fly scored him.

If the opening contest exhibited any real feature, it was Louie Schettler's careful pitching and Dawson's catch of Fox's fly in the seventh. Dawson was driven back, almost to the centre, field fence, but he nailed the ball. Schettler faced serious situations in several innings, but by crafty work managed to elude defeat. He pulled out of a bad hole in the seventh when Behan led off with a double, and in the fifth he had forced McNeil to fly out, after Wiltse had tripled with two down.

Schaffer took a great deal for granted in the ninth, though in justice to players not within range of his voice, Umpire Miller should have called time while he did his talking.

---

Louie Schettler once more established his reputation as a crafty boy. Louie pitched a good game yesterday though he had not a whit on Brown. Louie was bumped much harder than the Erie boy.

---

Curley Blount and Price are credited with the only stolen bases. McNeil's whip out down Byrne in the eighth.

---

Bill Kelly, Erie boy catching for the Petes, was presented with a scarf pin by his Erie friends at the game yesterday. The presentation speech was made by Thomas O'Connor.

---

Harris and Blount had busy days in the field.

MERCANTILERS MAY PERFORM IN TWILIGHT

Suggestion That One Game Be Played Each Week at 6.30.

ALLOW DOUBLE SCHEDULE

The Mercantile Baseball League will very likely hand out their first attraction on Saturday, May 30th, at the Exhibition Grounds, according to the suggestions offered to Messrs. Paton, English and Walker, who were appointed last night as a committee to draw up the schedule. A great deal of discussion was occasioned when Mr. P. Spratt brought up a proposition whereby the league stages one game every week at 6.30 p.m. or some day other than Saturday. When Mr. Spratt had shown the meeting where, by adopting such a system it would be permissable to play a double schedule, his suggestion won favor.

All the games during the coming season will be played on the exhibition grounds, which will be fixed up, so as to afford good accommodation. The teams to compose the league are: De Laval, C.G.E. Red Caps, Printers, Bankers' Wm. Hamiltons and Drafting Room.

The constitution and schedule will be published in the course of a few days.

WITH THE PETES

ROBERT STERLING, Pitcher.

Born at Mount Vernon, N.Y., in the year 1890. Height 6 ft. 1 in. Weight 185 lbs. Played professional ball with semi-prof. clubs around New York State a couple of seasons before breaking into organized ball with the Columbia Club of the South Atlantic League. Was with this club part of the season, but later transferred to the Richmond Club of the Blue Grass League, who sold him at the end of the season to the Columbus Club of the American Association. In 1912 started out with the Columbia Club but was sent to Marion Club, of the Ohio State League, which was then the farm of the Columbus Club. He was recalled by Columbus latter part of the season and sent to Decatur Club I'I. League and finished the season there. In 1913 started out with the Decatur Club, who traded him to Peterboro, where he led the pitchers last season. When down South with the Columbia Club, "Bob" pitched against most of the big league clubs. His most notable game was with the Athletics, a 15-inning battle with Plank opposing him. Baker hit a home run in the 15th inning and won the game for Athletics, 3-2.

Bob's arm is giving him a little trouble but he says it will be in first class shape by opening of the season. He expects to have the best season of his career, and will endeavor to break into the "Big League" this season.

LACROSSE

Last week's Marmora Herald took a good healthy pass at Mr. T. P. Lancaster, of Havelock, for the manner in which the O. A. L. A. schedule was drawn up. The following appears in this week's issue of the same journal:

"Havelock, May 1st, 1914.

Editor Herald:

I notice in this week's issue of The Herald under the heading 'Lacrosse Club Object,' that the Marmora Club are incensed at the action of the District Committee of the O. A. L. A. in including Norwood in Group 19 of the first draft of the intermediate series. I also not that that fact was made the occasion, on your part, of a most unfair and uncomplimentary reference to myself as a member of the Council. As a matter of fact I had nothing whatever to do with the grouping, not being a member of the District Committee, the personnel of which was published in the same article, and which consists of the President, Vice-President, Secretary and Councillors Hocking and Doyle. The first intimation I had of its arrangement was its appearance in the Toronto press. The absurdity of Norwood being included in Group 19 is apparent to anyone, and was so manifestly a mistake or oversight upon the part of the Committee, that a manly man or a considerate man would not have rushed into print with such hasty and ungenerous innuendos as you, Mr. Editor, saw fit to publish, without first ascertaining whether there was any occasion to do so. Secretary Doyle has already been written to and the mistake pointed out, and when the final draft is published on May 9th, Norwood will be included in Group 20 where it should have been in the first instance. In conclusion I venture to again assert, as in my candidature for the O. A. L. A. Council that the interest of Marmora and all the other clubs in this district will be advocated to the best of the ability of their representative on the Council.

T. P. LANCASTER."

"We are glad to publish the above explanation, although we get bumped in the process. The paper we took the report from stated that the O. A. L. A. Council had arranged the districts as published. As Mr. Lancaster is a member of the Council, we naturally thought he was present. This opinion was strengthened by the fact that last week's Havelock Standard reported the grouping for Districts 19 and 20, expressing satisfaction over Havelock being grouped as it is, and making no comment on Norwood being placed in this district.—Editor of the Herald.

CENTRALS WON FIRST SESSION SCHOOL GAME

Exciting Contest is Played at Nicholls Oval

The Senior Public School League opened last evening at Nicholl's Oval when the Centrals slipped one over the Queen Mary aggregation by 13-12. The game was of the most exciting calibre. Ward started to twirl for the Centrals, and before the Queen Mary's team were retired in the first they had annexed 11 runs. It was a big task White, who replaced Ward, had on his hands when he commenced in the second, but the youngster handed out a variety of hooks and in the last eight rounds his opponents secured but two hits and one run.

While White was holding down Queen's, the heavy batting of the Centrals was demonstrated at the expense of Williamson, the Queen's twirler. At the close of the ninth they had crossed the plate 13 times, winning out by one run. Soden was the most effective with the willow, securing a three bagger and three singles in four times up.

Batteries—Central: Ward, White and Soden; Queens: Williamson and Thompson.

Umpire—Mr. Kinnear.

COMMENT

As You Like It

Mr. J. Pluv, the official dispenser of moisture was on his bad behaviour yesterday and only one game was played in the Canadian League. In that game Doc. Yates' Hamilton crew scored a win over the Brants, the score being 5-1. Patsy Doherty, the eminent Hebrew slinger, was on the mound for the Hamlets.

At Erie Mr. Pluv gave vent to many tears and the diamond was a miniature lake long ere the time set for battle, with the result that Curley Blount's men were forced to warm the leather backed chairs of the Fisher House.

London and Knotty Lee's Beavers were also kept indoors because of the washing Mrs. Pluv had placed on the line. Mrs. P. forgot to wring the duds and the stuff that Adam nicknamed "ale," spilled itself all over the Forest City.

Shaughnessey's pets and Midge Craven's wonders were also denied exercise, because Mr. Pluv spilled a pail of "chasers" which he had set aside for a rainy day.

The sports of Erie must be some sports. That they are is undoubted. One has only to converse for a short period with the Peterboro fans who took in the jaunt to the Yankee City to find out that Erie is a live burg. "We could not pay for anything. I went to pay my hotel bill, and the clerk said, 'It's been paid for.' We could not even tip the waiters" was the way one of the local boys described it.

---

Style and more of it. The Petes are stopping at a million dollar hotel in Erie. The Fisher House is regarded as the finest hotel in Penny. It cost a million bucks, but the Petes are just as much at home with the big guys as they would be on their mother's lap.

---

On the pullman car from Youngstown to Erie the porter called out, "Change for Elizabeth." Stan. Creswell awakened from his slumbers by Mr. Porter's vocal effort asked, "What! Change for who?"

"Change for Elizabeth," replied the porter.

"This is my berth and I paid for it, and I'll be hanged if I change for any woman I never met before," said Stan.

When the train was nearing Erie the porter came along and approaching Bobby Byrne said, "Brush yuh off, suh?"

"Never mind, I'll step off myself when we hit Erie," said the third sacker.

---

Frank Shaughnessey, the elongated Ottawa pilot, denies he called Nevitt, the St. Thomas cather, a nigger. "Shag" says he called to Rogers who was on first that Nevitt's arm would not figure.

Harris Walsh of the Brantford Courier picks Brantford to win, which is a good argument against the team's chances.

Toronto News.

There was some joy and a little woe for Toronto ball enthusiasts yesterday. The Leafs' fine victory over the Greys caused the fans to exult, but the defeat of the Beavers cast a deep gloom over the followers of "Jimmy" Norris' aggregation. But there was no disgrace attached to the club's downfall. The better conditioned London team got an edge in the first period, and though the Beavers evened the count, they were finally beaten by one run. Lee was compelled to shift his line up at the last minute, and a couple of misplays, at the wrong time, gave the Forest City the victory. The team is a good one, and will be in the running all the way.

Enthusiasm.

Hamilton fans five hundred strong invaded Brantford Thursday and saw their team lose to the Brants by a score of 2 to 0.

---

Right up in front shouting with the rest of the local delegation at the Erie game was Bill McIlroy. The pictures taken of the game and opening proceedings by a photographer from Roy's establishment, show the

NOT ALL silks are reliable in weave, color or dye—as many women have found out to their loss after wearing inferior weaves a short time.

It is often actual economy to pay a trifle more a yard and get Silks that wear well than to save the difference and have only disappointment instead of service.

Sunday will mark the third anniversary of Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., as rector at St. Luke's Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Whitaker gave an informal but very enjoyable supper on Sunday evening. The dainty supper table was centred with spring flowers. Among the guests were Colonel and Mrs. Paul Weatherbee, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fergusson.—Calgary Herald.

His Worship Mayor Buller is in Weston, Ont., to-day, attending the opening of the sewerage and sewage disposal plant.

FLATTER YOUR HUSBANDS SAYS CATHERINE TOWER

"MARY" IN WITHIN THE LAW HAS PET THEORY

Although in her teens, and unmarried, Catherine Towers, the beautiful young actress who is scoring a triumph in "Within the Law," in the leading role, which plays to-night at the Grand, has already formed some very original ideas concerning the successful management of husbands, according to an interview to-day. For instance, she believes that wives should flirt with their husbands.

"My observations," continued the young actress, "are that the average man and wife, after a few years of matrimony, settle down into a sort of dull, colorless life, routine like. Frankly speaking, they lose interest in each other. A clever wife can forestall this catastrophe by judiciously flirting with her husband. By flirting I do not mean reviving the kittenish airs and graces of "sweet sixteen," for an attempt at this would prove disastrous. Flatter him accasionally, tell him what a good fellow he is and show him plainly that you still love him profoundly, even stronger than in courtship days. To love is much better than to be in love. The former is a full grown tree. The latter love is a little sapling planted in the earth.

"Many of my acquaintances have ridiculed my theory of flirtation between husband and wife. 'My dear girl, it would bore them both to death.' Nevertheless, my firm convictions are that wives should flirt with their husbands, but there should be some stipulation that such flirtations are carried out at home and not too apparent while attending social functions.

"There are many ways of flirting. For instance, a man may bring his wife a bunch of flowers or a box of bon bons, and thus do more good toward restoring domestic happiness than by hours of conversation. I do not advocate the silly kissing and cuddling of courtship days, but an occasional caress or surprise in the way of a little present now and them will relieve the house of many worries and discontents of married life. In other words, both husbands and wives should set vigilantly about seeing that tenderness and mutual thoughtfulness of courtship days does not end at the altar," concluded the fair actress.

While in the city, Miss Tower is a guest at the Oriental.

NO HOLD-UP IN THIS CITY

Drummer Thinks Kindly of Senator Davis' Bill

TO STOP TIPPING

A Daniel has come to judgment. In that style a drummer described Senator Davis, who has introduced a bill to make tipping and the receiving of tips a crime. It is also provided that the proprietor of the place where tipping is tolerated shall be enjoined in the court action with the tipper and the tipped.

"This fellow Davis sure has a sense of feeling for the travelling public," said the drummer, when spoken to by the Review. Continuing, he stated that Peterborough was not a hold-up town compared to other places. "Why in some places I visit the hotel employees do everything but use a maxim gun for hold-up purposes."

"The last time I was in Ottawa it cost me about one buck in tips to get a pair of trousers out of a cleaning and pressing shop. I took the trousers to the pressing shop myself, for fortunately I had another pair to wear while the cleaning was going on. About two hours afterwards I gave a bell boy a quarter and the cleaner's fee to run down to the shop, which was only two blocks away, for my pants. He came back in about five minutes and said:

"Doggone boss, dey ain't done yit."

"About an hour afterwards I sent him down again and this time slipped him another two-bit piece."

In about five minutes the boy came back and said, "Lawdy, man, dem yah pants of yuse must be powerful dirty. Dey ain't done finished yet."

"Well, the boy made another trip and again he came back with the answer that they were not finished. I got darn sore about this time, because I wanted to catch a train, so I hoofed it down to the establishment myself and started to raise cane with the cleaner. To my amazement, he said, "Why, they have been finished for more than an hour, and no one has called for them."

The drummer stated that the instance was only one of many. "Why it costs you more for ice water the morning after than it did to celebrate the night before. The only ones in the hotels who do not benefit by tips are the wine clerks, and they are the fellows who usually supply the stuff which if you take enough makes you "tipsy."

The idea that you cannot secure service at the dining table without tipping the waiter is wrong, said the knight of the grip. In this day of competition, when hotel rates are high, you cannot tell me that the proprietor is going to allow his service to good customers go bad, merely because a waiter does not receive a tip.

His Grace of Canterbury is Invited to Attend Congress

TORONTO, May 9. — Invitations have just been sent by the committee of arrangements to the Archbishop of Canterbury and other members of the upper house of the Church of England to attend the church congress and opening of St. Alban's Cathedral next year. The reason that the invitations are being sent at this early date is that the clergy invited are of such eminence that their arrangements have to be made many months in advance. His Grace Right Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, and metropolitan of the Church of England, who is in his 66th year, has visited Canada before and has made many friends in the Dominion.

UNCLEAN SCHOOLS

Essex County Doctor Delivers Smashing Attack at O.H.O.A.

TORONTO, May 9.—That the Public Schools of Ontario, and especially the village and rural schools, are in such a deplorable, unkempt condition, and managed in such a careless manner, that they are responsible for a large percentage of the tuberculosis in the province, was a statement made and fortified by statistics by Dr. S. F. Millen, South Woodslee, Essex County, in an address to the Ontario Health Officers Association, at the convention in Convocation Hall yesterday.

The statistics, he said, showed that 30 per cent. of the deaths amongst school teachers were also caused by the dread disease, while only 7 per cent. of the deaths of other people were from tubercular diseases. More children died between the ages of 5 and 14 from preventible diseases than adults did between the ages of 50 and 60 from all diseases. It was the duty of the public to control these preventible diseases.

Dr. Millen described the conditions of 30 schools in two townships of Essex County and declared that these schools in his home county were typical of Ontario's schools. One school he visited had cracks in the floor and a leaking roof. Another was scrubbed only four times a year, while another had but 150 cubic feet of air for each pupil, while the education law demanded 250 feet.

Twenty-five per cent. of the schools had no wells and the water in 25 per cent. of those which had was bad. Twenty-five per cent. had windows which would not open, 50 per cent. had filthy closets and 75 per cent. no cloak rooms.

PASSENGERS IN WRECK HAD TO BE RESCUED THROUGH FLOOR

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., May 9.—A G.T.P. passenger train was ditched seven miles west of Roselante. C. C. Vanaradol, division engineer, had an arm and his collar bone broken, and Mrs. Marion Paterson of Vancouver, was slightly injured. Mrs. G. O. Graham of Smithers was pinned under a seat and almost drowned in the water that was forced through the broken car.

Three coaches went down an embankment, the rear one turning over and partly burying itself in the mud. It was impossible for the passengers to get through window or door, so the crew chopped holes through the floor.

GETS NINETY DAYS IN JAIL

Toronto, May 9.—For the second time within a week Herbert R. Kirby appeared in the police court at the City Hall yesterday. Last week he was sentenced to 40 days' imprisonment for stealing from employees of Sir Henry Pellatt at Casa Loma. He was the man who was reported to have escaped the guards, swam the moat and carried away many valuable articles. For that he received a sentence of 40 days.

Brought from jail to-day he was faced with two additional charges, namely of stealing $68 from the Owl Drug Store, 282 College Street, and a leather grip from the same place, the property of J. Snowdown. He pleaded guilty to both and his term of imprisonment was increased to ninety days.

Kirby appeared here before Magistrate Dumble a few months ago, charged with theft of a diamond ring. He had been brought here from Ottawa on a warrant for theft. Relatives in the city intervened and he was let off on suspended sentence.

Haynes made a full written confession of his crime in the presence of Jailer Karn and Captain Fullerton.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The Rev. W. T. Herridge, D.D., of Ottawa, who is to preach the anniversary services of St. Paul's Church, next Sabbath, is perhaps the most outstanding pulpit orator in the Presbyterian Church in Canada. He has recently conducted a mission in the city of Vancouver and the resolution which was passed by the Session of St. Andrew's Church there, gives, in brief form, some idea of his pulpit power. The resolution reads:

"The congregation of St. Andrew's Church desires to place on record its appreciation of the service rendered to the cause of Christ in this city during the mission conducted here by the Rev. W. T. Herridge, D.D., of Ottawa. The intellectual strength of his discourses, their manifest literary distinction, the fervor of their delivery, and the moral and spiritual power behind them, have given an uplift to the whole congregation. The large numbers who have attended the services from all parts of the city and from all classes indicate the wide range of Dr. Herridge's influence, and show the great part his work will have in building up the spiritual life of our members and of all who have been privileged to hear him. To not a few among us his messages have brought a clarified vision, a wider outlook, and a new consecration. The congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Vancouver, hereby expresses its profound gratitude to Dr. Herridge for the unique service he has rendered us, and desires also to express their deep appreciation to the congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Ottawa, for lending their distinguished minister to us for this period."

C. DRISCOLL HAS INHERITED HIS SECOND FORTUNE

And Now Spends His Time Dodging the Real Estate Agents.

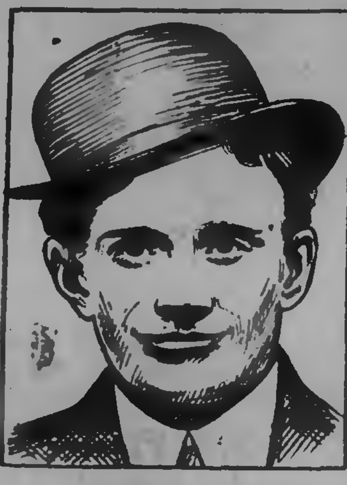
There is no doubt that Charles Driscoll of Toronto has inherited the $250,000 fortune left by his uncle, Patrick Driscoll, who died in Winnipeg some time ago. Mr. Driscoll said that he had felt it unwise to admit his good fortune too soon, but he came out with a positive statement a few days ago, saying that he had been in touch with the attorneys handling the estate for some time.



CHARLES DRISCOLL.

"I do not expect that I will get the money and property within a year, but there is no doubt that I will get it."

"Will you settle down in the west?"

"No; I am going to stay right here in Toronto."

Mr. Driscoll says he inherited a fortune of some thousands from another relative once before, but the lure of easy money in stock gambling soon took that away. "You can bet that I will know better this time," he said

The fortunate heir is resigning his position this week, where he was earning $25 a week as a tailor, and will look after his new found wealth.

"Ever since the announcement was made I have been pestered to death by real estate agents,' he said, with a laugh. "Holy smoke, here comes one now," and the possessor of a quarter of a million hastened away to evade his new trouble.

Man's Mouth Enlarged.

A most unusual operation, by which a man's mouth has been enlarged, has been successfully performed at Victoria Hospital in London by Dr. Edwin Seabourne of that city, upon L. Payzell, of St. Thomas, an Italian, who was badly burned by a gasoline explosion some three months ago. Payzell's face and head were frightfully burned, and while he recovered his health he was very badly disfigured. His skin and flesh were drawn in a horrible manner, and his mouth was afterward of only sufficient size to admit a small finger. Payzell found it practically impossible to consume ordinary food, and he was brought to London that his facilities in this regard might be improved. Dr. Seabourne took charge of the case and by slitting the cheeks on either side of the small aperture made a mouth of normal size.

Cost Still Goes Up.

The Dominion Department of Labor's index number of wholesale prices rose slightly in March, standing at 136.7, as compared with 136.7 in February and 136.0 in March, 1913. The more important increase occurred in grains and fodder, animals and meats, especially in poultry, canned salmon, apples, beans, potatoes, oatmeal, flour, beef hides and muskrat skins. Important decreases occurred in eggs, jute, brass and lead, and in some grades of pine. In retail prices beef, veal, bacon, flour, beans, prunes and potatoes were upward, while there was a general decline in eggs, and butter showed a downward tendency.

Got Dummy Medal.

Lord Haldane's experience at Edinburgh in being presented with a dummy medal is not a singular one. Sir Rowland Hill, the organizer of the penny postage system, relates a similar episode. The Society of Arts in 1864 awarded the Albert Gold Medal to Sir Rowland, and the Prince of Wales made the presentation. But the casket in which the medal was supposed to be contained was empty. The prince only came to know this a year later, when Sir Rowland, while dining at Marlborough House, mentioned that the die for the medal had been broken during the casting and there was not sufficient time to engrave a new one.

Facts About the Suez Canal.

The Suez Canal connects the Mediterranean with the Red Sea, shortening the route to India from England and America more than 5,000 miles. It was commenced in 1859 and completed in 1869. Length, 100 miles; average breadth, 329 feet; depth, 26 feet. Cost in gold $65,000,000. Distances: English Channel to Calcutta via Cape of Good Hope, 13,000 miles; via canal, 8,000; New York to Calcutta via Cape of Good Hope, 14,500 miles; via canal, 9,500.

ORIENTAL CARPETS.

Some of Those Made of Kashmir Wool Strongly Resemble Silk.

Generally speaking, the carpets of India can never excel those of Persia, as the materials used in the former are not of the same superior quality as those employed in the latter country. The wool of which many of the best carpets are manufactured is obtained from Kashmir. Sometimes carpets which are mistaken for silk are really of an extremely fine quality of wool known as "pashm." This is obtained from the goats of Kashmir and grows close to the skin, being protected by the long and coarser wool. It is as smooth and lustrous as silk and is used for the beautiful soft shawls for which Kashmir is famous.

Peculiar methods are employed by the Indian weaver in converting his original design into a textile. Instead of working from a colored drawing or diagram, the weaver has the pattern translated on paper into rows of symbols, each of which expresses the number of stitches and the color. With this written "key" in his hand the head weaver sits behind his subordinates and dictates the pattern to them, one row at a time, all through the breadth of the carpet.

These weavers—generally small boys—sit in front of the warp strings and tie in the requisite number of stitches of each color as called out to them by the reader from his ciphered scrip. These boys, who perform the actual process of weaving the pile, follow day by day the dictations of the head man, knowing nothing of the pattern they are preparing, but gradually building up in a mechanical way the carpet on the strings before them.—Argonaut.

AVETRED THE DUEL

Valor Vanished With the Choice of Weapons and Conditions.

Representative Borland of Missouri gives an account of the challenge to a duel which occurred in Louisiana, supposedly among the last challenges of that environment in the state. The affair was between a gentleman who belonged to one of the oldest families there and a sturdy blacksmith of Georgia, who had become a man of political influence.

The gentleman took offense at some remarks of the Georgian and sent him a challenge. The powerful blacksmith was nonplused.

"'I know nothing about this dueling business,' said he, 'and I positively will not fight.'

"'You must,' urged his friend. 'No gentleman can refuse.'

"'I am not a gentleman,' replied the honest citizen of Georgia. 'I'm only a blacksmith.'

"'But you will be ruined if you do not fight,' continued his friends. 'You will have the choice of weapons, and you can choose so as to give yourself an equal chance with your adversary.'

"The giant requested time in which to consider the matter and ended by accepting. He sent the following reply to the Louisiana gentleman:

"'I accept, and, in the exercise of my privilege, I stipulate that the duel shall take place in Lake Pontchartrain in six feet of water, sledgehammers to be used as weapons.'

"As his adversary was about five feet eight inches in height and the blacksmith was seven feet, the conceit of the latter so pleased the Louisiana gentleman that he declared himself satisfied, as he was one who could appreciate a joke as well as perpetrate one, and he declared the duel off."—Exchange.

Mr. W. Russell, the instructor at the Pavilion Skating Rink, Carnarvon, has accomplished the feat of skating for twelve hours without a stop. He started at nine o'clock in the morning and finished at nine o'clock at night, and during the twelve hours covered a distance of about 121 miles.

A Monosyllabic Sermon.

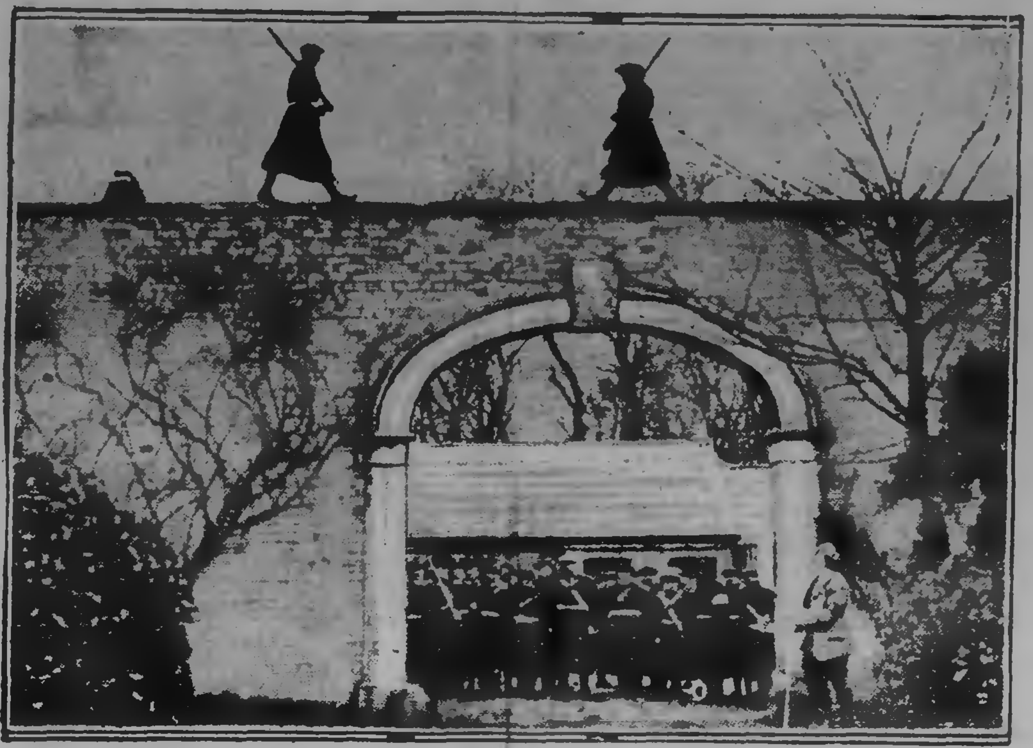
Rev. A. Smythe Palmer preached in Wanstead, Eng., a sermon which consisted of 800 monosyllabic words.



Sentires on the wall at Craigavon, the headquarters of Sir Edward Carson. Craigavon is the estate of Captain Craig, one of the most militant of the anti-Home Rulers. Part of the Ulster volunteer force is kept constantly in garrison at his fine place near Belfast.

THERE ARE SOME WICKED BIRDS

But Their Near Relatives Suffer Because of Kinship.

The king can do no wrong, but sometimes his laws are improved by revision. According to the Ontario Act for the protection of insectivorous and other birds, neither crows, hawks, blackbirds, nor English sparrows are protected. Now, this exemption clause, as it stands, is capable of a wide and unjust construction. Needless to say, there should be an amendment.

Even the crow family has one member, the blue jay, whose beauty and engaging antics may plead against total extermination. Of the others, the raven and the American crow, they are fully as black as their plumage. The raven, a huge ruffian, came as far south as Lake Ontario once upon a time, but the northern parts of the province are his haunts nowadays. He's a nuisance to the pioneer, poultry and lambs falling victims to his rapacity.

The common crow flourishes apace. Migratory once, the caw-caw pirate stays now with us all the year. In the winter the crow may do some good, but, with the spring, his usefulness ends. Seeding finds him seriously injurious, although he varies his grain diet with insects and cutworm. When the crow becomes a family man, even small adult birds, ducklings, and chickens find their way to the nestlings.

The blue jay is interesting, and aggravating. The late Mr. Justice Robertson caught one in the act of robbing a robin's nest. After killing a young robin, the jay dissected the quarry, and fed the fragments to the jaylets. Well, that particular jay fell to the judge's gun, and the jay's nest was discovered and destroyed. The young jays scattered, but one found itself in the hands of C. W. Nash, the naturalist. Mr. Nash gave much time and thought to the captive's education, and the funniest feathered chap resulted. One day, the call of the wild came to the domesticated jay, and off he flew to his brethren. But he came back in a battered and torn condition. The jay did not reveal all the things that had happened, but afterward, when Mr. Nash would take him into the garden, back he would hurry to his cage. Even when the wild jays would twit and tempt him, he would content himself with standing on the window-sill, but his scolding was terrific and, doubtless, full of meaning. Did he seek his own tribe? Never again. This sophisticated jay qualified as a temperance advocate—perhaps, because his cousin, Canada Jay, was known as Whiskey Jack. The water cure was a favorite with him. Always bathing, he drowned himself in a wash-basin. If there is a moral, gentle reader, please find it. This was an exceptional jay, owing to his two-years' training, but his brilliant career does not alter the fact that jays in general, for the good of other birds, should be driven from gardens.

There are blackbirds and blackbirds, but the law has not thought it worth while to differentiate.

The bronze grackle, better known as the "crow blackbird," is handsome, but he's so wicked that even humanitarians agree that he's at his best, in blackbird pie. Grain, birds' eggs, fruit, etc., afford this venturesome ravager a plentiful fare. The rusty grackle, a poor relation, so to speak, of the bronze grackle, is smaller, without the sheen that adorns the bronze grackle, and, it must be pointed out, less destructive in Ontario. The rusty grackle does not arrive here until September, but Manitoba hates him with justifiable intensity.

Observations of a Cynic.

In savage countries woman is a beast of burden, and in civilized countries man is a beast and woman is a burden.—Brooklyn Life.

TRIALS OF A PARSON.

Efforts of Some of His Flock to Keep Him Meek and Humble.

Do not be a parson unless you are blessed with a strong sense of humor and a thick hide, advises an English clergyman in Pearson's Weekly.

I was asked by a friend who had been offered a living near me to go and see the vicarage and church and report. I did so, and the clerk showed me round. As we neared the end he turned to me and said:

"Be you our new parson, sir, if I may make so bold?" I assured him that I was not. "I be main glad to hear that, sir," he said, with relief. "We've always had good uns so far!"

In a scattered parish I called upon an old couple about tea time. "Would you like a cup of tea?" the housewife asked. I confessed that I should like it very much. The dear old soul prepared one and kept apologizing because she had no jam or cake. I assured her that it did not matter in the least. "Well, sir," she said, brightening, "after all, 'tisn't as if you was one of them that feed high. Any one can see that."

One more. A friend of mine had got a job for a man who had been for a long time out of work. I guessed he was getting pretty shabby, so I looked up a suit—we were much of a size—and took it round. The man's wife took it, and I waited in the room, ready to be overwhelmed with thanks. She came back and said:

"My 'usband thanks you kindly, sir, but he don't hold with parson's clothes. But if you've got anything as 'd suit a man he'll have a look at it!"

Cut His Visit Short.

The Duke of Wellington once wrote to Dr. Hutton for information as to the scientific acquirements of a young officer who had been under his instruction. The doctor thought he could not do less than answer the question verbally and made an appointment accordingly.

Directly Wellington saw him he said: "I am obliged to you, doctor, for the trouble you are taking. Is —— fit for the post?"

Clearing his throat, Dr. Hutton began: "No man more so, my lord. I can"—

"That's quite sufficient," said Wellington. "I know how valuable your time is. Mine just now is equally so. I will not detain you any longer. Good morning."

Test For Hydrochloric Acid.

A curious mishap gave us a very delicate test for hydrochloric acid in the atmosphere. In a north of England locality many houses have curtains of the cream color produced by metanil yellow, popularly known as "dolly" cream dye and to science as "the sodium salt of meta-amido-benzine sulphonic acid-azo-diphenyl-amine." Some of these cream colored curtains suddenly changed to heliotrope. Investigation showed that an accidental escape of hydrochloric acid from a neighboring alkali plant had discolored the curtains, and the dye became a most useful test.—London Globe.

The Fog Peril.

One of the great conquests of science for human safety will be the discovery of some effectual means of disclosing to every ship at sea the approach and position of any other vessel which may come near in a fog. So far the fog peril remains as deadly as it ever was. In some respects the conditions change for the worse. The growth of commerce increases the number of ships which traverse the seas. Every year the water highways are more fully occupied, and the tendency is toward a higher average speed. Nothing can be seen through a dense fog. Nothing can be heard with sufficient distinctness and certainty as to distance and direction to meet the demands of safety. The best fog signals in use repeatedly fail to avert terrible disasters.—Cleveland Leader.

HIS DREAM MATERIALIZED

Curious Incident in the Career of Novelist S. R. Crockett.

One morning the postman brought to S. R. Crockett, the novelist, a letter from the editor of the St. James' Gazette containing a small check as payment for a contribution. Mr. Crockett knew that nothing was due to him, that he had been paid for all articles, and—remarkable man—he did the check up in an explanatory note and returned it to the editor.

The next day back came the check from the editor—remarkable man—with a note saying it was due. The St. James Gazette had published an article from the pen of Mr. Crockett which had not been paid for, hence the check. Again Mr. Crockett—remarkable man—returned the check, and still the remarkable editor reforwarded it, this time with the article cut out of the columns of the St. James' Gazette.

Now comes the curious feature of the incident. When Mr. Crockett clapped his eyes on the article he was astonished to find it one of his dreams materialized. One night, going to bed extra tired, he dreamed that a good idea for a St. James' Gazette column had occurred to him, that he then and there sat down, wrote it and posted it. Next morning he remembered his dream and made up his mind some day to write the article exactly as he dreamed he had written it, when, to his astonishment, came article and check from the newspaper. Few writers earn checks while asleep.—London Standard.

East Africa's Big Game.

Big game of British East Africa, outside of the three preserves of the colony, is rapidly vanishing and, according to W. T. Hornaday, "is absolutely certain to disappear in about one-fourth the time that it took South Africa to accomplish the same result." Mr. Hornaday points out that the present legal bag limit is ruinously extravagant. For $250 any man may buy the right to kill 300 head of hoofed and horned animals of forty-four species, not counting carnivorous animals that may also be killed. Thus the richest big game fauna of any one spot in the world, which nature has been several million years in developing and placing there, seems likely to be wiped out by man within the next fifteen years.—Chicago News.

Just an Oversight.

It was 9 o'clock in the morning in an English town, and the roads were blocked with snow. The maid, who had been given a week's notice, was facing the last day of her sojourn in the house. She handed the usual cup of tea to her mistress in bed and then said sweetly, "Oh, ma'am, when ye asked me yesterday if we had everything in for tonight's party I forgot to tell ye we are out of coal and the furnace is goin' out."

Real Thrift in Derbyshire.

An admirable thrift prevails at a certain Sunday school in Derbyshire, and this is effectually demonstrated at the annual tea party. The needless expense of printing new tickets for this festivity is avoided, says the Manchester Guardian, by the simple expedient of using the same year after year. Those at present employed bear the inscription:

Queen Victoria: Diamond Jubilee.
Admit one to tea.

Probably the majority of the young revelers had not been born when the tickets were printed.

Symbolism in Japan.

When a child is born in Japan the parents put up outside the house the sign of a fish or a doll, according as it a boy or a girl. The fish represents a being who has to swim against the stream and make his way in the world. The doll stands for one who is there to be petted and made much of.

SPRINGS OF NEW ZEALAND

Geysers of Island Dominion Are Biggest in World.

Geyserland, that wonderful thermal springs district situated in the heart of the North Island of New Zealand, is par excellence the most weirdly beautiful and impressive region in the world. Huge columns of boiling water and spray mount a thousand feet into the air, boiling and steaming springs are everywhere as are terraces of strange and lovely hues and Maoris paddling their canoes over calm blue lakes and spending their untroubled days in baths of Elysian warmth and softness!

The springs and geysers of Rotorua and Whakarewarewa are the best known of the thermal phenomena.

The earth here does not merely ooze hot water, it pumps it out by the thousands of tons. The supply of medicated bathing waters in Rotorua alone would suffice a continent. Its hot mineral baths are powerful remedies for rheumatism, sciatica, gout, dyspepsia, and many other afflictions. Cripples throw away their crutches after a few weeks bathing in these "living waters of Tane," where cures are affected which have baffled the world's medical skill.

Ohinemutu, a village close to Rotorua, is a picturesque and lazy-looking old Maori village. Here the aboriginal housewife needs not to kindle a fire, nature supplies her with convenient cooking-holes, ever steaming. When the Maori feels cold, he troubles not with a fire, but squats in some deliciously warm open-air bath to his neck, smoking his pipe of peace the while.

At Whakarewarewa, in close proximity, there is the wonderful geyser valley. Here, in a small space one views all conceivable kinds of thermal activity. Here are the piuas, as spouters Pohutu, Waikite, Wairoa, Waikorohihi, and other beautiful geysers, many of which throw columns of boiling water and glittering spray 100 feet into the air. A particularly beautiful sight is Waikite Geyser, which spouts away on a large terraced cone of gleaming white silicated rock.

No part of Maori-land is richer in legendary associations, in native folklore and folk-songs than these villages and woods and hills and lakes of Geyserland. Every deep mysterious river-front has its taniwha or ngarara, a mythic dragon-like monster. Every village has its tuahu, or shrine, where the priests perform their sacred ceremonies; every land, bay, and stream, and many a geyser and hot springs have their stories and their well-remembered poems commemorating incidents in their history. There are sacred trees, some of them in Maori eyes, the abode of deified ancestors; some of the ancient and huge pohutukawas that lean from the cliffs of beautiful Rotoiti Lake, and dip their festooned-fingers in the shimmering waters, are "singing trees," that carry to the Maori ear-messages of omen, like Jason's talking oak.

Boating on a boiling lake is but one of the many bizarre sensations which New Zealand affords the traveler. Conveying, though it does, more than a suggestion of thrill and adventure, it is a perfectly safe experience. Rotomahana (Maori for warm lake) is situate about twenty miles from Rotorua, and fills a vast chasm in the steam-riven country between the great Waimangy Geyser and Mount Tarawera, a volcano, now quite extinct, which caused the death of a hundred people in 1886.

The greater part of Lake Rotomahana is cold, but along its northern and western shore-line there is a belt of tremendous hydro-thermal activity extending out into the lake for a considerable distance — a steamy, boiling zone of strange sights and sounds. Rotomahana presents a very different appearance from that which it presented before the Tarawera eruption. The little, shallow lake of 1886, is now a wide, deep water-sheet, engulfing thirty times its former area. The old Lake Rotomahana covered only 185 acres, while the present lake completely fills a huge crater split open by the eruption, and covers about 5,600 acres.

ONLY ONE BED FOR THE COURT IN PIONEER DAYS

It Was a Big One, Though, and Held all its Numerous Members.

The first courthouse of Henry county, Ill., was a frame structure, eight feet by fourteen, set in the midst of an uninhabited prairie. But as little villages began to spring up in the county a lively contention for the honor of being the county seat began. Cambridge finally won, for it was nearest the center of the county.

This was in the forties of the last century. The first session of circuit court was at hand and Cambridge was on its mettle to entertain the court suitably. The difficulties to anything but pioneer courage and resourcefulness would have seemed insuperable. The village consisted of eight or ten little dwellings, a tiny general store, a blacksmith shop and a carpenter shop. The new courthouse was unfinished, but would be used, as the session fortunately fell in the summer.

Now the housewives laid their heads together to contrive how the court—officials, litigants and witnesses—should be lodged and fed. There was almost nothing that could be bought, except sugar, molasses, tea, coffee and flour. But they had an abundant supply of yellow legged chickens, home cured hams, milk, eggs, butter and cream, as well as their vegetable gardens to draw on. There was no fresh fruit, but they brought out their cherished stores of wild plum marmalade and wild crabapple preserves. Both were made with molasses, and after they had sufficient time to season were really delicious. Besides, the hillsides were pink with the beautiful wildwood sorrel, the leaves of which make delicious pies in skillful hands.

The village boasted one group of forest trees, a small grove of sugar maples, half a mile away, and in their shade Mr. Atwater built a long table with sawhorses and boards. With the combined stock of table linen, crockery and cutlery possessed by the housewives the table was laid with sufficient elegance, according to pioneer standards. It was felt that the court would be properly feasted, but how about lodging? That was the real difficulty. The tiny houses and their beds were full to overflowing with their proper inmates.

But there was the loft of the carpenter shop. The store had a whole bolt of unbleached muslin. It was torn into lengths equal to the length of the loft and sewed together by hand, of course.

Then the loft floor was covered deep with nice clean shavings, the immense sheet laid over them and tacked to the walls all the way round. On this Brobdingnagian bed the court lay in two rows. From the extra supply required for winter enough quilts were mustered to cover the sleepers. As for pillows no one gave a thought to those effeminate luxuries. The lawyers might lay their heads on their saddle-bags or their rolled up coats and be thankful.

Thus was the circuit court sumptuously fed and sufficiently lodged, thanks to the ingenious women of Henry county.—Youth's Companion.

Might as Well Have Seen Him.

Awakening with a bad headache the morning after a banquet, a suburban dentist mused, not unpleasantly, on his last evening's spree. But suddenly his wife appeared and, advancing to his bedside, shouted hysterically:

"You wretch! What will the neighbors say at your coming home drunk last night?"

"But, my dear, nobody saw me," the dentist protested.

"Nobody saw you! What if nobody did see you? You know well enough they all heard the way I carried on when you got back."—New York Tribune.

JOHN LEGG'S PLAIN TALK.

Made in an Advertisement He Put in the Paper in 1837.

Advertising in the Sun three-quarters of a century ago was worded more picturesquely than it is now in some respects. No big type was used, but the advertisements hit the mark without its aid. It is to be doubted if some of the advertisements which appeared then could get into print now, for they were outspoken to a degree which would offend modern susceptibilities. For example, here is an advertisement which appeared in the Sun of May 26, 1837:

To Shoemakers—10 Kackmen Wanted.—The subscriber gives the highest city wages for good work and begs those worthies who would filch him of his stuffs not to visit him. It would be an agreeable surprise to him if John Kemp, Thomas Pringle, Isaac Morgan and a few others would bring in the work they have so long "forgotten" to return.
JOHN LEGG, 3d 8th avenue.
The trade supplied cheap and good.

"Kackmen" seems to have gone out of use completely. It is not given in any of the modern dictionaries, but one of them has "cack, a baby's shoe," which it calls shoemakers' cant.

In the same number of the Sun T. Baxter of 8 Fulton street advertised that he wanted broken bottles, but he did not state his use for them. There are several advertisements for men to go on whaling voyages.—New York

STRANGELY SAVED.

Dane Owes Escape to Priest Mummy In Hidden Cave.

There are in suffering Mexico many Indians, belonging to several tribes, that have descended from prehistoric races. Though not educated to any extent, some of them are very intelligent and their ideas of right living are not so bad as one might suppose. A peculiar instance in this connection came to light recently when Peter Oleson, a Danish mining engineer and mill owner, reached San Francisco with his wife, after having made their escape from Zacapu, in the state of Michoacan, Mexico. Oleson declares he owes his good fortune to the influence of a Danish monk who lived in that part of Mexico nearly 400 years ago.

It seems that Father Dacio, a Danish monk, went to Mexico in the early part of the 16th century. In 1540 he founded the town of Zinsona. He worked among the Indians and so far endeared himself to them that the memory of his life is to-day their treasured tradition.

When Father Dacio died his body was embalmed and hidden away in a cave, where it was installed in a sitting posture in an armchair carved out of solid rock. From the day of his death until now, so tradition goes, candles have been kept burning in his underground resting place and three Indians have kept constant vigil over the place, the location of which is said to be known to the guards only, who never leave until taken by death, and the two oldest Indians of the tribe which treasures the tradition.

For well on to 400 years the secret had been handed down by its custodians to those selected by virtue of their age to receive it, keep it and pass it along at the approach of the reaper.

Oleson says that he had many warm friends among the Indians and has every reason to believe that the story is true and that somewhere in the vicinity of Zinsona the embalmed body of that missionary of long ago sits in a stone chair, staring with unseeing eyes at the everlasting candle light which keeps alive in the hearts of the descendants of the people he loved and worked for the memory of his own good deeds.

"The Indians believe it to be true," said Oleson. "I have talked with one of the old chiefs who is said to have the secret of the subterranean tomb. I have heard the story of Father Dacio from his lips. I knew that I and my property were safe solely because I was a Dane.

"When the Indians first learned that I came from Denmark they were deeply interested, but surprised that I had not known Father Dacio. I tried to explain that 1540 was a long time ago. They said they knew that, but Father Dacio was such a great man that everybody must have known him. They accepted me because I was a Dane and I know that when I go back my property will be just as I left it. If the Indians who promised to care for it are dead they will have delegated the duty to somebody else. They may be ignorant as the world's idea of knowledge goes, but they have the capacity for remembering a friend."

Polaris and the Meridian

People living away from the glare of the electric light of cities can always tell of the approach of Polaris to the meridian at night by watching the star Alioth, the first one from the bowl of the Great Dipper or third from the end of the handle. From a stick nailed to the corner of a house, say fifteen or twenty feet high, let fall a plumb line with bob in a bucket of water to prevent the wind causing it to oscilate. Stand south of the plumb line, look toward the north, watch Alioth; then, when this star and Polaris are on the line, drive stakes in a line to the south and you will have a very rough location of the meridian.

Not Ideal.

THE FIRST AND ONLY.

Sergeant-at-Arms Glackmeyer of Ontario House Started In 1867.

"My commission," said Mr. F. J. Glackmeyer, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Ontario Legislature, in the course of a chat with a reporter recently, "is dated 1867, the year of Confederation, when Provincial Legislatures, as we know them to-day, were organized. John Sandfield Macdonald was Premier and Attorney-General, with the Hon. John (afterwards Sir John) Carling as Minister of Agriculture and Public Works. It was through the latter that I was appointed. Born in Montreal, I had been living in London, Ont., where Sir John Carling resided, for some twelve years, and knew him well. When it became necessary to appoint the Sergeant-at-Arms he nominated me. I was 24 years old at the time, and I had no conception of what the office or its duties meant."

"Sir John Carling sent for me," proceeded Mr. Glackmeyer, with a reminiscent smile, "on the 22nd of December, 1867. The next day we went to Toronto together, and saw the Premier, who said I looked strong enough for the job, and on the 24th I got measured for my uniform in the morning, and went back to London with Sir John in the afternoon, to spend Christmas. He told me I must have a sword, so I borrowed one from Col. Macbeth, who then commanded the seventh regiment. I shall not soon forget Sir John's consternation when he saw that I proposed to wear a big military sword with a brass scabbard. I finally borrowed the sheriff's sword, and wore it with my new uniform at the opening of the House on the 27th."

Mr. Glackmeyer has seen six Premiers during the forty-seven years he has held his post—he has held it longer than any living Sergeant-at-Arms in the British Empire has. He speaks warmly of the fine speaking of the Hon. Edward Blake, who replaced Sandfield Macdonald as Premier, on the latter's defeat at the general election four and a half years after he had formed his Government. And he also mentions the Hon. E. B. Wood, Provincial Treasurer in the Sandfield Macdonald Administration, who was known as "Big Thunder," as being a remarkably fine speaker. He has known ten Lieutenant-Governors, the first of whom, Maj.-General H. W. Stisted, held office for only one year. The present Speaker is the thirteenth occupant of the chair since his appointment. One of these, the Hon. R. W. Scott, was Speaker for only two weeks, and then became a member of the Government. Another Speaker, the Hon. W. D. Balfour, was elected in February, 1895, and took office in the summer of the year following as Provincial Treasurer. Yet another, the Hon. W. A. Charlton, was elected in 1903, and resigned, after a comparatively short time, to become Minister of Public Works in the Ross Government.

"When I was first appointed," said Mr. Glackmeyer, "the House met in the old building on Front street. This was quite unsuitable. It was inconvenient, and had gone to wrack and ruin, having been used as a barracks. The first session in the present Parliament Building was opened in the spring of 1893. There were only 82 members when I was appointed, as against a hundred and six to-day. The longest session of which I have had experience — the first of the tenth Parliament — lasted 110 days. The shortest—that in 1874—lasted only forty days."

Saved By His Mitts.

A moving tale comes from the woods, a story quite worthy of Fenimore Cooper. An Indian of one of the Ontario reserves has escaped from a painful death by rather peculiar means. A few evenings ago he was walking across the ice on a small lake, when, in the darkness he stepped into one of those "air-holes" which are found in the thickest ice, and found himself plunged in deep, icy water.

James Johnson was his name — it should have been something more picturesque and hyphenated—and he was a large strong Indian and experienced in the life and misadventures of the woods. Owing to the slipperiness of the ice surrounding the hole, he was quite unable to raise himself out of the water; struggle as he might he could obtain no grip, says The Canadian Mail.

When almost exhausted he threw one arm as far over the ice as he could while he rested for a moment. When he moved again he found that the wet woollen "mitt" (fingerless glove) which he wore had frozen stiff and, fortunately for him, had also frozen tight to the glare ice on which his hand rested.

This gave him a slight grip, and, quick to seize the idea, he placed the other mitt where it would also freeze to the ice. The two frozen mitts thus gave him two hand holes, and enable him to scramble on to the ice. Then, although his clothes froze hard upon him, he managed to make his way safely home, a distance of three miles, and is none the worse for the adventure.

PICKING PEBBLES.

It Is Now a Recognized Industry Along Lake Superior.

Pebble picking came into existence nearly four years ago when a company put into operation a plant on the granite pebble beaches of Lake Superior. In the great cement mills of this country part of the process of turning out the flour-like product is the scientific grinding of the burnt mixture of marl and clay. This is done in large, hollow, cylindrical drums, partly filled with hard, smooth, flinty pebbles. The drums are swiftly rotated on their axes, and the constant friction and grinding, as they are whirled about, mixed with the burnt cement clinkers, quickly reduces the latter to a grey, powdery substance—the finished product of the plant. The pebbles, to perform their functions to the best advantage, must be smooth and of an adamantine hardness so as to resist abraision, for one quality of good cement is the absence of impurities or foreign matter in its composition. They must also be able to resist extreme changes of temperature without flying apart. It is not essential that they be nearly spherical in shape so long as they have sufficient body or mass. Their size is variable, ranging from that of a small hen's egg to the size of a person's fist.

For some years after the growth of the Portland cement business in America all pebbles used were imported from the distant shores of Norway. The flinty granite strata of Norway's hills became advertised as the formation producing the best cement pebble, and her fiords and beaches soon furnished the world's supply.

The importation was not an expensive one and transportation rates were low. As the cement industry grew manufacturers here began to look about them nearer home for a substitute. One concern drew a considerable supply from the farms in Michigan, a dollar a load being paid. The farmers considered themselves well paid, getting rid of a troublesome pest, but the pebbles were of a base nature and did not produce satisfactory results. On the Pacific coast pebble picking has been carried on for some years past, but only to a small extent, and few other than the local mills are furnished from that source.

Five years ago a number of Port Arthur men interested themselves in the problem, and they prospected the beaches of the north shore of Lake Superior. On the pebble beaches near the Canadian Pacific Railway port of Jackfish they found a product answering their requirements. A pebble company became incorporated and shortly afterwards commenced commercial operations. On a small scale at first, the pebbles were picked by hand. In the mills where they were tried as an experiment they stood the test. They compared very favorably with the best imported ones, and proved even better in some cases, for in one of the cement-making processes, known as the "wet," the Canadian pebbles withstood the treatment, while the Norway imports flew to pieces.

The pebble beaches of Lake Superior are not numerous and the company's prospectors quickly staked the valuable ones.

To oust all competition in the section the sites and claims were bought from the Government, and, free from opposition, the company settled down to engage in more extensive operations. Hand picking was superseded by a steam shovel, operating on rails along the beach. The staff of employes and the laboring crew were doubled. To-day a completely equipped camp, with an electric-lighting plant and pumping station, accommodations for a crew of over one hundred men, a railroad siding and a loading wharf, adds to the natural surroundings of "the beach."

Has Queer Old Bible.

W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, former president of the Ontario Bar Association, owns what is probably the oldest Bible in Ontario. It was published in A. D. 1700. That is a long time ago, and the world has seen many changes down through those two hundred and fourteen years.

The Bible has been in the Mikel family since 1754, one hundred and sixty years ago, and six generations of the one family have thumbed and gazed upon the old book. It is five inches thick from cover to cover fourteen inches long and nine inches wide. The binding consists of wood covered with leather. It contains one hundred and twenty-three illustrations about six inches square, with a large portrait engraved the full size of the book on the second page. Judging from the expense attached to publishing at the time this volume was published, it must have cost a considerable sum, but its value is now, no doubt many times its original cost.

Fine For the Gulls.

Flocks of gulls from the lake have been attracted by the fish thrown on the nuisance ground at Port Arthur and on a market garden nearby where the owner had hauled a lot of the fish for fertiliser. So thick have the birds been during the winter and spring that the ground was almost white with them while they fed upon the flesh.

On account of the mild weather last fall the piles of the herring caught could not be frozen and wagon loads had to be hauled to the nuisance ground to get them away from the docks as the facilities for salting them were inadequate to handle the heavy catch.

APPRECIATION.

If son picks a gal who is pretty,
A sensible creature to boot,
One who is a joy and a treasure
And any old codger would suit—
In fact, if his choice is an angel,
With no fault or blemish or flaw,
And makes all the other chaps jealous—
It's fine to be father-in-law.

I'm getting rheumatic and wheezy.
My bones have a contract to ache—
At least so it seems in the morning
When I from my slumber awake.
Too old to admire pretty faces
Or trouble about them; but, pshaw,
I do like, although I am ancient,
A sweet, pretty daughter-in-law!

For when the old man goes to visit
A chair in the parlor is set,
And everything's done for his comfort,
So he won't get lonesome and fret.
The table is loaded with dainties,
And to it my chair I must draw.
There's nothing too good for old daddy,
For cranky old daddy-in-law.

It makes me feel young just to loiter
Around where at work I can see
This daughter so busy, yet always
With time to do favors for me.
I tell you it's great when you get them,
So bonny, so blithe and so braw.
I wouldn't trade half of the county
Or more for my daughter-in-law.

"Robinson is so thoughtless."

"Is he?"

"Yes. Doesn't seem to care anything about his reputation."

On the Level.

"He wanted to print a book for the blind."

"Why didn't he, then?"

"Couldn't make a raise of the letters."

Where Needed.

Well, that must be refreshment for

A MATTER OF PREFERENCE.

Explaining the Mysterious Disappearance of a Third Passenger.

Three convivial Clevelanders were going to Elyria the other day. One of them was awfully tired, and as soon as he got into his seat he went to sleep. And as soon as he got to sleep one of his companions swiped his ticket from his pocket. Then the conductor approached, and the two wide awake ones aroused the sleeper. "Here comes the conductor for the tickets," they said. "Wake up!"

He woke up and searched his pockets, but of course he found no ticket.

"Say, you fellers," he said, "I can't find it."

"Then you'll have to pay cash fare," they answered cheerfully.

"I haven't got a cent in my pocket."

"Neither have we. Get under the seat."

So he crawled under the seat. Then the conductor came to collect tickets. And the joker who had swiped the ticket from the sleepy one produced them all.

"There are three tickets here and only two of you," objected the conductor. "Where's the other one?"

"Under the seat," answered the jester promptly. The conductor took a look, and, sure enough, there was the third member of the party groveling in the dirt.

"What's he doing there?" the conductor wanted to know.

"Oh, he always travels that way. He prefers it," was the smiling answer.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Classifying Him.

"Pop," said the son, who had caddied one afternoon at one of the golf clubs, "is a man a pretty good golfer if he knocks the ball 125 yards?"

"Just a novice, my son."

"Well, if he knocks a ball 175 yards is he pretty good?"

"Yes; pretty good, son."

"Well, pop, what if he knocks the ball 250 yards?"

"Mighty good. He's mighty good if he can do that, my boy."

"Well, now, pop, what if he knocks it 275 yards?"

"He's awful, awful good, Tommy," replied pop as he once more fastened his eye on the story of the Indian's downfall.

"Well, pop, what if he knocked the ball 325 yards—what would be be then?"

"Probably a liar, son. Now you had better run up and kiss mamma and go to bed."—Indianapolis News.

Why They Did It.

The sweet young thing was being shown through the locomotive shops.

"What is that thing?" she asked, pointing with her parasol.

"That," replied the guide, "is an engine boiler."

She at once became interested. "And why do they boil the engines?" she asked again.

"Oh," replied the guide thoughtfully, "to make the engine tender."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Recognition.

The bored youth turned to his dinner partner with a yawn.

"Who is that strange looking man over there who stares at me so much?" he drawled.

"Oh, that's Professor Jenkins," she replied, "the famous expert on insanity."—London Tit Bits.

Locating a Quarrel.

"And when you were abroad on your honeymoon trip did you visit the Palace of Peace at The Hague?" asked the girl friend of the bride just home from abroad.

"Oh, yes," was the reply, "we had our first quarrel there."—Yonkers Statesman.

Man and the Hour.

"Mine at last! I could face ogres for you."

"Well, while you are feeling so spunky it would be a good time for you to interview papa, George."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Not Wasted.

Johnny—No'm. Tommy Dodd liked it, an' he gimme an apple for it.—Boston Transcript.

"Weed" Succeeds In South Africa.

Tobacco growing in South Africa is gone into with considerable detail in the report of the Union Department of Agriculture for the 15 months ended March, 1913. It is stated therein that during the period under review the Magaliesburg district produced 6,000,000 pounds of tobacco, and the Union approximately 11,000,000 pounds, the average value of which would probably be about 16c. per pound. If the production of pipe tobacco continues at its present rate, it is added, the local consumption will soon be overtaken, and there will be a glut unless a market oversea can be found for a portion of the crop. Inquiries have been made as to the prospects of such an outlet, and it appears likely that markets would be found for the tobacco provided it is properly grown, cured, and packed; but it will have to be sold at a price which will enable it to compete with tobacco of similar quality from America. About 525 acres of Turkish tobacco were planted in 1912, the yield from which was expected to be about 210,000 pounds.

King's "Bachelor" Dinners.

The announcement that King George, when he returns to Buckingham Palace within a week or two, intends to resume his series of "bachelor" dinner parties which formed a marked feature of the royal season last year has been very gladly received. These parties are of an informal character, and usually take place upon a Friday evening. His Majesty invites thirty or forty intimate friends, with whom he chats freely during the evening. It is an understood rule, however, that politics, either at home or abroad, are rigorously barred. Needless to say, an invitation to one of these "bachelor" dinners is most eagerly coveted.

KIDNEYS CURED AND VITALITY REGAINED

Prominent Ontario Merchant Says He Is Enjoying "The Best Health I Ever Had" Thanks To "Fruit-a-tives".

B. A. KELLY, Esq.

HAGERSVILLE, ONT., Aug. 28th. 1913

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My Kidneys were not doing their work, and I was all run down in condition. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, I decided to try them. Their effect I found more than satisfactory. Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected.

My kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes and I regained my old time vitality. Today I am as well as ever, the best health I ever had, and I unhesitatingly give you this letter and my photo for publication if you wish"

B. A. KELLY

"The greatest kidney remedy in the world", is what thousands of people say about "Fruit-a-tives". And it is true. "Fruit-a-tives" heals the kidneys, strengthens the kidneys, cures the kidneys, as nothing else will. All over Canada today, hundreds of people who were sick and suffering, are curing themselves of kidney and bladder troubles, Rheumatism, and Lumbago by taking "Fruit-a-tives", the famous medicine made from fruit juices.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c.—or will be sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CANAL THROUGH A TUNNEL.

Great Engineering Feat That France Is Pushing to Completion.

We are not the only country with a canal job that is nearly completed. In the south of France there is being dug the last link in the system of water communication that will join Marseilles with the north of France.

It is already possible to cross from the English channel to the Mediterranean by canal, but there was no great port at the southern end of the system; hence the present canal.

The striking feature is that the canal will pass through a tunnel nearly four and a half miles long. This tunnel comes soon after leaving the harbor of Marseilles. It will be forty-eight feet high and seventy-three feet wide, with nearly twenty feet of water in it.

The amount of rock excavated is eight times as much per yard of advance as in the Simplon tunnel, but it is being dug at the rate of nearly twenty feet a day.

After passing through the tunnel the canal will turn to the west and border the lake of Berre. At Port de Bouc it will join the present canal from Arles, which will be enlarged. The cost will be about $14,000,000.—Boston Globe.

Simple Enough.

During a lull in the conversation the young man who was calling made the announcement that he had failed to keep abreast of the scientific advance of the age.

"For instance," he said, "I don't know at all how the incandescent electric light which is now used so much is produced."

"Oh, it's very simple," said the up to date girl. "You just turn a button and the light appears."—Lippincott's Magazine.

FALLING HAIR AND ITCHING SCALP

Entirely Needless — Use Parisian Sage. It Quickly Removes Dandruff—Your Head Feels Fine.

Now that Parisian Sage—a scientific preparation that supplies hair and scalp needs—can be had at any drug or toilet counter, it is certainly needless to have thin, brittle, matted, stringy or faded hair. No matter how unsightly the hair, how badly it is falling, or how much dandruff, just spend a few minutes each day for a week and rub a little Parisian Sage into the scalp and through the hair. All dandruff is removed with one application, the hair roots are nourished and stimulated to grow new hair, itching scalp and falling hair cease—your head feels fine. Best of all, the hair becomes soft, fluffy, abundant and radiant with life and beauty.

Parisian Sage is one of the most pleasant, invigorating and refreshing hair tonics. No cheap perfumery odor—no disagreeable concoctions—but a daintily perfumed tea-colored liquid that proves its goodness the first time it is used.

You will be surprised and delighted with Parisian Sage. Try at least one fifty cent bottle. Warne Drug Co. will refund the purchase price if you are not satisfied.

Look for the trade-mark — "The Girl with the Auburn Hair"—it's on every package—accept no other.

CLOTHES HANGERS.

Their Variety and Convenience Should Banish Wrinkles From Garments.

If the closet room is small make the most of it by having a bar placed on which the hangers can be hung. Of course, the sort of hangers used must have hooks big enough to get over the bar. The bar can be bought. Sometimes it is made of nickel. A broom handle is quite satisfactory. The broom, of course, must be sawed off and the handle secured firmly at each end to the closet walls, lengthwise of the closet. A bar three feet long will accommodate at least a dozen frocks and coats on hangers.

An emergency peg for the camper can be made from a clothespin. Saw off the prongs of the pin, leaving just the knobby head—two or three inches long. Through the middle of the end of the knob drive a long, strong wire nail, longer than the piece of clothes pin. Fasten this securely in a board on the wall, and you have a peg that will not tear the things hung on it.

Some dainty new clothes hangers are these: Two little clamps to clamp over the band of a skirt or over the rim of the inside of the seams of the bodice are fastened to two pieces of ribbon, each six or eight inches long. Sometimes, to give additional strength, these ribbons are double. At the other end of each ribbon is a little bone ring which is to hang over the peg. The two rings are hung over different pegs and so hold the skirt or frock attached to the clamps in shape.

For the thin lingerie frock or waist a scented hanger is delightful. Any of the cheap hangers can be covered first with wadding in which the scent is sprinkled and then with figured lawn or with silk. A good way to cover a scented hanger is first to put on a silk or satin cover and over that to put a lawn cover which is in two parts, like two slips, to go over the two ends, fastened about the middle of the hanger with ribbons run through the hems. This slip cover can be washed to keep the hanger fresh and clean.

Sudden Appreciation.

"Now, I know you have been gambling again and breaking my heart. But you don't care for that!"

"But, darling, I won, and I've brought every cent of my winnings home to you."

"Oh, you dear, considerate man. Always thinking of your little wife, aren't you, pet?"—Baltimore American.

Political Influence.

"What do you understand by the term political influence?"

"Political influence," replied Senator Sorghum, "is usually something that a lot of people come around and tell you they brought to bear after you have succeeded in landing a job."—Washington Star.

College Education.

A college education is not a scheme to enable a man to live without work. Its purpose is to help him to work to advantage — to make every stroke count.—David Starr Jordan.

Considerate Parent.

"What are you doing these days?"
"I have joined the sons of rest."
"How can you do it?"
"By having a father who didn't."

WINNING HAPPINESS.

Get on Good Terms With Yourself and Everything About You.

Happiness can never come from the outside to the inside unless happiness already exists in the inside. We become happy because there are certain elements within us that respond immediately to the things that make up happiness.

To be thoroughly happy you must be on good terms with yourself.

Also it means that you have fathomed the mystery of happiness in every growing thing about you. A man that is not on good terms with the trees and flowers and birds and bouses and the scores of other gifts of nature can never be upon good terms with himself. For nature, though silent in its expression, speaks truths more wondrous than the expressed truths of men.

To be thoroughly happy you must be on good terms with everything about you.

Did you ever look up into the sky and ask yourself whether or not you were on good terms with the stars, with the planets—with the moon? And during the day, with the clouds and the marvelous sun that so greatly affect your disposition, as these things do affect the dispositions of every one?

To be thoroughly happy you must make the wonderful truths and expressions of nature your mental companions.

It is impossible for you to be upon good terms with all people unless you fall in alignment with their sympathies and with their viewpoints. It is impossible for you to bring out the best that is within unless you use as a basic standing a perfect equality of terms.—Toledo Times.

ANCIENT MEDICAL HUMOR.

Specimens From the Rome of Nearly Twenty Centuries Ago.

That there was no lack of medical humor in the classic days of Rome is made sure by the ancient epigrams of Martial of nearly 2,000 years ago. The London Lancet shows that the poet bore a grudge against the specialists of his day, for it seems they had this variety of practitioners then and pokes fun at the oculists and at the surgeons who indulged in clinical teaching. Of the latter he has a patient complain in good Latin, and this complaint has been made over into current English:

I lay ill, but soon Symmachus sought me
With a class of a hundred young men,
Whose hundred cold paws have brought me
The fever I lacked till then.

The journal of the American Medical association calling attention to the medical ways of the ancient city notes that diseases due to luxurious habits had multiplied greatly in Rome. What was called gout—that is, pains and aches in joints and muscles and the vague conditions that we now call rheumatism—had also greatly increased. Pliny, who was an older contemporary of Martial, says, "Gout used to be an extremely rare disease, not in the times of our fathers and grandfathers only, but even within my own memory." Although the gouty were usually rich and of luxurious habits, some of them evidently were not good pay. An evidence of this is thus given:

Diodorus, while he sues in court,
On gouty feet can stand,
But when the lawyer's bill is brought
The gout sets fast his hand.

Masked Women.

Upper class Swahili women wear curious masks, which are made of leather and beads on a wooden frame. The mask is derived from the traditional usage of Moslem women, who must keep their faces covered in the presence of men. For several centuries Arab traders have frequented this east African coast, and to their influence are due most of the civilized customs found today among the natives of the district. The clothing worn by these prosperous dames is of silk, their shoes are partly of silver, and they wear much silver jewelry. The Moslems in Zanzibar, by the way, are less fanatically strict about religious usages than their brethren in Morocco and Turkey.—Wide World Magazine.

"Bob" and "Cob" In Money.

Most people would know what was meant by the term "bob" when speaking of money. But would they be able to say offhand what a "cob" is or was in a similar connection? It was used in polite circles in the seventeenth century, for it occurs in a letter from the Earl of Essex—"So my wife gave her a cob, for which she seemed very thankful"—printed in the new volume of the "Camden" series, the editor of which gives the information that the cob was "a piece of money the value of which varied from 4 shillings to as much as 6 shillings in 1675."—London Chronicle.

No Chance to Elope.

Girls in New Guinea have little chance to run away. Their parents force them to sleep in a little house on the topmost branch of a tall tree, then the ladder is removed and the slumber of the parents is not disturbed by fears of an elopement.

Caught Enough.

Mary—The doctor says this illness of mine is caused by a germ. Agnes—What did he call it? Mary—I don't remember. I caught the disease, but not the name.—Judge.

Sometimes.

Tommy—Pop, a man and his wife are one, aren't they? Tommy's Pop—Yes, my son; sometimes one too many. —Philadelphia Record.

He is not the best carpenter who makes the most chips.—Old Saying.

FATE OF THE RESOLUTE.

British Economy and the End of Franklin's Exploring Ship.

The story of how the brave little exploring ship the Resolute was found by an American vessel in Davis strait after a thousand mile cruise from Melville island without a soul on board is easily the most captivating in the history of arctic exploration. The Resolute, locked in the ice, was abandoned on May 15, 1854, sorely against the will of her captain by advice of the leader of the Belcher-Franklin expedition. The reappearance of the vessel on Sept. 17 caused a great sensation, and the United States brought the vessel with great ceremony to Cowes in order to present it to the queen of England.

The queen, the prince consort and others of the royal family then at Osborne House inspected the vessel, which had been carefully repaired and all the original furniture retained in position down to the smallest trinkets. The American skipper traced before her majesty the thousand mile course of the vessel and expressed his belief that Sir John Franklin was still alive, living among the Eskimos.

After many banquets the actual transfer of the vessel took place on Dec. 30, 1856, when the American flag was replaced by the British. And now comes the tragedy. The admiralty had no sooner come into the possession of the vessel than it proceeded to break it up on the good old principle of public economy!—London Chronicle.

A Huge Structure.

One of the most gigantic engineering works in Canada is the viaduct carrying steel across the Belly river just west of the city of Lethbridge on the Crow's Nest branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Alberta. It is the longest and highest bridge in the world. There are longer bridges and higher bridges, but combining both dimensions, no bridge in the world measures up to it.

Evidence.

"They used to be engaged."
"Aren't they now?"
"No."
"Why?"
"She says she doesn't love him any more."
"Her taste must be improving."

Accommodating Language.

"Even though a marriage may be arranged by her relatives against her will a woman has to give her consent at the altar."

"Of course."

"And if she says not"—

"Then there is no knot."

Unprotected.

"I didn't know Jenks was married."

"It happened very suddenly. He met her at a summer resort, and they were married in less than a week."

"Poor chap. I told him not to go away without taking out some accident insurance."

Mere Formal.

"Mamma, the policemen here are all named Robert," commented the small boy who was making his first visit to London.

"I guess not."

"Everybody calls them Bobbie."

Clever Man.

"I don't believe a word that man says."

"It isn't necessary, is it?"

"Why, what do you mean?"

"He makes his touch just the same."

Borrowed One.

"I have an idea."
"Have you?"
"Good one too."
"Glad to hear it. Whose is it?"

Off Season.

The pugilist must take a rest.
This is his day of gloom.
While making faces at his fate
He has to stand around and wait
And give the football room.

NEW HAND LINEN.

Bath Towels Are Now Adorned With Gayly Colored Stitching.

SCALLOPED BORDERS CHIC.

Much Latitude Is Allowed in the Choice of Patterns, and Various Ways of Marking the Pieces Are Favored. The Stencil Initial.

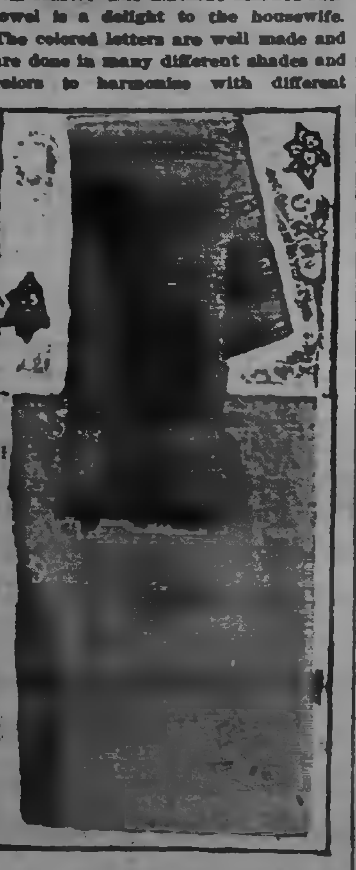
Spring and the housecleaning problem bring the subject of household linen home to the housewife. She may be glad to know that towels and other hand linen are being shown in many new and attractive styles.

Towels are more varied than ever this season. The machine marked bath towel is a delight to the housewife. The colored letters are well made and are done in many different shades and colors to harmonize with different rooms. There are also pink and green and blue bath towels of pale, pretty colors and silky texture.



NEW BATH TOWELS.

Bath mats of white turkish toweling are marked with a big initial in color in the center.

The Correct Hand Towel.

Guest and hand towels are made of plain or bordered huckaback. Sometimes the border extends across the ends of the towels, which are finished below it with a one inch hemstitched hem. Usually the ends are unfigured and are scalloped or hemstitched, and the border is a narrow one along both sides.

Above the end scalloping or hemstitch there is sometimes embroidery done in many of the popular stitches and sometimes an initial worked in simple or elaborate design. The most durable towel is one hemstitched in a two inch hem.

Use of Embroidered Initial.

Some women always use a simple, single letter embroidered in satin stitch on all their household linen. They choose this mark and stick to it. The single letter is the most usual mark at present anyway. On towels it is placed just above the hem, if there is one—perhaps an inch, if the letter is small, farther above if the letter is large. On pillowcases the letter has the same position it has on the towels.

If the towels and pillowcases are scalloped and embroidered at the ends the letter is generally in a wreath or festoon of the border embroidery. Sheets should be marked an inch or so from the hem in the center. If they are marked on the corners the letter or letters do not show when the sheets are in use.

Marking Napkins.

Napkins are marked with the letter placed diagonally so that it will be in the center of the square of the folded napkin. Tablecloths are marked so that the letter rests on the table near the edge.

Ink marking, of course, should be as inconspicuous as embroidered marking is conspicuous. Tablecloths and napkins should be marked on the wrong side. The lettering can be done on strips of narrow linen tape, which should then be neatly sewed on. Sheets are marked in the corner, on the hem, and pillowcases are marked on the wrong side of the hem. Towels are also marked on the wrong side.

A Stencil Marker.

Some persons have copper stencil plates made for marking linen. These plates, of course, can be made in any design, and they are quite the easiest device for linen marking.

Indelible ink for marking may be made at home. Dissolve two parts of nitrate of silver in five parts of liquid ammonia and dissolve two and a half parts of gum arabic and three parts of carbonate of soda crystals in four parts of distilled water. When these ingredients are dissolved mix them together. Warm the mixture slightly, and it will turn brown. If a decidedly colored ink is wanted add a few drops of solution of magenta.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

owe their singular effectiveness in curing Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica to their power of stimulating and strengthening the kidneys. They enable these organs to thoroughly filter from the blood the uric acid (the product of waste matter) which gets into the joints and muscles and causes these painful diseases. Over half a century of constant use has proved conclusively that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills strengthen weak kidneys and

Cure Rheumatism

Even Worse.

"Why do they hate each other so?"

"They are rivals."

"Oh, both trying to marry the same girl, eh? That sort of thing certainly does arouse a man's primal passions."

"In this case it is worse than that. They are both trying to marry the same fortune."—Houston Post.

Barrett's Pun.

Lawrence Barrett, though stern and dignified, could unbend a little occasionally. Once a popular low comedian proposed a combination with him, which he declined.

"It would have been an unhappy illustration," said the tragedian in relating it, "of Grin and Barrett."

Flustered.

It was Smith's first Sunday as usher in church and he was a bit flustered. Turning to a lady who entered he said, "This way, madam, and I'll sew you into a sheet."—Boston Transcript.

WHEN BAKING CAKE.

When making cakes or biscuits remember the following points:

Your oven must be properly heated. Cakes require a moderate oven and biscuits a hot oven.

Every cake should be well beaten for four or five minutes immediately before it is put into the oven—that is to say, after the last of the ingredients has been added to the mixture. As soon as you have finished beating you should put your cake into the oven. Never allow it to stand about or it will be spoiled.

The plainer your cake, the more rising agent it will require. A rising agent is anything in the nature of baking powder or soda. Rich cakes which contain many eggs and much butter do not need anything of this description.

FOR THE DANCER.

Care of the Feet That Will Keep Them In Good Condition.

You will enjoy a dance ever so much more if when dressing you wash your feet in very hot water. Rub these well with methylated spirit, allowing it to dry on. Then take a cake of soap, moisten it slightly and rub the heels well with this, and also the ball of the feet and across the joints of the toes.

After doing this you will have perfect comfort through the evening and the feet are never swollen or blistered next day.

From a man who dances for a living and is practically on his feet twelve hours of every twenty-four comes the following advice:

Change the shoes at least three times from rising until retiring, the stockings at least twice, and keep the feet absolutely clean. To be clean they should be bathed three times each day.

Use soap only in the morning, other times merely warm or hot water. After drying rub carefully with a good talcum powder. Twice a week rub the entire foot with vaseline. White is best. Oil of sweet almonds is also soothing. No other care is necessary unless there are old troubles to contend with. Less care, and trouble may result.

HANDMADE GARTERS.

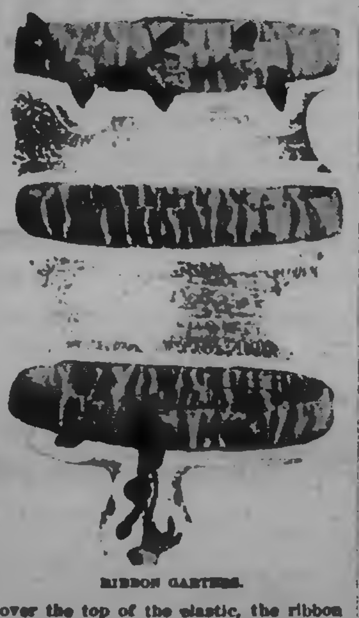
They Are a Chic Note In Milady's Lingerie Outfit.

Dainty handmade garters are a part of the smart woman's lingerie outfit. Some have garters to match or harmonize with each of their various sets of underwear. The garters are of the same color as the ribbon used in the lingerie, which also is in a tone similar to that of the gown.

A pair of ribbon garters which are a little out of the ordinary can be made in this way: Cover the elastic with yellow satin ribbon, which should be just wide enough to reach over the elastic when folded. The two edges of the ribbon are overhanded together over the top of the elastic, the ribbon being put on full enough to lie in folds around the elastic.



RIBBON GARTERS.

After the elastic is covered make a buckle by covering a piece of cardboard with shirred ribbon and on either side of the buckle have two loops of the ribbon, making a very stiff tailored bow. Fasten to one side of the ribbon elastic.

In place of the buckle a wreath of ribbon or chiffon rosebuds may be substituted.

If you have a friend who is a bride to be send her a pair of the exquisitely pretty garters that are offered in the shops. Three styles are illustrated here, two trimmed with silk flowers and one studded with rhinestones.

Oddities In Entertaining.

We live in a day of unusual entertainments—at least in a time when the unusual method of entertaining is at a premium.

Dancing at restaurants at tea time and dinner time and supper time is established. At some of the cabaret shows the audience is invited to practice the steps danced by the professionals on the stage.

Some society people not long ago went from Chicago to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras with a freight car fitted up for dancing attached to their private car.

An aviator's dinner, given in honor of some successful flyer, was called an upside down dinner and began with dessert and ended with soup.

Never cover the pot in which you cook greens.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

THERE IS A QUAINTNESS IN THE NEW FASHIONS.

The quaintness of the old-fashioned girl of ruffles and panniers makes this frock fashionably picturesque. Cream lace in the ruffles and the corsage covers an underdress of cream silk. The panie rs quite a distinctive note in light green pussy willow taffeta with a high girdle and just a frill to suggest that it makes part of the corsage. A frock that would serve many occasions for the summer days could be made of machine embroidery flouncing instead of the lace and with a panier of the taffeta that could be detachable to wear with other frocks.

Explosive Force of Water.

Water, looked upon as the tamest of liquids, is as great an explosive as dynamite under certain conditions. In one day water breaks up more earth and rock than all the gunpowder, guncotton and dynamite in the world do in a year. These explosives can be controlled by human energy, but water does not hold itself accountable to man. It runs into the ground, freezes, expands and splits the soil into little pieces. Finding a crack in a huge rock, it repeats the same process, forcing it asunder. If frozen in the pores of a tree it often explodes with a report like a gunshot and the force of a dynamite bomb.

NEW HOPE FOR SUFFERERS FROM PARALYSIS

There are cases of paralysis that cannot be cured. But that is far different from saying that every case of paralysis is incurable. There is absolute proof that many forms of this disease are curable. Of the cases that cannot be cured many can be so benefitted that the formerly hopeless sufferer will once more find life worth living.

Attention is called to the remarkable cures that have been effected in cases of partial paralysis, and other severe nervous disorders, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Some of these cures are so wonderful as to challenge belief, but in every case the statements have been carefully verified and may be investigated by anyone interested. In this connection the case of Miss B. Millehan, of St. John, N.B., is worthy of the most careful attention. Miss Millehan says: "Some three years ago I was taken seriously ill with diphtheria. The doctor brought me safely through this dreaded trouble, and I was assumed to be well. But two weeks later I took a relapse, my throat and limbs becoming paralyzed. I could neither speak nor walk. I was under the best of medical care, and after a few weeks was able to sit up in bed, but my throat was still completely paralyzed and I could only utter unintelligable sounds. I was treated by three of St. John's best physicians, for this trouble and my case was given up as hopeless. A friend asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I had spent so much on medicine without help that I thought it would be only a further waste of money. However, I felt myself growing daily weaker and weaker, and I decided as a last chance that I would try the Pills. By the time I had taken a half dozen boxes I could walk across the floor, something doctors had told me could never happen again. I still continued taking the pills, my speech returned, and I felt myself in perfect health. My friends thought my restoration nothing short of a miracle, and I think myself that I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I am living to-day, and I feel quite confident they can do quite as much for others as they did for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effect cures in cases of this kind because they make new, rich, red blood, which feeds and strengthens the nerves, and tones up the whole system. If you are in need of a medicine give these pills a trial. We are confident you will not be disappointed. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE GREAT CALM.

WE do not have
To worry off
Our heads
About the matter,
Nor need we stand
And take A hand
In all the din
And clatter.
Around
In silence most profound
The stillness is so ample
That any chap
May take a nap
In using
Up a sample.
A year ago
The three ring
Show
Was certainly
In action,
And here
And there
And everywhere
It was
The sole attraction.
The air
We smote
And took a vote
To save
The blooming nation.
And so
This year
It should be clear
We've earned
A big vacation.
We're thankful for
The brief
Respite,
But still we are
Not humble.
We know
In one more year there'll be
The same
Old
Rough and tumble.

"I think the offices should be passed around."

"Depends on how they are passed around."

"Is there more than one way?"

"I should think so. For example, they have always been passed around me."

Man appreciates a clean house a great deal more than he likes the process of getting it clean.

A homely girl doesn't have the faintest glimmering of how perfectly idiotic any man can be.

There are people who seem born to do nothing, and they do it with such grace and smoothness that one can see they are glad of it.

People who get on our nerves and send us to the rest cures ought to have action for damages brought against them.

The before taking description of a young man about to be married resembles nothing so much as the after taking description of the just divorced individual.

Nothing fails so beautifully as a reform ticket in a really live political field.

We could bear with a great deal more patience the things that we don't like if they didn't cost so much money.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

The Old Time Custom of "Plowing at the Horse's Tail."

Animals seem to have no idea of exercising to keep warm. They just turn their backs to the wind and crouch, but perhaps if one had only a limited amount of fuel it would be better just to keep a spark alive till the snap was over than to burn it all out in a few hours.

The first legislation against cruelty to animals is said to have been an enactment passed in the days of Queen Elizabeth prohibiting "plowing at the horse's tail," as then practiced in Ireland.

This custom consisted in lashing the plow beam to the horse's tail with a bit of rope and then, while one man held the plow, another walked backward before the animal, guiding it with blows of a stick. It seems as though this plan must have cocked the plow so high into the air that the point would take no hold on the soil. It seems also as if only the most spiritless of equines would have submitted to the treatment, but that it was frequently done the act against it proves. The cruelty of the practice needs no demonstration; it could not have been profitable, but was perhaps preferable to starvation. Whether the English legislators were moved solely by pity of the miserable beast or whether they desired to make a market for English plows and harness does not appear.—From "A Farmer's Notebook," by C. B. D. Phelps.

Caramel is best made without any water at all; simply put the sugar into a small granite saucepan over the fire and stir constantly until it is melted. Use at once.

RENTING ROOMS

The total amount of rent money paid for furnished rooms in this city each week is enormous! Nobody knows how much. It goes to thrifty people, who like to lessen their own rent or living expense by sub-letting one or more spare rooms to an agreeable person. If YOU have a desirable extra room you can become a receiver of rent by ordering a "Furnished Room to Let" ad. in the Review. The cost is nominal—one cent a word for first insertion and half a cent a word for subsequen insertions, run consecutively.

GOODS VALUED AT $25 ARE TAKEN DURING NIGHT FROM EAST CITY STORE

T. B. Maniece, of the Opinion That Gang of Boys Engineered the Robbery

Thieves entered the grocery store of T. B. Maniece, Hunter Street East, sometime during the night, taking goods to the value of about $25. Fortunately the cash register was empty. The entrance had been forced through a rear window. Speaking of the affair to a reporter, Mr. Maniece remarked that to his knowledge there had not been any constable patrolling a beat on Hunter Street East last night, or other nights. Complaints from other residents were also numerous, he said. They are of the opinion that when there are additional constables, they should be protected.

Mr. Maniece said that from indications the theft had been committed by a gang of boys.

The matter has been reported to the police, and they are investigating. Mr. Maniece was the victim of a theft about a year ago, when his store was entered and considerable goods taken.

MOTHER'S DAY FITTINGLY OBSERVED

Mother was crowned with many eloquent tributes paid by the local ministers, on Sunday, when Mother's Day was observed in practically all of the churches.

"Two beautiful services," was the expression of one member of George Street Church congregation, and doubtless similar sentiments were expressed by members of other churches, at the close of the evening service.

The white carnation was very prominent, and from all reports the services were enjoyed, and the words of the preachers, appreciated by fathers and mothers, sons and daughters. Young people were brought face to face with the fourth commandment, Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother; the priceless gift, in the love and devotion of mother and the obligations before them.

The special music prepared by the choirs added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

GREAT SINGER SUCCUMBS TO PRIVATIONS OF WRECK

Attack of Pneumonia Proves Fatal to Lillian Nordica—She Was Born at Farmington, Me., in 1859, and Had Attained Topmost Place in Art.

BATAVIA, May 11. — Mme. Lillian Nordica, the singer, died here yesterday.

Mme. Nordica had been ill since the steamer Tasman, on which she was a passenger, went ashore on Bramble Cay, in the Gulf of Papua, Dec. 28 last. Nervous prostration, due to her experience, was followed by pneumonia.

Mme. Lillian Nordica (Lillian Norton) was born at Farmington, Maine, in 1859, and received her musical education at the New England Conservatory in Boston, and with San Giovanni at Milan, Italy. She married three times, her last husband being George W. Young, a New York banker, who survives. She made her operatic debut at Brescia, Italy, in "La Traviata," appeared in London for the first time in 1887, and in other European capitals. She appeared in grand opera for many seasons in the United States, and often toured Canada, singing in Toronto a number of times.

She held a supreme place as a singer of the Italian school, although her greatest fame was won in Wagner roles. With Jean De Reske she appeared in Tristan and [illegible] a number of times, particularly at the Metropolitan Grand Opera House in New York. It is said of her that she sang oftener than any other soprano, and that "there never was a role she could not sing, and never was a time she was not ready."

The tour on which she contracted her fatal illness was intended to be her last.

A popular role of Mme. Nordica's was Valentine in "The Hugenots." Her sustained and crescendoed high C in the third act was worth a long journey to hear.

"Her repertoire," wrote Mabel Wagnalls in "Stars of the Opera," "is astonishing in its scope and variety, and when we consider that out of 87,000,000 people, which is our present population, she is the only one to-day who sings the three 'Brunhildes' of Wagner and also his 'Isolde,' we can then better appreciate Mme. Nordica's achievement."

Only a year or two ago Mme. Nordica caused considerable stir by planning to erect an American Bayreuth on the banks of the Hudson.

ELECTRIC CARS MANUFACTURED BY C.G.E. TO BE TESTED ON OLD G.T.R. CHEMONG LINE

Some time ago the Canadian General Electric Company applied to the city council for permission to build a mile track along the Boundary Road to be used for testing electric engines which they intended manufacturing. In view of the fact that the erection of a track would necessitate the closing of some streets and in that way be detrimental to the city, it was suggested that the railway companies be interviewed and perhaps some of their tracks used.

Superintendent Coyle of the Grand Trunk was in the city to-day, and after a conference with Mr. E. G. Patterson, Mayor Buller and Ald. Duffus, chairman of the Manufacturing Committee, arrangements were practically completed whereby the C.G.E. would use the old G.T.R. line to Chemong, and thus save building the proposed track along the Boundary Road. The Grand Trunk offer to haul their electric engines up that far and the C.G.E. will run a trolley wire along a section of the old track and there do the testing. There was one point which Mr. Coyle could not give a final decision on, but he will recommend it, and undoubtedly the arrangements will be completed.

Some forty boys enjoyed the hike, which is fast becoming popular.

WHEELS TURN AT McDONALD'S MILL

Many Men Sought Work When Operations Were Resumed.

McDonald's sawmill re-opened this morning after a rest of six months, and expect to run steady from now till the ice forms in December. That there are plenty of men still on the labor market was evinced when some 150 men were on hand to take up about 60 jobs.

Reports from the back lakes state that the logs are coming much better than was anticipated.

CORRESPONDENTS ARE ARRESTED

But Mexican Authorities Later Release U.S. Newspapermen

NEW YORK, May 11.—Word reached New York City last Saturday night that Walter C. Whiffin of the Associated Press staff, who was arrested at Mexico City, had been released by the Mexican authorities.

A despatch from Vera Cruz had stated that Whiffin, with Oliver M. Hueffer, correspondent of The London Express, and another English correspondent named Rourke were placed under arrest by the Mexican authorities at Mexico City Thursday evening. They had just arrived from Vera Cruz, and the police were waiting with coaches when the train drew into the station.

All were taken to the jail under escort and Whiffen and Sutton were held for investigation. The two Englishmen were released and the officer who arrested them was reprimanded.

Richard Harding Davis and Medill McCormack, American correspondents in Mexico, reported seized by the Mexican authorities in Mexico City, according to despatches received by The New York Tribune Saturday night, have been released according to later advices received by that paper.

ACTION IS DISMISSED

W. A. McILMOYLE SOUGHT RECOVERY OF $106 FOR ALLEGED DAMAGES TO HOUSE

Judge Huycke filed his judgment in the action of W. A. McIlmoyle v. D. R. and Mrs. Henderson, this morning. In his judgment, his Honor dismissed the action without costs. The action, which was tried at a division court sitting on May 1, was for the recovery of $106 for alleged damage to a house owned by the plaintiff at the corner of Rubidge and King Streets. The plaintiff claimed that the defendants had rented the house and when they moved out did damage to the floors and also left the water running, with the result that the house had been damaged by flooding. He also claimed damages to the walls.

The defense was to the effect that the house had not been papered in years and was in poor repair when they rented it. Evidence also was submitted which showed that the pipes had probably frozen, causing them to burst and flood the premises.

Daniel O'Connell acted for the plaintiff and G. N. Gordon for the defendant. His Honor also dismissed the plaintiff's motion for a continuation of the trial for the submission of further evidence, which was not available at the time of trial.

LICENSE TRANSFERRED.

The application of Sam Long, proprietor of the American Hotel for the transfer of his liquor license to Arthur Mulhall of Cobourg, was granted by the Board of License Commissioners at their meeting Saturday evening.

NO TRUE MOTHER LIVES IN VAIN

Canon Davidson Says Mothers Are Doing Great National Service.

Speaking in reference to Mother's Day at St. John's Church, Rev. Canon Davidson said that all were glad to join in the great and touching appreciation of mothers and particularly of Canadian and Peterboro mothers.

The mothers of Canada were constantly doing a great self-sacrificing and patriotic service, the value of which, possibly, could not be estimated.

Let every mother with healthy children realize her important duty to the country, in the great work she is carrying forward, and may she feel something of satisfaction as she looks back on her life.

No true mother, the preacher said, lived in vain. In bringing up good and healthy children, mothers were doing a great national service.

Special prayers were offered for mothers and families, and remembrances made for departed mothers.

Don't overcrowd your house plants; two or three vigorous, healthy plants are better than a dozen puny ones.

INTRODUCE FRATERNAL DAY ON SUNDAY JUNE 28th

Ministerial Association Approve and Will Co-operate With the Societies

The meeting of the representatives of fraternal societies was held in the S. O. E. hall on Saturday evening. In addition to the society men, the gathering was also honored by a deputation from the Ministerial Association. The first business was the election of a permanent chairman and secretary. The result was that Mr. Dawson Kennedy was elected chairman, and Mr. Thomas Hendry secretary. The valuable services of these two gentlemen at the first meeting and since then was duly recognized and highly appreciated. The Rev. F. J. Sawers stated that the proposal to hold a Fraternal Sunday evening service had his hearty approval. Rev. Jas. Rollins stated that the matter had been discussed at the Ministerial Association and he assured them of their approval, support and co-operation. Mr. Rollins intimated that the Association favored a Sunday Evening Service in the various churches in preference to a meeting in the Armouries or park, and the Association would give the societies every possible assistance. Rev. J. R. Webb then addressed the meeting, and in part said that the churches and societies had things in common, each believing in the other's good work. He thought this proposal a first rate idea, and it met with his own approval, and also of the Ministerial Association. He favored just having a big procession of Fraternal men irrespective of what society, as many belonged to quite a number of societies and let them branch off in detachments of say 100 and attend the various churches on the Sunday evening, and perhaps the ministers might also fall in line that evening by exchanging pulpits unknown to the public. The Rev. J. N. Clarry also endorsed the previous speakers' views regarding a fraternal Sunday evening service. On motion, Sunday evening June 28th, was chosen as the fixed date for the United Fraternal Procession and Service, when members of these societies will be asked to assemble at probably the Market Square. A committee was then appointed from 12 different societies to complete the arrangements and they will meet on Saturday evening the 16th, in the S. O. E. Hall. The Press and the Brotherhoods are appealed to in order to give their support to create a Fraternal Day for Peterboro, and a Sunday Service is deemed the best way to make a start. The object, of course, is to promote brotherly love. There will be plenty for all to do.

POST SUICIDES

Noted Cereal Manufacturer Was Dying of Cancer.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 11.—Charles W. Post, the millionaire health food manufacturer of Battle Creek, Mich., shot and killed himself Saturday morning. Mr. Post was stricken ill here suddenly, several months ago, and hurried to Rochester, Minn., aboard a special train for an operation. He returned here only recently, apparently recovered.

Mr. Post's serious illness began in December. He traveled and consulted various specialists, but matters were brought to a crisis two months ago when an attack of appendicitis threatened his life. He was put aboard a special train, trailed by an extra engine to be used in case of accident, and rushed to Dr. Maye's hospital at Rochester, Maine.

The operation was pronounced successful. It is believed, however, that Mr. Post was a sufferer from cancer.

Mr. Post was born at Springfield, Ill., in 1854. A study of dietetics led him into the field of cereal manufacturing and he built up a big industry at Battle Creek, Mich.

Tennis at Y. M. C. A.

There is a possibility of having His Royal Highness The Duke of Connaught perform another function during his visit to the city on June 1st. For some time a class has been given instruction in first aid art by Dr. Frederick, and have been examined by Dr. A. W. McPherson, who found the following qualified to receive St. John Ambulance Association certificates: Messrs. John Fauborther, Ernest Tucker, Chas. McKee, William Lyburn, Wm. Cumming, John Cumming, Alfred Barnes, John Smith, Wm. Brown, Harry Bowden, Geo. Brooks and W. J. A. Armory.

Mr. Andrew Forrest, one of the prime movers in Association work, will also receive a decoration.

Both Come Back.

"You know what a boomerang is, don't you, Johnnie?"

"No, ma'am."

"Why, a boomerang is something you throw out and after a little while it turns and comes back."

"Please ma'am it's something like the prodigal son, ain't it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FIRST ORDER FROM TURNBULL BUILDING

The first order executed at the Henry Hope and Son factory in this city is now in progress. The company is filling an order for the contractors at the new Turnbull building, and it comprises several steel bases for the large show windows.

BEQUEATHED $8000 FOR THEIR KIND ACT

Beggar Does Not Forget People Who Were Kind to Him

Sunbury, Pa., May 11.—For their "kindness and self-secrifice," Mr. and Mrs. George Smith were bequeathed nearly $8,000 by the will of John Fell, eighty, a beggar, at Northumberland. The will was probated shortly before relatives of Fell arrived at Northumberland to contest the document.

Fell, who was believed to be almost penniless, went to the home of the Smiths, several days ago and asked for shelter. He said he was friendless, that he felt ill and believed he was going to die. The Smiths gave up their only bed to the old man, and themselves slept on the floor. The next day Mrs. Smith said Fell gave her a cheque for $507 on a Northumberland bank and $75 in cash. Before he died Sunday night he made a will leaving his entire estate, said to consist of $7,000 in a Wilkes-Barre bank, and stocks valued at $800, to the Smiths.

NEVER SAW WHITE MEN

TEN NEW TRIBES ARE DISCOVERED BY EXPLORERS IN BRAZIL

PHILADELPHIA, May 11. — Col. Roosevelt, who declares he has discovered a new river in Brazil, will have to share the laurels in that field of exploration with the leaders of the University of Pennsylvania Amazon Expedition, who announced in a letter received here yesterday the discovery of ten hitherto unknown and unidentified Indian tribes, the arrangement of their vocabularies, and the placement on the map of a vast track of Brazilian territory.

Dr. William C. Farabee, head of the exploring party, states in the letter that he reached Georgetown, British Guiana, April 19, after a year spent in the Amazon basin and the highlands which divide Brazil from the Guianas. The party, the letter continues, experienced terrible hardships while traversing the jungle, continues, experienced the jungle, and were compelled to live on monkey and alligator flesh when their regular food supply was exhausted and their ammunition was ruined.

The expedition emerged from the jungle bareheaded, barefooted, hungry, and fever-racked.

Dr. Farabee continues: "From Dec. 16 to April 1 we were among tribes who had never seen white men before. None of them had ever seen guns, or salt, or clothing, or matches They had beads and knives. All wanted fish-hooks. I made measurements of the men and women, took photographs and recorded languages.

"We visited the following tribes in southern British Guiana: Waiwai, Parikutu, Waime, Chikena, Katiawan, Toneyan, Diow, Kumayonas and Urukwonas. None of these tribes are mentioned in Brinton's list of American races. Several new tribes were found on the Brazilian side of the divide."

Chief Whip Stanfield Hopes for Prorogation About May 31.

OTTAWA, May 11. — Mr. John Stanfield, M. P., chief Government whip, said yesterday that the Government hoped to prorogue by the end of May. Morning sitting commenced to-day, and from now on the House may be required to sit on Saturdays. It is also hoped that both sides may agree to the House sitting on the 21st (Ascension Day) and the 25th (Victoria Day).

To-day's sitting of the House will be devoted to a long list of Government bills, including the bills and resolutions increasing the Senatorial representation of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The House will be moved into committee of the whole upon the Canadian Northern resolution either tomorrow or Wednesday by the Prime Minister. There will be many questions asked in committee, and some formal discussion, but it is anticipated that the resolution will be reported without any great delay. Upon this resolution will be founded the bill bringing into force the proposed legislation and upon the second reading of the bill the tactics of the Opposition will be disclosed.

THE UNIVERSITY AS A CLASSIFIER.

A YALE UNIVERSITY student by the name of Nixon, has been fined $200 for his part in an assault case. It was admitted that he was out for a skylark which included a liberal indulgence in liquor. Commenting on the case, the Erie Dispatch says:

> "If there is any male human being in the world who considers himself every inch a man, it is the college boy. And the large majority of college students do take on manly character in the atmosphere of the college. They are serious in their effort to acquire an education that will fit them for the battle of life. They do not need guardians for the simple fact that many of them have earned their own livelihood and are maintaining themselves throughout their college career. These are the young men who go out into the world and make their mark. But it was not of these young men that the judge was speaking. He referred to the wealthy young fellows whose idea of college life is just one good time after the other, with dad paying the bills. These are the chaps who make nuisances of themselves in theaters and cafes and assume a privilege to misbehave and make asses of themselves no matter where they are. It is they who have given the college student a bad name."

Canadian universities are, unfortunately, plagued with this same sort of youthful brigandage, though naturally to a less extent than is an institution of the age and size of Yale. Many people deprecate such a condition and it is a pity that the privileges of a university are so lightly esteemed—that they are so easily obtained that a low estimate is placed on the seriousness and responsibility of its advantages. But as nature never presents a family or species of perfect individuals, each varying in some degree, one being more vigorous than another, so human life is stamped with the same variations of imperfectness. Some men are strong in mind, weak in body, some the reverse, others are strong or weak in character. Training will do as much and more for the manhood and womanhood of a nation as it will for live stock, grain and flowers. But this training cannot be supplied in college halls; it is obtained only in the home. The college merely supplements the training already received and performs, in addition, a weeding out process that is as necessary to life as it is to the efficiency and beauty of a garden. The young chaps who hold the privileges of a university lightly will be outstripped by those who are earnest in their work. The former are not fitted for the same field of action as the latter. Failure at examinations, a few rebuffs from the world, financial loss are required to discipline them. From such knocks they may never recover but they are surely reduced to the very position for which they are fitted. It is a sinister discipline but it is the way of the world. Not always is the college rebel to blame for his breaks from the rules of society, but that does not alter the forces of which a university is one which ruthlessly pigeon-hole the rising youth. These gay harum scarums, besides forming often objects of pity to the ultimately successful, are in themselves by example tests on the character and firmness of their less fortunate fellows as well as spurs to a pace already strenuous. The world is made up of a great number of things of infinite variations, so, a university reflects in its students the life beyond its walls.

PROPOSED TOWN-PLANNING ACT.

THAT THE TOWN-PLANNING movement in Canada has come to stay and will have to be reckoned with in the future is demonstrated by the fact that it has already engaged the attention of several of our provincial legislatures. The year 1912 saw comprehensive town-planning acts passed in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and, last year, Alberta led the way for the Western Provinces. Ontario also has an act applicable to cities with a population of 50,000 and upwards.

At the forthcoming International Conference on City Planning, Toronto, May 25-27, a draft town-planning act, which it is hoped will be a model for all Canadian provinces, will be submitted to the delegates present by a special committee appointed by the Commission of Conservation. Frank criticism and full discussion of this proposed act will be invited. After being amended in accordance with the resolutions of the Conference, copies will be sent to each provincial government, urging them to enact legislation along the lines proposed.

As now drafted, the Bill provides for the preparing and carrying-out of town-planning projects by a Local Board in each city or town, subject to the approval of a Central Town-planning Board for the whole province. Projects will apply chiefly to land likely to be used for building purposes, but may, in certain circumstances, include land already built upon or land unsuitable for building. Provision is made for compensation of private owners if injuriously affected and for the local authority recovering half of the unearned increment if property values are increased. The Central Board may act on its own initiative if the Local Board fails to do its duty or if no Local Board exists.

Under such an act, the growth of every town will be regulated so that streets may be of adequate width and in accord with the general plan of the town; housing congestion will not be permitted; sufficient open spaces will be reserved for parks, squares and other municipal purposes; and health, amenity and convenience will be given due consideration in all new building areas and, so far as possible, in old ones.

LIGHTNING RODS.

A BULLETIN advocating the use of lightning rods on buildings has just been issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Prof. W. H. Day, of the staff of the Ontario Agricultural College, is the author of this Bulletin, and he demonstrates, after a series of investigations covering thirteen years, that lightning rods are the protection that science claims them to be. In Ontario in 1912 the efficiency of rods was 94½ per cent. From the reports of insurance companies Prof. Day found that in every 200 farm buildings insured, 42 were rodded, which is 21 per cent., but out of every 200 farm buildings struck by lightning only 3 were rodded. In this connection Prof. Day observes "We should have expected 42 if the rods were no good."

Lightning rods in Iowa are recorded as showing an efficiency of 98.7 per cent., and inspected rods in Michigan show an efficiency 99.9 per cent. Records in Iowa show that for the eight years 1905-1912 the average number of insurance companies carrying risks on rodded buildings was 55. The highest number of companies reporting in any one year was 68 and the lowest 46. The total lightning claims paid by all these companies for the whole eight years on rodded buildings was only $4,464.30—an average of $10.15 per company per year. On unrodded buildings they paid lightning claims amounting to the large sum of $341,065.32, which is an increase of $755.15 per company per year, and the number of unrodded buildings was the same as the rodded ones.

In Michigan where a company insures only rodded buildings which have been inspected a risk of $55,172,075 was carried during four years and damage claims arising from lightning during that time totalled only $32.

These and other proofs submitted by Prof. Day are practical demonstrations of the scientific fact that lightning rods properly installed are a protection. In giving directions for the proper rodding of buildings the reader is reminded that lightning is electricity. Prof. Day asserts that rods should be in metallic connection with the building and that no insulators should be used. This method of attachment is directly opposite to that adopted when lightning rods were first used.

SUPERANNUATION FOR CIVIL SERVANTS.

IN REPLY TO A QUESTION by Sir Wilfrid Laurier as to the legislation which the Government proposed to bring in this session, Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden, among a long list of proposed acts, mentioned a bill providing for superannuation of civil servants and a bill for consolidating and amending the Civil Service Act. These are important especially the former. In the Civil Service there are a lot of old sticks that have faithfully performed their duties for ages and are too old for active work. The Government has no good excuse for firing them so they are retained in their positions like pieces of ancient ornamental china on a plate rail. They do not cause the Service to be demoralized but the pace of the old stagers isn't calculated to burn up the road of Government office routine. In the past, resignation and death have been relied on to remove the pillars of the force—an effective and certain process but a little slow.

The proposed measure ought to give the Government the opportunity of retiring the deserving ones and putting a little new blood into the Canadian Civil Service.

Candid, at Least.

It is refreshing sometimes to get a bit of pure, unvarnished truth in the papers—even if one has to go to the advertising columns. Here is an advertisement from the Toronto Telegram:

"For Sale—Large family Bible, beautiful wedding present, never used, ten dollars."

Frail Woman Again.

Canadian Courier.

News despatches tell us that scientists have discovered a peculiar case in Virginia, where a woman's heart and liver have changed sides.

Just another proof—if that were needed—of the fickleness of woman.

The Code.

Harper's.

"What do you mane by writing me that my Jimmie can't pass into the next grade?" stormed the irate female, bursting into the principal's room. "An' after him doin' such grand work all the year."

"Why, Mrs. Flaherty," replied the teacher, "you must know better than that. I've sent you his report cards every month and you know that his marks have been nearly all 'D.'"

"Indeed thay hav, and yit you say he can't pass. I don't understand it, mum."

"I am afraid you don't understand our system of marking. D means deficient, you know."

"Sure, I don't know phat that may be, mum, but Jimmie told me all about the letters. Sure 'D' is dandy, 'C' is corking, 'B' is bum an' 'A' is awful—an' he's got 'C's' and 'D's' ivery month."

The Good Earth.

Toronto Mail and Empire.

The smell of burning weeds
  Upon the twilight air;
The poignant call of frogs
  From meadows wet and bare.

A presence in the wood
  And in my blood a star,
In all the ardent earth,
  No failure or demur.

O Spring wind, sweet with love
  And tender with desire,
Pour into veins of mine
  Your pure impassioned fire!

O waters, running free
  With full, exultant song,
Give me, for outworn dream,
  Life that is close and strong!

O good earth, warm with youth,
  My childhood heart renew:
Make me elate, sincere,
  Simple, and glad, as you!

O springing things of green,
  O winging things of bloom,
O winging things of air,
  Your lordship now resume!

—Chas. G. D. Roberts.

THE WIND

By Walt Mason

The wind comes singing from the south, as hot as though 'twere fried, suggestive of a furnace mouth, and blazing coal inside. And now the wheat will die the death, the corn will say goodbye; for in that fierce and fiery breath all growing things must die. The wind comes nosing from the north, to see what it may see; and when that sort of wing comes forth, I murmur, "Hully chee! 'Twill kill the blossoms on the trees, the garden sass must go; when nature trots out such a breeze, the poor man has no show. The wind comes wailing from the east, and floods will soon appear; I hoped to see my store increased in goodly shape this year, but endless rains will soon spoil the oats, and drown the geese and ducks, and give the mildew to the goats, and I'll lose many bucks." Thus speaks the kicker, and his wail is rising every day; he's sure that everything will fail, that grief is on the way. If he were farming Canaan's land, with milk and honey near, he still would kick to beat the band, and shed the briny tear.

Birthdays of Note

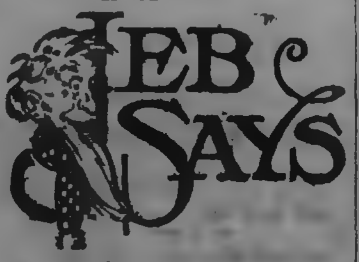
MONDAY, MAY ELEVENTH

To-day the Hon. Charles Joseph Doherty, Minister of Justice, celebrates his fifty-ninth birthday. Born in Montreal, he has spent most of his life in that city, being successively a lawyer and a judge of the Supreme Court of Quebec. He entered the House of Commons in 1908 and at once took his place as one of the leaders of the Conservative party. When he was sworn in as a member of the Privy Council in 1911 an amusing incident occurred. His new duties required his residence in Ottawa but not wishing to move his family from Montreal he determined to secure an apartment in Ottawa for himself. He went in the evening to a large apartment house and inquired for rooms. The janitor informed him that a suitable suite had just been vacated and Mr. Doherty might take immediate possession. He was shown into the rooms and was just on the point of saying that they would do, when a sound as of some one breathing heavily came from one of the chambers. On investigation, he found the Hon. Mr. Fielding asleep inside, he having been the previous occupant of the apartments. "Leave him alone," said Mr. Doherty to the janitor. "I suppose it's bad enough to have turned him out of office without driving him out of his home as well."



ON KINDNESS

KINDNESS, I reckon, is the greatest power in the world, pervidin' you know how to exercise it. Trouble is most people either overdo or under-do it. Bill Jones thought he was bein' kind to his bull purp when he fed him enough red meat each meal to keep a team of sled-dorgs a week.

Bill would never have realised the mistake he was makin' if it wasn't fer a little incident that happened. One mornin' the brindle purp took ahold of Bill's leg, shet his red eyes and went 't' sleep. It took three of us and a red hot poker to pry them two apart.

Bill, to punish the purp, put him on starvation rations, and that's where he did him a real kindness, fer it saved his life and when that purp's stomach got abck to normal, he was th' most devoted thing to Jones you ever see. Dog natur' may be queer but man natur' is jest as queer, I'm thinkin'; anyhow when experimentin' with kindness it's not a half bad idea to study yer subject. Course you gotter be careful not to over-do the kind and lovin' stuff. If you get the habit of makin' your domestic a present of a wrist watch on her birthday, she's liable to expect a piano sooner or later and she'll most likely to be runnin' things her own way in your household afore long. Be kind but keep the brakes on.

An Object Lesson For Rent Payers

In Sept., 1909, a wise man with nice family, who was paying rent accepted my advice to buy a home on my easy payment plan. He has been a most satisfactory customer and will have his home paid for within two years, at which time it will be worth very close on $1,000. How can rent payers close their eyes to such an opportunity? Come in at once and learn how easy it will be for you to own your home instead of continuing to pay rent. You can have a garden any size desired at small cost.

FACTORY BURNS

Brantford Plant is Wiped Out With Loss of $125,000

BRANTFORD, May 11.—The main plant of the Canada Glue Factory on the outskirts of this city was wiped out by fire on Saturday evening, causing a loss of $125,000. Seventy employes will be thrown out of work. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Employes endeavored to check the fire but without success, and it was impossible for the city brigade to respond to the call. The building was of cement. The fire did not reach the outer building which contained a big supply of gasoline. The insurance was $116,000. The factory will be rebuilt.

Ammonia shaken around in the vinegar or oil cruet will remove its stains. Kerosene oil cleans the enamel sink better than anything else.

Province Gets $26,533.

OTTAWA, May 11.—According to a report made to the Government by G. C. Clarkson, liquidator of the Farmers' Bank, the amount of unpaid deposits standing on the books on May 1 last was $1,169,568, including $26,533 on deposit by the Ontario Government. Since the resolution of the Minister of Finance, now on the order paper of the Commons, provides for the recouping of all depositors, it will be seen that the Province of Ontario wil benefit to the extent of $26,533 from the proposed legislation.

Western Ad. Clubs Jubilant.

EDMONTON, May 11.—The local ad club, Calgary Ad Club and Retail Merchants' Association are jubilant over the passing of the new fraudulent advertising bill, as these organizations secured the co-operation of all other like clubs throughout the country and brought the matter to the attention of the Minister of Justice.

Woman's World

Labor Union Leader Appointed to Commission.

MISS AGNES NESTOR.

Miss Agnes Nestor of Chicago, president of the International Glove Workers' union, was one of the two women named by President Wilson as members of the new national commission on vocational education.

Miss Nestor is well equipped for the task, as she has practical knowledge of the conditions in the industrial world. She is said to have secured the passage of the original ten hour law for working women in the state of Illinois. She has given much time to work of this sort and is an able and courageous advocate of legislation in favor of women workers. Her knowledge of conditions, her keen and discriminating judgment and her interest in improving industrial conditions make her a particularly valuable member of this commission, whose object is to obtain such information as will be of definite use in establishing the value of vocational schools.

COLLARS AND CUFFS.

A Set Decorated With a Combination of Lace and Crochet.

Collar and cuff sets are popular for accessories and dress garniture. One of the newest sets, which gives a decidedly chic touch, either as a coat set or dress ornamentation, is made after the manner of Irish crochet, but instead of the motifs being made of Irish crochet, they are of embroidered linen. The motifs, which are either conventional medallions or flower forms, are embroidered in satin stitch and eyelets on handkerchief linen.

These motifs are basted on the pattern and the background is filled in with an Irish crochet ground stitch the motifs crocheted and fastened just as though they were crocheted medallions.

The finished work is very smart looking and offers something unusual for a collar and cuff set.

A Trousseau Hint.

The bride to be up to date should have a cupboard full of shelves as well as a bureau full of drawers to accommodate her lingerie. And these shelves must be fitted with an edging of ribbon and lace and chiffon, put on in the manner of pantry shelf paper.

This edging costs according to the elaborateness of its pattern and the fineness of its material. It can be made less expensively.

It consists of a strip of satin ribbon or a hemmed strip of satin about three inches wide. Over this lace is plaited, and the two are fastened together with chiffon roses or little satin flowers. The edging is tacked on the edge of the shelves under the little flowers. Thumb tacks can be used for the tacking.

Dust collecting? Of course it is. And foolish and frivolous to boot. But it is dainty and a fit finish for the piles of filmy lingerie which are stowed away on the bride's shelves.

Butterflies For the Hair.

The vogue for butterflies as a dress ornamentation is most apparent at the present time in hair ornaments, says the Dry Goods Economist. The butterflies are attached to bone hairpins, by means of which they are readily placed at any angle in the coiffure.

Diversity characterizes the materials employed in the construction of these ornaments, the newest being made of chenille in natural colorings.

Elaborate butterflies made of combinations of pearl beads and rhinestones combined with a white aigret are employed for more formal wear. Effective black and white combinations are likewise shown. In this case the butterfly is made of black net and is studded with jet and pearl beads and rhinestones.

A Broth For Invalids.

Invalids who dislike the flavor of meat extract will be able to take it if a teaspoonful or so is added to a cupful of boiling milk. The milk disguises the taste of the meat extract. A small quantity of this mixture taken when there is a feeling of exhaustion will prove an admirable restorative.

A paint brush will get dust out of cracks much better than a duster.

Fears For Canada's Trend.

LONDON, May 10.—Alarm at the increasing "Americanization" of Canada is expressed by The London Times' editorial comments on an article from its Toronto correspondent describing the invasion by the United States of trade, sport and so on, in the Dominion. The editorial says:

"If the result of these conditions is permanent it can only be caused by the steady drift of the Canadian mind away from the practices and traditions of the mother country.

"It is much to be desired in the interests of the Empire that this should not be. If the influence of the mother country is to remain it is time for practical people at home to wake up and get to business."

CARE OF BATTERIES REPAYS THE TROUBLE

Another of the Little Things That Count for Perfect Service.

Moward A. Mathhews, general sales manager of one of the automobile companies, was discussing with some friends recently the "little things" that affect automobile service. Some one mentioned storage batteries.

"Yes, indeed," said Mr. Matthews. "A great many automobile owners are careless about renewing their battery solution—a sure way to run into trouble and poor service. Batteries are properly filled with electrolyte when sent out," continued Mr. Matthews, "and, unless spilled by accident, acid should not be added. In case it has been spilled, fresh solution should be added until the plates are covered to the depth of half an inch.

Weekly Examinations.

"Vent plugs should be removed and cells examined every week. Plates must always be kept covered with solution. The water in the solution evaporated, but the acid does not. When examination shows top of plates uncovered, distilled water should be added.

Every owner of a car that is equipped with a storage battery should have a specific gravity hydrometer for testing electrolyte to accurately determine the condition of the battery. If the reading is below 1,280 degrees the battery should be charged until the specific gravity rises to the proper point.

Avoid Trouble and Cost.

This may be accomplished by running the engine at certain intervals, if the owner does not have access to a charging outfit. It is important to remember that, while a fully charged battery will not freeze, one that has been discharged will freeze at 20 degrees above zero. A little care and attention will avoid a great deal of trouble and expense.

EGGS FOR HATCHING.

It is always best to see eggs while they are fresh, and as a general thing the sooner they are set, the more chicks and the stronger chicks you will obtain. When it is necessary to keep them for some time, if they are placed in a cool, dry, well ventilated place where there is no draft, they can be kept two weeks or even three and produce satisfactory results, if they were strongly fertilised in the first place. Sometimes they have been kept four weeks and still produced fair hatches.

WILL NOT EXPEL THE FRENCH

German Government Will Only Eject Undesirables From Alsace

BERLIN, May 11. — The German Government Saturday issued a denial of the report in circulation for several days, that it intended gradually to expel all French residents from Alsace-Lorraine. The reports, it is asserted, emanated from Alsatian members of the Imperial Parliament and from the members of the Alsatian Diet.

The Government declares that it has not adopted any policy of general expulsion of Frenchmen from the conquered provinces, but intimates that the permits of certain undesirable persons will not be renewed upon their expiration. This, however, it declares, applies only to French citizens, who frequently have been refused renewal of the permits in previous years.

The utterances of the Government press indicate that the Government means to resort to expulsion more freely than it has done if the anti-German agitation of the Paris press continues, but that it is using expulsion merely as a corrective against French propaganda in the two provinces.

Gave Prisoner a Dime.

MONTREAL, May 11. — Recorder Semple lent a man he had just convicted and fined, ten cents to help pay his fine Saturday morning.

A push-cart man named Meron was up on a charge of being drunk and disorderly while in charge of a vehicle. The "vehicle' 'turned out to be a push-cart from which he peddled small articles. A fine of 25 cents was imposed by the recorder.

"I have only fifteen cents," the prisoner replied. "Oh, well," laughed Mr. Semple, "I'll lend you ten cents," and he handed the dime down from the bench.

Age Limit on Opium Smoking.

PEKIN, May 11.—Persons under 40 years of age are to be shot if found smoking opium at Chengtu, in the Province of Szchuen, after the expiration of a period of 21 days, according to a Government announcement issued Saturday. Those over 40 are to be sentenced to terms of penal servitude.

The campaign against opium smoking has reached such a point that all opium smokers in the province are compelled to submit themselves to a course of treatment.

Ask Enforcement of Curfew Law.

KINGSTON, May 11. — A deputation from the Women's National Council waited on the City Council here and asked that the curfew law be enforced to keep children under 15 years of age off the streets by nine o'clock in the evening during the summer and eight o'clock during the winter

CO-OPERATIVE EGG CIRCLES

Mr. J. C. Stuart, superintendent of Co-operative Egg Circles for the Dominion Government, reports that there are now one hundred of these circles controlled by his department besides a number of private circles. Of these one hundred, sixty are located in Prince Edward Island, and forty in Ontario and Quebec.

That the egg circle is proving a profitable investment for farmers is shown by the net returns received by members. For the six months ending Dec. 31st, 1913, profits from eggs handled by the egg circles average 22½ per cent. over local store prices.

There is certainly room for the egg circle in Canada. There are millions of dollars wasted every year by bad handling of eggs. If every egg in Canada were marketed through the egg circle or by similar methods this waste would be saved. There would also be more eggs produced. In 1913 Canada imported 13,250,000 dozen eggs and during 1914 to date 6,000,000 dozen Chinese eggs have been brought into Canada. There is room for considerable expansion in egg production in this country before the home market is supplied.

GOOD ROADS CONGRESS HAS BIG PROGRAMME

Gathering in Montreal to Discuss Formation of a Permanent Association

The first Canadian and International Good Roads Congress will be held in Montreal May 18 to 23, and of Montreal, chairman of the Congress.

MR. U. H. DANDURAND

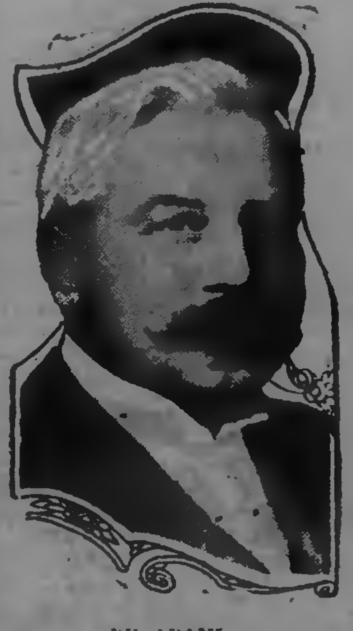
MR. G. A. McNAMEE,
Secretary of the Automobile Club of Canada and secretary-treasurer of the Congress.

MR. FRANK CARRELL
Quebec, Vice-President of the Canadian Automobile Federation.



DR. ADAMI.
of McGill University, one of the speakers.

will be attended by several hundred delegates from every province in the Dominion, as well as from several foreign countries. The Congress will be officially opened by the Honorable, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, Sir Francois Langelier, assisted by his Ontario confrere, Sir John Gibson.

The Congress program will include lectures and moving pictures showing the difference between good and bad roads. It will be held in the Arena, and there will be on display road building machinery and examples of road building material from between forty and fifty of the leading concerns of the world, including a large number from England.

Congress boosters include the officials of practically every Good Roads organization in the Dominion, and the Congress has received the official endorsation of the majority of the provinces, while similar action is pending in others. British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and New Brunswick have sent their heartiest and best wishes for success, and American associations have promised attendance at Canada's premier effort in the securing of better highways.

U. H. Dandurand, former member of the city council and one of Montreal's best known capitalists, is chairman of the Congress. G. A. McNamee for nine years Montreal's most active road booster, has been appointed secretary-treasurer, and Howard Pillow, president of the Automobile Club of Canada, is one of the livest members of the directorate.

At a conservative estimate, the various provinces and municipalities of Canada have on appropriation available for expenditure on the construction and maintenance of roads during 1914 the enormous sum of $60,000,000. How best to expend this huge amount is one of the chief topics to be discussed at the forthcoming Congress. Another important question will be regarding the formation of a permanent Dominion Good Roads Association, with the aim of holding annual congresses. In view of the present "improved highways" sentiment in Canada, there is expected to be a maximum of enthusiasm to back this project.

LOOKING FOR GREATER SPEED IN AUTO RACING

Better than an eight-mile an hour average is freely predicted among the coterie of critics that is waiting impatiently for the first fine day to beam on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, when Hoosier automobiledom will begin its favorite j.m. pastime of doping out the next 500-mile motor marathon from the rails guarding the two and one half mile vitrified brick voal. The national record of 78.7 miles an hour will be assaulted by the classiest high speed talent of two continents, which makes it altogether probable that the winning car will travel faster than any machine has ever travelled before for 500 miles.

Speedway racing has witnessed a remarkable devolopment within the last two years. The first 500-mile race at Indianapolis was regarded as a dangerous undertaking until it was accomplished. And because of its dangerous flavor, many motor concerns took advantage of the alluring possibilities offered for obtaining wide nerve for the most chance-taking race driver to risk his life in the unparalleled scramble for glory. There were accidents galore, spills on the turns, cars turning turtle when interrupted suddenly in the midst of spectacular dashes down the straightways. It was just the kind of healthy tonic needed to revive the ragged out "speed germ."

Automobile manufacturers were somewhat appalled at the stupendous aspect of the first Indianapolis speedway race, and the result was a much smaller field in the second contest. It was then that the affair settled down to normal and the several concerns which were in the game as a means of demonstrating the superiority of the product, made great strides in perfecting their machines to stand the strain of the long grind. Harry C. Stutz, of the Stutz racing outfit, says this policy has made the 500-mile race the leading sporting event of motordom. The race at once appealed to the automobile designer and engineer because of the ideal facilities for studying the wear and tear on materials in the concentrated grief than can come to a motor car when travelling 500 miles at high speed.

Harry Stutz has been building automobiles for four years and his speed creations have made a remarkable record for consistency in all important contests No engineer knows the Indianapolis motor speedway better than the Indianapolis man, and no race driver better understands the element of danger that lurks in the path of the daring pilot who tries to take its deceptive turns at too high speed. Stutz says the average tester who knows how to "take" these turns will beat the best driver in the world who is unaccustomed to driving into them. There is a knack about it that comes only after weeks and weeks of careful training.

With the factor of safety that has been built into modern racing cars and a supporting trio of race drivers such as Barney Oldfield, Gil Anderson and Earl Cooper, each of championship calibre, Stutz believes he has nothing to fear from the foreign entries from across the water. The presence of the trans-Atlantic speed marvels in this year's 500-mile race, however, will be an incentive for fast travelling, he believes, which is equivalent to a guarantee that all existing records will be shattered before the checkered flag is lowered on the first car to cross the line at the end of the race.

JURY DISAGREES

Joseph Larue Must Await Trial in the Fall.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 11.—Joseph Larue, charged with the murder of his wife on March 11, 1913, will now spend the summer months in jail and await the fall assizes. After deliberating on the evidence for over 14 hours, the jury was unable to agree on a verdict. Justice Britton delivered his charge to the jury on Friday night, finishing at 8.30. It was 10.30 on Saturday morning when the jury gave up endeavoring to reach an agreement. The chief witnesses for the crown were a brother of the prisoner and the wife of the crown's witness, with whom the prisoner and his wife had boarded previous to her disappearance and subsequent finding in the river. H. D. Gamble, K.C., of Toronto, was the prosecutor, and Uriah McFadden defended the prisoner.

MR. HOWARD W. PILLOW,
Montreal, President of the Automobile Club of Canada.

Porterhouse is the most expensive steak.

Hip-bone sirloin is the best cut of sirloin; it costs no more than the poorest cut.

A rump roast is delicious and costs much less than a rib.

The chuck makes excellent pot roasts and is cheaper than the round.

Stews and beef loaves from the neck and chuck are cheaper than from the plate and plank.

The brisket, plate and navel are the best for corning and boiling.

EVIL COMPANIONS

Young Man is Blacklisted at His Own Request.

One of those unfortunate boys without backbone, a weak character, easily influenced by others and a prey to the canteen, was the manner in which the court designated a local youth of twenty-three this morning. He was charged with being drunk, and he requested that he be placed on the blacklist.

"Why doesn't he get away from evil companions?" asked the Magistrate.

Detective Newhall pointed out that there was a certain element with whom he chummed. It was impossible for him to get away from them and live straight.

He was fined $2 and placed on the list.

ASK 57th REGIMENT TO VISIT KINGSTON

Limestone City Will Celebrate The King's Birthday

Kingston, May 11. — An outside city regiment may be invited to Kingston to take part in the celebration on June 3rd. Several of the members of the executive of the celebration committee are in favor of the 14th officers extending an invitation to an outside regiment, and the 57th regiment at Peterboro may be asked to come to Kingston. The visitors would be a great drawing card and add much to the success of the celebration.

SOUL NOT IMMORTAL

So Declared F. G. Hammes in I.B.S.A. Address

Mr. F. G. Hammes, a representative of the I. B. S. A., lectured yesterday in the Princess Theatre at 3 o'clock to an attentive audience on "The Judgment Day."

Mr. Hammes expounded the opinion that the doctrine of the immortality of the soul was without Scriptural foundation. He further challenged either ministers or laity to produce one Scripture passage that stated that man had immortal soul and further showed that this doctrine originated from Satan's lie (Gen. 3-4.). Many Scriptural quotations were given to show that the apostles, the ancient worthies, and in fact all mankind were partakers of the death sentence in Adam, and therefore, needed a resurrection. He further showed that the saints were being judged now, and were to be resurrected to instantaneous perfection on the spirit plane. The 1,000-year day of judgment was for the world of mankind who had not been judged in this Gospel Age. During this 1,000 years all who had not passed their judgment in this age were to be awakened, generation by generation, and brought up to perfection of human nature by judgments (John 5, 28, 29, R. V., Isa. 26, 9.). This blessing of all the families of the earth was to be done by "The Christ," composed of Jesus, the Head, and those who had been His followers during the Gospel Age (Gal. 3, 16, 29. Rom. 8, 17). This work of bringing mankind back to perfection by judgments was what St. Peter in Acts 3, 21, called "restitution," and it has been spoken of by every "holy prophet." This was God's provision for the heathen.

Another lecture will be given next Sunday in the Princess at 3.

ANNIVERSARY AT PARK ST.

REV. MR. PUGSLEY IS GREETED BY LARGE CONGREGATIONS

Successful and enjoyable anniversary services were held at Park Street Baptist Church on Sunday, with Rev. Mr. Pugsley preaching two excellent sermons. Mr. Pugsley also set forth the needs of the building fund, and the congregations made offerings of $380, of which $210 was received at the morning service and $170 at the evening service. It was the sixth anniversary of the new church.

Housecleaning was the subject for the morning discourse, when Mr. Pugsley discussed the two accounts of the casting out of devils, the one in the temple and the other at the cemetery. His texts were from the first and fifth chapters of Mark, the main point being that the casting out of devils from men and women was the mission of Christ to-day and it was necessary for them to be of a right mind to receive God and do the work of God.

The church was crowded for the evening service. The subject was the Horizon Widens as We Climb. The preacher gave a general summary of the life of Moses, dealing with four aspects, beginning with Moses as a babe; next the boy with brains; thirdly the burning bush and lastly the brazen serpent.

The work of the choir during the day was excellent; Rev. Mr. Pugsley stating that it was equal to that of Jarvis Street Choir, Toronto. The singing demonstrated that the choir is progressing rapidly under the leadership of Mr. Harry Hill.

To-night at the church a social time has been arranged for. Mr. Pugsley will speak on Which is it, Sand or Stone? There will be other addresses and musical numbers. The meeting is open to all and a cordial invitation to attend is extended by pastor and congregation.

Rev. Mr. Pugsley leaves Tuesday morning for his summer home on Lake Simcoe, near Barrie.

YOUNGSTERS IN COURT FACE THEFT CHARGE

Magistrate Tells Father of One Lad to Administer Sound Thrashing

Two juveniles, aged thirteen and ten respectively, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on the charge of theft of $18.84. They pleaded guilty to the charge. Judgment was reserved for one week.

The older lad in faltering words described how he worked for Connal and Son, from whom he stole the money. He wasted it on flashlights and other minor affairs.

Some of the money was recovered. Some $4 was still missing.

"Can't you make this up?" asked Magistrate Dumble, of the boy's father.

"I can't afford to," responded the father.

Continuing he remarked that he worked every day. He had a wife and five children. He paid ten dollars per month rent, and tried to live on $1.60 per day. He certainly could not do anything.

"You yourself," he said, turning to the Magistrate, couldn't live on that. "I have to eat bread without butter in order to try to exist," he sobbed.

The mother of the other boy had made restitution to the extent of $2. She was willing to bear her share of it as soon as possible. Chief Thompson remarked that the younger boy had been before him on a theft charge. It was a case of theft from his own father that time.

"Your worship, he was put up to do it that time by the boy of a commercial traveller near our house."

The father made a strong appeal for leniency. "I work every day. It takes everything I can scrape together to exist. They don't give a man a chance," he said.

Magistrate Dumble then requested that the father give the boy a good thrashing.

"Well, are you willing to bear the end of it," questioned His Worship.

"I can't afford it," was the heart-broken response of the distracted parent.

"You can afford to eat and drink water until that is paid," said His Worship.

"I am not the fault of the money being taken," the father stated in bitter tones. Any of you gentlemen can come to my house and see the condition we are in. I haven't a decent suit to go to church on Sunday, and we are living on what is practically as bad as water and bread

He departed from the court room crying that his son had been pulled into the fracas, and that his boy was ruined.

Both boys in the meantime will be under the surveillance of the police.

YOUNG GIRL IS REMANDED TO JAIL

Olive Fife, a local eighteen-year-old girl, was remanded to jail for one week this morning on the charge of being a common prostitute.

It is alleged that in company with several local youths, she has resided in an old barn near Boiler's Woods for the past week. Evidently from her answers and actions at this morning's session of Police Court she is mentally deficient. Medical attendance will be provided.

The police are on the track of a number of men.

The reception committee will meet this evening to further arrangements for the visit of the Duke of Connaught on June 1. Reports will be received from the various committees struck at the last meeting.

WARNING AGAINST SENSATIONAL PREACHING IS SOUNDED BY DR. HERRIDGE AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES ARE HELD

At the evening service in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday, the Rev. W. D. Herridge, D.D., of Ottawa, who had charge of the services in connection with the anniversary, sounded a note of warning against the growing tendency of clergymen to deliver what he termed sensational sermons. The services during the day attracted large audiences. In the evening the speaker took his text as follows: "And in the synagogue there was a man, which had a spirit of an unclean Devil, and cried out with a loud voice, saying, let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth." St. Luke, ii., vs. 33 and 34.

In opening his remark, Rev. Herridge stated that when people referred to a preacher as a sensationalist, they meant nothing more than his remarks were a flippant burlesque. He said that so far as he was aware there was not a great deal of such sermons delivered in Canada, but the tendency was growing, and the people of Canada should guard against it. In this age of commercialism such sermons lower the dignity of the pulpit, and robbed it of the message it should deliver. The Gospel should be preached and sensationalism is not to be compared to it unless we know its quality and its motive. Most every word the prophets spoke was backed up by the intolerable influence of purity.

There was an evil influence existing which maddened the brain and corrupted the heart. The coming of Christ marked the crisis. It was then that the power of good and evil manifested themselves. The coming of Christ in incarnate form, without a stain against him undoubtedly aroused Satan. That there was an evil spirit is known to everyone. A person might not see the doubt, but they felt it. The mysteries regarding relationship between the body and mind were not explained by the Scriptures. No one can tell me there are no evil spirits. I wish I could believe it, said the speaker. If you look up the history of humanity, you will find a conscience of good and evil dating back as far as history carries us. The spirit of tempting is explained in the time of the Bible, when it stated that when the sons of God assembled, Satan appeared also with them It was the evil within us that painted the picture of Satan. There were various forms essential to the same idea, but I am not concerned in the painting of his picture. There were voices which hurt the soul. Antagonistic voices always produced strife if not reconciled. Sometimes tremendous strife resulted. In so far as life was evil it always hurt life. Because Christ had done no evil they crucified Him. The more earnest any kind of moral reform is the greater protest will it be met with.

The music supplied during the day was excellent. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. John Allan, sang excellently at both services. The morning anthem, "He Watereth The Hills," was sung with a feeling of tone which was admirable, the solo work, which was taken by Miss Dorothy Allan, Mr. Edgar Smith, Mrs. Ellis and Mr. McKeown, being very delightful. Miss Allan also appeared in good voice in her rendition of "Live as the Hart Desireth." In the evening Miss Allan sang "The Lord is my Shepherd" in a very pleasing manner, her rich soprano voice being heard to fine advantage. Her voice rose to the highest pitch without any noticed effort, while its sweetness inspired. The choir, in its singing of "O Lord How Amiable," showed careful training, and excellent idea of the piece. Mr. Allan's playing of Elgar's favorite, "Pomp and Circumstance," was very fine, the organist producing the necessary away and power which has made the composition one of the finest of the Elgar works.

WEDDING OF THE DUKE OF ARGYLL

Wescott Street Lady Has Pen Sketch of the Ceremony

The possession of a picture of the late Duke of Argyll, former Governor-General of Canada, who passed away a few days ago, is not uncommon among families in this country, but having a picture of the late Duke and his consort, Princess Louise, daughter of the late Queen Victoria as the Venerable Archdeacon of Canterbury was tieing the nuptial knot, is the good fortune of very few. There is one of these pictures at least in this city, and it belongs to Mr and Mrs. J. N. Mann, 217 Wescott Street.

The picture is the copy of a pen sketch, about ten by fourteen inches. The Duke of Argyll, then Marquis of Lorne, is seen standing on the left, while his bride is on the right. Their hands are clasped and the clergyman is in the act of pronouncing them man and wife. Directly behind the Princess stands the late Queen Victoria, and also King Edward and His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught. At the side of the Marquis, Princes Arthur and Leopold stand, while eight bridesmaids hold up the train of the bride's dress. There are numerous other dignitaries in the chapel, but their identity is unknown. At the bottom of the picture the words, "Marriage of Princess Louise and Marquis of Lorne in St. George's Chapel, Windsor," are printed.

The dress of the royal bride and her bridesmaids is the typical Victorian dress with a very long train. All the ladies were adorned with earrings, bracelets and a necklace.

This picture was presented to Mrs. Mann some thirty years ago by her grand-aunt, to whom it was sent from the Old Country. It bears no signs of age, and Mrs. Mann intends to preserve it as best she can.

HUERTA'S DELEGATES WELCOMED AT VERA CRUZ BY GEN FUNSTON

They Decline All Offers of Hospitality Extended to Them by the U. S. and Go at Once Aboard Liner on Their Way to Niagara Falls, Ont.—American Troops Are Kept Strictly in Background.

VERA CRUZ, May 11.—President Huerta's three peace commissioners, Emilio Rabasa, Augustin Rodriguez and Luis Elguero, arrived here yesterday on their way to Niagara Falls, Ont., where the conference between the mediators and the representatives of the parties concerned for a settlement of the difficulties between the United States and Mexico will be held. The representatives of Huerta declined the offer of hospitality made by Brig.-Gen. Funston, as well as Rear Admiral Badger's offer to give them passage on the Morro Castle and boarded the steamship Kronprinzessin Cecilie, which will probably sail to-day for the United States by way of Havana touching at Key West.

By a prearrangement there was little evidence of the American troops. Gen. Funston, in fatigue uniform, Lieut. Ball, Gen. Funston's aide, and Lieut. Cohen, Rear Admiral Badger's aide, were the only officers present in an official capacity. The station and railway yards were crowded with Mexicans and Americans. The commissioners came in a special car, there being about fifteen in the party, including Rafael Elguero, brother of Louis Elguero, who will act as secretary, and Manuel Martines del Campo, attache, Senora Martines del Campo, Senorita Rodriguez and the four daughters of Senor Rabasa, who heads the commission.

The commissioners took up their quarters on the Kronprincessin Cecilie and prepared for their journey, without making a statement or granting any interview. It is understood they will leave the steamer at Key West and proceed north by railroad

OVER 180 PERSONS KILLED BY VIOLENT EARTHQUAKE

Death and Devastation Follow Seismic Disturbance Which Levels Villages and Causes Gaping Fisures All Over the Country—Hundred and Ten Killed in the Village of Linera Alone.

CATANIA, Sicily, May 11—A great earthquake Friday night brought death and destruction to many villages near Mount Etna. The number of dead up to last evening is officially placed at 183, with about 350 injured, but as yet a large portion of the devastated territory has not been inspected.

The affected zone extends from Zaffarana, the highest village on Mount Etna, to the sea, between Aci Reale, on the south and Giarre on the north. It includes Linera, the centre of the disturbance, Pisano and Sante Venerina.

In Linera alone 110 persons were killed and 300 injured. In the village of Bongiardo 13 dead and 27 injured have been taken from the ruins. At Cosentini 14 were killed and many injured. These villages and many smaller places were practically leveled.

Automobiles which made the trip Saturday through the devastated region were often forced to make a long detour owing to the deep fissures across the roads The enormous force of the earthquake was evident everywhere, and the entire district presented a spectacle of desolation, ruin and death. Peasants rushed to meet the automobiles imploring aid. From the debris agonizing cries could still be heard. Others asked that their injured relatives be transported to Catania, as all train service has been abandoned owing to the collapse of bridges, broken tracks and obstructed tunnels.

For centuries this region has suffered from earthquake owing to the activity of Mount Etna. Yet it is relatively thickly populated, as the land is most fertile, vineyards growing with little attention. Near the central point of the disturbance dozens of bodies were observed lying along the road. Many of them were unrecognizable, and they were badly crushed. Heartrending lamentations arose on all sides, and the injured lay in the open awaiting assistance which has been sent to them.

Where Linera stood is a mass of ruins. Those houses which did not collapse entirely were so broken as to emphasize the completeness of the disaster. The village consisted of about 800 inhabitants. A majority of the people escaped because the shock occurred when the men and women were still working in the fields. From the vineyards they saw their houses falling like a pack of cards, and when they arrived, breathless, at their homes, they found only wreckage, with some of their people buried beneath it. This accounts for the fact that most of the victims at Linera were women and children. The men, wild with terror and grief, attacked the debris with their bare hands in an effort to save their wives or children.

Generals Trabucchi and Moccagatta are in command of the work of rescue, which is being expeditiously performed by soldiers, firemen, policemen and Red Cross volunteers. It is expected, however, that weeks will pass before the full extent of the disaster can be ascertained, as it is believed many peasants are buried under their homes in the isolated country districts.

Late reports from the stricken district add to the death rate. At Passopomo twelve persons were killed; at Malati twelve; at Santa Venerina six; Santa Tecla, two; Santa Maria Vergine, eight; Garbut, four.

Concern at Rome.

ROME, May 11.—The Pope was greatly concerned when informed of the catastrophe near Catania. He learned the news from a despatch sent by Cardinal Francici-Nava, Archbishop of Catania, who said he was hastening to the scene to bring succor to the survivors. The Pope requested to be kept informed of the gravity of the situation and ordered Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, to send into the stricken districts all the help necessary. King Victor Emmanuel was at breakfast with the Queen when the report of the disastrous earthquake in Sicily was brought to him. His Majesty immediately gave orders for financial aid to be sent and for the army and navy to assist in succoring the injured.

Seek License Transfers.

CORNWALL, May 11. — The license commissioners for the County of Stormount will meet at the new Windsor Hotel here, on Friday evening, May 15, to consider an application from William Williams, for the transfer of his hotel license for the new Windsor Hotel to Alex. Laplante, and for the transfer of the shop license of Alex. Laplante to John R. Tobin.

Bad Times a Divine Visitation.

TORONTO, May 11. — Bad times are sent by the Almighty as a punishment for stock gambling, according to the views of Rev. R. N. Burns, D.D., expressed last night at Berkeley Street Methodist Church.

Churches which had grab-bag or lottery features of any kind at bazaars were guilty of the moral offence of instilling a gambling spirit.

Two Lose Lives In Fire.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 11.—Two persons lost their lives in a fire which destroyed a business house and the general offices of the Birmingham Railway Light & Power Co., here Friday night. The property damage is estimated at $175,000. The origin of the blaze has not been determined.

two runners across the pan ahead of him. Like his brother, the Hamilton husky plays the initial station. Hamilton won out 6-2, bunching their eight hits in the seventh and ninth.

After London had jumped into a three run lead, Knotty Lee's Beavers fell on Doc Reisling for timely blows in the third, fourth and fifth. The Doc retired in favor of Steiger, who was touched up freely. Linneborn's three errors helped the Beavers to victory by a score of 6-5.

Wild Bill Baker was duck soup for the Senators, who collected 16 hits off his delivery and beat the Saints 14-4. The Senators also won the other game of the double bill, Hall having the better of a tough argument with Wilkinson, his team mates scoring a run in the last frame of a 5-4 encounter.

Hall, the big Ottawa twirler, made a friendly bet with Midge Craven that the latter would not get a hit off him all season. Midge got his hit in the first game on Saturday.

Cobb had two hits Sunday and one on Saturday, the Tigers dropping the Sunday game and winning the Saturday affair.

Herbert, the former Senator, was derricked on Saturday, after the Clams had slammed his efforts to all corners of the lot. The big fellow has been derricked in his last two starts.

Chicago used four pitchers, two left fielders and two pinch hitters, but did not stop the Cobb, Crawford outfit.

All three leagues played in Chicago yesterday, the Feds outdrawing the Cubs and White Sox. 20,000 attended the Fed game, while the Cubs and Sox each drew about 17,000.

All Going To Farms?

The immigration figures for the month of March show that 3,819 Britishers came to Ontario during that month, making a total of 5,408 for the first three months of the year, or about 1,200 less than for the same period last year.

Supt. Birmingham states that April records when they are compiled should show as many as in April last year, when 56,000 arrived. He believed that the end of the year would show as high a total as 1913, which would mean that more than 50,000 newcomers from the British Isles will make their appearance in Ontario this year.

Of the 5,400 British immigrants who have come to the province this year, Mr. Birmingham says that almost without exception they had been placed with the farmers of the province. None had remained in Toronto. To this he could add that as far as was known not one of these new arrivals was out of employment.

LOST DOUBLE BILL SATURDAY AND SUNDAY GAME AT ERIE

Bob Sterling Had Three Base Clout, Sending in Two Runners—Yankee Twirlers Were in Great Form When Blountmen Wanted Runs

Saturday and Sunday proved disastrous to the Petes, the Erie Yankees grabbing off both ends of Saturday's bill and then walked away with the Sunday game by the lopsided score of 10-2. The locals were outhit in all three contests, and were guilty of some costly misplays. Erie also played loose in the field at times. Wilcox was given a chance in the outergarden in the first game on Saturday, but failed to get a hit. He was not called on to do any work in the outfield during his stay in the game. Yesterday's issue of the Erie Dispatch has the following to say of the Saturday's games:

Superior pitching, with good support, won two ball games for Erie yesterday against Peterboro. The first half of the double header, played to make up for Friday's rain, was pulled out of the fire after Peterboro had scored three runs in the second inning. The Yankees commenced a determined assault upon Curley Blount's friends in the fourth and finished three runs to the good. In the second game, though his support fell down at times, Morris pitched classy ball and held the visitors to two runs. His mates made three.

The second game was by fas the better of the two. The Peterboro visitors flared up for a moment in the first session, but in the second set to both teams went along like clockwork. Morris pitched a brilliant game for Erie, striking out ten men. Tracey went well for Peterboro after the first inning.

Peterborough Gets Three.

Curley Blount sent his men away for the jump in the first game and obtained it. Dorbeck, pitching for Erie, faltered before the visitors' attack and three runs resulted. With Swartz down, Byrne doubled down the left foul line, took third on a wild pitch, and was run down between third and home when Price rolled a slow one at Dorbeck. Dorbeck then walked Kelly. Sterling pitching for Peterboro, met the first ball to him for a triple to deep centre. Price and Kelly counted and Sterling crossed a moment later when Blount dropped a Texas leaguer back of first. Fox was an easy out to Dorbeck.

Dorbeck met trouble in the next inning, when Peterboro worked a man to third with one down. Dorbeck squared about and struck out both Byrne and Price. After that he never was in danger. Wiltse booted one in the eighth, but Byrne was doubled with Price a moment later.

Two were gone in the fourth inning when the Yankees made their first runs. Heinie Smith skidded one to right and Behan followed with a slashing three-base drive to the left field fence. Price, in relaying the ball, threw wild to third, and Behan scored.

Three in the Fifth.

In the fifth Erie put the game away. Dorbeck led off with a single to centre. Harris made three ineffectual attempts to bunt and was called out. Dawson walked and Gygli's single moved Dorbeck to third and Dawson to second. Kelly threw the ball away when he attempted to trap Dorbeck off third. Dorbeck counted and the other runners moved up. Sterling then filled the bases for the second time by passing Schaffer. Smith's infield out to King sent Dawson over with another run and moved Gygli to third. He scored a moment later on a wild pitch. Schaffer died on third when Behan grounded to Price.

Erie got its final run in the next inning on a pass to Wiltse, his steal and Dawson's double to centre. Between Wiltse and Dawson, Sterling had fanned McNeil and Dorbeck and walked Harris. Gygli made the third out when attempting to evade a pitch, the ball struck his bat and rolled fair.

Second Game.

Erie got away with the gun in the second game, scoring two runs. Harris walked and stole second. Dawson beat out a pretty bunt in front of the plate. Gygli walked and Schaffer singled to right, scoring both Harris and Dawson. That ended the scoring, but not the excitement. Smith caught the Peterboro infield flatfooted and beat out a bunt. Behan hit to third, forcing Gygli at the plate. Wiltse popped to the catcher and McNeil ended the inning by grounding to third.

Singles by Wiltst, Morris and Harris scored the winning run in the sixth, after Peterboro had tied in the first half.

The visitors made their first run in the fourth on King's hit, Harris' muff of Gorman's fly and Byrnes' single to right. In the sixth they evened up the score with King's base on balls, Swartz's hit and an error by Behan.

Sunday Game

The Sunday game was a slugging match on the part of the Yankees, who collected twelve hits off Belting, including two doubles and a triple. Gygli, the Erie first sacker, carried off the honors with three wallops, including a double and triple. The Petes did little with the assortment dished up by Fitzpatrick, five scattered bingles being the total result of their offensive efforts. The Petes had five errors, Belting contributing two and Kelly a like number, which showed that the battery was away off both offensively and defensively. Swartz had a double.

BASEBALL

At the meeting of the Sacred Heart T.A.S. yesterday afternoon a substantial sum was voted toward the purchasing of implements of baseball. The excellent diamond on the east side of the church is in good condition, and it will be but a matter of time till the game is in full swing. Despite the fact that lacrosse is booming in some sections of the city, the southern boys, to a man, claimed they wanted baseball. Mr. W. Grady was appointed to look after the sporting interests of the young men.

St. Louis Americans used four pitchers, two catchers and two pinch hitters, but failed to stop Cleveland.

COMMENT As You Like It

The smart alec who wrote that "You can't guess them all" stuff in the George Street mud thrower, has made an ass of himself again.

And the incident illustrates the somewhat general complaint in this world that no matter how fairly one tries to do his duty to his neighbor, kindness is repaid with mean and underhand actions.

Saturday morning, one of the George Street reporters, having neglected to cover the luncheon of the Ad Club, on Friday evening, came to this office, bemoaning the fact that he had forgotten all about it, and trouble was in store for him. He asked for a copy of the report, which a Review reporter secured by attending the luncheon. The full report was given to him. It was so important that it received a feature heading and appeared on the first page.

But the guy higher up refused to recognize this friendly act and showed his true colors by writing the stuff he did.

The two docs, Reisling and Yates, took a turn at flinging on Saturday. Yates scored a win over Brantford, while Lee's Beavers made Reisling forget he ever pitched for Washington and other big league aggregations.

The Petes' road trip, or at least the first series, proved rather disastrous. Off to a great start in the opener, the team seem to have fallen a shade below their true form and hit St. Thomas to-day with a record of one win and three losses, or a percentage of .250. The team should do better from now on, as it was hardly ready for the flag, owing to the wretched weather encountered in spring training.

The fans are sure to give the local team a great reception here on Thursday when they open the season with the Cockneys. To get home, providing the weather is good, will do the locals a world of good, as morning practices, which are denied the team while on the road, will be held and should just about round them out for a flying jump towards the top of the ladder. Schettler will likely heave in St. Thomas to-day.

Big Brundage, who set the league on fire with his fence busting as a member of the Brants last year, has been found wanting by the St. Thomas club and released.

The London Free Press in commenting on the strength of the Ottawa and St. Thomas clubs say that both look better than they were last year.

The Petes hit St. Thomas to-day for three games, Hamilton invades Erie, Ottawa goes to London, while Knotty Lee's Beavers will pastime behind the Brantford Dyke.

The Brantford club were heralded as heroes, world beaters and everything else when they won the opener from Hamilton. After Friday's loss the team was severely drubbed by the scribes. As Hamilton also won on Saturday, we can expect a demand for a new team from Dykeville.

Sir John M. Gibson, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, will assist in the opening ceremonies at Hamilton on Thursday, when the Brants open the season there.

Tom Kane, the Ottawa hurler, arrived in the Capital on Friday. He went there by mistake, thinking that the team was due to open at home. He will remain in the parliamentary city until he removes the kinks from his salary whip. He volunteered to umpire the city league games Saturday and escaped uninjured.

FAN·FOOD

Schettler was sent in to pinch hit for Belting in the Sabbath Day encounter, but failed to come through Wilcox, who was called to hit for Kelly, also failed to deliver the punch.

King had two bingles in the first and one in the second of Saturday's bargain bill.

The Petes had twenty-six left stranded on the paths in the three games.

Not one stolen base is shown in the box score of the trio of defeats.

Mr. Gorman, our own first sacker, handled thirty-five chances without a slip in the three games. He had three assists and one hit.

Dolan, a brother of Ottawa's first sacker, walloped the pill over the Dyke in Brantford Saturday and sent

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The Delegates and visitors to the Convention of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire have returned home. The business meetings were very interesting and inspiring, showing a great and good work as being accomplished throughout Canada, and some of the United States. One delegate, Mrs. Langstaffe, from Brooklyn, N.Y., told of their chapter, calling themselves I. D. B. E., Imperial Daughters of the British Empire, and gave an enthusiastic account of their work among British women, and "Hands Across the Sea." The Preventorium, at Toronto, is a lasting monument of the work accomplished by the Toronto chapters.

The kindness of the Toronto Daughters to their guests was unparalleled. The popular president, Mrs. A. E. Gooderham, entertained all the delegates and visitors at her home, Deancroft, Rosedale, Tuesday evening, when a musicale was enjoyed. Col. Gooderham received with Mrs. Gooderham.

Wednesday evening a reception was given at Government House, Thursday afternoon an automobile drive out to the Preventorium, where tea was served, and the building inspected. The children are taken from homes when found in an unhealthy condition and where tuberculosis is thought to be inherited, and kept for three months, or until in a restored condition of health. Remuneration is accepted, if the family are in a position to pay, but if not the child is given just the same care. Thursday evening a theatre party was given, and Friday a trip to Hamilton, where the Hamilton Chapters entertained at luncheon and a visit to the Mountain Sanatorium, Girls' Club, and Stony Creek Battlefield.

Too much praise cannot be given for the complete arrangements, so perfectly carried out, the pleasant "camaraderie" and good feeling which prevailed. The 14th Annual Meeting will ever remain a vividly pleasant spot in the memory of Peterboro visitors, and also a hope that some day Peterborough may have the honor of being chosen as the place of meeting.

Mrs. Arthur Stevenson left this morning for an extended tour in Europe, accompanied by her nieces, the Misses Stevenson, of Toronto.

Mrs. C. E. Smithe has returned from an extended visit with friends and relatives in Western Canada.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, medical officer of health for Peterboro, was elected vice-president of the Ontario Health Officers' Convention, which met at Toronto last week.

Miss Hummell and Miss Talbot visited Miss Shaughnessy in Otonabee yesterday afternoon.

The friends of Mr. Daniel Cushing, 330 Sherbrooke Street, will regret to learn that he is seriously ill.

It will be no doubt be a pleasure for the many friends of Miss May Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Carson, Romaine Street, to learn that she has been appointed Surgical Supervisor in the Grant Hospital, in Columbus, Ohio. The Review unites with her friends in wishing Miss Carson every success in her new position.

THEATRICAL

Within the Law was presented to two well pleased audiences at the Grand Opera House on Saturday. The production might truthfully be called a "thrilling melodrama" for it abounded in situations of the keenest excitement and afforded unlimited opportunity for acting of the most melodramatic variety. It may be said, for the excellent company presenting it, however, that the acting was at all times admirably restrained and where poorer players might have made some of the scenes ridiculous there was no over-acting in any of the parts.

The plot in itself is one of great interest for it gives an insight into the problem of the poorly paid employee and the unyielding employer, and also into the methods of the New York Police Department, which if at all true to life would go far towards deterring anyone from placing himself in the clutches of the law. The plot tells of a department store salesgirl who is sent to prison for three years for thefts which she never committed, and who, after trying to live "straight" after her release and being constantly pursued by the tragedy of her past, joins a gang of crooks who penetrate the most daring swindles while keeping strictly "within the law." Her main object in life is to revenge herself on the implacable employer who was responsible for her imprisonment and in carrying out her revenge she entices his son into a marriage with herself. Eventually, of course, the tangle is straightened out and although the murder of a decoy of the Police Department and the capture and confession of the man who committed the murder, and who is incidentally in love with the heroine and gives himself up for her sake, is involved in its solution. The heroine's character is cleared by the confession of the real thief and she yields to the entreaties of her husband and her real love for him.

The part of the heroine, Mary Turner, is a difficult one and is well portrayed by Miss Catherine Tower, who has a most fascinating personality and shows remarkable self-control in the tersest situations. Her lover, Richard Gilder, a most attractive young fellow and the son of the stern employer is capably taken by Rockliffe Fellows. The part of Joe Garson, the crook, and Inspector Burke are also worthy of special mention as clever and realistic pieces of acting, George A. Wright and W. J. Brady being the actors. Miss Marie Fitzgerald, who took the part of the ingenuine crook, completely captivated the audience by her breezy style and slangy conversation, while the rest of the company was well balanced and satisfactory. The scenery and staging of the production were quite in keeping with the general high tone of performance.

SPIES CAN BE SEEN ALMOST EVERYWHERE

Espionage System Never So Well Organized in Europe As To-day

London, May 11.—Never in the history of Europe has the secret service of espionage been organized as it is today. Week by week fresh evidence is forthcoming of the elaborate system which prevails. It is evidence of such a circumstantial character that it cannot be lightly ignored as the work of the scare-monger. Recent thefts of secret code books, the conviction of a London commission agent who, with his wife, was arrested at a London station as he was about to depart for the continent carrying important documents with him, and other incidents of a similar character, have created genuine alarm.

Practically all the evidence implicates Germany and the latest disclosures reveal an ingenious effort to take advantage of the known difficulties under which many British officers labor on their pay, procuring, under the guise of commercial enquiries, such information of the financial status of individual naval officers as will guide German agents to the means of placing temptations in their way.

Use English Agency.

Most recently the naval authorities received information that a firm of London private detectives in King street, Cheapside, who have conducted English government enquiries at times, were charged by an apparent German commercial enquirer with the mission mentioned, and but for the fact that suspicions were aroused the information required might have been innocently supplied.

Reciting the circumstances to an interviewer a few days ago, the chief partner said:

"It is true that we recently received a letter from Hamburg written in a purely commercial veing asking us whether it was possible to ascertain the financial position of naval officers in Portsmouth, Davenport, Chatham, and the other naval ports or naval stations.

"The writer—whose name does not matter, because we afterward discovered it was assumed—asked us our terms for supplying the information, and mentioned that he had been recommended by a notable detective firm in Berlin whom we knew well. In the ordinary business course our office replied to the letter. It should be understood that enquiries concerning people are received from all over the world.

The address given for the reply was to a box in the postoffice at Hamburg, the town from which the enquiry was dated. But immediately afterward the wholesale nature of the enquiry and the box office address aroused suspicion, and we followed the letter quickly by another asking the prospective client's objects.

Reasons for Enquiry.

"At the same time we communicated with the Berlin detective office, the name which was given as an introduction. We are unable to convey details of the results of these enquiries, for the whole matter was extremely delicate, but we may indicate the purport that was clear between the lines; the object was the discovery of individual naval officers whose pressing financial needs might render them open to temptation with a view to German's espionage.

"Investigations we caused to be made at Hamburg fully confirmed our conclusions—the only really possible ones."

There can be no doubt that the espionage campaign fostered by Germany is of the most comprehensive character and the police here make no secret of the fact that they have evidence that through every possible channel, no matter how devious, Germany is endeavoring to accumulate intimate information not only concerning matters which need the tempting of impecunious officers, but concerning commercial docks, engineering, water and sewage works. The items last named are knowledge necessary to an invader whose cutting of water supplies and blocking of sewage outlets become necessary in siege. As a typical instance the following are related by an authority in a position to be accurate.

Not long ago an advertisement to contractors appeared in English newspapers requiring estimates in regard to plans for gas, electric and other supplies to a provincial town. The announcement apparently escaped foreign attention until the date fixed for the contracts had passed. But a German firm at that hour paid $250 for the procuring of a copy of the accepted plans, with the bulk and nature of the supplies. In a second case a German clerk entered the service of a large firm of English contractors and suddenly disappeared after the conclusion of a seacoast contract. It afterward became certain that every detail in regard to the works had been copied.

Has Humorous Side.

But the latest and most audacious act of an alleged foreign spy-and-act which is not without its humorous side—is published this week. It is a story vouched for in authoritative quarters and it tells of how a distinguished-looking stranger walked into an English naval dockyard and availing himself of the truthfulness and cupidity of officials, succeeded in getting many highly confidential designs minutely explained to him. It is narrated that a few days ago a smartly-dressed and well-groomed man made his appearance at the office of the superintendent of the dockyard, and, finding the chief naval dignitary of the place absent, enquired his way to the drawing office. Arriving among the draughtsmen, who had several designs of a very secret nature spread out on the drawing boards before them, the unexpected visitor obtained the confidence of the head draughtsman by representing himself as an official who had been specially sent down from the admiralty to investigate certain designs which were about to be put into execution. Overawed by the presence of such an important personage as a representative direct from Whitehall, the head draughtsman told the stranger everything that he wanted to know, and at a close interview, politely ushered him

Navigation Aids on Hudson Bay.

The Canadian Minister of Marine has announced that his Department is making active preparations to improve the aids to navigation on the Hudson Bay route this season. Twelve new lighthouses will be established from the South Strait to Port Nelson, and a wireless station will be established somewhere on the strait. A boat has been sent up to locate and start work on the lighthouses and place the necessary buoys in the strait and at Port Nelson harbor.

Special Polishing Cloths.

Dissolve half a cupful of shredded white soap in a cupful of hot water. When it is cold, stir into it three large tablespoonfuls of powdered whitening and a few drops of ammonia. Beat it into a smooth jelly. Have ready some suitable pieces of old soft flannel or table linen. Put these in the jelly and allow them to absorb as much of it as possible. Squeeze them slightly and let them dry. A quick rub with one of these cloths will remove all tarnish from silver and will give it a brilliant polish.

Cleaning Solid Silver.

The best way to keep silver—real silver, not plate—always up to the mark is to wash it daily in hot water to which a little soap and a small piece of soda have been added. Dry thoroughly, and while still hot polish it with a soft leather. About once a week use a little plate powder for polishing.

Icebreaker Had Hard Time.

MONTREAL, May 11.—The Government ice-breaker, "Lady Grey," is in drydock here after her winter's work in the ice of the St. Lawrence river. She was leaking like a sieve when she came out of the water, as her fight with the barriers was more than usually severe. At Portneuf the ice jam was sixty feet in thickness. Every time that the Lady Grey hurled herself at the mass the rivets flew from her hull. The failure of the Montcalm at the thick of the battle made the work of the Lady Grey more severe than it would have been with the assistance of the other craft. During the last part of the fight to free the river it was necessary to pump out her ballast tanks four or five times daily, as she was leaking in every seam. The ship will be thoroughly overhauled here for the work of next winter.

Two Jurors Quit.

NEW YORK, May 11.—With eleven jurors in the box, the trial of Charles S. Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal was halted Saturday until this morning. Twelve jurors were in the box Friday evening, but two were excused Saturday and work was begun to select two talesmen to fill their places. One man—Jesse G. Velie—was chosen, but the panel was exhausted before the twelfth man could be agreed upon. A new panel will be on hand to-day.

Arms Were Seized.

DUBLIN, May 11.—The customs authorities Saturday seized 20 cases of arms on the steamer Lord Charlemont, from Baltimore. The contents of the cases were described in the invoice as fowling pieces manufactured in the U. S. They were consigned to an English firm at Wolverhampton for delivery at Dublin.

The Lord Charlemont sailed from Baltimore April 18, and arrived on May 4 at Belfast, where she discharged a portion of her cargo.

A paper ice blanket folded over the outer edge and top of the ice in the refrigerator will save the ice-man's bill.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE DEAL WITH DETAILS OF CIVIC WELCOME TO DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

Street Will be Decorated and $300 Will be Used to That End

SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL TAKE ACTIVE PART

The reception committee decided last evening to spend $300 to decorate the streets for the visit of the Duke of Connaught. That sum will include the canopy over the platform in Central Park. The expense of securing flags for the children will likely be excluded from that sum as will also the cost of constructing the platform. J. J. Turner and Sons will have charge of the "prettying up" work.

The meeting last evening was attended by Ald. Stratton, chairman, Mayor Buller, Ald. Duffus, Saunders, Langford, Dobbin and Johnston, Col. Young, Col. Clegg, Major Walker, Inspector Mowat of the public schools, and J. W. Fitzgerald, chairman of the separate school board.

Some Suggestions.

The matter of inviting Col. the Hon. Samuel Hughes to visit the city on the same day as the royal party was discussed, but nothing definite was arrived at. Col. Clegg suggested that the Duke be asked to open the rifle ranges, but the committee decided that time would not permit. It was then suggested that the Minister of Militia come along and have charge of the opening. It is likely however, that he will be asked to come here at a later date.

It was also decided that time would not permit the presentation by the Duke of the St. John Ambulance certificates to those in this city who are to be rewarded by them.

The Rev. F. J. Sawers reported that he was able to guarantee but one patrol of boy scouts for the occasion, and unless several other patrols can be secured, the idea of having His Royal Highness inspect the scouts will be dropped.

Major Walker reported that the Collegiate cadets would be on hand at full strength, while the school children will also be on hand to sing patriotic songs.

It was not decided whether the school children should all be included in the chorus or whether it would be better to select three or four hundred and have the balance lined along the route of the procession. Each will be provided with a flag.

On suggestion of Col. Clegg is was decided to try and arrange to have His Royal Highness visit the armouries and meet the officers there for a few moments.

Ald. Langford suggested that in constructing the platform the committee could secure materials which could be used later for civic work, and his suggestion will be acted upon.

A letter was read from Superintendent G. J. Killaly, of the Canal, in which he stated he had phoned the committee's request for the use of the Bessie Butler to the department at Ottawa, but had not received a reply.

The route of the procession and the points which will be decorated were not decided upon, but will be arranged before the next meeting of the committee.

Those who will be received by the Royal party will be the members of civic bodies, county officials, members of parliament, the clergy and their ladies.

GAIN FOR SOCIALISTS

NEW FRENCH CHAMBER CONTAINS OVER A HUNDRED OF THEM

PARIS, May 12. — The Socialists were very successful yesterday on the second ballot for members of the Chamber of Deputies, 61 of them being elected. This gives them 101 seats in the new Chamber as compared with 69 in the old. The Caillaux Radicals managed to hold their own, electing 74 members, which with 87 elected on the first ballot, gives the party 161, as compared with 156 in the old chamber.

The Temps, analysing the position of the Deputies, according to their pre-election declarations, places 308 out of the 602 members as in favor of the three years military service, the others being designated as against such service or doubtful; 279 members for the income tax and 352 for proportional representation.

The Socialists' success in the elections appears to have been due to their well-defined program and their adequate organization. The Radicals and other groups had almost as many platforms as candidates.

The Briandists lost ground by lack of preparation and general slackness in campaigning.

WANTED IN TWEED.

Toronto, May 12.—Beatrice Milner, aged 15, was arrested as she alighted from the train from Peterboro yesterday morning. She is wanted in Tweed for theft. She is alleged to have stolen $10 and a suitcase from the Chief of Police of Tweed, by whom she was employed as a domestic. She was taken back to Tweed last night.

THE WIDOWED DUCHESS OF ARGYLL.

As Marchioness of Lorne she spent five years in Canada from 1878 to 1883, while her husband, the then Marquis of Lorne, was Governor-General. Her marriage in 1871 to the son of a Scottish noble was a very popular one in Great Britain, particularly in Scotland, where an old peasant is said to have remarked on hearing the tidings: 'Queen Victoria will be a proud leddy the noo." Note the resemblance to her mother, the late Queen Victoria, both in pose and feature.

PROPOSAL TO RECOUP FARMERS' BANK DEPOSITORS IS ADOPTED

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hugh Guthrie Assert That Shareholders Have Forced an Agreement That Depositors Give Them Thirty Per Cent. of Grant.

OTTAWA, May 12. — Although it was understood that the debate should not occur until the second reading of the bill, many members of the House yesterday afternoon declared themselves in committee of the whole upon Hon. Mr. White's proposed legislation for the relief of depositors of the Farmers' Bank. W. F. Nickle, the Conservative member from Kingston, denounced the proposed bill as "most pernicious and obnoxious legislation," while Duncan Ross, Liberal member for West Middlesex, declared that he would vote with the Government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hugh Guthrie (South Wellington) insisted that the depositors were being held up by the shareholders for 30 per cent. of the amount to be voted by Parliament. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux insisted that the depositors of certain insolvent chartered banks in the Province of Quebec should share in the bounty of the Government.

Hon. W. T. White, in presenting his resolutions, said that under the findings made by Sir William Meredith, as royal commissioner, the Government was morally bound to recoup the depositors of the Farmers' Bank. These findings were to the effect that the Treasury Board had neglected after proper warning to make any investigation into the charges against W. R. Travers and the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, and had issued a certificate enabling the bank to begin business with insufficient stock.

Mr. A. K. Maclean (Halifax), the Opposition financial critic, declared himself opposed to the legislation. He asked if the Government was a party to any agreement by which the money to be voted was to be portioned between depositors and the shareholders.

Mr. White said that the Government knew of no agreement and was certainly not a party to it.

Mr. Guthrie (S. Wellington) said the depositors had been asked to assign 30 per cent. of what they recovered to the shareholders. Some of them had been told that the legislation would not go through unless they agreed to this. He thought a clause had been inserted in the bill to safeguard depositors, and to declare null and void any such agreement already made between the depositors and the shareholders.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he had received complaints from depositors to the effect that they were being compelled to assign a part of their claim to the shareholders.

Mr. Duncan Ross said he would support the measure although he thought it did not go far enough. He believed that the shareholders should be reimbursed as well as the depositors.

Mr. White said the shareholders deserve no consideration because Travers was their agent.

Mr. Nickle (Kingston) said he could not support the proposed legislation. It was, in his opinion, entirely unsupported by the findings of Sir William Meredith.

Mr. Burnham (W. Peterboro) and Col. Clark (N. Bruce) spoke in favor of the resolution, which was then reported, and a bill founded upon it introduced, and read a first time.

The House went into committee of the whole upon Hon. Mr. Roche's bill to amend the Indian Act. Mr. Oliver moved to strike out section 6 of the bill, which authorizes the removal of Indians from any reservation without their consent, when such reserve "adjoins or is situated wholly or partly within an incorporated town or city, or in the immediate neighborhood thereof.

Mr. Oliver said that the proposed legislation was a trespass upon the treaty rights of the Indians.

Hon. Charles Marcil said the phraseology was so broad that every Indian band in the country could be dispossessed of their reserve at the behest of some speculator.

The Oliver motion was defeated, and the bill was reported.

Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, has cancelled the contract with the Ontario Equipment Co. of Toronto for the supply of 100,000 mail bag locks and keys at $1 each. Correspondence tabled on the House yesterday shows that a consignment of 10,000 locks was sent last year to the Government and found to be unsatisfactory. The company was notified that they would have to be taken back and the contract cancelled. A new arrangement has been made whereby the company will substitute a new lock at 75 cents each and keys at 18c. each. It will only be supplied as ordered by the Department.

The House late last night, discussed at considerable length Hon. Martin Burrell's bill conferring upon the Department of Agriculture power to regulate cold storage warehouses throughout the country.

TWO BAKERS DISCUSS NEW REGULATIONS WITH THE BOARD OF HEALTH

The stringent mears being adopted by the Board of Health in regard to bakeries and the mode of delivering bread has aroused objectitn on the part of the local bakers. This morning at the Board of Health meeting two local bakers, Messrs. Lush and Stock, waited on the Board and discussed the matter with them. They were there only for their own private interests and not representing the bakers of the city.

Mr. Lush said that they were present in regard to the recent measures adopted by the Board. The new regulations were going to put them to a lot of trouble. It was a great inconvenience for them. Some of the regulations were all right. The bread would have to be wrapped at night. It would also have to be wrapped when cool.

Mr. Lush said they would have to employ extra men. The bread had to be delivered early in the morning and its quite a big problem with the new regulations. The wrapping would cost considerably extra.

The arranging of the bread in the wagons would tear the papers. It couldn't be helped. Then, there were a lot of people who would not buy bread, wrapped, as they could not see what they were getting. "We have to try and please everybody and its rather hard to have this regulation." Another obstacle is that bread is made in different shapes. They were most agreeable to the other regulations, which was most important for bakers. They had always done their best. The high cost of living would be increased. The bakers would not be the cause of it, either.

Rather Drastic.

Mr. Stock remarked that it was rather drastic action of the Board. It was impossible for a man to wear a coat in ninety degrees of heat. As for the cleanliness, they all heartily endorsed the action taken by the Board. It was a most timely action. "The rigs used by our people are always kept clean," said Mr. Stock. The bread wrapping was an injustice. If it was made compulsory prices would likely rise. The report that bread could be wrapped at a cost of a tenth of a cent per loaf was erroneous. Bread could not be wrapped at taat rate. The reonly successful wrapper would cost $2,000. A handwrapping machine could be purchased for probably $100. That machine, however, was not sufficient to do their work. He had at the present time several small machines. These were used for wrapping some of the fruit bread, white bread and cream bread.

"Why do you wrap these loaves?" asked Dr. Amys, chairman of the Board of Health.

"Because these particular loaves are so heavy and small that we wrap them for that reason," said Mr. Stock.

"Mr. Stock, what do you mean by an injustice to the people?" questioned Dr. McPherson.

"We have the cheapest bread in Canada," said Mr. Stock.

"That isn't any answer," remarked the M.H.O.

"It will cost more."

"You have had sickness in connection with your bakery."

"No."

"Yes, you have."

"Well, maybe," remarked Mr. Stock, after a pause.

"The other generation managed to live without wrapped bread," concluded Mr. Stock, with a smile.

"Yes, and with a full cemetery," remarked Dr. Amys.

"Mr. Stock, you know the filthiness of handling horses," remarked Dr. Amys. "handling dirty money and then handling the bread. Really it is very bad and should be checked."

Mr. Stock commented that the ladies who were doing so much hollering about the bread, were the very ones who would refuse to pay extra. These women sit around in social gossip and make regulations that they have not the slightest knowledge of.

"Does it keep fresh," meaning the bread, was the question of Ald. Duncan.

"It deteriorates rather quickly in waxed paper. Take it at the rate most bakers would wrap it, and it would be detrimental," pointed out Mr. Stock.

Dr. Amys asked if they could not have a uniform loaf.

Mr. Stock contended that in accordance with the Ontario Law, the regulation loaf must be twelve ounces.

Dr. Amys, "I think you could easily have a standard sized loaf."

"In bread business you certainly cannot do so. You could not keep track of the debts and books," remarked Mr. Stock.

"What would you suggest then, Mr. Stock?" asked the M.H.O.

Mr. Spence referred to a fork being used to handle the bread with. Both bakers thought this a fairly good idea.

"It is immaterial whether they get a white loaf or a brown loaf, but we must have the bread handled by other means than dirty hands," was the statement of Dr. McPherson.

The argument of the bakers was that people wanted to see what they were getting. They must see the color and a few other small matters concerning the purchase of their bread.

Mr. Stock said that there were two or three bakers in the city now who would retake bread and sell it the next day. This bread had been in the stores and house and often handled.

"I think both these gentlemen are anxious in the interests of the general public to adopt better means, and they are keeping good clean bakeshops and obeying the regulations now," said the M.H.O.

The matter was left over and in the meantime the Board and the bakers will consult as to the best means of handling the bread in a sanitary manner.

A special meeting will be called when the matter will be settled.

ASQUITH GOVERNMENT TO INTRODUCE AMENDING BILL; PREMIER'S STATEMENTS IN HOUSE

Canadian Press Despatch.

London, May 12.—Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today pledged the government to introduce an amending bill to the Home Rule measure in the hope of the latter being passed by an agreement between the parties. If this offer is accepted, he said both the original Home Rule bill and the amending bill will become law, practically simultaneously.

In announcing that the third reading of the Home Rule bill on its third passage through the Commons would be taken before Whitsuntide, the premier said "If as I hope and trust, by bringing diverse ideas together with a common object, and through concerted discussion we can arrive at a settlement, I am sure as a matter of procedure, that the settlement must take the form of a supplementary bill. I am going a step farther now than I have ever done when I say on behalf of the government that while I shall ask the house to give the Irish Home Rule bill its third reading before Whitsuntide, the government will make itself responsible for introducing an amending proposal in the hope that a settlement by agreement may be arrived at in regard to matters immediately outstanding."

RURAL DEANERY.

Rural Deanery meetings at All Saints' Church will be brought to a close this afternoon.

FOR CIVIC BEAUTIFICATION

A Big Scheme Embracing Every Ward in the City—Is Endorsed by Prominent Citizens—Citizens' Banquet Arranged for Friday Night

For years we have been talking about doing things in a big way to properly advertise the advantages of Peterboro as a residential and industrial centre. Some excellent efforts have been made, but we all realize that much remains to be done. Within the past few days we have found that for several months past an energetic committee of the Peterboro Horticultural Society has been at work drafting the most complete plans for a movement in favor of civic beautification that has been ever proposed in Peterboro. It is a big scheme, that looks years into the future, and which embraces every ward in the city. The plan has been laid before the directors of the Peterboro Ad. Club, and has met with their enthusiastic approval. Both organizations are co-operating with the officers of the Horticultural Society in making it a success.

President B. D. Hall, of the Board of Trade, says, "The project is a splendid one. It is simple, practical and will do much to promote the best interests of Peterboro. Every citizen will be able to co-operate."

President G. O. Cameron, of the Ad. Club, says, "It is just what Peterboro has been waiting for for years. In time it should advertise Peterboro far and wide."

Dr. M. A. Morrison, Chairman of the Board of Education, says, "The scheme fits in with plans that the Board of Education has been considering for some time. The Board of Education can be depended on to give its hearty co-operation until the movement has been made a success."

Mr. W. H. Hill says, "It is the best conceived project of the kind I have yet heard or seen in Peterboro. We hear these things advocated in a general way, but in this case we not only have the scheme laid out in a big way, but the details have been worked out also, and it is all perfectly feasible. I will do my part."

City Engineer Parsons has had several consultations with the committee and is giving his enthusiastic support. He expects splendid results to attend it.

A Citizens' Banquet.

Now that the arrangements have been pretty well completed, it is proposed to lay the proposals before the citizens at a "Citizens' Banquet" to be held in the Oriental Hotel next Friday evening at half past six. The citizens, therefore, are asked to keep Friday evening free so that they can attend. One of the chief officials of the Toronto Municipal Government, in fact, one of the Toronto city commissioners, is so pleased with the plan, as it has been explained to him, that he has agreed to come to Peterboro next Friday, for the special purpose of giving such assistance as he can in making this enterprise a complete success. Members of the city council are in hearty accord with the idea.

NEARLY 200 DEAD

CATANIA, Sicily, May 12. — The official estimate of the dead as a result of the recent earthquake, which destroyed many villages on the eastern slope of Mount Etna, places the number at close to 200. This is said to be the largest percentage ever recorded, considering the smallness of the area affected by the disturbance.

MILITANT HACKS DUKE'S PORTRAIT

Had Hatchet Concealed in Her Muff

Canadian Press Despatch.

London, May 12.—A militant suffragette, armed with a hatchet, today, seriously damaged Herkomer's fine portrait of the Duke of Wellington, in the Royal Academy. The woman was standing looking at the painting and suddenly drew a hatchet from her muff and slashed the painting three times. At police court she gave her name as Mary Ansell.

NEW LINE FOR C.P.R. COMPLETED

Toronto, May 12.—The Canadian Pacific Railway's engineers have completed the heavy task of building a new line from Agincourt to Leaside, a distance of six miles, on a different grade to the old line. The new line will be in use at the end of this week, carrying the usual Ottawa and Montreal trains. In a short time the old line will be placed in the hands of the construction department to be elevated. The new line includes two of the largest steel bridges within 50 miles of Toronto. When the double track from Leaside to Summerhill Avenue is completed, the C.P.R. will then have double track, via the North Toronto viaduct, all the way to Streetsville Junction.

NO BAND CONCERT.

As the choir of St. Paul's Church is giving a concert in the church tonight, the Temple Band will not play in the park.

DUE ONLY TO IMAGINATION?

PEOPLE NEAR INCINERATOR COMPLAIN OF UNPLEASANT ODORS

Complaints regarding oders from the Incinerator are due to imaginative minds on the part of nearby residents, according to the decision of the Board of Health, this morning.

"We are receiving complaints about the incinerator," remarked Ald. Duncan.

Sanitary Inspector Spence, who has investigated carefully and spent several evenings at the incinerator, said it was due more to the imagination of some of the people.

"Well, they have got into their minds that the affair is evil for their property and they seem hurt," was the statement of Ald. Duncan.

"It certainly is not as bad as the stench at Matthew's," replied Mr. Spence, whereupon the other members heartily agreed with him.

"Are we going to allow the people of Monaghan to use our Incinerator?" was the bomb exploded by the Sanitary Inspector.

In terms not to be denied, Ald. Duncan and Mayor Buller said that when they went to get a piece of land from the Council of North Monaghan for the Incinerator, they were turned down. The residents of Monaghan will have to look for another site for their garbage dump.

Inspector Spence recommended that a sewer be constructed on Aylmer Street north of Smith Street. This would prove very valuable to the residents on this street. The cesspools and other means at present were in bad shape, and the matter should be attended to at once. The recommendation was passed.

Mayor Buller remarked that he had received a letter from a lady to-day.

"Anything regarding the Baby Show?" asked Dr. Amys.

"No, it's a complaint against the M. H. O.," His Worship replied.

The complaint turned out to be a minor affair of no importance.

The application of Mr. R. R. Hall, on behalf of his clients, Mrs. R. D. Hamilton, and Rupert Glidden, Hunter Street, for a sewer service on Hunter Street from Stewart to Rubidge Street, was granted.

The application regarding the sewer construction on Hunter Street and Belmont Avenue was also granted.

A complaint was received from residents on Waterford Street concerning improper connections, which was proving a nuisance. No action was taken.

LIGHTSHIP FOUND

Ill-Fated Craft is Located by Means of Drag Hooks

BUFFALO, May 12. — Lightship No. 82, which disappeared from its station in Lake Erie, 15 miles off this port, during the great storm of Nov. 9 last, was located on the bottom of the lake off Point Abino yesterday, by the Government steamer Surveyor. The lost vessel was found by means of heavily weighted drag hooks with which a systematic search of the lake's bottom was being made.

The lightship was missed the day following the storm that raised havoc with shipping throughout the great lakes region. She carried a crew of six men. The Government experts expressed the belief that the bodies of the crew would be found in the fire hold of the ship. Divers will be sent down to examine the wreck as soon as weather conditions permit.

AN ATTACK ON TAMPICO

RUMOR IS CURRENT IN LONDON THAT CITY HAS FALLEN

LONDON, May 12.—The Daily Chronicle in its issue of to-day asserts that certain London business houses have received reports that the rebels have captured Tampico.

WASHINGTON, May 12—The Constitutionalist attack on Tampico, which began Sunday night, was in progress yesterday, according to information received by the confidential agency of the Constitutionalists in Washington. The Constitutionalists, under command of Generals Pablo Gonzales and Luis Caballero, are attacking from the north and west sides of the city.

Admiral Mayo notified the Department last night that twenty-three cannon shots were heard during Sunday night's attack on the city. Other despatches from the admiral are being eagerly awaited by the Department. Clarence A. Miller and Neill E. Pressley, the American Consul and Vice-Consul at Tampico, who were ordered by the Government to leave their posts as soon as the attack was impending, are now aboard the battleship Connecticut, and scarcely more than a dozen Americans remained behind after the consul gave them notice that the United States Government wished them to leave the city.

"BALD JACK" TELLS STORY

NO CHANGE IN EVIDENCE GIVEN AT THE FIRST BECKER TRIAL

THE PLOT TO KILL

Canadian Press Despatch.

New York, N.Y., May 12.—"Bald Jack" Rose, the star witness at the first Becker trial, appeared on the stand to-day and told substantially the same story as at the first trial. He spoke in a low tone but calmly and at times gazed directly at the defendant. Rose recited how Becker and Rosenthal had entered into partnership in a gambling establishment, how they quarrelled and exposure for Becker was threatened, and how Rosenthal's death was plotted.

MAY REVIVE SUIT

Father Gnam is Likely to Sue Bishop Fallon

PORT HURON, Mich., May 12.—The sensational fight which Rev. Father Gnam of Wyoming, Ont., has been waging in the Canadian courts, and which received another setback at Toronto on Thursday, when an appeal from the decision of Justice Britton was dismissed, is to give way now, it is understood, to a revival of his suit for $50,000 for alleged slander against Bishop Fallon.

The suit was commenced over a year ago as the result of an order from Bishop Fallon deposing Father Gnam, but was dropped, according to the latter's testimony under an agreement by which Archbishop McNeill of Toronto promised to restore him and provide him with maintenance until this would have been done. Father Gnam later brought action against the archbishop, alleging breach of this agreement, and it is because this suit has been decided against him that he proposes to renew the original action against Bishop Fallon.

AN ADDRESS AND MOVING PICTURES

Retailers and Customers Heard Entertaining Program

The Grand Opera House was comfortably filled last evening when Alfred F. Boyd of the Sheldon School of Business Building, Chicago, addressed the members of the Retail Merchants' Association. Mr. Boyd, in his opening remarks, stated that he was pleased to be in Peterboro, and was impressed with the city. His remarks along the lines of building up a business were given in a theoretical form. He laid stress on the value of efficiency in every department of a business from the office boy up to the manager. Many clerks thought more of increasing their salaries than they did of increasing their efficiency. In that manner they were interfering both with their own advancement and that of their employers. Business men should study their business until it became one of science as science increased service, and service was one of the requirements of success.

Thomas Barrie, president of the association, occupied the chair, and briefly reviewed what the aims of the association were, and also introduced the speaker.

It is likely another such affair will be held in the near future, as together with the regular bill of motion pictures and the speaker's remarks the evening proved very interesting.

ROYALTY IN CANADA.

THE APPOINTMENT of a royal Governor-General in the person of Prince Alexander of Teck, is welcomed by the Montreal Mail on the ground that the class from which most Governors-General come "are up to their eyes in a political struggle that has many partizans in Canada for and against the issues involved."

This position is a common sense and fairly diplomatic one. That the gentleman in question is free from the political struggle referred to because he belongs to royalty, is very doubtful. The monarch is supposed to be constitutionally free from party conflicts, but what applies to the King does not necessarily belong to nephews and cousins.

But the Montreal paper very frankly says thumbs down on royalty in Canada. If one newspaper, or possibly two of them, could crystallize democracy so that it would remain pure, the declaration of the Montreal editor would have something of force behind it. Unfortunately for the weight of an editor's sway, forces too great for him to oppose successfully are operating to make his declaration abortive and to change democracry from what it is.

The United States is a good example. Americans started out to set up the rule of the people against the supposed tyranny of an English monarch, and to-day, have an irresponsible executive far more powerful than the English King and removed to a considerable degree from the people's control by the party machine. The Mexican War of 1846-48, the Cuban War, the Conquest of the Philippine Islands, in all of which politics was a big factor, took on an imperial colour that militated against pure democracy. That occurred in politics. In American society, the accumulation of millions of wealth could not be satisfactorily enjoyed by the mere possession of Mister or at best Honourable, to a name, and hence the stampede for bankrupt European titles, many of them of doubtful currency. President Jackson used to ride to the then White House on horseback and tie the animal to a post. Now the President rides in a coach and four with footmen, just as any prince.

However, the same tendencies are stronger in Canada. The United States always had consistency to restrain it, but Canada has been imperial from the very beginning. At first, under the fleur-de-lys, then under the Union Jack, monarchy has been in fact and theory the apex of Canadian politics. In the Dominion Archives is a great number of petitions from the common people on all sorts of subjects that have a careful statement of loyalty to His Majesty the King. The present imperialistic propaganda, Colonial Conferences, Royal visits, naval questions, together with the close historical association of royalty with Canada, have all been important factors, keeping royalty in the eye of Canadian democracy. Even such an ultra-nationalist as John S. Ewart, advocates a Kingdom of Canada having a real, live, Canadian King. Men successful in politics and commerce have seldom refused a title when such was for their having, and a new fact has arisen in the coming to Canada of English peers, who have acquired Canadian estates. Now then do we want royalty?

The question has no other answer than Hobson's choice. We cannot avoid royalty and all that royalty signifies. The teaching of history is that great peoples always tend to express themselves by symbols—ritual in religion, rules of etiquette in society, royalty and titles in politics. It is true that Canadians are not well versed in "the paraphernalia and etiquette of royal or vice-regal establishments," but they have learned a good deal and desire to learn more. Their habit of mind is not antagonistic to the parade and ceremony of a royal show, if we judge from the eagerness to welcome properly royal visitors and from the filtration of form from high society to lower strata. Canadians delight to have their blushing debutantes presented at Court, and, in Ontario, we have even authorized the publication of a school text book on etiquette! Royalty in the United States would be undoubtedly an anomaly—in Canada it is quite in keeping with historical associations and with the political and social tendencies of the people.

CONSERVATION OF COAL IN CANADA.

CANADA'S DEPENDENCE on the United States for its supply of anthracite coal is a point strikingly indicated in the report just issued by the Commission of Conservation, on the "Conservation of Coal in Canada." Practically all of the most populous portion of Canada, lying between Montreal, P.Q., and Moose Jaw, Sask., relies solely on the United States for its supply of anthracite coal. Further, there are indications that the United States may, in the comparatively near future prohibit the export of anthracite, and, as the only anthracite deposits thus far discovered in Canada, are confined to the area near Banff, Alta., it is of great importance that suitable substitutes be found as soon as possible.

Such a situation makes it clear that Canada should carefully husband her coal resources and, so far as possible, check all wasteful methods of mining and handling coal. With this end in view, the report suggests greatly needed changes in the form of coal-mine leases, the provisions of which should be carefully enforced by a competent engineering authority. This would go far towards preventing the careless practices followed at present in many coal mines. In addition to this, it is urged that the government should carry on investigations with a view to determining the suitability of slack and low-grade coals for use in gas producers for generating power, and their adaptability for the manufacture of briquettes for domestic use. By utilizing these inferior products in this way, not only would there be less waste, but the value of the public coal lands would be considerably increased.

Again, it is pointed out that central power stations situated in the vicinity of many of the lignite fields of Western Canada, could develop electric power for transmission to neighbouring manufacturing centres. This would mean a great saving, especially in the case of lignites that will not stand shipping to any considerable distance.

The report gives the experience of Great Britain, the United States and other countries in the manufacture of coal briquettes, and the methods adapted to conditions in Canada are indicated. Comparisons are made between the bee-hive ovens and the by-product ovens for the coking of coal and the economies effected by the latter over the former are clearly presented. In addition, short descriptions are given of the principal coal mines in Canada, as well as of the by-product coke oven plant of the Algoma Steel Co., at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The report is well illustrated by means of maps, diagrammatic sketches and half-tone engravings, and should prove of great value, not only to those directly engaged in coal mining, but to all who are interested in the economic welfare of the Dominion.

ALASKAN RAILWAY STARTED.

THE GOVERNMENT of the United States under the direction of President Wilson, is proceeding rapidly with its project to build a railway in Alaska. President Wilson, on recommendation of Secretary Lane, has appointed Thomas Riggs, Jr., as the third member of the Alaskan Railroad Commission. Mr. Riggs is an engineer of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and was one of the chief engineers of the Alaskan-Canadian boundary. He made a survey extending from the Pacific to the Arctic ocean.

The entire commission, consisting of William C. Edes, Lieut. Frederick Mears, and Mr. Riggs with a party of assistants, will leave later this month for Alaska, to begin surveys of the route for the Government railroad.

A SUGGESTION FOR LOW RATES.

THE PRESIDENT of the Quebec Board of Trade has written to Premier Borden suggesting that, before the Transcontinental railway is handed over to the Grand Trunk Pacific, for operation, the Government should insist that the maximum rate for the carrying of wheat for export from Winnipeg to Quebec should be fixed at ten cents per bushel, with an addition pro rata when shipped to Halifax or St. John. It is pointed out that there would be no hardship in exacting this. The level grades of the Transcontinental, according to Major Leonard, permit the hauling of 1780 tons on a train as compared with 940 tons hauled over the grades now used for this traffic, the distance being shortened by 214 miles. It is contended that it will be possible to carry wheat profitably from Winnipeg to Quebec for about seven cents per bushel, whereas it now costs thirteen cents per bushel from Winnipeg to Montreal via Fort William and the Great Lakes.

One Use For It.

The girl had come to the professor to have her voice tested.

He heard her attempt to sing.

She said: "Do you think I can ever do anything with my voice, professor?"

Cautiously, he replied: "Well, I fancy it might be handy in case of fire."

The Tango Has its Difficulties.

"Blanc sat disconsolately in the smoking room while all the other guests at a ball were tangoing like mad.

"'Why, Blanc, what are you doing here? Why aren't you out on the floor tangoing, man?' his host asked.

"'I don't tango,' Blanc answered.

"'You don't tango? Incredible! How on earth is it that you don't tango?'

"'Well,'' Blanc said, sadly, 'I'd like to tango, and I would tango, only the music puts me out and the girl gets in my way.'"

A Tyrannical Action.

Montreal Gazette.

The Legislative Assembly of Nova Scotia did a cowardly, contemptible and tyrannical thing when it ordered the imprisonment in the common jail for forty-eight hours of Mr. W. B. McCurdy, the news editor of the Halifax Herald. In connection with the discussion of a measure before the Legislature there appeared in the Herald a letter which was held to reflect unjustly on the honor of members. It may not have been a wise letter; at this distance it seems to have been an unwise letter. The publisher of the Herald, Hon. William Dennis, however, took upon himself full responsibility in the connection, and as he is a man of substance anyone who could prove that he had been hurt could properly expect to gain redress from him. The legislators, however, seem to have been looking for revenge rather than vindication. They had not the courage to attack Mr. Dennis. They called Mr. McCurdy, one of his employees, and when Mr. McCurdy, acting under instructions—and proper enough instructions—refused to give the name of the writer of the letter, they sent him to jail. The act will not hurt Mr. McCurdy, who has played the part of an honorable and faithful servant of his newspaper. It will hurt the reputation of the Nova Scotia Legislative Assembly, whose majority in the business played anything but a manly part.

BALMY PEACE

By Walt Mason

Let dogs delight to bark and bite; they have no better sense; but human neighbors shouldn't fight across the garden fence. There are so many village rows! The husbands scrap and swear, the while their energetic fraus are busy pulling hair; and e'en the little kids are foes, and let their passions rise; and one goes home with bloody nose, and one with blackened eyes. And nearly all such wars are vain, and foolish and unjust; how shall it soothe your spirit's pain, a neighbor's head to bust? I kicked in ten of Jimpson's slats, and he bombarded me with cabbage heads and long dead cats, and eggs of '63. I lay upon a couch of pain, and there I sadly thunk that all such doings are insane, that warlike words are bunk. And when again I was on deck, I went to Jimpson's shack, and found that he was but a wreck since I had sprained his back. And there we vowed such things should cease, no more we'd scrap, by jings; we'd give the white winged dove of peace a chance to spread its wings. And now we love each other well, and mind the golden rule; I borrow water from his well, he rides my saddle mule; and every time we have a chance we do a kindly deed, and all day long we sing and dance, like Gabys gone to seed.

Birthdays of Note

TUESDAY, MAY TWELFTH

The Hon. Sir William Glenholme Falconbridge, chief justice of the King's Bench Division of the Supreme Court of Judicature of Ontario, was born sixty-eight years ago to-day at Drummondville, Ont. He is a jurist of eminent ability and a scholar of repute, being particularly well up in the classics. Apropos both of his kindly disposition and his literary accomplishments a good story is told by a young Toronto woman journalist. This young lady was sent in an emergency to report a case then being heard by Sir Glenholme at Osgoode Hall. She did her best to take in the argument but soon became so entirely bewildered that she could not make head nor tail of the business. When the court adjourned she bravely accosted the chief justice and explained her difficulty. Sir Glenholme then and there sat down and wrote out a popular explanation of the case which he handed to the reporter. It was duly printed in the afternoon edition and the supposed author was highly complimented by the editor on her achievement. She had to admit, however, that the report had been penned by the judge himself.

ON SCHOOLDAYS

I HOPE I'll never get so old that I can't remember jest how glad I used t' feel when the summer hollerdays drawed near and my daily trials at the leetle red school seemed near at end. I kin afford to look back and laugh at them same trials, now I've learned what rale ones are, but let me tell ye I had my worries in the old, barefoot, stub-toe days. And I guess the world hasn't changed none since then and boys is boys jest the same as then and hard lessons are hard lessons jest as they was then and I'm thinkin' summer hollerdays are the same now as they was then.

And let me say that you, as head of the home, ain't the only toiler, the only one with problems to decipher and perplexities to sidetrack, no siree! Don't forget that the boys and gals who go t' the big school on th' hill er the leetle red school in the valley have their problems and their work to do.

After all, we're nuthin' but children and so we lug our worries home with us, some of us in our heads from the office, some in our booksacks from the old red school. O' course we orter know better, but will we ever know better? That's the question.

Soap is fastened in a recess in the face of a new washboard so that clothes to be washed are passed over it, saving the time needed to rub it over them.

An Object Lesson For Rent Payers

In Sept., 1909, a wise man with nice family, who was paying rent accepted my advice to buy a home on my easy payment plan. He has been a most satisfactory customer and will have his home paid for within two years, at which time it will be worth very close on $1,000. How can rent payers close their eyes to such an opportunity? Come in at once and learn how easy it will be for you to own your home instead of continuing to pay rent. You can have a garden any size desired at small cost.

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, appetite good, step elastic, and I lost that weak, tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KREAMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

THE SPANISH COMB IS IN FASHION.

The tall comb over which the Spanish beauty was wont to drape her mantilla, has come back into fashion with the raising of the hair dressing nearer the top of the head. There is a delightful selection of these to be found in real and imitation shell, blond or brunette coloring or gray, plain or set with brilliants. Besides being very graceful, this comb arrangement helps to hold in place the high roll of hair that is set on top of the head.

When beets are left from dinner wash them and rinse in boiling water to free them from butter or sauce, and drop into a weak vinegar. In this condition they may be kept for a long time and can be used as needed for salads and garnishing.

SPRING BLOUSES.

They Come in Many Lurid New Colors.

CHARMING NET BLOUSE.

There is nothing prettier with a new skirt than a blouse of either the same color in fine ninon or a silk or satin one of contrasting shades.

The newest French made blouses are nearly all unlined, being as loosely fitted as possible, with ample fullness under the arms that quite does away with that tendency to wear badly or split that was the great drawback with the Magyar style when it first came into fashion.

The colors used are many of them lurid in the extreme, royal purple, geranium and tangerine being the favorites, the blouses being carried out in charmeuse or a thick quality crepe de chine, trimmed very simply at neck and wrist with narrow bands of velvet.

Very chic little blouses for summer wear are of net. Illustrated here is a blouse of embroidered net which is worn with a dainty gown of taffeta. The flounced tunic, trimmed with buttons, gives an exceedingly attractive appearance to the simple little frock.

LAUNDRY BOX.

A Pedestal Shaped Affair That Will Fit Conveniently Into Corners.

Better far than the laundry bag is the pedestal shaped box. It may be as elegant looking as its owner elects to have it and stand about the dressing room on an equality with the other necessary pieces of furniture.

The pedestal may be made of the most ordinary wood, since invariably it is covered with cretonne, worsted brocade or any thick, closely woven window draping material. It should be neatly finished at the edges with a gimp or a fancy braid.

Inside it may be lined with white oilcloth, although that is not necessary, and it has a flat lid which, when closed, makes a convenient table top. This laundry box fits into a corner, out of the way. It may stand beside the bed, as it is precisely the right size to hold a night light, a book and a carafe.

Chatterton's Suicide.

Thomas Chatterton, the poet, was a phenomenal boy. He wrote some remarkable verse for one of his age. He was born in Bristol, England, on Nov. 20, 1752. He went to London to better his opportunities for employment. He did not succeed and lost heart. He became very poor and sometimes for days was compelled to go with little or no food. On Aug. 24 Mrs. Angel, the woman from whom he rented a room, knowing that during three days he had eaten nothing, invited him to dinner. He was offended at her expressions, which seemed to hint that he was in want and assured her that he was not hungry. Withdrawing into his garret at nightfall on the same day and quietly locking himself in death came to him before daybreak on Aug. 25, 1770. When, on his continued nonappearance in the morning, the attic door was broken open it was found from the contents of a nearly empty phial still grasped in his hand that he had died from the effects of arsenic.

Care of the Eyes.

The day comes to one and all—provided we live the allotted span—when our sight has to be studied. Women should do all work, such as sewing, reading and writing, by daylight as far as possible. Lamps give the best artificial light. The lamp should be placed at your left hand. Do not use the eyes directly after a meal. Bathe them morning and night in cold water to strengthen the muscles. When they feel especially tired and strained use water as hot as can comfortably be borne. With a soft sponge bathe them for several minutes, then give a dash of cold water.

HER LITTLE SON WAS DYING

Gave Him "Fruit-a-tives" And Saved His Life.

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., May 5th. 1913.

"Our little boy, Lawrence, was sorely affected with Chronic Indigestion, and the doctor did not think he would recover. He started with a sore mouth and it developed into this other trouble. Everything he ate just passed right through the system without change. He cried incessantly and life was a misery to him. My husband had been using "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion, getting such benefit from them, and I thought what did him good, might help our boy. We tried "Fruit-a-tives" giving Lawrence ½ a tablet at a dose, and the result was marvellous. Today, he is the picture of health, and he is perfectly well".

MRS. GLADSTONE WHISTLED.

The G. O. M. Could Tell the Story — All But the Finish

Apparently the powers of Mr Gladstone as a siffleur were somewhat limited, judging by the amusing story told by Rev. T. Selby Henrey in "Attic Salt." Mr. Gladstone and Dean Wellesley were schoolfellows at Eton and the friendship there commenced continued throughout life. When they were both in the 'sixties they met at a little dinner-party at the Deanery at Windsor, and the great statesman jocularly said across the table to the dean:—

"I say, old friend, I have got a good story for you about Harry Phillpotts, Bishop of Exeter."

Upon which Mrs. Gladstone hastily interfered:—

"William, you must not tell that story until the servants have left the room."

When the psychological moment arrived the Premier said:—

"You know, Wellesley, that Bishop Phillpotts, during his old age, acquired the habit of sitting up late at night with his chaplain. Well, one night he was comfortably ensconced in his study chair, with feet against the mantelpiece, dreamily looking into the fire, when he heard footsteps at the door and the noise of a dress behind him.

"Without looking up he said, in a very endearing voice (thinking the intruder to be his wife): 'What can I do for you, my little darling?' To his great astonishment the trespasser proved to be, not his wife, but his wife's maid. And the only way in which the poor bishop could give expression to his feelings was by a long-drawn-out, subdued whistle."

Mr. Gladstone at this juncture said, "I cannot manage the whistle, so I will ask Catherine to give it," and Mrs. Gladstone finished the story by giving the long-drawn-out whistle, to the delight not only of the dean, but also of all the guests.

That Will Commence in a Day or Two in The Review

OLD TIME OTTAWA.

The Capital Has Changed Rapidly In Recent Years.

In the days when shipping and commerce on the canal-side were at their prime, the Ottawa of the last three decades was not even dreamed of. Those who read of the discovery of layers of cities below cities in the old world, such as those of Asia Minor, would be surprised to be told that such a process has been rapidly going on in such places as the capital of Canada — and it is curious how building may succeed building, in turn to be replaced even in the short space of a couple of generations. In those days, not far from the canal, up what is now a side street, stood the old wooden building used as the Bytown Grammar School, presided over by a scholarly old Scottish dominie and divine.

It is now a place of paved streets, many-storied office buildings and the clang of street cars.

But then the conditions were more primitive and idyllic. Near this place, we are told, there ran a brook or stream, across what is now Elgin street, out of a sort of swamp below two graveyards. This brook found its sinuous passage, by all sorts of declivities, mysteriously into the old canal. In this brook fish of a kind were said to have been caught. The dreamer may, perchance, imagine the small boy of that period, weary of much study in the dingy walls of the old school and fain for the outdoors, and the sun and wind's companionship, on his way loitering eager for the gleaming and hurrying bass or perch that flashed under the amber water of a sunny pool; or we may stray with him down to the rude wharf-side, in wonder at some strange craft just arrived from the outside world, bearing those cargoes delightful and mysterious to the boy mind; and with him watch the slow, old-time process of unloading and storing in the equally mysterious gloom of the, even then, dingy and cobwebby old warehouses.

At that time there were few houses in what was called Middle Town; and from near what is now Connaught Place a pathway, wound over the hill to Upper Town. At each end of this path was a turnstile, and this was the only means of approach for many a year. North, on the cliff, were the soldiers' barracks and the town jail—while on the east side of the sappers' bridge was a lodge and gate, which was the entrance to Mayor's Hill, where was the residence of the military commander. That certainly was a different environment from what exists to-day. It is indeed a place now long dead and gone, a mere memory and a dream vanished with the youth and vague longings or imaginings of the schoolboy of that period, now, perchance, like the old Bytown, a part of what is dust and ashes.—Wilfred Campbell, in The Canadian Magazine.

Money Letters Impounded.

Thousands of letters are lying in the dead letter offices in Ottawa, Toronto and other cities that contain money. That is the reason why they are in the dead office. It is contrary to a regulation recently put in force to send money through the mail, unless by postal order, check, or in a registered envelope. The order was issued to stop the sending of money through the mails, and the idea was to remove temptation as far as possible from postal employes.

Many retail houses do a good deal of rural business in this way. Many of their customers enclose coins in envelopes and send them through the post to retail houses. There is no penalty attached to the sending of money through the mails, but the sending of it is contrary to the regulations, and unregistered letters which are being found to contain money have been sent to the dead letter offices.

Representations are being made urging that the rule be rescinded and sums less than $1 may soon be sent by letter.

Quebec Marriages.

The Province of Quebec is the most expensive place there is in which to be married by license. This is because the province puts a tax on marriage by license. Six dollars is drawn down every time a license is issued by the Government. The total cost is eight dollars. Two of these go to the issuer of the document. This money does not go into the general fund of the province, but is devoted to the higher Protestant educational institutions, and is placed at the disposal of the educational board. It is given in this way because Roman Catholics do not marry by license.

The tax amounts to many thousands of dollars every year. In one office alone in 1913 no less than 800 licenses were issued. Undoubtedly the total would be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Strathcona's Romantic Marriage.

The marriage of Lord Strathcona was a romance. He met the lady when he was twenty-nine, and living on the coast of Labrador. She was a widow, and had a little son. There was no priest or church within 1,000 miles, and the marriage was a simple contract without ceremony. It was for this reason that when the High Commissioner became a peer in 1897 a re-marriage was held to be necessary, and it was solemnized with the full ritual of the Church of England.

A Clean Vote.

An innovation was introduced into university election contests at the Trinity College Literary Society annual elections in Toronto recently, when in the last five minutes of polling a number of men were discovered in the shower baths who had not exercised their franchise. These were not permitted to even put on their slippers. One student shouted as they were being carried to the polling booth that it would be a clean vote.

AFRAID OF THE DENTIST?

Here Are Some Hints That May Help You Through Your Ordeal.

Everybody dreads the dentist. The bravest heart quails at the thought of the man with the forceps. One who has been through many trying experiences with the dentist and who has made a study of efficiency in all directions claims to have made some discoveries that ought to be helpful to all. Here are some of his suggestions. Your siege in the dentist chair will be greatly lightened if you will remember a few things:

Keep the throat moist by gargling from time to time as you sit in the chair with water mixed with some antiseptic preparation of an ordinary character such as every dentist has at hand.

It is not a bad idea before you go to a dentist to take a bit of chewing gum in the mouth to promote a free flow of saliva. If the gum has a flavor, that will be helpful and will check the tendency to dryness of the throat and the tickling sensation that follows.

Carry a large handkerchief with perfume or cologne on it, which you can hold in your hand and inhale the cologne whenever you have a moment's rest. You will find it very refreshing. While the dentist is at work the handkerchief will give your fingers something to clasp. This may help to divert your attention from the work on your teeth.

Relieve the strain upon your throat at every opportunity while the dentist is changing his instruments by lifting your head from the chair—for even a single moment—and taking a deep breath. Shut your eyes and think of some problem, some particular friend or of some one in whom you are deeply interested. This will divert your thought from the dentist's work.

Strange Arabian Custom.

In a Tripoli cemetery the gravestones, with bowls or saucers sunken in the cement, indicate that the one who lies buried there was a person of wealth and importance. These receptacles, however, are not for flowers, as one might imagine, but to hold water for birds. The birds are said to bring good fortune, so the drinking basins are not provided wholly for love of them.

Helping Her.

"You loved her very much?"

"So much that when her first husband died I married her that I might share her grief and so lessen it."

"And how did it work?"

"Fine! I'm sorrier now for his death than she is."—Houston Post.

NORWEGIAN BABES LOW DEATH RATE

The Norwegian emigrant comes to this country with a fair endowment of health and intelligence and the moral qualities of inddustry and independence. The numerous farms on the prairies of the northwest testify to the Norseman's love for tilling the earth, but of late years, when land has become valuable, they, too, have been forced to join the industrial army of the great cities, and in Chicago today we find there are about 70,000 Norwegians.

It is her most desirable youths Norway sends us, young men and women skilled in the various trades and with a schooling so rigidly enforced that illiteracy in Norway is less than 1 per cent. These young people are democratic of mind and quickly become Americanized. They make the best stock for parenthood.

From these introductory remarks is will readily be seen that the chief causes of infant mortality, poverty, and ignorance are found wanting in the case of the Norwegian infant. During my three years' service as physician to the Daily News Fresh Air sanitarium it was almost unusual to have a Norwegian mother apply for help for her babe, and I believe the different children's dispensaries will testify to the same.

The health department bulletin of July 16, 1910, gives the infant death rate from diarrheal diseases during the hot weather in Chicago among babies of native and foreign mothers. Among the foreign nationalities we find that babies born of Norwegian mothers have the lowest death rate.

This is the more remarkable among a race of mothers from a cold northern climate, as we know that the heat of summer, aside from being a factor in producing gastro-intestinal diseases, also has a direct influence on the infant. This low mortality is readily explained, however, when we remember that the Norwegian mother almost invariably nurses her own babe, thereby reducing gastro-intestinal diseases to a minimum. She is likewise noted for her cleanly habits, and has in her own country been trained to have the greatest respect for public health regulations.

Moreover the Norwegian population of Chicago has instinctively kept clear of the congested districts of the city. The great bulk of them live far out on the northwest side, where, fortunately, there are still plenty of open spaces. Here they live in small cottages, with a well kept back yard, or in two flat houses. Tenement houses are unknown among them.

IS DANGEROUS

Joseph Martin, M.P., Disapproves of "Molding" of Canada.

LONDON, May 12—Joseph Martin M.P. for East Pancras, declares that he considers a despatch published by The Times on Saturday from its Toronto correspondent, in which stress was laid upon the alleged "Americanization of Canada" as very dangerous.

The correspondent mentioned that the need for "molding the Canadian people into a common devotion to the Empire." As to this Mr. Martin says: "The fewer molding attempts by the people of the United Kingdom the better. One strong reason for making the British sway popular is that the Canadian people are allowed to pursue their own fancies and manage their own affairs."

W. L. Griffith, the secretary of the High Commissioner's office, declined to discuss the matter, but referred the interviewer to a passage in his recent book, in which he declared there is no serious movement in the United States for the annexation of Canada.

Public Playgrounds.

His Worship Mayor Buller, Dr. Morrison and Alderman Duffus toured the city to-day with a view of finding suitable places for public playgrounds. They will report, together with the committee, in the interests of public bathing places, to the council some night this week.

TAKE NO ACTION

Premier Asquith Does Not Intend to Prosecute Gun Runners

LONDON, May 12.—In the Commons yesterday Premier Asquith announced that it had been decided not to take criminal proceedings over the recent Ulster gun-running, but certain other steps would be taken.

The Premier also said that whatever conversations were proceeding between the heads of the political parties were confidential at present. Fullest opportunity would subsequently be afforded the House for discussion.

Carson Appeals To Voters.

LONDON, May 12. — Sir Edward Carson has sent a typewritten letter to every Grimsby elector, appealing to them to support Ulstermen at to-day's polls.

T. P. O'Connor, speaking for the Liberal candidate, said there had been nothing like the Ulster movement since P. T. Barnum's days. There was not a Tory drawing-room in London where words of sedition had not been whispered into officers' ears.

Seven Ways of Spelling "E."

Dealing with some objections to spelling reform Mr. William Archer told the Society of Shorthand Teachers in London that there was not a single letter in the English language to which only one sound was attached, nor was there a sound which was represented by only one letter. If they took the "e" sound in "bed," they, he said, would find it spelled seven different ways in as many different words, for exactly the same vowel sound occurred in "bead," "many," "leopard," "said," "says" and "pepper." When a child asked why "proceed" and "recede" were not spelled in a similar way, nobody could possibly give him a reasonable answer.

The word "sovereign," Mr. Archer said, was so spelled today because of its supposed connection with the word "reign." As a matter of fact, there was no connection between the two and the proper spelling was that which Milton used—i. e., "sovran."—London Spectator.

P. E. I. Judge Dead.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., May 12.—Hon. Hector C. McDonald, county court judge for Queen's County, died Sunday night at the Prince Edward Hospital after an illness of several months. He was born at Flat River, P.E.I., May 3, 1856. He was admitted to the Bar in 1886. He represented his native district of Belfast in the local Legislature for ten years, was Attorney-General under the Liberal Government from 1897 to 1899, and was appointed a judge in 1899.

Gypsies Are Fined.

KINGSTON, May 12.—The police were called upon to drive a band of about 50 gypsies out of the city. After being driven out they came back and were brought up before Justice of the Peace Hunter and fined. There were 14 children in the band.

Jury Completed.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The jury which will determine whether Chas. Becker, former police lieutenant and head of the "strong arm squad," conceived the plot that resulted in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was completed late yesterday. An adjournment was promptly taken until to-day, when District Attorney Whitman addressed the jury, charging that Becker actually was the "brains" of the conspiracy.

New Weaves in Colored Madras That Are Perfectly Sunfast

The gay Spring sunshine invariably makes us impatient for a change in our homes, and one of the simplest ways to satisfy this craving is to alter the Curtains. If you are buying Curtains and cannot afford three or four separate sets for different times of the year, you should bear in mind that very soon your Curtains will be required to soften the strong light and make your choice accordingly.

Without green blinds or thick curtains, rooms are too uncomfortably light in hot weather; yet many of us bar these shading mediums because they have the undesirable effect of excluding every breath of fresh air.

So many economical housekeepers will welcome the arrival of these Madras, since they shade the room nicely, and at the same time are dainty enough to give the fresh air free access. Shown in three very rich shades, namely, Olive Green, Dutch Blue and Golden Tan, each color having a relief of Black, which adds considerably to the charm of these muslins, which have a very highly mercerised finish, almost resembling silk in appearance. 44 inches is the width of these Madras, and the price is cut very fine at one dollar the yard.

C.P.R. BRAKEMAN SAVES CHILD FROM DEATH

Climbed Out to Pilot as Train Could Not Be Stopped in Time.

Passengers on the C.P.R. noon train to Tweed on Sunday witnessed one of the most thrilling rescues of a child from the rails ever related in railroad circles. The hero was a brakeman who refused to give his name. Engineer O'Hara in relating his part of the affair, said he noticed the child or rather what looked at first like a bundle on the tracks. He immediately spoke to the end brakeman, who without a show of hesitation climbed out of the cab and crawled along the side of the engine to the pilot just as the huge mogul bore down on the child about three miles this side of Tweed.

Evidently fearing for the safety of the child he dived head first down the eight foot embankment, grabbing the child and taking it with him. Both were unhurt. The train was stopped and the child was taken to Tweed.

"He is deserving of a medal," said Dr. Morrow to a Review reporter today. Dr. Morrow along with other local people were passengers on the train.

MAYOR AND CITY ENGINEER AT WESTON

Witnessed the Sewerage and Sewage Disposal Plant in Operation.

His Worship Mayor Buller and City Engineer Parsons were in Weston on Saturday attending the formal opening of the sewerage and sewage disposal plant. In speaking to Mr. Parsons today a Review scribe learned that both Mayor Buller and he were highly pleased with the plant and the manner of operation. Mr. Parson in explaining the plant pointed out that the solids gravitate to a separate sludge digesting chamber which is gas trapped from the settling basin itself, and thus prevents foul odors arising from the tanks. The liquid from the settling tanks also passes through percolating filters where it is thoroughly odorized. The liquid as a final treatment passes through sand filters placed underground after which it flows to the river presenting all appearances of spring water. The sludge storage tanks afford a capacity for six months at the end of which the solids have entirely decayed and can be used as manure for filling purposes.

The works and the system have been in operation since December last, so that the visitors were given ample opportunity to witness them in working order. The whole of the works, which are situated on the flats adjoining the fair-grounds, sixty feet below the level of the main street, are covered in against frost and to prevent fly nuisance. The sewers are so constructed and laid out with reference to line and gradient that perfect control is established by which any section can be examined, cleaned, or any chokage removed without disturbing the road surfaces.

The total cost of the domestic and surface water, sewerage and the sewage purification plant was $131,644, the separate cost of the latter plant being $23,133.

Mr. Parsons remarked that some of the citizens talking about an odor should run up to Weston and see things for themselves. Before operations commence in this city Mr. Parsons wishes to see the Kingston sewerage disposal plant now under construction, in operation. It is much larger than the Weston plant and differs in a few details.

FIRE AT MANN'S BOX FACTORY

Blaze Broke Out on The Roof But Little Damage Was Done.

Yesterday afternoon at 5.42, the fire department was somewhat startled when a telephone call gave the information that McDonald's planing mill was ablaze.

This proved to be incorrect as the fire was at Mann's cheese box factory, near the C.P.R. station.

A spark from a locomotive, it is thought was responsible for a blaz on the roof. Two lines of hose were laid and the fire was extinguished before any extensive damage was done. In the neighborhood of $25 will cover the damage.

PEBLO

CHILDREN'S EYESIGHT

It is astonishing the number of children who suffer from the effects of eyestrain, and many of them are unjustly blamed for being unambitious or mentally stupid. It has been shown by authentic investigation under municipal direction that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the children in public schools have defective vision and should wear glasses.

We make a specialty of examining children's sight by the most improved scientific methods, and if your child does not need glasses, we will tell you so frankly, and make no charge for the examination. But if your child should need glasses, we will guarantee that the glasses we fit are the proper correction, and will give perfect results. Our 10 years of successful optical business in this city is the guarantee we offer you.

We carry a special line of children's spectacle frames in heavy weight, in Gold Filled and Aluminum.

TEMPLE BAND TO GIVE CONCERT IN MONTREAL

Will Wear Khaki Hats and Maple Leafs During Trip To London

The time is drawing near when the Peterboro Temple Band will leave the city on the long trip to London, England, there to attend the Salvation Army Congress.

The band will leave Peterboro Thursday midnight, May 28th, and will give a band concert in Montreal on Friday. The Canadian contingent sail on the steamship Aluna, Saturday morning at sunrise.

The local musicians and officials will wear kahki hats and a maple leaf on the arm.

Further particulars regarding the Congress appear in the War Cry as follows:

A great Meeting will be conducted by the New Zealand party, in addition to the foregoing fixtures, in the Kingsway Hall on Friday, June 19th.

The following particulars about the party hailing from The Army's 'Farthest South,' are interesting :—

The first of the Congress parties to embark on the long journeyings involved in the visit to the international centre was that representing New Zealand, that delightful island Dominion away in the Southern Pacific. There are forty-six delegates, including Officers from each branch of the many-sided work carried on by The Army 'down under.'

On the basis of population, there are probably a larger number of Salvationists in New Zealand than in any other country in the world, and the same proud boast might be indulged in respect to the more material evidences of prosperity.

Then the French and Belgian delegates will be gorgeously clad in costumes peculiar to the provinces in these countries; while the Finnish String Band and the Officers in national costumes will delight both ear and eye. And so will the Singing Brigade of Hollanders, also arrayed in national costumes, the wide-trousered fishermen of Maarken, and the many-petticoated maidens of the Zuyder Zee coast towns will come right to the doors of Londoners. No need to go to the Continent in search of the picturesque this summer.

The Griffin will also look down on cowboys from Texas and men of color from down south; on Red Indians from British Columbia; and French-Canadians from the Quebec Province; on sealers from Newfoundland and gold-diggers from the Rand; also on ebon-hued, red-blanketed natives from Zululand, Kaffirland, and the land of the Mashonas.

From the Far East will come Koreans of the tall hats and white-flowing robes, with Japanese and Chinese, while men and women and children of all races, divers kinds of wearing apparel, and, formerly, various religions, will march by from Hindustan. Yes. Oh, yes, there will be plenty for scribes, spectators, and British Salvationists to see and hear in and around Fleet Street and the Strand between June 11th and 26th.

Between fifty and sixty Bands will take part in the great procession to Hyde Park.

Mrs. Booth will conduct a Meeting for women only in the Central Hall.

Four parties of delegates will visit the principal towns of the provinces. They will be: The Koreans, the Japanese, the West Indians, and the South Africans.

On Sunday, June 14th, the delegates will be fixed up in the London suburbs as follows :—

South Africans, South Americans, Koreans, and Australians with The General at the Strand Hall. United States, Hammersmith; Canada, Clapham Junction; West Indies, Luton I; New Zealand, Wood Green; India and Ceylon, Congress Hall; Japan, Southend: Dutch Indies, Reading I; Holland, Camberwell; Switzerland, Regent Hall; France and Belgium, Holloway I; Germany, Chalk Farm; Denmark, Leyton Theatre; Finland, Croydon I; Sweden, Stratford; Norway, Highgate.

Sunday, June 21st:—

West Indians, New Zealanders, Japanese, and the Dutch East Indies party with The General at New Cross: America, Strand Hall; Canada, Ealing; South Africa, Tunbridge Wells; South America, Chalk Farm; Australia, Congress Hall; India and Ceylon, Southend; Korea, Brighton I; Holland, Norland Castle; Switzerland and Italy, South Tottenham; France and Belgium, St. Albans; Germany, Regent Hall; Denmark, Strand Hall; Finland, Battersea; Sweden, Crouch End; Norway, Walthamstow.

But to the I.C.C. party! The versatile leader, Commissioner Richards, is a tall traveller and all alive as he travels. Amongst his other appointments he was for five years in charge of our work in South Africa. And he is already almost as familiar with New Zealand and its problems and possibilities as he was with Africa. Almost his last campaign before sailing was amongst those charming native people, the Maori.

With the party also is the Officer who is in charge of the native section of the work in New Zealand, Staff-Captain Moore. The Staff-Captain speaks the language as fluently as a Maori. He and his comrades preach the Gospel to them by night and by day—they do it whilst they work among them in their fishing or other industry which The Army has established for their benefit.

HIS MAJESTY ENTERTAINS THE RULER OF DENMARK AND CONSORT

Covert Garden Opera House is Comandeered for Gala Performance at Which Most Brilliant Gathering in Britain is Present—Suffragettes Caused Interruption and Had to be Ejected.

LONDON, May 12. — The Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, was commandeered last night by King George for a gala performance in honor of the King and Queen of Denmark, who are paying their accession visit to this country. The program consisted of scene from "La Tosca," "La Boheme" and "Aida." The singers included Melba and Emmy Destin.

For an audience the performers had the leaders of the political, diplomatic and social world of London, the men in the uniforms of their rank, and the women in beautiful gowns and jewels of untold wealth.

The scene, which was of gorgeous brilliance, was for a time marred by a suffragette demonstration. During an interlude a suffragette rose in the balcony stalls and shouted: "King George, women are being tortured in your dominions."

Two men sitting nearby seized the disturber and dragged her outside, while other men ejected women with her, who started "demonstrating." They shrieked, kicked and clawed as they were being carried from the building. Meanwhile other suffragettes in the gallery above the royal box threw down a great quantity of suffragette leaflets.

King George and Queen Mary with their royal guests, and thirty other members of royalty occupied a box in the centre of the house, with members of the diplomatic corps and their wives on one side and the cabinet ministers and their leaders on the other. The greater part of the other boxes, and many of the stalls, were likewise occupied by the guests of the monarchs, so that the general public had to be content with the upper galleries.

White and scarlet, the Danish colors, predominated in the decorations. The proscenium was decorated with crimson and gold roses. In the extreme corners there were large golden cornucopias with masses of crimson roses falling from them. Depending from these were two large festoons reaching from the corners of the crown, composed of yellow flowers. The auditorium was decorated with crimson and pink roses.

SECRETARY BRYAN DEMANDS THE RELEASE OF AMERICANS

Reported Seizure of Lobos Island and Lighthouse by U. S. Torpedo Boats and Arrest of Five South Americans at Vera Cruz Also Complicate Mexican Situation

WASHINGTON, May 12. — While peace negotiations marked time pending formal sittings of the South American mediators to begin yesterday on Canadian soil, the mediators and officials of the State Department here yesterday were occupied with several serious phases of the Mexican situation demanding immediate attention. Secretary Bryan called at the Argentina legation late in the afternoon and spent two hours in conference with the South American envoys, discussing the continued detention of John R. Silliman, American vice-consul at Saltillo, by Mexican Federals; the reported seizure of Lobos Island with its lighthouse by American torpedo boats and the case of the five South Americans under arrest at Vera Cruz for firing upon United States sailors and marines.

Mr. Bryan insisted that the release of Silliman must be brought about at once. When asked about the matter later, he would not say what would happen if the vice-consul were kept in prison, but he was gravely emphatic in announcing the Government's determination that he be freed.

In announcing the Lobos Island incident the Secretary informed the mediators that so far the United States Government had received no official confirmation of the taking of the island and that in the absence of confirmation he could offer no official explanation of the reported action of the navy. In administration circles it is contended that if the seizure has been made, it was not an act of aggression against Huerta, but merely a necessary step to protect oil shipping against possible disaster as a result of the closing of the lighthouse by the Federals.

While the representatives appointed by Gen. Huerta to confer with the mediators were preparing to leave Vera Cruz, the U. S. Government officially announced its representatives in mediation negotiations before the South American triumvirate at Niagara Falls, Ont., next Monday.

Justice Lamar, of the U. S. Supreme Court, and Fred. W. Lehman, former Solicitor General, were chosen by President Wilson as the American representatives. From Huerta are hastening forward Augustine Rodriguez, Emilio Rabasa and Luis Elguero. Ambassador De Gama, of Brazil, Minister Naon, of Argentina and Minister Suarez, or Chile, the mediators, last night expressed satisfaction in the selection of the advisers for both Governments, and little further is expected in the preliminary peace negotiations until all have met in Canada.

Gen. Carranza and the Mexican rebels who seek Huerta's overthrow, will not be represented in the conference, according to the latest advices.

From Tampico, where Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists have been preparing for a sanguinary struggle, came rumblings of battle, while reports that Huerta's strength was waning in Mexico City, and that the bandit leader, Zapata, was about to attack the capital from the south served to arouse diplomatic agents of foreign nations lest their people in Mexico City might be in imminent danger of persecution or death.

The only sign of military activity in connection with the Mexican situation was the gathering of a dozen of the ranking officers of the army now in Washington in the office of Secretary Garrison for an hour's conference. Secretary Garrison explained that the purpose of the meeting was for enlightenment on the militia laws of the country.

SMUGGLED HORSES.

Prisoner at Yarmouth, N.H., Charged With Many Offences.

YARMOUTH, N.H., May 12.—Harry Vantassel is under arrest here charged with a number of offences committed along the international boundary line. His arrest was made at the instigation of the deputy sheriff at Littleton, N. H. Among the offences charged against him are forgery, obtaining money under false pretences, and disposing of mortgaged property. It is alleged that sixty horses have been smuggled across the boundary into New Hampshire, and that the operations have extended as far west as Chicago. Immediately after his arrest Vantassel protested his innocence and said he would go back without extradition proceedings, but yesterday he retained counsel.

Suffragette Released.

LONDON, May 12.—Mrs. Mary Wood, the militant suffragette, who on May 4 mutilated the portrait of Henry James, the novelist, by John Singer Sargent, in the Royal Academy, was released temporarily from prison yesterday. She was in a weak condition from the effects of a "hunger and thirst strike" she had started after her arrest on the day of the outrage.

Mexican Youth Hanged.

PECOS, Texas, May 12—Leon Cardenas Martinez, a Mexican youth, was hanged here at noon yesterday for the murder of Miss Emma Brown, a school teacher, three years ago. The Mexican Government had the case carried to the United States Supreme Court in a vain effort to save Martinez.

Customs Courtesies for Envoys.

OTTAWA, May 12.—Hon. Dr. Reid wired the collector of customs at Niagara Falls yesterday that the courtesies of the department were to be extended to the peace envoys on their arrival, and that their personal baggage and that of their suites was to be admitted without the customary formalities of inspection. The envoys reach Washington on May 15, and will proceed almost immediately to Niagara Falls.

UNEMPLOYED MURMUR.

Montreal Police Are Guarding Home of Mayor Martin.

MONTREAL, May 12.—Detectives were yesterday morning guarding Mayor Martin's house as a result of the labor situation, which has reached an acute stage. Rumors have been heard of threats of violence on the part of the foreign element, who declare that civic officials have held out promises of labor to them which have not been realized.

The mayor is particularly blamed, for it just two weeks ago since he informed a gathering on the Champ de Mars that in a few days there would be work for all. Yesterday morning a growling crowd of out-of-works again took possession of the parade ground, including between three and four thousand men.

From all sides were heard murmurs of discontent, and there were rumors afloat that the unemployed intended to gather in even greater numbers yesterday afternoon if nothing was done to appease them and take the City Hall by storm.

Tremblay Case Goes On.

LONDON, May 12.—Argument in the Quebec case of Despatie versus Tremblay, concerning the annulment of the marriage between cousins of the fourth degree, who married without an episcopal dispensation, continued yesterday before the Privy Council.

The Lord Chancellor asker Mr. St. Germain, who upheld the nullity, many questions concerning old French law in Quebec. Mr. St. Germain admitted it would have been absurd and repugnant to compel Protestant churches, which were recognized to have jurisdiction, in determining the validity of their own marriages, to accept the old law.

A Charitable Tendency.

"Don't you think it ought to be easier to put a man in jail for inexact methods in matters of finance?"

"No," replied the weary looking citizen. "I used to feel that way about it. But I don't want to see a lot of well meaning chaps wearing stripes simply because they couldn't figure out a correct income tax return."—Washington Star.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, May 11.—At the Montreal cattle market the supply was larger and an easier feeling developed for good to choice steers, and prices declined 10c to 25c per 100 pounds. Other grades were unchanged owing to the fact that they were not advanced last week in sympathy with the above. At this reduction there was a fair demand from some buyers, while others showed a disposition to hold off on advices from Toronto that the run was large. The quality of the stock coming forward is generally above the average for this season of the year and buyers have no difficulty in making their selections.

The weak feeling that developed in the market for hogs this day week was more pronounced today and prices scored a further decline of 25c per 100 pounds for Ontario stock and 10c to 25c for Manitobas. At this reduction there was a good demand from packers as they all seem to want stock and a fairly active trade was done with sales of Ontario selected stock at $9 00, Manitobas at $8.90. Sows sold at $6.90 to $7.40, and stags at $4.45 to $4.75 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

The feature of the small meats trade was, the importation of two carloads of yearling lambs from the United States, which were of very good quality.

Fire on Caronia.

NEW YORK, May 12.—When the Cunard liner Caronia docked yesterday she reported that two days from New York fire was discovered in hatch No. 5 among an enormous consignment of Oriental rugs. The hatch is in the rear of the vessel, and thus the smoke was carried off so that none but the steerage passengers were alarmed. An officer, wearing a helmet, led a party of the crew into the hatch and for five hours the hatch was flooded. This checked the flames.

JAPAN IN TROUBLE.

Famine Conditions Prevail in Cherry Blossom Empire.

Part of Japan is now within the grip of the worst famine that has occurred in one hundred years. Ten million people are in the famine districts, and a conservative estimate places the number that is now in need of food to keep from starving to death at 200,000. Fortunately the Government is alive to the situation and has set aside $6,000,000, which will be spent upon necessary relief work, and in public improvements that will enable the starving farmers and fishermen to buy food. Less than half this sum, however, is to be spent this year, and even if it were all spent it would not end the famine. In fact, it would take about $700,000 a day to buy meals for all the persons in the famine area, but, of course, all are not equally suffering. There are rich and poor in every district. The Japanese press has been calling attention to the conditions and is raising famine funds that will supplement the Government's loan.

The primary cause of the famine is the failure of the rice crop in the northern part of the empire, and this was due to the very cold summer. The stalks grew as usual, indeed, much better than usual, but without any heads, and were fit only for fodder. Since rice constitutes about three-quarters of the food of the average Japanese, the failure of this crop was quite as serious as the failure of the wheat and oat crops with us.

Apart from rice the Japanese eat more fish that anything else. The fish catch, too, was a failure, and for the same reason that the rice failed. Cold weather, produced by strange cold currents in the ocean, kept the fish far from shore, and beyond the reach of the fishermen, who were equipped for the most part for fishing near the shore line. In other years when the rice crop failed, it had happened that the fish catch was abundant, and when fish were scarce, rice was plentiful. Not for one hundred years has there been such a tragic coincidence of failure.

Long before the general public in Tokio knew that there was a serious condition in the north, scores of men in that city who deal in human flesh and blood were hurrying to the scene to buy young girls for brothel and factory in a falling market. Their parents being too poor to support them were, in thousands of cases, willing enough to sell their children to these white slavers. Some were so glad to get rid of their daughters that, they accepted ridiculous prices, and occasionally one was picked up for nothing, when emaciation had blurred her beauty and it seemed probable that she would hardly live to reach the capital. These brokers, at least, have made a good thing out of the famine. Correspondents in the affected districts give descriptions of sufferings that are heartrending. People are found living on grass seeds that would hardly keep a horse alive; eating animal entrails and decomposed food that a dog would not touch.

In one house an unhealthy fish head rescued from the refuse of a fish shop was found stewing in a pot of water to which had been added some grass seed. This was expected to provide three meals for the family. Two doctors examined one little boy who was suffering severely and from his stomach they removed a great wad of straw that he had swallowed to appease his hunger. In the Tohoku and Hokkaido districts, where the famine is most acute, the children no longer go to school. For the most part they are too weak to walk. The teachers, too, are starving by the hundred, the people having been too poor to pay their salaries, which amount to about $7.50 per month.

Not an Ardent Lover.

Dr. Brandes, the Danish man of letters, tells a curious story of himself. At the very moment he had appointed to keep a tryst with his sweetheart he was deep in Hegel. "With a passionate desire to reach a comprehension of the truth I grappled with the 'system,' began with the encyclopedia, read the three volumes of 'Aesthetics,' the 'Phenomenology of the Mind,' then the 'Philosophy of Law' again and finally the 'Logis,' the 'Natural Philosophy' and the 'Philosophy of the Mind' in a veritable intoxication of comprehension and delight." The lamentable sequel was that he forgot all about the young girl to whom he had to say good-bye—time, place and promise.

Advantage of Being Dull.

There is a quality in certain people which is above all advice, exposure or correction. Only let a man or woman have dullness sufficient and they need bow to no extant authority. A dullard recognizes no betters; a dullard can't see that he is in the wrong; a dullard has no scruples of conscience, no doubts of pleasing or succeeding or doing right, no qualms for other people's feelings, no respect but for the fool himself. How can you make a fool perceive that he is a fool? Such a person can no more see his own ears. And the great quality of dullness is to be unalterably contented with itself.—Thackeray.

MONK'S REPARTEE.

Ex-Member For Jacques Cartier Has a Biting Wit.

The retirement of Hon. F. D. Monk from Parliament leaves a distinct gap in the public life of Canada. From the year 1896 he represented the County of Jacques Cartier in the House of Commons, and no more courtly or kindly man ever sat in the green chamber. A student, orator, famed for his skill in drafting legislation, a man of strong and high principles, he filled a niche in Parliament distinctly his own. As a fighter in the Opposition days of the Conservative party—those lean years stretching from 1896 to 1911—he quickly won his spurs, and when the Borden administration came into office on Oct. 10, 1911, Frederick Debartzch Monk was chosen to carry the heavy portfolio of Public Works. From the very day he stepped into the office formerly filled by Hon. William Pugsley, he was plunged into the fog of patronage. The job-hunters made his life miserable. They camped in droves outside his office, followed him on cars, accosted him in the streets, waylaid him on his doorstep, in fact worried him to death. Many a good story is told of the attitude of Mr. Monk towards these importunates. On one occasion a man rang him up at one o'clock in the morning asking for a position. Mr. Monk told him to come round to the office the following morning. Sure enough the man was one of the throng outside the Minister's room in the Public Works Department, before nine o'clock. All the morning he waited, and when Mr. Monk came out at noon to attend a meeting of council the man tackled him.

"What is your occupation?" asked the Minister, kindly.

"I am a waiter, sir," rejoined the job-hunter.

"Then you will have an excellent opportunity of showing your proficiency," was the prompt reply, as Mr Monk strode council-wards.

Mr. Monk's somewhat ponderous style of oratory in both English and French, was enlivened by many flashes of wit and repartee. On one occasion in Opposition days, while making an attacking speech, he stumbled in the gangway, and came within an ace of falling. One of the rank and file of the then Government party, who is out of public life at the present time, and whose private life was supposed popularly to be not above suspicion, jeered and laughed as the man from Jacques Cartier just saved himself from falling. "You see, Mr. Speaker," put in Mr. Monk, "the difference between me and my honorable friend is this: my lapses are physical ones." And a roar of laughter went up from both sides of the House, much to the discomfiture of the jeerer.

In the House, after he became Minister of Public Works, Mr. Monk bore his share of the criticism for dismissals. On one occasion he was accused of dismissing a laborer who had only one leg.

"What was this man with the wooden leg dismissed for?" put in George Kyte of Richmond.

"I suppose my honorable friend will admit that he must have been guilty of 'stumping,'" retorted Monk, amid a peal of laughter.

At a campaign meeting at Three Rivers in the campaign of 1904 Mr. Monk, and Hon. L. P. Pelletier, now the Postmaster-General, were the chief speakers. One man on the fringe of the crowd, in order to embarrass Mr. Monk, kept yelling out "louder, louder." Now Monk's stentorian tones could be heard blocks away, and the audience began to be amused at the yells of the heckler. Mr. Monk paused in his speech and told the audience of how Sir John A Macdonald had once been interrupted in a similar manner. Sir John had said: "I really believe when on the Day of Judgment the angel Gabriel blows his horn, some fool will cry out 'louder, louder'." The little story was inimitably told in French, and the next thing seen of the heckler he was being lugged down the main street by several loyal and youthful adherents of the Monk Club.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS.

Good Literature Is a Powerful Moulder of Character.

There are three stages in the literary career of a child. He must first have stories told to him. After a while he will enjoy having stories read to him; and, later still, he will take delight in reading for himself. It is a fine art, to be able to tell a children's story well, and one that every parent should practice and delight in.

The best stories never grow old, and they are just as interesting to a grown-up person as they are to a child—at least they are if you add to the natural charm of the story the glee that the child manifests in the fact of your sharing it with him. The parent who would master the fine art of story-telling for children should purchase Sarah C. Bryant's little book, "How to Tell Stories to Children." In addition to a most valuable treatise on the story-telling art, this little volume contains a considerable number of excellent stories for small children, and also much information about juvenile classics.

Literature should be presented as art, and purely as art, whether in the home or in the school. Stories should not be put to service in order to convey otherwise unpleasant doses of instruction in history, biology, or what not. Art should be taught as art; history as history; science as science. Literature is a high and pure form of art, and art has its own function to perform. It is a shame to make a drudge of such a heaven-born creature as literature.

Its function is to give joy, to stimulate and feed the imagination, to broaden the sympathies, and to cultivate in the child a sense of beauty. The child whose mind has from infancy been fed on beautiful images and familiarized with the rhythms and melodies of good prose and good verse is thereby better fitted to enjoy life and appreciate beauty better than it could possibly have been without such training.

Good art is sure to touch and mould character, too. A child cannot continually breathe the air of gentle, generous, brave, and heroic characters without unconsciously becoming more or less like them. He grows like what he feeds on. In literature itself we have a classic and concrete putting of the matter in the story of "The Great Stone Face," by Hawthorne. One writer tells of a small boy who, early made familiar with the high conduct of mediaeval heroes and knights, knew no greater joy when he had done a worthy deed than to have his mother attach a bit of blue ribbon to a gilded wooden shield that hung on the wall of his playroom.

It is best to avoid books that are written specifically for children. They are usually written down to children, and in consequence lack sincerity, naturalness and simplicity. The fault of many of our modern books is that they are written down, thus, to the children. The great books, like "Robinson Crusoe, "Pilgrim's Progress." and the "Arabian Nights," were not written primarily for children, but were written for the human race. They are as fascinating to grown-up people as they are to children. There 's a German saying that puts the matter in a nutshell: "If you propose to write especially for young people, you must not."

It is, too, a mistake to suppose that children must continually be supplied with new books. A good book never grows old to a child any more than a great painting or a great oratorio grows stale and wearisome to an adult. If we place in the hands of our children the true classic for childhood, and see that these classics come into their possession progressively at the age when they are sure to be most enjoyed, we need not trouble ourselves about buying for them the latest cheap, flashy, sentimental or sensational children's books.

RESULTS IN THE SCHOOL LEAGUE

Queen Alexandra, King Edward and Queen Mary the Winners.

The Junior Public School League games yesterday afternoon resulted in victories for Queen Alexandra, King Edward and Queen Mary. At the Oval the Queen Alexandra team led the King George crew for the seven innings, and came out the right side of a 14-5 score. Judging from their playing Queen Alexandra will be the team to beat for the championship.

Batteries — Queen Alexandra: Simpson and Heath; King George: Gillespie and Nellis.

Umpire—Mr. Nichol.

Centrals Lost.

At the Central grounds the home team dropped their first game to King Edwards by 7-3. Bartley, the twirler from the south had a little too much on the horsehide, and this, assisted by good support, accounted for the win.

Batteries—King Edward: Bartley and Braund; Central: Frost and Gibson.

Umpire—Mr. Haylock.

All Queen Mary.

The only loose game of the three was between South Central and Queen Mary, in which the latter accumulated 13 runs to their opponents nil. Montgomery, the slab artist for South Centrals, was no puzzle to the boys from the west, and they secured runs almost at leisure.

Batteries—Queen Mary: Patterson and Flowers; South Centrals: Montgomery and Bailley.

Umpire—Mr. Sharpe.

ON THE LINKS

In the golf results announced yesterday, it should have been stated that the winners of the set of mixed foursomes were Mrs. Hill and Mr. Mowat, they having had the lowest score in the play.

COMMENT
As You Like It

St. Thomas may be well nicknamed the rainy city. On opening day rain stopped the game in the fifth innings. Last Thursday it also rained and the same conditions existed on Friday. Saturday it did not rain and Ottawa took two games from the Saints. It may have been better if it had rained.

Yesterday it rained again and the Petes were inclinedSHRDLzd,SHTS Petes were denied a chance to break into the win column. The locals arrived at the railroad city hot under the collars because of the reverses suffered at Erie. Mr. J. Pluv butted in again and whether he was mourning the demise of Madame Nordica, whose voice is said to have had ethereal range or whether the fact that Knotty Lee scored a win on Saturday caused him to sigh with joy is not known, but anyway J. Pluv unloaded a whole reservoir and away went the old ball game for the time being.

It looks like Bee Hive in a romp for the King's Plate. The Gidding's plater, who is the favorite worked a mile around 1.44 and Mausolus considered a contender for the classic worked a mile in 1.44 2-5 but pulled up lame.

It rained all over the circuit yesterday, and consequently the hired men of the various brigades had a day off.

The song says That It Takes A Little Rain With the Sunshine To Make the World Go Round, etc., but baseball moguls join as one big choir in singing It's Just a Little Bit of Sunshine Which Makes The Gate Turnstiles Go 'Round.

Willie Shakesbeer, the Crab Salad "tditur" in the Hamilton Spec. says "Far be it from us to ask disagreeable questions, but what is the matter with Peterboro?"

We answer thusly: We have the Price but the deuce of the matter is that we've only one King to draw to. At any rate the salad fellow may rest assured that we are not suffering from too much sleep, as some of the Hamilton directors are said to be.

The Ottawa Free Press correspondent is very sweet on the new pitchers, Hall and Shocker.

Yesterday's Erie Dispatch swells out and says there is no room for argument as to the strength of the Petes and Erie. The Erie moguls would do well to wait until they have swung around the circuit and also wait for a few weeks before making any great predictions. The Dispatch says:

Curley Blount's Peterboro aggregation left town last evening for St. Thomas, thoroughly convinced that in the Yankees they struck a tribe of Tartars. After winning the opening game, the Petes met three straight defeats and each successive one was more decisive. Yesterday's contest left no room for argument.

Dorbeck and Morris pitched good ball in the double header Saturday and Brown, though defeated, performed creditably in the opener. In the first game the Yanks were compelled to face some critical situations, while Peterboro had comparatively easy sledding. When the pinches came in the later game the Petes broke and wobbled, and Smith's men were seen in a different perspective.

Taking the four games for what they are worth, the Erie team showed pretty classy ball. The outfield compares favorably with the ones of other years. Harris is a fast man in right, Dawson is just as good as he ever was in centre—and he's about as good as will be found in the league—and Schaffer has cared for the left garden in an acceptable way. More work quite naturally should improve all hands.

The infield looks good. Manager Smith will play until the team work is firmly established and the signals go smoothly. Then he will retire in favor of a younger man. Dunn, who played yesterday, did well and will no doubt improve. Gygli is the same streak about first and Behan at short handles himself in a way that indicates considerable ability. Wiltse on third has so far produced in a way that stamps him as a clever player. Behind the bat, McNeil has done good work. The pitching staff, or as much as has been seen, is quite as good as any other Erie ever had.

That's as the first four games have shown, and from indications there is no apparent reason why the Yanks should not do even better.

MAYOR BULLER WILL HURL THE FIRST BALL

Program for Opening of Baseball Season is Arranged

The committee in charge of the opening day celebration met at noon to-day and completed arrangements for the big street parade and the ceremony at the grounds on Thursday afternoon. The parade will form at the market square and headed by the band of the 57th Regiment, will parade along Charlotte to George Street, thence up George to Hunter Street, and out Hunter to Riverside Park.

Mayor Buller will throw the first ball, and it is the committee's intention to have other prominent officials take part also, with a possibility of Judge Huycke catching, or at least trying to catch the first ball. All auto owners are invited to take part in the doings.

CAVE DWELLERS.

Fine Description of Peculiar Home of Africa Sheik.

Scattered from Babes to Dehiba and from Matmata over the Tripoli border are the troglodytes or cave dwellers of northern Africa. They live on mountain sides. Sometimes there are small groups, many times a single family. The towns are built in ovals, with only one entrance for each tribe, so that a small group of men heavily armed could if necessary protect their strongholds from thieves or enemies.

All of the Troglodyte towns are so far in the wilderness and can be approached only with the greatest difficulty. This makes them places of exceptional vantage in time of war. The people could see an enemy approaching in the desert for many miles unless it was at night. Even then the passage-way—a narrow path through the mountain—would be too dangerous for approach, for a misstep would mean a fall of hundreds of feet to the rocks below.

Sheik Ferdjani's cave in Matmata is described by a traveler in the most minute detail.

"The cave was whitewashed. To the left were a wooden chest and a gun, one of many. Back of the gun on a stand cut out of the rock was a dark object, an oil lamp the form dating back to the Greek and Roman days. There was a white object in the centre, a bedstead cut out of the rock, and there were comfortable mattresses filled with wool and native blankets and rugs. Above the bedstead was a sort of cupboard where snuff, matches and other articles are placed.

"To the right were large oil and water jars. At the back of the cave were couscous covers, the larger ones having come from Ghadames. These covers and couscous plates are highly prized and very ornamental. Above the plates and covers were a Persian picture and an Arab almanac."

Progressive Chinese City.

The city of Canton, China, with a million and a half inhabitants, has no place for a street railway system. Canton is one of the wealthiest and most progressive of all the Chinese cities and it would very much like a modern street railway system. But the space within the ancient walls and fortifications is so crowded that many of the so-called streets are but narrow alleys, not even wide enough for two sedan chairs to pass. There is no room for horses and carriages, and certainly not sufficient space for a narrow-gauge railway. But the Chinese engineers are not so easily baffled and Canton will have its electric railway. It is planned to tear down the ancient stone walls and fortifications which encircle the entire city. The material from these walls will be used to fill some of the old canals which traverse the city. A three-track belt line will be constructed on the site of the old wall, completely encircling the city, and the old canal sites will be used for feeder lines.

Better Days.

Wife—I wonder if Mr. Van Dusen hasn't seen better days? Husband—Oh, yes. Van Dusen wasn't always married, I don't think!—Chicago Record-Herald.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The only time that a thing that you thoroughly understand is interesting is when you have a chance to display your attainments regarding it to an admiring audience.

All men are not bribe takers. There must be some on the other end of the game.

In Theory.

We talk about our boyhood days
And wish they would return
And yearn for them to come again
With an exceeding yearn.
But do we try our level best
To realize the dream
By turning grindstone half a day
To see how it would seem?

MILLION DOLLAR ROAD FOR AUTOISTS

Grand Junction, Col., May 12.—Automobile tourists from the middle western and eastern states can travel over a million dollar highway from Grand Junction, Col., to Green River, Utah, this year and in 1915.

This highway, which lies straight and smooth as an arrow for miles, with a surface hardened into a genuine turnpike, is the abandoned grade of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, built from this point to Salt Lake City back in the eighties. Later a new railroad line was built to save a few miles in distance and to lower the grade which, although steep in places for a locomotive, is modest for any automobile to climb.

The old railroad turnpike practically parallels the "desert" road which was travelled by the Indian auto tourists in 1913. It could not be used last season because of unbridged washes and unfilled gullies.

Grand Junction, a city of less than 10,000 people, has just raised $10,000, however, and has engineers and gangs of road builders at work filling the gullies and bridging the washes.

With this road nearly completed, having a surface of from twelve to twenty feet wide, it is estimated that an unbroken speed of thirty miles per hour can be maintained for long stretches.

EXAMINATIONS BRING DEATH TO GERMAN BOYS

Berlin, May 12.—The recent examinations at the German schools were again, as each year, accompanied with numerous instances of boys killing themselves, either through fear that they would not pass, or because of mortification at failure. On a single day three suicides of students, all less than 18 years old, were reported, and the body of one who had drowned himself some days earlier was recovered. These instances were in Greater Berlin alone.

One of the boys threw himself in front of a train because he had not been promoted to a higher class. A suicide by drowning was that of a 17-year-old boy who was shortly to try the examination entitling him to discharge his military duties with one year's service. According to his teachers, there was no doubt that he would have passed, as he was unusually capable and intelligent.

The fixed bureaucratic scheme of life for the average German, while not explaining such suicides, throws some light on the youths' actions. Failure to be graduated from school is a very serious thing. To become a "Beamter"—that is, a public official—is the goal of a great percentage of young Germans, for the official enjoys many privileges not granted to the non-official German. He has a certain tenure, a retiring pension and other material advantages, and enjoys special protection under the law of insults, it being a much graver crime to insult an official than a private citizen.

But for those who have failed in their school work there is no chance to become state officials. Even in private life they find it almost impossible to secure responsible positions with mercantile firms, and they are, of course, debarred from entering the learned professions. It is altogether strange that the German youth is disposed to take a grave view of his failure.

It is not only students in the schools who kill themselves before or after examinations. A man of 22, who had been studying legal procedure, reached the point where he was to take his examination for advancement to court clerk. He repeatedly told his friends that he was sure he should not pass the examination. The night before the examination he threw himself from the window of his third-storey room and was crushed to death.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Mr. C. Jarvis, of Toronto, head clerk of the Woodmen of the World, attended the meeting of the local camp last evening and explained the question of increasing the rates. From the feeling of the meeting it is thought that very satisfactory arrangements will be made between the local camp and Head Council in the near future.

THE HEIGHT OF TREES.

A Hundred Feet Is All That Is Usually Attained In Britain.

A tree 100 feet high, accurately measured, is not as tall as it looks. There are not many trees in the gardens of England that exceed 100 feet, notwithstanding the records of reputedly much higher trees than this. We have been told that the highest tree in Kew Gardens, carefully measured with a tape, was 103 feet and that the tallest pine, a Corsican near the entrance, is 86 feet, says The Field.

There are some fine specimens of Atlas and Lebanon cedars in these gardens, but not one of them is 70 feet high. A larch that had been drawn up by surrounding beeches and was looked upon as a giant, was blown down in 1902 and it proved to be 110 feet long. Beech, among the tallest of our trees, rarely reaches 100 feet, though Dr. Henry measured one in Kilkenny in 1904 which was 117 feet. The famous deciduous cypress, Taxodium distichum, in Syon Park, Brentford, is, according to Mr. Elwes, 116 feet high, the tallest of its kind in Europe.

The same authority gives 105 feet as the height of the tallest horse chestnut he had seen, though there are others estimated to be even higher than this. The tallest walnut is from 80 feet to 85 feet, and the tallest black walnut, at Marble Hill, Twickenham, was 98 feet high when measured by Dr. Henry in 1905. Oaks have been measured up to 130 feet, but they are quite exceptional, 100 feet being above the average for our tallest oaks.

The height of trees is influenced by the company they grow in. For example, a larch growing in the open would most likely fail to reach 100 feet in height, whereas larches growing close together or pressed upward by other trees have been known to exceed 130 feet in this country. The California giant trees of the Wellingtonia owe their great height to the same influence. Not even in that country would this tree have grown to 300 feet or more if it had not been forced to grow upward because it could not grow outward.

According to Mr. Elwes, one of the tallest Wellingtonias in England is at Fonthill Abbey, which in 1908 measured "certainly over 100 feet and probably 105 feet high." This is at least 10 feet higher than the tallest at Strathfieldsaye. It is next to impossible to ascertain the correct height of a tree by any other means than that of careful measurement; there are, we know, ingenious contrivances for doing it otherwise, but they are not reliable. Of course the approximate height may be near enough and yet be a long way out.

Ready With a Reason.

Some time ago a man from the city spent a few days in a country town, and while there a real estate dealer tried to interest him in suburban scenery. Returning to his hotel that night the city man saw the agent in the lobby.

"Look here, old fellow," remarked the city man, "I thought you told me that you didn't have any malaria down in this section?"

"That's just what I told you," was the prompt declaration of the agent, "and I told you right."

"Maybe you did," doubtfully returned the city man, "but just the same I saw a man down the road a few minutes ago with chills and fever."

"Oh, I see now," smiled the real estate man, with a look of enlightenment. "That was Smith. He was shuddering and shaking to think what his wife would say to him when he got home."—Exchange.

A School For Spies.

In St. Petersburg there exists to all intents and purposes a real university of the science and art of espionage. It consists of some six independent but harmonised faculties or departments, training and controlling the immense army of spies and "agents provocateurs" all over the empire and its innumerable centers all over the world. The art of opening letters, deciphering various codes and forging various handwritings; the histrionic art of personal disguises and of shadowing suspected persons and the science of manufacturing explosives and bombs for the supply of "agents provocateurs" in order to better entice would be revolutionists or simply for the sake of "discovering" imaginary dangerous conspiracies—these are the main subjects taught in this unique university.—Anglo-Russian.

Indigestion is more often the result than the cause of a grouch.

FARM AND DAIRY NEWS

HORSES THAT SELL WELL.

A breeder and grower of horses has these sensible suggestions in a letter to American Farming. He says:

Many farmers think that there is no money in raising horses. Yet there is constant demand in the markets at remunerative prices for horses of a definite type. Last summer I had opportunity to talk with a farmer on this very point. He was near an excellent horse market, and on his farm he was producing an abundance of the finest horse feed. But the buyers did not want his horses. The trouble was that they were neither draft horses nor road horses, neither express horses nor coach horses. They were nondescripts, without the right form and weight for any particular purpose. This farmer had started with a number of fairly good mares, but had tried first one stallion and then another without any definite idea in mind as to breed. The natural results was that the colts showed a mixture of incongruous tendencies. All that could be said of them was that they were horses. The modern market will not buy nondescript horses. They must be horses of a different class—draft horses, roadsters, etc.—with the proper form, size and action to admit them to that class. By consulting horse buyers the farmer can easily learn what the market requirements are, and can breed horses that meet these requirements. Then it will be found that there is money in raising horses. But there is surely no use in producing a mongrel horse when no one wants it.

There are several ways in which horses may be improved by intelligent selection and breeding, such as the farmer adopts in securing a herd of cows noted for their milk yield or a flock of sheep to produce winter lambs. I once had occasion to observe a company of cavalry horses that had been selected for their rapid walking gait. These horses, without urging, would easily make five miles an hour on walk. I had previously thought my saddle horse was a fast walker, but found that he had to be trotted at frequent intervals to keep up with the procession. This seemed to be an interesting point, and I accordingly timed several ordinary saddle horses. They made less than four miles an hour. Now these are lines of work in which a fast walking gait would add greatly to the value of a horse. The walking speed of a horse can be increased by breeding just as readily as the trotting or running speed. A fast walker is more in demand and is good for more purposes than a fast runner. Horses are just as susceptible to improvement by breeding as other animals are. It will therefore pay farmers who are fitted for this work to breed up a line of horses with a fast walk. Don't be content with present standards, but raise them.

MANURING YOUNG TREES.

The common practice of using large quantities of stable manure in planting fruit trees cannot be recommended. When a tree is planted its activity should be the development of a strong and extensive root system. If large amounts of fertilizer are placed around the roots of a tree, the root growth will naturally not be so extensive as under normal conditions because there will be no necessity of its searching far for sustenance, and when the supply of food materials provided at planting by the addition of stable manure is exhausted, the root system will not have grown sufficiently to secure food enough to keep up normal conditions in the growing tree. What was done with the idea of helping the tree will thus only serve to retard its growth.

VITALITY OF SEED.

As a result of careful tests made by the Department of Agriculture of over 3,000 carefully selected ears of what was considered good standard seed corn, more than half of the ears were found to be of low vitality and unfit for seed. By testing individual ears and rejecting those of low vitality, an average gain in yield of nearly 14 per cent. could be secured as a result of the better stand and better productiveness of strong plants.

This is a very attractive statement. Figure out the cost of these germination tests and then figure your last year's corn average and yield, and strike a balance with a 60-bushel yield per acre and with corn at, say, 60c. a bushel, the increased profit per acre would amount to $5.04.

FEEDING HOGS COMPETITION.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has decided to conduct a feeding hogs-for-profit competiiton for the purpose of securing information regarding the feeding of swine and demonstrating the profitablesness of the industry. Next fall a baby beef competition will be started.

Particulars regarding the feeding hog competition are contained in a letter by C. F. Bailey, Assistant Deputy Minister of Agriculture, to the district representatives, and which are as follows:

1. This competition shall be confined to farmers' sons under 25 years of age or those who have taken a course in agriculture under the district representative.

2. There must be five entries before the competition can be conducted. Entries close June 1, 1914.

3. Hogs are to be weaned at six weeks and fed until seven months old, when they will be carefully inspected and weighed by the district representative. All reports must be in by December 10, 1914.

SERUM INCREASES MILK FLOW.

Experiments made on goats in the College of Medicine at Cornell University may lead eventually to an increase in the supply of milk. It is stated that a goat has been made to give milk of twice the quantity and five times richer in cream, through the injection of a recently discovered serum under the skin or into a large blood vessel of the animal. Whether the same process will give equally gratifying results when applied to cows has yet to be determined, but the investigators are hopeful. The serum is a preparation made from the pituitary gland of live stock. It has been found that injections have to be made frequently in order to keep up the increased production. It is but a short time after the injection that the increased yield is noted.

A NEW DAIRY RECORD.

The Guernsey cow May Rilma, owned in Pennsylvania, has given in 365 days 19,639.50 pounds of milk which contains 1,059.59 pounds of butterfat. Her year's work has been carefully supervised under the regulations for the Advanced Register of Guernsey cattle conducted by the American Guernsey Cattle Club. While officially supervised by the representatives of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Experiment Station, her work has also been checked by six similar institutions in other states and by a representative of the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture.

This record surpasses that of any cow of all the dairy breeds in the world. May Rilma is producing more butterfat in her thirteenth month than in her first, thus widening the distance beyond her nearest competitor and more firmly establishing herself as "Queen of the Dairy World."

A Philatelic Curiosity.

In the state of Sonora, Mexico, the operation of the mines is now going on as if nothing had ever happened. Sonora has seceded, and no federals are in sight. The state government runs things on its own book, but neither has nor has claimed any national rights. This produces embarrassment, says the Engineering and Mining Journal. Sonora has no coinage, and currency is scarce. The supply of federal postage stamps has run out, and those of the sovereign state of Sonora do not carry in the United States. Consequently Americans put United States stamps on their letters and pay 3 cents into the state postoffice. The latter undertakes to carry them to the American border and mail them there. Thus we see foreign postmarks on American stamps, a philatelic curiosity.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Children and Eating.

Great importance is attached to the teaching of children to eat slowly. Although it is not strictly true to say that every child who eats rapidly is in poor health, it is true that a child who is in the habit of chewing each mouthful thoroughly is rarely in poor health. In children imperfect mastication is frequently the cause of restless sleep and overwrought nerves. Many a child is blamed for being naughty when he is suffering from indigestion brought about by haste in eating. The fault is not always with the child. Most children naturally eat slowly. Any one who has ever given bread and milk to a young child knows that it takes a long time to finish the meal. The child takes a spoonful and then pounds on the table or laughs and plays. He is in no hurry for the next mouthful. It is the nurse or mother who is in a hurry and who holds the spoon before the child's mouth and urges him to eat. Thus is laid the foundation of the rapid eating habit.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

COMBINING TAFFETA AND COTTON CREPE.

One of the newest modes in the way of summer frocks is illustrated here in a dainty combination of salmon colored taffeta with white cotton crepe of a very sheer variety and white cotton net. The crepe has a machine embroidered edging of red apples with green leaves, which have been cut out and appliqued to the taffeta peplum. White net edged with Venise lace makes an under blouse to which is attached the collar, the vest front and the sleeve frills. A frill of the same net edges the bottom of the skirt.

HOUSEHOLD RECEIPES

EGGS WITH TOMATOES.

Fry six eggs on both sides in hot lard, season with salt and arrange in a shallow dish. Fry in hot lard, a large onion chopped fine and a cupful of tomatoes. Add a spoonful each of flour and chopped parsley and stir well. Add two cupfuls of water, a bit of strong pepper and salt to taste and simmer a few moments. Pour over the eggs and serve hot.

BREAD OMELET.

Mix equal quantities of fine bread crumbs and cream, a teaspoonful of each. Break one ounce of butter into small bits and add to it a saltspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and one grate of nutmeg. When the cream has been absorbed by the bread, beat it until smooth with a fork, then mix into it the butter and three well-beaten eggs. Fry like an ordinary omelet.

EGGS WITH CHEESE.

Butter the sides and bottom of a shallow dish and cover the bottom with bread crumbs, drop in raw eggs to cover the crumbs, but do not crowd or break. Sprinkle over this a layer of grated cheese, season with salt and pepper, add a small cup of the milk and a few bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set and the top of the dish a delicate brown.

CURRIED EGGS.

Four hard boiled eggs, two tablespoonful of butter, one-half tablespoonful of finely chopped onion, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one tablespoonful of curry powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-eight teaspoonful of paprika, one and one-third cups of scalded milk, one-half cup of cooked rice. Chop the whites of the eggs and add to the sauce made of butter, flour, seasonings and milk, then add to the rice, heat to the boiling point, fill puff cases and sprinkle with the yokes of the eggs rubbed through a sieve.

STUFFED EGGS.

Cut four hard-boiled eggs in halves cross-wise; remove the yolk, mash and add two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, one tablespoonful of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon of mustard and salt and cayenne to taste. Add enough melted butter to make the mixture of the right consistency to shape. Make in balls the size of the original yolks and refill the whites. Arrange on a serving dish, and pour around one cup of white sauce, cover and reheat.

VEAL STEW.

Cut four pounds of veal into strips three inches long and one inch thick, peel 12 large potatoes and cut them into slices one inch thick, spread a layer of veal on the bottom of the pot, sprinkle in a little salt and pepper, then a layer of potatoes, then a layer of veal seasoned as before. Use up the veal thus. Over the last layer of veal put a layer of slices of salt pork and over the whole a layer of potatoes. Pour in water till it rises an inch over the whole, cover it close, boil 15 minutes and simmer it an hour.

CHILI SAUCE.

Eighteen ripe tomatoes, three red peppers, four onions. Chop these all fine. One cupful brown sugar, two and a half cupfuls of vinegar, one and a half cupfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful salt, one teaspoonful mustard. Stew all together one hour or more.

CHICKEN CROQUETTES.

A dish of cold chicken should be cut from the bone and minced fine; then season with salt, pepper and juice of a lemon. Let this stand one hour; then make a batter of two eggs to a pint of milk, a little salt and flour enough to make a batter not too stiff. Stir the chicken in this and drop it by spoonfuls in boiling fat. Fry brown, drain and serve.

EXPENSE vs. SAVINGS.

Here and there one finds a dairyman who hesitates about taking up cow testing because of the initial expense of about thre dollars for the necessary outfit of scales and bottles.

This would seem to be an extreme case of "Penny wise and pound foolish." So many examples are constantly cropping up of distinct saving through the small expenditure that they should be noted for the encouragement of those who still hesitate.

Cows have been bought at auction time after time, discarded by owners who were evidently absolutely ignorant of their high value as good producers. After one or two months' test the new owners have often refused $50 and $100 on their bargain. That is a pretty quick return on the cow testing outfit expenditure. In fact amongst such discards at auction were picked up one or two world's champions, worth thousands of dollars.

This vital fact should not be overlooked: hundreds of poor cows are being kept to-day at huge expense of whose low value the owners are also probably ignorant. Yet a three dollar outfit would help discover them, soon turning the present loss into distinct savings.

Then, thanks to that small expense, many dairymen are now making an additional income of three hundred dollars from twenty cows, because the poorest have been discarded. It will abundantly pay every dairyman to keep dairy records. —C. F. W.

AUTOMATIC TRAIN STOP IS TESTED

New Device Stopped Flyer Within Short Distance.

Moncton.—Any person passing in the vicinity of the signal tower at Buctouche Junction about 17 o'clock yesterday afternoon would have had his curiosity aroused at once by the unwonted activity and stir in that usually quiet spot. Had his curiosity prompted him to stop and observe the proceedings, he would have witnessed a spectacle well worth the few minutes necessary to view it.

Near the distant signal on the east side of the tower, toward Painsec Junction, stood a group of railroad officials intently observing a small box-like contrivance beside the track which was being finally adjusted by some workmen.

Suddenly loud and clear away up the track toward Painsec, the long roar of a siren whistle announced the approach of a train, and there was an immediate scattering of spectators along the embankment on either side of the line.

Nearer and nearer came the rumble of the rushing train, and finally the nose of a Pacific type engine swung around the curve a quarter of a mile distant, followed instantly by the eight passenger coaches with a caboose trailing along away at the rear of the procession.

Nearer and nearer came the flying train, with the smoke shooting skyward from the stack under the impulse of the sharp exhaust that showed the locomotive to be working all the steam the roadbed would stand for. Nearer yet came the engine, until the figures "436" stood out boldly on her number plate.

Practical Test.

The distant signal went up to "danger," but the engineer paid no attention and the 436 shot by the semaphore at 45 miles an hour without the least cessation of speed.

Then things happened. The engine was by the signal about one telegraph pole (100 feet) when the sudden cessation of the sharp "hooka-chooka hooka-chooka" of the exhaust announced that the throttle was closed. A second later the loud grinding of the brakes was heard, and the caboose stopped just four telegraph poles beyond the distant signal, the train having run about eleven hundred feet beyond the danger signal before coming to a standstill.

It was the final and conclusive triumphant test of the automatic train stopping appliance patented by Mr. A. E. Hudson, of Calgary, Alberta, tried out on the I. C. R. by permission of the government railway officials.

Prior to the final test, the train ran down on the danger signal at a speed of thirty-one miles per hour, and was stopped by the device in its own train length, plus about half a telegraph pole, a total of some seven hundred and eighty feet.

Both tests were under actual service conditions, and both demonstrated conclusively the workability of the device from a mechanical standpoint.

How Device Works.

The device consists of a track "ramp" which is raised when a signal is set at danger and which trips a small wheel attached to the truck of any locomotive which may try to pass the signal when set at danger.

When this wheel is tripped a train line connection is broken and the air brakes are applied. At the same time an air cylinder in the cab is operated and the throttle closes automatically. Another attachment automatically opens the sander valve and allows sand to fall to the rail, thus reducing the chances of the engine sliding on account of the unusual brake pressure.

The device is so regulated that "standing the train up on end" with the emergency brake is avoided. This has been a stumbling block to many a patent automatic train stop.

The Hudson device brings the train to a stand with a full "service application" of the brake, avoiding the jerky emergency stop.

Made Several Stops.

Several preliminary tests were conducted yesterday morning, and the train for the final official tests followed the Ocean Limited out of Moncton in the afternoon.

The idea of the arrangement is to prevent rear end collisions liable to occur through the engineer either not seeing of failing to heed signals set at danger.

Usually for air brake tests a train with practically perfect equipment is used, but the train used yesterday was made up at random from cars in the yard. The brakes on one car had to be "cut out" altogether and the piston travel on the other cars was by no means uniform.

Furthermore, the nine-inch air pump on the locomotive was not quite large enough for the job, and sure that could be obtained, although sure that could oe obtained, although the Westinghouse people insist on 90 lbs. when making their official tests.

It will, therefore, be seen that the device worked well under conditions which were by no means favorable, although representing about the average condition of trains upon the average railway.

The automatic train stop yesterday tested by the I. C. R. officials passed a successful test on the C. P. R. near Calgary on July 6th, 1913.

A remarkable thing about a dance is the indifference of most young men to the fact that they have to be back at the desk at 9 o'clock next morning.

To catch burglars an Englishman has patented mechanism to drop a person who steps in front of a safe at certain hours into a pit, doors closing over him.

SANITARY CONDITIONS IN THE HOUSE

Now, who would have expected an interesting story to come out of a bottle of milk!

"An egg-nog, possibly," you say. "A story, never!"

In the case of either a stick would be required to make them good, but in the matter of the story it will take more than a "stick" of perfectly good type to tell it.

Maybe you know that a thimbleful of milk contains 5,000 bacteria at the time it leaves the electric milking machine and is poured through the sanitary strainer. Maybe you are aware that in an hour from that time there are 10,000 bacteria instead. And perhaps you do not need to be told that inside of four hours, when the same quantity is on its way to your breakfast table, it is multiplied to 1,280,000 and that that is the main reason why milk should always be kept on the ice instead of on the windowsill or in the stationary tubs.

"The care and protection of milk and foodstuffs are two of the most important divisions of public health work," said a member of the health department. "People should realize that milk should always be kept on the ice. It is not sufficient that it be kept just in the ice chest. And that is the point where the housewife often undoes all the carefully prepared work of the dairyman which has gone before her purchase of the product. On the whole the dairymen are very energetic in their co-operation and spend considerable time and money in the effort to keep the milk cold. But as soon as the bottles leave his care and are left out in the room the work is wasted.

"Then, as you doubtless know, we have inspections. Men go out and, wherever they can find quantities of milk being delivered or coming into the city, they test it with thermometers. If it is found to register over 50 degrees Fahrenheit, the whole cartload is condemned then and there and thrown into the gutter. For if it has a heat of over 50 degrees Fahrenheit we are sure that it is too highly adulterated. Food supplies may be adulterated with microbes, you know, as well as with water!

"The question or garbage is another important item. In most of the apartments one enters nowadays cooking is done mainly by gas. In such cases the garbage should be put in the garbage can and the lid kept on. Garbage should not be put in the ash can, nor ashes in the garbage can. The ash man will not take away the garbage man's chores and vice versa. Neither should the garbage be thrown down the dumb waiter shafts! It is surprising to get complaints of janitors of this evil in apartment houses of the class where such a thing would not seem possible. The janitor cannot help himself. But he has to go up in the top of the dumb waiter with a shovel and clear off the debris just the same! People should watch their servants and make a note of the disposal of their garbage and ashes for their own health's sake! Garbage really should be burned. And in the remaining cases where cooking is done with coal stoves this is possible.

"So few people thoroughly appreciate the personal gain to themselves of proper ventilation. They open their windows an inch from the bottom in the winter and think they done themselves credit. To get proper ventilation at night where people are sleeping and steadily using up all the oxygen the windows should be opened as far as they will go.

"In apartment houses or city houses of any kind the ventilation of room and their contents is difficult, but none the less vitally essential. The bedding, for instance, has to be aired in the room. To do this each piece should be separately and fully aired."

WEIGHT OF A BODY.

How It Decreases as It Goes Above or Below the Earth's Surface.

Everybody weighs more at the surface of the earth than it can at any other point. Its weight diminishes as it is removed above the surface or below it. As it rises from the surface its weight decreases in inverse ratio to the squares of the distances from the center of the earth. As it descends below the surface its weight decreases directly as the distance from the center of the earth.

Thus a body weighing 100 pounds at the surface of the earth, which is approximately 4,000 miles from the center, would weigh only twenty-five pounds at a point 4,000 miles high. At twice the distance it has one-quarter the weight.

If we drop the same body half the distance to the center of the earth or to a point approximately 2,000 miles below the surface it will weigh fifty pounds.

The reason for this is that at 2,000 miles from the center the body is on the surface of a sphere of 2,000 miles' radius.

What causes weight is the mass of matter combined with distance from the center. A globe of 2,000 miles' radius contains one-eighth as much matter as a globe of 4,000 miles' radius, the size of the earth; therefore only one-eighth as much matter attracts the body, which, if mass were the only factor, would at 2,000 miles from the center weigh one-eighth as much as at the surface of the earth. But it is also only half as far from the center as it was at the surface and, if distance were the only factor, would weigh four times as much as on the surface. Four times one-eighth is one-half; therefore it weighs half what it would at the surface.

Now, suppose we drop this body to the very center of the earth and see what it would weigh. All the matter of the earth is now outside it and can exercise no attraction whatever upon it; therefore it weighs nothing at all.—New York World.

Power of Water.

The power of water is enormous. A tiny jet of water descending 1,000 feet traveling at the rate of 100 yards a second cannot be cut into with an ax or a sword. It will fracture the best blades of Toledo steel. It will hurl an ax through an oak plank. It is quite impossible for a man to cut this stream through. To compute the power of falling water it is necessary to multiply the volume of flowing water in cubic feet per minute by its weight, 62.5 pounds, and this product by the vertical height of the fall in feet and divide by 33,000, the number of foot pounds representing one horsepower for one minute. A stream of water when flowing over a weir five feet in length by one foot in depth at the rate of one foot a second and having a fall of twenty feet develops eleven horsepower.

A Lively Corpse.

Joseph G. Grow, a member of the United States diplomatic corps, tells a story of Bunsen, the German scientist, who was often mistaken for his cousin, Chevalier Bunsen.

"When he was traveling in England he met a lady who asked him, 'Have you finished your book, "Bible Work," yet?'

"'No, madame,' he said. 'I regret that my untimely death has prevented my doing so.'"—Detroit Free Press.

SAM HUGHES, MINER

The Minister of Militia Recounts His Adventures in Diamond Fields.

One of the most popular speakers at the annual banquet of the Canadian Mining Institute, held recently at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Montreal, was Hon. Sam Hughes, Canada's doughty Minister of Militia. Col. Hughes was in a jocular vein, and his comments and anecdotes were hugely enjoyed by the members of the Institute.

"While not a professional miner," said the gallant Minister, "I have had some slight connection with the industry. For one thing, I, on several occasions, borrowed money from confiding friends to invest in gilt-edged propositions. I know there is money in mining, for the money I put in is still there, but so long as my friends are willing to lend, I am willing to risk more of their money.

"One of my rural constituents came into my office in Lindsay one day and dumped on my desk a small sackful of specimens showing bright yellow specks.

"'There, what do you think of that?' he asked. 'Ain't they fine?'

"'Very fine,' I answered. 'As fine iron pyrites as I ever saw.'

"'Iron?' he shrieked. 'Do you mean to tell me it isn't gold?'

"'Just plain iron pyrites, more popularly known as fool's gold,' I told him.

"'Well, I'll be jiggered,' he exclaimed. 'Just to think that I've married a widow with nine children because I discovered she had a mountain of that on her farm!'"

No speech by the brave Colonel would be complete without a reference to his participation in the South African campaign, and the expected allusion was forthcoming.

"One day," said Col. Hughes, "I was out near the German colonial border with a patrol, when I saw something glistening in a clay bank. I sent a Dutch scout after it, and he brought back two or three pebbles, one of which turned out to be a diamond of good size and quality. I afterwards showed it to the De Beers people, and they half-jestingly and half-seriously threatened to invoke the Illicit Diamond Buyers' Act to make me give it up and divulge where I found it, but by pointing out that the operation of martial law suspended all civil legislation, I was able to get away with both the diamond and the secret of the place where I found it. I marked the spot carefully, however, and some day when I get the time I mean to go back and locate that diamond mine."

Storm Gods.

Storm-gods in the mountains have ever been the inspiration of some of the world's best poetry and of fascinating legends in that literary storehouse—Asiatic, Egyptian and classic mythology. And, by the way, many students are now looking beyond the Aryans, beyond the Egyptians, beyond all Greeks, Minoans and Latins, to a vast civilization antedating their most ancient histories—looking to now sunken Poseid.

All phenomena in nature, such as lightning, outbursts of rain, hail and snow in summits and ranges of peaks, all marshaling of huge mountain clouds for elemental war—earthquakes, cyclones, hurricanes, waterspouts at sea, huge waves beating over land as destroyers, outbursts of sulphurous and asphaltic flames from the earth, apparitions in the sky, as meteors, fireballs, bolides, comets, eclipses of the sun and moon—these all were supposed to be caused by an intelligence ruling each, and they were persons higher than man and called gods.—New York American.

BOOKED FOR MATRIMONY

The Surprise at the Rehearsal

By NEWTON CHANCE

Paul Ardmore nodded his thanks to the conductor as he swung down the car steps to the snow covered platform and made his way toward the waiting room.

No expectant committee gathered about the stove, and the only signs of life were the clicking of the telegraph instruments and a thin film of very rank tobacco smoke that curled from under the closed window of the ticket office.

He waited a minute; then he rapped on the ground glass, and presently a face, appearing in the opening, evinced surly interest.

"I am Professor Ardmore," explained Paul. "I am to give a lecture at the Gothic church. There is no committee to meet me, and there seems to be no hack about the station."

"There is one generally, but Jim got a job driving a feller over to Moor way. He'll be back to meet the 9:43, but if you don't want to wait it's easy to walk there. You go down the road a piece till you come to Pine street. Then you go over to Maple until you come to Spruce. It's just around the corner of Spruce. Are you the feller that was to lecture in the Star course last night and didn't come? The ladies got up a show, so they wouldn't have to give the money back."

Paul clutched at his pocket and extracted a letter. He glanced at the fine feminine handwriting and breathed a sigh of relief.

"It is for the 17th," he announced in relief. "I am so absentminded that I have to be very careful of my dates. Perhaps the committee has discovered the error and will gather the audience again tonight. In any event, it would be best for me to go over."

He turned up the collar of his ulster to protect his throat and, leaving the station, plunged through the drifting snow.

It was not a long walk, for Maplewood was a small place, and presently he was in sight of the church that was attended by the town's fashionable families.

To his relief the lights shone out, and a little knot of people stood about the door.

They eyed him curiously as he pushed his way through to the door and entered the vestibule. Several young women came forward expectantly as he entered, and Paul, deciding that they were the committee of the Ladies' guild, grasped an outstretched hand.

"They told me at the station that the lecture was yesterday, or, rather, that the audience had gathered yesterday through some error," he said cordially. "I am glad that you were able to gather them together again this evening. I presume an error was made."

The welcoming smile faded from the girlish faces. "You are the lecturer?" cried one. "We thought you were the bridegroom."

"Mercy, no!" exclaimed Paul, coloring vividly.

"The lecture was announced for last night," went on the speaker. "The guild members organized an impromptu concert to avoid disappointing the audience. You might at least have telegraphed when you found that you could not come."

"But I have come," declared Paul as he produced his letter. "Your communication says very distinctly that the lecture is on the 17th."

The girl took the letter unbelievingly, then gave a little cry of dismay. "You are Professor Ardmore?" she cried. "It was Burton Brooks, the Egyptologist, who was to have lectured last night. Your lecture is to be given on the 27th. I made the mistake in the date. This is my letter. I am very sorry."

"I can come again on the 27th," promised Paul as he perceived the girl's distress. "I take it that there is a wedding here this evening. May I stay until it is time for my train? It is scarcely inviting at the station, and the agent smokes very bad tobacco."

"Yes; we've reported his bad manners to the company dozens of times," was the discouraged reply. "You are welcome here, but it is a rehearsal for the bridal party, not the wedding."

She led the way into the body of the church, and Paul slipped into a pew on the side aisle, glad of a restful haven until train time.

Presently the organ pealed, and at the first strains there entered the groom and his best man. An elderly woman, who seemed to have constituted herself the mistress of ceremonies, shouted to the organist to stop and charged upon the sheepish groom.

"Go back!" she cried. "You don't give the organist a chance! He's got to play the march all the way through and if you come out now you'll have to stand like a toy figure waiting for the bride to come in! Don't come on 'til I say 'Now,' and then remember the place in the music!"

The groom and his supporter stumbled back into the vestry, and again the organ pealed out the wedding march. Paul turned curiously to look at the bridal party, and for a moment his pulse seemed to cease its beat.

The little bride was none other than Eleanor Kingsland, the one woman in the world that Paul worshiped, and his worship was not the less intense because he had never told of his love.

He had thought of her always as a child, for he was very young himself for the position that he held, and in consequence felt himself to be tremendously old.

He had meant some day to tell his love and seek her for his own, but he had delayed his proposal until it was too late. Now she was about to become the bride of that sheepish looking chap.

He half rose as though to leave; then he sank back into his seat again. He would drink the cup of humiliation to the very dregs. He would see the girl he loved go through the form of marriage which on the morrow would be performed. Then he would go back to his own narrow, loveless life bearing the knowledge that delay had cost him happiness.

Miserably he watched the procession form and break, to form again in response to the directress, but at last the rehearsal was pronounced perfect.

The groom and his best man made their appearance on the very note that brought them to pause expectantly before the bride started and yet gave her time to step into place before the music stopped.

With a brisk "All right!" the directress led the way down to the Sunday school room, with the announcement that refreshments were to be served there. Paul rose, hoping to steal out unobserved.

It never would do to meet Eleanor now. She could read his secret in his face, and he would not detract even slightly from her happiness at such a moment.

But even as he rose Eleanor turned and came swiftly toward him.

"Paul Ardmore!" she cried as she offered her hand. "And I had the funniest feeling that you were here. All through the ceremony I felt it, and when Jeanne told me that you really were here I was delighted. Did you see the rehearsal. Isn't it going to be lovely?"

"As lovely as the bride deserves," declared Paul gallantly.

"Do you know her?" cried Eleanor in astonishment.

"You are she," reminded Paul, but Eleanor shook her head gayly.

"I almost wish that I was," she cried—"all the excitement over one girl, even though she is as beautiful as Letty Brace. I was just her substitute because she had to have her dress fitted. Paul, do you know, I think a dress like that would tempt me to marry anybody."

"I shall have to see Miss Brace's dressmaker," said Paul gravely, "for I want to tempt you to matrimony. I thought that you were too young to give up all men for just one, but when I saw you standing beside another at the altar and felt that I had not spoken in time"—

"Mercy! I'm getting to be an old maid," insisted Eleanor, with a laugh. "This is my third season, and I've been waiting for the right man to come along."

"And has he?" pressed Paul.

Eleanor glanced shyly up into his face.

"I guess he has," she confessed, and Paul's face turned radiant.

"We shall have to have the guild secretary for our best girl—I mean the bridesmaid," he corrected. "It was she who booked me for matrimony as well as a lecture."

CHANGE NOTED.

THEY do not do the things they did
When you and I were young.
The world is run on different lines,
And different songs are sung.
The boys got busy with the chores,
The daughters milked the cow.
Today they scoff at things like that,
For we're back numbers now.

Then the ambition of a youth
As he became a man
Was to secure a patch of ground
And on the good old plan
To raise a family of his own
And thus to serve the state
While bringing blessings to himself.
But that is out of date.

The girl looked forward to the time
When she could be a wife,
Have little children and a home
And lead a useful life.
She didn't want to join a club
And run the ship of state.
You see how far behind the times
We are and out of date.

The boys must all be lawyers now
Or doctors, or what not.
The girls must be stenographers.
They scorn the humble cot.
For if they wed they move into
A new steam heated flat.
Things are not as they used to be—
You may be sure of that.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

When we meet a long time friend we sometimes feel like commiserating him for his lost youth and would do so only he annoys us by being surprised at the marks of time we are carrying.

DISCIPLINE AT SEA.

Penalties and Privileges Aboard Ship In Former Days.

Some remarkable advice to seafarers is given in an old Portuguese book published for the guidance of mariners. Among other things it deals with the rights of captains to assault sailors and the methods in which the attacks are to be legally met.

The sailor was advised to bear calmly any verbal abuse that an irate skipper may hurl at him, but if words passed to blows he was to run away into the bows and firmly take his stand beside the anchor chain.

Should an infuriated master armed with a belaying pin or other lethal weapon chase him to his stronghold the mariner was to slip round to the farther side of the chain. Should he still be pursued he was to call his messmates to witness that the master had broken the rules by circumventing the chain.

Then at last he was to defend himself, and let us hope he would do it well. Other little matters of discipline are set out, and they show a noble effort to make the punishment fit the crime.

The ship's clerk, a privileged person who acted as bookkeeper, purser and cargo master, was liable to be branded on the forehead, to lose his right hand and to forfeit all of his property if he made a wrong entry in the ship's book or connived at such an entry.

A seaman who fell asleep on his watch was only put on a diet of bread and water unless the offense was committed in hostile waters. In that case he must be stripped naked, flogged by his messmates and ducked thrice in the sea.

If he were an officer, however, he would only lose all food except his bread and have a pail of water flung over from the head downward.—London Tit-Bits.

Literary and Musical Pillage.

Bernard Shaw's defense of literary "pillage" was anticipated by his fellow countryman, Balfe, the composer of "The Bohemian Girl," who used to borrow generously from other people's scores. On one occasion, the London Express recalls, he was rehearsing a new opera at Drury Lane and the first fiddle, an Italian, was horrified to come upon page after page of familiar music. "Mr. Balfe, Mr. Balfe," he said in horror, "dat is Mozart." "And a capital man, too," was the Irishman's reply. "Get on with the rehearsal."—Indianapolis News.

My wife is more small."—Exchange.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Bronchial Diseases.

A young Italian physician, Dr. D'Aiutolo, was the first scientific student to call attention to the healing power of laughter in bronchial diseases. He declared this before the Medico-Chirurgical Society of Italy and backed up the statement by producing patients cured entirely and solely by laughter purposely provoked. It seems that the shaking of the sides aids the expulsion of secretion and permits the oxygen of the air to dry up and heal the diseased cells. And not merely in lung diseases is it efficacious, for the side splitting laughter loosens the particles of decayed matter in the muscles and hastens their discharge through the lymphatics. Thus disease germs are carried off and the whole body is stronger and more immune from contagion.

NOISY COLORS.

Sounds That Light Gives Out When Blended With Various Hues.

It is no unusual thing to see a ray of light, but have you ever heard one? Recent experiments, described in Harper's Weekly, prove that a beam of light can, under certain conditions, produce perfectly clear and distinct sounds.

A ray of sunlight is thrown through a lens on a glass vessel that contains lampblack, colored silk or worsted. A disk with slits or openings cut in it is made to revolve swiftly in this beam of light so as to "cut it up" and cause alternate flashes of light and shadow. When you place your ear to the glass vessel you hear strange sounds as long as the flashing beam falls upon the vessel.

A still more extraordinary effect is produced when the beam of sunlight is made to pass through a prism so as to produce the solar spectrum. The disk is turned rapidly, and the colored light of the rainbow breaks through it and falls on the glass vessel. Now if you place your ear to the glass you will hear sounds from certain parts of the spectrum, but none from the others.

For example, if the vessel contains red worsted and the green light flashes upon it quite loud sounds will be given out. Only feeble sounds will be heard when the red and blue ends of the spectrum fall upon the vessel. Other colors produce no sounds at all. Green silk gives out sound best in a red light. Every kind of material gives more or less sound in different colors and no sound at all in others.

Citizenship Training.

With the co-operation of the National Municipal league and other organizations long interested in the problem of education for citizenship the United States bureau of education is undertaking a comprehensive study of the whole problem of civic education. The work will be under the immediate direction of Arthur W. Dunn, now of New York, who made for himself a national reputation some years ago by his work in this subject in the public schools of Indianapolis. In this field of activity the government bureau of education hopes to do officially and systematically what has heretofore been attempted by a number of organizations working independently.

Relation of City and Country.

With us cities are as certain to spring up with the increase of country population as the forests are to disappear. City and country are organically related. Crops cannot be grown without fields nor exchanged and manufactured under the modern system of division of labor without cities. Only in the rudest pioneer settlements do men dispense with this division of labors by doing everything painfully and badly on the farm. Such settlements are retarded and hampered until they have towns for the city part of the work. When we estimate that the average inhabitant of New York may have but a few score square feet for his own use we are apt to forget that he can only exist on them because somewhere in the country there are acres of ground producing for him, as really and definitely for him as if he owned them and hired the labor on them, what Professor Penck has called his "sustenance space."—Atlantic.

Beauty Fashions.

In the days of Roman supremacy the women tinted their eyebrows with black in emulation of "ox eyed Venus." They painted their faces, sprinkled themselves with perfumes and even wore false hair or tinted their own locks in accordance with the prevailing fashion.

The Greek ladies of the same period employed maids who rubbed out their mistress' wrinkles, "decorated" her face with red and white paint and darkened her eyebrows. It was then also the fashion to coat the face with white of egg and goose grease to protect it from the sun and wind. It is even said that they had a recipe for turning blue eyes to black.

These fashions all had their origin in Italy, where in later years the notorious Lucretia Borgia is said to have dyed her hair different colors, according to her fancy of the moment.

An Ancient Suez Canal.

It is certain that in ancient times a canal connecting the Mediterranean and Red seas did exist. Herodotus ascribes its projection to Pharaoh Necho, 600 B. C. The honor of its completion is given by some to Darius, by others to the Ptolemies. How long this canal continued to be used we do not know, but becoming finally choked up by sand, it was restored by Trajan early in the second century A. D. Becoming again useless from the same cause, it was reopened by the Caliph Omar, but was finally closed by the "unconquerable sands" about A. D. 767, in which state it has since remained. This ancient canal, from Suez to Bubastis, on the east branch of the Nile, was ninety-two miles long, from 108 feet to 100 feet wide and fifteen feet deep

INVENTED FOUNTAIN PEN.

Canadian Druggist Was Pioneer In Now Huge Industry.

Books of reference, even dictionaries, name and describe the fountain pen, but in such a way as if it had been the product of spontaneous creation. None of the writers seem to know the name of its inventor. Watt, Morse, Howe, Bell and other names of inventors and discoverers are household words, but no one apparently is familiar with the name of the inventor of the fountain pen. This can scarcely be said of the inventor of any other instrument of equal utility. Yet the personal element is most interesting in all spheres of human action. The fountain pen is now made by scores of competing manufacturers the world over, and the business has risen into millions. All since 1876, when patents were issued at Ottawa and Washington to the inventor.

Duncan Mackinnon was born in the township of York, county of York, Ontario, in 1838, and died in 1882. He received a liberal education in his native county. After teaching school for a short time he took up pharmacy, and the year 1874 found him the proprietor of a drug store in the city of Stratford.

About this time he read a paragraph in The Scientific American asking some inventive genius of the world to produce a "fluid pencil," that is, a writing instrument much like a lead pencil, substituting ink for the lead. Mr. Mackinnon was at once seized with the importance of the suggestion and was soon at work, using the metal penholders of the time for his experiments.

The chief difficulty lay in securing control of the inkflow. This was finally accomplished by putting an air tube in the centre of the fountain. This was, and is to-day, the most essential part of the mechanism. Without it there would have been no fountain pen. Before final results were reached Mr. Mackinnon made trips to various cities in search of skilled artists, including Providence, New York, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati.

The pen was first made in soft metal. This experiment failed, for the ink corroded the metal, and the points soon wore off. Hard rubber was next chosen and proved so successful that it is still the material used. There was still one difficulty to overcome, and that was to secure a hard metal point. This, too, was finally accomplished by the use of iridium, the hardest of all metals, and with which the gold pens now attached to the fountain are tipped.

It will be noticed that what the inventor kept steadily in view was the production of a "fluid pencil." He had not thought of attaching an ordinary pen to the fountain. This fluid pencil, although still in the market, is not suited to fine penmanship. Others soon discovered this. Cross was the inventor's manufacturer. This gentleman conceived the idea of substituting an ordinary pen for the point, and proceeded to manufacture and sell, regardless of business ethics, or possible infringement, calling his pen the stylographic. Other makers, the world over, followed in quick succession. The rest is present-day history.

Like many other inventors, Mr. Mackinnon plowed the field and sowed the seed, but others reaped the harvest.

A Chinaman's Oath.

A Chinese oath was recently administered in British Columbia with all the ceremonial accompaniments that are observed in China when an oath is taken in court. Seven Chinamen were charged with rioting, and one, Moh Quong, a witness, was to testify.

The oath was taken on the lawn at the rear of the courthouse, in the presence of the full court and many interested spectators. It was written in the Chinese language, to which the witness affixed his signature. The charge against the seven men was read to the witness by the interpreter, whereupon the witness took the following oath:

"Being a true witness, I shall enjoy happiness, and my sons and grandsons will prosper forever. If I falsely accuse, I shall die on the street, heaven will punish me, earth will destroy me. I shall suffer adversity, and all my offspring will be exterminated. In burning this oath, I humbly submit to the will of heaven, which has brilliant eyes to see."

After the witness had signed his name to the oath, a young white cock with red comb and yellow legs was brought forth. Three punk sticks and a pair of Chinese candles were stuck in the ground and lighted near a block of wood. Next the oath was read by the interpreter to the witness, after which the latter wrapped the piece of paper on which the oath was written round the joss paper. The witness then laid the cock on the block and chopped its head at a single blow. After that he set fire to the oath with a candle, and held it until it was wholly consumed.

And Out He Went.

Corporation Counsel Reginald Geary, of Toronto, tells of a funny experience on his last trip to London, Eng. Those who have visited London know that the number of passengers carried on certain busses is limited by regulation.

Mr. Geary was riding in one of these one day, and the kindly Irish conductor, though quite aware that his 'bus was full, had permitted a young and sickly woman to squeeze in. The 'bus had not proceeded far before the usual crank spoke up. "Conductah!" he exclaimed, "you've one over your number, y'know!"

"Have I, sir?" asked the conductor with affected concern. Then beginning to count from the opposite end, leaving the complainant until the last, he repeated: 'Wan, two, three, four, foive, six, sivin, eight, noine, tin, 'leven, twelve, thir—so I have, sir, an' be the Lord Harry, ye're the wan. Out ye go!"

And out he did go.—Star Weekly.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

IMAGINATION can do wonderful things in the way of taking us on beautiful trips, but it doesn't pay the expenses that accrue at home while we are away.

It is to be noticed that the people whom we denominate easy goers qualify as to the "easy," if not as to the "goers."

There is sense in most things if we just have sense enough to perceive it.

It is a good deal easier to tell a man how a thing should be done than it is to get him to do it that way.

Probably the reason so many men are baldheaded is because they were born that way.

When an accustomed action gets over making you tired it begins to make all your friends tired.

There are people who work so hard having religion that they have neither time, strength nor desire to have common charity and benevolence.

Why?

I wish some one who knows it all
Would come around and tell
The reason why some folks are tall
And some shaped like a bell,

The reason why some folks are rich
And some as poor's my pay.
Why some stick close as blackest pitch
And others get away.

Hard Up.

"But where is his intelligence?"

"He put that in soak."

"What for?"

"Courage to marry an ugly heiress."

Exacting.

"Some people are so hard to please."

"For example?"

"My wife."

"How about it?"

"I have just given her a check book, and what do you think she says?"

"Search me."

"Wants me to give her the bank, saying they will be so lovely in a pair."

Mere Man Necessary.

"Don't you like this place, Miss Ethel?"

"No, not a bit."

"But see what beautiful views are all around."

"They are utterly valueless."

"How can you say so?"

"Because there are no nice young men here to help a girl look at them."

Her Evidence.

He—I was reading an article about women having smaller brains than men.

She—But women haven't any brains at all.

He—But why do you think so?

She—See whom they marry.

Easy.

"A man never knows what to do when a baby cries."

"Oh, doesn't he?"

"No."

"You bet I do."

"Well, what?"

"Make a getaway."

Obvious.

"They say that she is a woman with a past."

"Yes, I think she is."

"I don't see how she shows it."

"Doesn't she look as if she has had ample time to accumulate a past?"

Good Idea.

"I have a great deal of trouble."

"So do I."

"What do you do with it?"

"I give a lot of it to my landlord."

Light Enough.

"Taking any physical culture now?"

"Just light exercise."

"Of what nature?"

"Turning on the electric light."

Warning.

"I understand he has quit drinking."

"Yes; he has seen a great light."

"A great light?"

"His nose in the looking glass."

Give Them a Change.

"He has a scheme to rob war of all its terrors."

"How is he going to do it?"

"Let only married men enlist."

BUYING A CABBAGE HEAD.

In New York, It Seems, the Less You Have the More You Pay.

A cabbage head is grown by a small farmer in Connecticut who gets 1½ cents for it. It first goes to the commission merchant, who lives on Riverside drive, pays $2,000 a year for his apartment, keeps a motorcar and spends $7,000 a year.

Next the cabbage is sent to the wholesaler, who lives on West End avenue, in an $1,800 apartment, keeps a motorcar and spends $6,000 a year. Thence the cabbage goes to the jobber, who lives in a $1,500 apartment on upper Broadway, keeps a motorcar and spends $5,000 a year.

From him the cabbage travels to the retailer, who lives in a $700 apartment on a side street, has a corner store for which he pays $25 a month rent, keeps two delivery wagons at a cost of $140 a month and spends $2,500 a year on his living. Finally the cabbage gets to Mr. Ultimate Consumer, who lives in a $40 a month tenement, rides in the trolley car or subway, spends all he can make or a little more to live and pays for that head of cabbage 13 cents

Where Dr. Johnson Lived.

Dr. Johnson's house in Gough square, London, has been renovated and will be opened to the public as a museum. The house is narrow and has only two rooms on each floor. On top is the garret in which Johnson worked. On the entrance door there is still the old chain, as strong and big as a trace chain, which was stretched across the door at night to keep out marauders. A tiny garden on the south side of the house, hitherto obscured by a high wall, has been opened out. Dr. Johnson lived in the house from 1748 to 1758, and it was here that the famous dictionary was compiled.

Historic London Hotel.

The Inns of Court hotel, London, which is to become the telephone exchange for Holborn, began life as the Blue Boar tavern in Plantagenet times, taking its name from the crest of the De Veres, who owned the land thereabouts. When its neighbor and rival, the George inn, was demolished under Queen Anne the Blue Boar annexed the name George as its subtitle. It was at the Blue Boar that Cromwell, disguised as a trooper, stopped a man about to set out for Dover. In his saddle he found a letter from Charles I, which determined him on the king's death.

Electric Blasts In Gold Mines.

Gold mining companies of the Rand field, South Africa, have been experimenting with electric blasting with a view of reducing the danger of miner's phthisis, a disease ascribed to the fine dust that results from blasting. By using electric systems the firing can be done from the surface and the air can be cleared of the fine dust before the miners need to enter the mine.

Next to obtaining garden seeds that will grow, perhaps the most difficult task on the hands of the citizen of domestic tastes is to find a setting hen that will stay set.

University of Chicago professors have shown by careful experiments that the land is subject to tides as well as the water, thus confirming the observations of many convivial lay scientists.

BELIEVED IN CANADA.

Sir Thomas Skinner Has Been Justified of Faith in Dominion.

Sir Thomas Skinner, Bart, who recently was appointed governor of the Hudson Bay Company, to succeed the late Lord Strathcona, although not a Canadian, has been so long identified with Canadian affairs that his name is familiar to most of the people of the Dominion, says Chesterfield in The Family Herald. When the preliminaries for the development of the Canadian West were in the making, and when those who had decided to risk their all upon the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway realized the need of strong support at the world's financial centre, London, Sir Thomas, or Mr. Skinner, as he was then, was approached and asked to interest himself and the strong commercial and financial circles in which he moved with Canada and Canadian affairs. Especially was the need in London of a strongly-held publication to expound Canadian matters and to defend Canadian projects realized, and Mr. Skinner agreed to supply this need, establishing the well-known Canadian Gazette, as "a weekly journal of information and comment upon matters of use and interest to those concerned in Canada, Canadian emigration and Canadian investment," a journal which is still published.

Later Sir Thomas became a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway and numerous other business concerns. He was appointed by Queen Victoria to be a member of the Colonization Board, established for the purpose of assisting colonization in Canada from the congested districts of Scotland and Ireland. He presented a handsome chain and badge of office to the president of the Canada Club in London. In fact, Sir Thomas has never lost an opportunity to show his interest in Canada. He describes himself as "editor, publisher, promoter and capitalist." He is an Englishman by birth and descent, a son of James Skinner, of Bristol. He was born in the west country seaport town seventy-four years ago.

Having frequently visited Canada, and taking great pleasure in entertaining Canadians who visit England, he is better known throughout the Dominion than many native Canadians. According to all accounts, Canada has well repaid Sir Thomas for his friendly interest, and a goodly part of his wealth, which is extensive, is due to his Canadian financial and industrial investments.

Chinese Smuggling Easy.

That the smuggling of Chinese across the United States border is not a sporadic, desultory sort of game, indulged in by a few men willing to gain an illicit livelihood by taking long chances, but a tremendous, organized business, in which many thousands of dollars are made each year is the statement of George Latour, of Windsor, the so-called "King of the smugglers," who a few days ago pleaded guilty, to a charge of violating the Chinese exclusion act, and was sentenced to three years in the Detroit House of Correction.

"A Windsor Chinaman," said Latour in the county jail recently, "is at the head of the Chinese smuggling trade in this part of the country. The proprietors of many Chinese laundries in Windsor are engaged in the [illegible], which is organized on a broad [illegible]. This is the plan: When the [illegible] thinks the time is ripe he notifies his associates in Vancouver, and [illegible] ship on Chinamen to him at Windsor in lots of ten or twelve. When they arrive in Windsor, he either hides them in his own place, or arranges for their seclusion in some other joints, and there they will wait until a good chance presents for getting them over the river. Taking them across is one of the simplest things in the world. All one needs is nerve and a quick wit. I was in the business for two years, and I never found any great trouble in eluding the officials. Latour says the price paid for taking a Celestial across the river ranges from $75 to $350, but it is never below the former figure.

PANNIER DRAPERIES.

They Are Favored by Smart Dressmakers.

NEAT AFTERNOON GOWN.

Pannier effects grow rapidly in favor. Already they have passed the fad stage and are no longer eccentric, but pretty and graceful. The long clinging ones are rather ignored. They have given place to the extremely puffy and more bunched ones.

The pannier tunic is gracefully carried out on the afternoon gown of white net and plaited silk which is pictured here. Pearl beads were used in its decoration. The wide satin girdle was crossed by strands of the beads and finished in front with an ornament and tassel. Loops of the pearls also adorned the skirt.

SPARKLING ORNAMENTS.

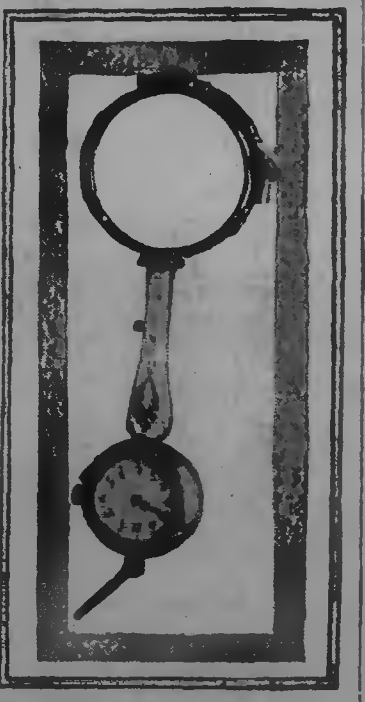
Rhinestones Glitter on the Hands and in the Hair.

Brilliants, usually in the form of rhinestones, are the chief decorations on all the newest hair ornaments. But the bandeaux having them are not the mode, and yet it was in this form that they were first used to give a finishing touch to the coiffure.

Now one sees rhinestones ornamenting the hinge top hairpins, the small barrettes, the base of the crowning headpiece (which is but a couple of inches wide instead of bandeau size) and the decorations that hold guara feathers.



THE WATCH LORGNETTE.

One of the most striking features of the newest hair ornaments that rise upright, fountain-like, from the coiffure is that they have an imitation of a precious or semiprecious gem, large as the oval of a pigeon's egg, near their base in the center. These are most effective, for they catch and reflect in a most delightful way the brilliancy from the flashing facets of the rhinestones. Some of these have sprays of uncurled ostrich feathers rising from them, but the majority have tendrils of aluminium with small rhinestones sparkling on them.

Rhinestones are not confined to hair ornaments alone. There are rhinestone bracelets, dinner rings and lace pins. Pearl necklaces should now be in three strands, graduated in size.

Illustrated here is a lorgnette with a watch attachment which makes a modish and striking accessory to milady's toilet. The lorgnette is mounted in gold to match the tiny timepiece in the handle.

Some women can smile in the face of adversity just as if they meant it.

TO STUDY FISH.

Prof. A. B. Macallum Establishing Research on Pacific Coast.

Dr. A. B. Macallum, professor of biochemistry at the University of Toronto, has been in Vancouver recently in connection with the work of the Board of Biological Research, under the Department of Marine and Fisheries, of which he is secretary-treasurer without salary.

Two biological stations are maintained by this board in Canada, one at Nanaimo and the other at St. Andrew's, N.B., while it is planned to establish another at Hudson Bay. Their subject matter is halibut, salmon, herring, lobsters and oysters, on the economic side, and their object is to adduce the facts regarding these sea denizens in accepted scientific form, so that governments may govern themselves accordingly.

Take the matter of halibut, for instance. It is said that halibut are becoming scarce in Pacific waters. Is it true? That it what the biological board wants to know. Very little is known of the habits of halibut. Its eggs have been obtained only in limited stages, its time of spawning is unknown, its food is not definitely recognized.

The greatest living expert on halibut is Dr. Hjort, head of the Norwegian fisheries, only forty-six years of age, but internationally famous. It is the intention of the board to engage Dr. Hjort to devote his time to the investigation of the life and habits of halibut on the Pacific coast. He is expected here about the end of September.

Another question that the biological station at Nanaimo is grappling with is why the herring are disappearing from Pacific waters. Has it anything to do with the movement of the planxtone life of the sea, that is the microscopic animal life on the surface of the water? This planxtone life may give indications of the migration of the halibut constantly further north.

The sea salmon has never been definitely described as to nativity, maturity and death. Many have guessed at these problems, and Prof. Gilbert has made important discoveries. These are being verified if possible, and when scientifically demonstrated the facts will be used to conserve the salmon.

The reason why oysters do not seem to thrive when transplanted from the Atlantic to the Pacific, whether it is due to the scarcity or the plentifulness of brine in the sea or to the temperature of the water; why lobsters reproduce their species, but their growth seems to be arrested, whether they shed their shells or not —these are some other problems to be worked out.

Prof. Willy of McGill University, another member of the biological board, is going out there on a tour of investigation in April, and Mr. Macallum plans to return in June for a longer stay. Both will go out to the halibut banks with the halibut fishermen and get first-hand information.

Dr. Macallum has been interviewing officials of the Provincial Government and the Dominion Fisheries Department and co-operating with them in their work. He sees much good to be done for the conservation of the Pacific fisheries in the work to his hand.

Must Be Bonded.

A curious feature of the Quebec marriage laws and one which, it is maintained, should not be struck from the code, is the fact that the happy couple must be bonded. The bridegroom going to the issuer of licenses is astounded, if he has not learned the law, to find that he must bring two householders who will go bond for him for $800 each, to show that there is no reason why the marriage should not take place. It is to prove that neither of the parties has previously been wedded, that they are of age, or if not, that the consent of the parents has been obtained. It is merely a matter of form. There is no records known of any bondsmen being sued for the amount of the bond by the province or by an irate parent. Nevertheless, the bond must be given.

Has Health Inspection Act.

British Columbia is the only province in the Dominion having provincial legislation governing and controlling medical inspection of schools. The "School Health Inspection Act" provides that the Board of School Trustees of every city, town, and district municipality shall appoint one or more School Health Inspectors. Many of the other provinces have medical inspection, although not perhaps so well organized. Ontario is making notable strides in this direction. The rural schools are not to be neglected. It is felt that in the past they have too often been supposed to be entirely healthy institutions.

Alberta Joins Movement.

The days of rough trails and roads built merely for pioneer purposes in Alberta are now numbered. The public works department of the Provincial Government is co-operating with the various municipalities throughout the province for the purpose of constructing main truck roads between the principal market centres. Half a million dollars which has been set aside out of current revenues for road construction by the public works department this year will be spent largely in improving the most important traffic roads and with a view to completing, in the course of the next few years, a system of main trunk roads.

Canada's Shipping Record.

Capital estimated at $26,908,950, invested in 8,545 Canadian vessels, while 43,968 men and boys are employed in the marine service, according to the annual report just issued by the registrar of shipping. The number of vessels registered is 8,545, and the tonnage is 896,965, an increase last year of 344 vessels.

SOFT PEDAL.

HANG old strenuosity
To a sour apple tree.
Yes, I know the treatment hurts,
But 'twill be its just deserts.
Pause a moment from the strife.
Get acquainted with your wife.
You may like her—who can tell?—
When you come to know her well.

And if at the kids you peep
Only when they are asleep
Some time when you come in view
They may set the dog on you.
On their little whims attend
As a father and a friend.
Make perhaps a dollar less
And get paid with a caress.

Only once through life you go.
Take it easy; see the show.
Do not toil and sweat and strive
Trying to put twenty-five
Hours of work and long for more
In the daily twenty-four.
With enough to eat and wear,
For the millions more don't care.

What's the use of piling high
Dollars as the days go by?
They will only bring you care
And won't get you anywhere.
Take my word—I ought to know,
For I never had the dough—
Find an easy place to sit
When you've got enough and quit.

"That's funny. I just dote on it."

"But you see I can neither catch fish nor tell an interesting lie."

"It isn't going to boost aviation."

For the Children

A Little Snow Shoveler In Central Park, New York.

© by American Press Association.

Like the rest of the northern country, New York city has been enveloped in a snow blanket for several weeks, something quite unusual in the big city. It has been a source of great annoyance to most folks, but children see nothing but good in the snowdrifts. Not in years has there been such coasting, and the hills in the parks and many of the streets have been alive with little people making the best of the welcome opportunity. The smiling little lady in the picture is Mary Thatcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Thatcher of New York city. Little Miss Thatcher, who looks somewhat like an Eskimo baby in her winter clothes, was shoveling snow with an elder sister for a companion when the camera man happened along and took her picture. She was pleased with the idea of being photographed and posed very prettily.

Paper Bag Frolics.

Busy mothers may discover in paper bags many possibilities for amusement and exercise for their children. They will prove a boon on many a stormy day. A small bag inflated and tightly tied makes an excellent air ball to be batted upward with the palm of the hand. When two or three boys and girls try to bat it before it falls to the floor there is plenty of excitement. The bag will stand a good deal of batting.

A larger bag filled with wool or pieces of soft woolen cloth and tied tightly serves well for an indoor football and will do no injury.

A paper bag the size of an ordinary punching bag can be stuffed, tied and hung in the doorway just low enough for a youngster to punch.

Paper bags of any and all sizes will give pleasure when the children want to play shop. Smoothed out paper bags can be used for kites and will amuse the little tots. The bags should be tied to the window sill outside and left to flutter against the panes.

Land of Wheelbarrows.

The wheelbarrow is the most common medium of transportation in Shantung, China. The load is balanced about the wheel so that the workman does not have to carry a portion of the load, as is the case with the American wheelbarrow. Some wheelbarrows have but one push man, some having a pulling man as well. Some have one, two and three donkeys to aid in the pulling, and some are equipped with a sail to obtain the help of favorable winds. The equipment depends on the load carried, the maximum load being about a ton.—Chicago Journal.

Aurora Borealis.

The aurora borealis is a combination of two Latin words meaning "northern dawn." In Great Britain it is seen as an arch of whitish green or rosy light in high northern latitudes during clear nights, especially in winter.

In the arctic regions it is a vivid mass of ribbon-like bands of light extending in irregular half circles, one above the other, from the horizon where the sun has set. As it disturbs delicate magnets, it is believed to be due to electric discharges controlled by the magnetic forces of the earth.

Texas is sometimes referred to as the Lone Star State. This is owing to the fact that for a brief period before the American civil war Texas was an independent state, and prominent on her national flag was one solitary star.

An Old Riddle.

Macaulay was charged with the following adroit riddle on "cod" and shook off the credit only by persistent denials:

Cut off my head, and singular I am;
Cut off my tail, and plural I appear;
Cut off my head and tail, and, wondrous fact,
Although my middle's left, there's nothing there.

What is my first? It is the sounding sea.
What is my last? It is a flowing river.
And in their mingling depths I wander free,
Parent of sweetest sounds, though mute forever.

Mollie met Muriel at the matinee one afternoon. They embraced enthusiastically.

"Oh, dearie," cried Mollie, "I'm so glad to see you! I have scarcely been able to wait until I could see you, to congratulate you on your engagement to Harold. Why didn't you give me a hint as to what you expected?"

"Why," replied Muriel, "I"—

"Now don't you dare to tell me," went on Mollie, "that you concealed it from me intentionally?"

"Why, I didn't, certainly," said Muriel. "I really didn't expect it myself quite so soon, dear."

"He is such a charming fellow," continued Mollie. "Weren't you just surprised to death when he proposed to you, dear?"

"Why, I can't say I was," replied Muriel. "Why should I have been?"

"Well," replied the dear friend, "everybody else was."—Lippincott's.

IMPORTANT LEGISLATION PASSED AT SESSION OF LEGISLATURE REVIEWED BY E. A. PECK M.L.A. BEFORE BOARD OF TRADE

Bills of Direct Help to This City Were Made Law

Many Clauses of Workmen's Compensation Act Are Explained

President Basil D. Hall presided over an interesting meeting of the Board of Trade last night, when in addition to the routine business, E. A. Peck, M. L. A., reviewed as far as time would permit, some of the important legislation enacted at the session of the Legislature just closed.

Thirty or more members were present.

Mr. Peck received enthusiastic applause as he rose to address the Board. He congratulated president and members on the progress already made.

The speaker first referred to several measures such as Woman Suffrage, Single Tax, Eight Hour Day, and others which have been brought forward at every session, but have not as yet met the favor of the House.

One hundred and forty acts had been adopted, he said, many of which were bills for special legislation for municipalities. There had been fifty-six public bills.

Liquor License Act.

The Liquor Act had been amended year after year and improvements made. At the past session, a measure had been passed, closing the hotels on Good Friday and further efforts to enforce the law relating to blacklisters had been made. A provision set forth that a person convicted of selling liquor to a blacklisted person, would himself be blacklisted.

Fire Marshal.

A bill providing for the appointment of a Fire Marshal was another good measure. The Fire Marshal when appointed will be assisted by deputies from different parts of the province, and the local fire chiefs will also assist. The Fire Marshal will have power to step in and investigate all fires, and efforts will be made to make conditions such as will prevent fire loss and accidents.

Fish and Game.

The speaker said in regard to the Fish and Game laws department, that a deputy minister would assist in administering this department. The resolution of the Board of Trade and the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association had been presented and he had been informed that the matter of a hatchery for the upper lakes was receiving consideration and an inspector was being sent to investigate. "My own opinion is," said Mr. Peck, "that we should most certainly have a hatchery for the replenishing of young fish."

Reward for Radium Fund.

Another bill provides for a reward of $25,000 to any person who discovers radium in the province of Ontario.

Election Contribution.

Contributions by corporations, licensees and public contractors, toward the nomination or election of representatives to the Legislature or any public office, is prohibited.

Radial Railways.

Public construction and operation of electric railways, was an important bill dealt with by the House, and in connection with this, the speaker announced that the Hon. Adam Beck would come to Peterboro at an early date and address the citizens in reference to this measure.

Peterboro Bill.

Mr. Peck dealt at some length with the provisions of the private bill passed in the interests of Peterboro. He referred to the initial steps taken by the city, what was asked for, and the reason of the application. It was explained that as the first bill passed in 1912 had been inadequate, it was found necessary to make a second application, which was also granted, and provision made for the city taking over the plant of the Peterboro Light and Power Company, so that the city might own and operate a municipal plant.

Protection for the company was provided by the city taking over all the existing contracts of the company, subject to the approval of the Hydro Electric Commission.

As for the future, Mr. Peck felt that the time would come when the Government would take over all the powers in this district and administer them for the benefit of the people. If power remained in the hands of private companies, high prices to the consumer were bound to continue. There were hopes that in the near future, all the powers of this district would be under the direction of the Ontario Power Commission.

The Health Act.

Mr. Peck also explained how the amendments to the Health Act cleared the ground considerably, for this city in the proposed sewage disposal plant, which will be continued into the township of Otonabee. Under the old act the right of entering the municipality was subject to the finding of a board of arbitration.

By the amended act, objections

TO REMOVE BODY

MONTREAL, May 13.—A sequel to the burial of L. Lafond, a Protestant farmer, who lived near St. Scholastique, Que., in unconsecrated ground connected with the Roman Catholic Cemetery there, at the request of some of his relatives and against the wishes of others, came yesterday when his brother, J. T. Lafond, laid the matter before the Montreal Presbytery.

The Presbytery decided to co-operate with Mr. Lafond in taking legal steps to secure the removal of the body to the Protestant Cemetery at Belle River, Que.

CLEAN UP DAY AT LINDSAY

Clean-up Day is considered essential in other towns, but not in Lindsay, chiefly because the citizens are not enthused over the idea.

Ald. Irvine—"We had one proclaimed last year, and I didn't see any person doing any cleaning up."

Mayor Beal—"All right; drop it."—Lindsay Warder.

A SOUVENIR WHICH IS A CREDIT TO THE CITY

The Electric City Seen by Photographs Makes Fine Showing

Peterboro now has a souvenir which is a credit to the city. The first copies have just been issued from the Review to Adjutant McElhiney, who with Bandsman Hensley, is to be congratulated on the initial success of their enterprise, for as one official of the city says, it is the first real souvenir.

Printed in four colors, and having one hundred illustrations and cuts on its forty pages, the souvenir commends itself to everyone. On the cover appears a crest of the city.

The illustrations are from photographs, which place Peterboro very prominently before the eye. Facts relating to the city came direct from the City Clerk.

Among the reproductions are Peterborough's Parliamentary representatives, City Council, Board of Trade, George Street, bird's eye view of the city, Victoria Park, Lift Lock, Nicholl's and St. Joseph's Hospitals, Normal School, Public Library, scenes from Little Lake Cemetery, Canadian General Electric Co., Quaker Oats Co., Peterboro Lock Works, De Laval Dairy Supply Co., Wm. Hamilton Co., Henry Hope Manufacturing Plant, Peterboro Canoe Co., Auburn Woollen Mills, Lundy Shovel and Tool Works, B. F. Ackerman, Son and Co., Matthews-Blackwell Co., J. J. Turner and Sons, Canadian Canoe Co., Peter Hamilton Co., Peterboro Creamery, Duffus Garage, City churches, Salvation Army Temple, Peterborough Protestant Home, Turnbull Co. departmental store, Richard Hall and Son, Neill Shoe store, Dominion Bank, Cressman Co., Ltd., Bank of Commerce, Bank of Montreal, Fire Station, Police Force, Hon. J. R. Stratton's residence, residence and grounds of G. Walter Green, residence of W. H. Bradburn, residence of W. G. Morrow, Burleigh Falls, Kawartha Lakes and Juniper Island, hunting scenes, regatta day at Stoney Lake, railway stations.

The price of the souvenir is 25 cents. Ten thousand copies will be taken to England by the Temple Band, and there sold and distributed in many of the important cities. In some of the cities the band will not visit, the souvenirs will be placed in the hands of responsible parties.

The city owes much to the adjutant and bandsman Hensley, who have given their time in the interests of the souvenir. The band will be doing splendid missionary work in the Old Country by distributing these books.

Montreal Man Wants Receiver for Mackenzie-Mann Concern

MONTREAL, May 13.—Acting on behalf of George L. Alexander, Montreal, Messrs. Beattie, Blackstock, Fasken, Cowan and Chadwick of Toronto filed an application in the Supreme Court of Ontario on Saturday asking for the winding up of the Northern Consolidated Holding Co., Ltd., whose capital stock is eight million dollars. The company was incorporated in 1903. Mackenzie and Mann own $4,400,000 of the stock of the company, which is the holder of the Canadian Northern Quebec Railway Co. stock. Sir William Mackenzie, Sir Donald Mann, D. B. Hanna and R. P. Ormstown will be subpoenaed to give evidence.

Mr. Alexander asks for the appointment of a liquidator of the company, alleging that it is insolvent, and demands a complete enquiry into the entire condition of the company and its accounts. He represents over one million dollars of the stock of the Northern Consolidated Holdings Co.

GET MORE DRY DOCKS BY INCREASED SUBSIDIES

Half of One Per Cent. Will Be Added to Present Grant Making it Four Per Cent. Per Annum—Debate is Waged Over Resolution of Minister of Justice to Provide Higher Salaries for Several Judges

OTTAWA, May 13.—With the object of giving additional encouragement to the construction of drydocks in Canada, Hon. Robert Rogers has given notice of the following proposed resolution: "That it is expedient to provide that the subsidy payable in respect of first-class drydocks under section 8 of the Drydocks Subsidies Act be increased from three and one-half per cent. to four per cent. per annum of the cost of the works as fixed under the act, during a period not exceeding 35 years."

When the act was passed in 1910 the interest for which the Government assumed responsibility was fixed at three per cent. Later on it was increased to three and one-half per cent, and it is now found necessary to make it four per cent. in order to encourage capitalists to put their money into Canadian drydock projects.

"Ninety per cent. of the judges in Canada receive more in the way of salary from the Government than they could possibly earn by practicing law, and many of them take the first opportunity to retire and draw a magnificent salary for doing nothing at all." Thus declared Major Geo. W. Fowler (Con., Kings and Albert) in the House yesterday afternoon, speaking in opposition to a resolution presented by the Minister of Justice providing for an additional superior court judge in the Province of Quebec, and an increase in salary from $5,000 to $7,000 per year in the case of certain judges in the district of Montreal. Major Fowler further declared that the Minister was discriminating in favor of his own province. If judicial salaries were to be increased, the increase should apply to every province in the Dominion.

A. A. McLean (Con., Queens, P.E.I.) agreed in part with Major Fowler. He said that in New Brunswick there was one judge for every 50,000 people; in Nova Scotia, one judge for every 60,000, while in Alberta there was one judge for every 30,000.

Mr. Carroll (Lib., S. Cape Breton) insisted that our judges were underpaid, especially in the Province of Nova Scotia. Many men on the bench, he said, were serving for $4,000 or $5,000 a year who could make $10,000 or $15,000 at their profession.

Judge MacKenzie (Cape Breton) and Mr. McCurdy (Queens and Shelburne) supported more pay for the judges, and Mr. Morphy (North Perth) suggested that we should have fewer judges and higher salaries.

Judge Doherty said there were anomalies and inequalities in the matter of the salaries of our judges which ought to be corrected, and personally he would favor an upward revision. It was not feasible at this time, however, to undertake the task.

The Canadian Northern resolution will be presented to the House this afternoon by the Premier. It is expected that Mr. Borden will quite fully explain the agreement between the Government and the company, and the general railway policy of the Government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier no doubt will follow the Premier, but it is not anticipated that he will formally announce the policy of the Opposition until the second reading of the bill.

DETAILS WILL BE MADE KNOWN AT THE BANQUET

Plans to Beautify Peterboro Endorsed by the Aldermen

The announcement in last night's paper that a committee has been at work for several months completing a big plan for properly advertising the splendid natural advantages of Peterboro and increasing the pride of our citizens in our city, has attracted considerable attention. Many citizens are wondering what the details of the plan are. The committee, however, desires that these shall be kept quiet until next Friday evening, when they will be made public at the Citizen's Banquet to be held in the Oriental Hotel, starting at half past six. City Engineer Parsons has volunteered to prepare a large map of the city, by means of which it will be possible to show more clearly the details of the project and how it affects all the wards of the city.

Those who have had the privilege of seeing the plans are enthusiastic concerning them. Mayor Buller has promised his hearty co-operation and support. City Clerk Armstrong, who has had more experience, and done more, than any other man in Peterboro to bring industries to the city, believes the movement is going to be a fine thing for Peterboro. Speaking about it, he said, "A somewhat similar proposal was discussed some seven years ago, and heartily approved at that time, but the matter was allowed to drop. Had we only gone ahead with it, the city would have been much better prepared than it is to greet the Duke of Connaught. It is a big scheme, and it is going to take years to work it out, but there is no reason why the citizens of Peterboro can't do it."

Alderman Anderson, Chairman of the Civic Finance Committee, is another who is pleased. "Members of the committee," said Mr. Anderson, "outlined the plans to me a couple of months ago. The plans were so comprehensive, and promised to accomplish so much good, the finance committee, in spite of our shortage of funds, felt perfectly justified in giving the Horticultural Society a larger grant this year than usual, to help them carry their proposal through. When the citizens see the plans I feel that we were wise in doing as we did."

Ex-Mayor Rush said: "This movement is going to be a fine thing for the city. I am delighted with it. The committee has showed me two ways in which I can help and it has given me pleasure to agree to do my part by doing both. I feel sure that the rest of our citizens will help out also."

Ald. Duffus is another who is pleased. "When I was called on and showed what is proposed, I saw at once that it was going to be a good thing for the city, and gladly agreed to do what I was asked to do to help this project through and we should all give it a hand.

Tickets for the banquet are being handled by the officers of the Board of Trade. Horticultural Society and Ad. Club. As only a limited number can be disposed of, owing to lack of seating capacity in the dining hall, citizens who intend to attend should make applications for tickets without delay.

HOME RULER BEATEN

Unionist Candidate Has Reduced Majority in Grimsby

LONDON, May 13.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—T. C. Tickler, Unionist, was elected to Parliament in the Grimsby bye-election yesterday over A. Bannister, Liberal, by a vote of 8,471 to 8,193, or a majority of 278.

The vacancy occurred through the death of Sir George Doughty who was returned in the Unionist interests at the last general election by a majority of 698. In 1910, 15,108 votes were recorded. Yesterday's poll therefore shows an increase of 1,556.

While the Unionist party had confined its platform almost exclusively to the Irish situation the contest cannot rightly be regarded as a decision on Home Rule. In his final appeal Monday night Mr. Bannister pointed out that the "miners have their member, the railwaymen have theirs, why should not the fishermen also be represented at Westminster?" and it is no exaggeration to say that the fishing industry has played an all-important part in the election.

BUILDING PERMITS

Twenty-two building permits issued since Monday noon amount to over $32,00. W. H. Baker took out building permits for seventeen dwellings at a cost of $1400 each.

Other permits were:

Mrs. M. C. Hamilton, dwelling, Stewart Street, $3500.

W. Beattie, alterations, Concession Street, $25.

W. J. Koster, two dwellings, Chamberlain Street, $700 each.

P. Bottum, dwelling, Lake Street, $1500.

F. C. McNulty, dwelling, Hunter Street, $600.

ARMY AIRMEN ARE KILLED

Two British Biplanes Collide in Mid-Air at Aldershot

LONDON, May 13.—Two army airmen, Capt. F. D. Anderson and a mechanic named Carter, were instantly killed, and Lieut. C. W. Wilson was gravely injured when two biplanes collided in the air at Aldershot last evening.

The biplanes were manoeuvring over a crowd of 800 spectators when they suddenly dashed into one another and crashed to the ground. Both machines were destroyed.

Captain Anderson piloted one of the aeroplanes, and the other one was being manipulated by Lieut. Wilson, who escaped death. Capt. Anderson and Carter were dead when the crowd reached the wrecked planes. Both machines were practically demolished. The machines were going at high speed when they came together. This is the second fatal collision of planes in the air this year.

Since Jan. 1, there have been 38 aeroplane fatalities, with a death list of 52.

RAILWAY PROBE

Affairs of Southampton Line in N. B. Under Scrutiny

FREDERICTON, N.B., May 13.—R. A. Pringle, K.C., appointed by the Dominion Government to investigate the cost of the Southampton Railway, which matter came up in the Dominion Parliament in March, opened his court here yesterday, and, after calling on the company's counsel to produce certain documents, adjourned till July 7.

In opening the inquiry, Mr. Pringle said it came as a result of a speech in Parliament by F. B. Carvell, on March 9, in which he said a great wrong had been done. This was followed by a speech by Hon. H. F. McLeod, in which he said there were padded items in the accounts.

REDMOND WILL NOT PROMISE TO SUPPORT ASQUITH IN COMPROMISE

Speech of Nationalist Leader, in Which He Refuses to Commit Followers to Make Any Concessions to Unionists, Causes a Sensation in Britain—Carson Wires Ulstermen to Redouble Their Efforts.

LONDON, May 13.—The speech of John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, yesterday afternoon, in which he declared that he and his followers would not commit themselves to support Premier Asquith in a compromise on the Home Rule bill, has created a sensation in political circles, but opinions differ as to its practical effect. The present position is that the Home Rule bill will be sent to the Lords before Whitsun, the House of Commons having last night voted Premier Asquith's proposals for hastening the remaining stages of the bill. Then if no agreement is reached with the Opposition, Mr. Asquith will introduce an amending bill, enabling the Ulster counties to vote themselves out of the Home Rule bill for six years.

While some interpret Mr. Redmond's speech as a warning to the Government against further concessions to the Unionists, others interpret it as a warning to Ulster that once the Home Rule bill is on the statute books, any further concessions can only be had by consent of the Nationalists.

Premier Asquith pledged the Government to introduce an amending bill to the Home Rule for Ireland measure in the hope of it being passed by agreement between the parties. If this offer is accepted, he said, both the original Home Rule bill and the amending bill will become law practically simultaneously. This, he contended, was the only proper way of carrying out any agreed settlement which might be reached.

The Prime Minister added that obviously in order to take advantage of the provisions of the Parliament Act no change could be made in the Home Rule for Ireland bill while it was in the committee stage, and therefore any debate during that stage would be pure waste of time.

Mr. Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, who bitterly criticized the "gag" methods proposed by Mr. Asquith and accused him of failing to redeem his pledges to reconstitute the House of Lords, said he was unable to share the Premier's optimism regarding the possibility of a settlement.

The crux of the situation, Mr. Law said, lay between Premier Asquith and John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, as under the Government's system the House of Commons was powerless.

Sir Edward Carson Monday night declared that the Nationalist leader's outburst makes no difference to the Ulstermen's attitude. "Redmond may repudiate as much as he likes; I am as determined in my opposition as I was before. The only result is that I have to-night telegraphed to Belfast as follows: 'Redouble your efforts.' I have had no offers from the Government, save the offer that has been made in the House of Commons, and that amounts to nothing. We are just going to keep our powder dry and prepare for war."

COMMANDER EVANS HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR CANADA

A Chat With the Second in Command of South Pole Expedition

A man rather small in stature, but hard as steel, possessing a calm, fearless face with a merry smiling eye, sat in the rotunda of the Oriental Hotel this morning joking merrily with friends. He was Commander Evans, second in command of the ill-fated Scott polar expedition. Most people would expect to confront a veritable giant if looking for a man who had endured unknown hardships in the polar regions, but evidently it is nerve and determination and not bulk which qualifies one for such ordeals.

Commander Evans when speaking with a Review reporter, impressed the reporter as one alert to all about him. His disposition was always jovial, except when he touched on the points concerning the death of his brave leader. The commander when asked if any special pleasure was derived from the expeditions, stated that it was always a pleasure to eat, as the men in the party were generally very hungry when eating time arrived.

"I went to the polar regions to gain knowledge in magnetics," he added.

He paid a tribute to Dr. Wright, of Toronto, who was a member of the party, stating that he possessed the tact necessary to qualify a man for such a trip. "He was a splendid fellow."

Commander Evans went ahead of Scott and arranged the past 100 miles from the pole, which was used by Scott in his final dash for the pole. He then returned back 300 miles. "I shall never [illegible] our parting previous to [illegible] for the pole. When I [illegible] farewell to him little [illegible] think that the farewell would [illegible] last word he or his brave party would speak to anyone other than themselves," he said.

"On my way back I was overcome with scurvy, and finally was forced to go to bed, or rather lie down in a tent on a few bags. My only mate was Lashy, the other brave fellow, named Crean, leaving as to seek aid. Three days we waited and had almost given up hope when we heard the dogs. We had been saved."

The commander cannot remember what happened after that. He had another fight ahead of him. He was to fight the scurvy and he did it successfully, going to England to build himself up for another dash into the frozen regions to meet his friend Scott—a meeting which did not take place.

Praises Canada.

Commander Evans is high in his praise of Canada. He was greatly impressed with the west and also the hospitality extended him throughout his tour. "It was not so cold in the west when I visited there six weeks ago. Perhaps I did not notice it because sometimes you know it is 77 degrees below zero in the southern polar regions," he said.

Commenting on the controversy between Shackleton and Koenig, the Austrian explorer, who claims that Shackleton is encroaching on his base location, Commander Evans stated that Sir Ernest Shackleton would not alter his plans as he was a man of great determination and a fine fellow.

Peterboro is the last Canadian city the explorer will lecture in, his engagement at the Conservatory of Music to-night concluding his tour. He will leave here to-morrow for New York, where he will lecture in Brooklyn, after which he will return to England to enter the navy again, as his leave of absence has expired.

He would not commit himself on the Home Rule question, and also added that he could not say whether he would take an expedition to the antarctic regions, as his plans had not been made for the future.

This afternoon he visited the Peterboro Golf Club and enjoyed himself on the links for a few hours.

The Review reporter suggested that he remain over and take in the baseball game to-morrow, and he stated he would dearly like to, but his engagement in Brooklyn would force him to say farewell to Peterboro to-morrow evening.

POLICE COURT

Young Girl is Sent to the Mercer for One Year

"You have no moral strength. You are not trustworthy, and have deceived your father. My best and wisest course in accordance with my duty is to sentence you to the Mercer for one year. There, you will not be tempted with evil influences. I don't know if this meets with the approval of your father, but it is my judgment."

These were the words of Magistrate Dumble in dealing this morning with a seventeen-year-old girl, charged with being a common prostitute.

Plea of Guilty.

Two juveniles who ransacked T. B. Manleec's store on Sunday evening appeared before the Magistrate. They pleaded guilty to the charge, and the case was enlarged until next Wednesday.

Rode on Sidewalk.

Harry French, charged with riding on the sidewalks, was assessed the usual $2.

HATCHING WILD PIGEON EGGS

GALT, May 13.—Clifford Hunter, Preston, the other day secured a nest of wild pigeon eggs near Roseville, transported them home safely, and is having a tame pigeon hatch them. Mr. Hunter declares that the belief in the extinction of the wild pigeon in Canada is erroneous, for he knows the haunts of the birds.

New Type of Steel Car.

TORONTO, May 13—The Canadian Pacific Railway is to adopt a type of steel car that is being especially designed for that railway. The roof of the car has been made in the form of a compromise between the clerestory and the turtle back types.

WORKING ON COALITION

PEACE ENVOYS WILL TRY TO FIX UP FEDERAL-CARRANZA GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Elimination of Gen. Huerta and the establishment of a provisional government in Mexico, in which both the Huerta and the Constitutionalist factions would be represented, is contemplated in a plan which the three South American mediators are now working out to be proposed for the solution of the entire Mexican problem.

This, the first intimation as to the details of the mediation plans, became known last night, though neither the mediators nor State Department officials would make any statement as to how nearly complete is the plan to be submitted to the American and the Mexican delegates when they meet the South American envoys at Niagara Falls, Ont., next Monday.

It was learned that the proposal might be that the setting up of a temporary government be undertaken by a commission composed of five persons, two of them to be named by Huerta, two by the Constitutionalists and the fifth by the mediators.

While the mediators have withdrawn their invitation to the Constitutionalists to send delegates to their conference, it is generally believed that information is being sought as to whether the Constitutionalists would consent, in case of the elimination of Huerta, to some form of temporary government in which he would be represented. Those close to the mediators say it is believed that some such arrangement as this is the only possible one under which peace may be restored in Mexico under conditions satisfactory to all Mexican factions and to the United States.

Vice-Consul Released.

MEXICO CITY, May 13.—Acting Foreign Minister Ruiz yesterday telegraphed the South American mediators at Washington that American Vice-Consul Stilliman, under arrest at Saltillo, charged with aiding the rebels, had been ordered sent to Mexico City under guard, to be delivered to the Brazilian Minister for return to the United States.

HONOR FOR SIR WILFRID

HE AND LADY LAURIER CELEBRATE 46th ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

OTTAWA, May 13.—Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier will celebrate today the forty-sixth anniversary of their marriage. The Liberals of Parliament will present their felicitations to their chief and to his "chief adviser" in the form of forty-six of the most beautiful roses that the Capital can provide.

The married life of the Liberal leader and of his helpmate, through nearly half a century, has been an ideal one. On May 13, 1868, Wilfrid Laurier, then a struggling barrister of Arthabaskaville, married Miss Zoe Lafontaine of Montreal. Sir Wilfrid has since often borne eloquent testimony to the constant help she has ever been to him in every step of his career up to the highest place in the land.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1914

COL. SAM HUGHES' SPEECH.

THE SPEECH of Colonel, the Honourable Sam Hughes was an able defence of expenditure for the Canadian Militia. The Militia of Canada has been regarded in the past by a large number of people as something almost unnecessary, but which at the same time cannot be dispensed with. In other words, they have tolerated the Militia without seriously considering whether it is necessary or what its advantages are. In bringing the Militia estimates before the House, the minister made clear the policy of his department.

In the first place he stated in accordance with his practice on two previous occasions, that he had sent every member of the House a detailed explanation of the estimates for the Militia. Thus, the House had an opportunity of considering the expenditure for military purposes before the minister made his speech regarding them.

In opening his address, he referred to the Century of Peace which is soon to be completed between Canada and the United States, but he contrasted with the platitudes about peace at the present time, the prevalence of war that has chequered the history of the last hundred years. But not only for the last century has war been a prominent feature of history. The present century during which the peace propaganda has taken such large proportions has had its wars aplenty. The South African War, The Philippine War, the Cuban War, the Russo-Japanese War, the Turko-Italian War, the Moroccan-French War, the Balkan War and the Wars in China, these are not all, but perhaps the most important conflicts and they show that in spite of all the safeguards for peace, the twentieth century has witnessed war in some part of the world for nearly every year since it begun. Even in the present American-Mexican situation a peace organization in the United States, wired President Wilson that their organization was not a "peace at any price" kind, and that if he declared war they were "in favor of it." In the light of these facts, Canada was not in a position to have perpetual peace, and national defence should be put on a substantial basis. The minister quoted the following words of the late W. T. Stead:—

> "When a nation shall have reached the point where every citizen feels it his duty and privilege to be trained for the defence of the fatherland, it will become a greater a saner and more efficient people."

The minister asserted that law and order depended on power, that power depended on an army, that an army must be disciplined, which requires training, and this involves taxation for the maintenance of the Militia force. Colonel Hughes pointed out that his aim was not war and asserted that the soldier is never in favor of war, but that war was the work of speculators and capitalists. In regard to the war in Mexico he stated:—

> "It is supposed to be two commercial institutions that are struggling for mastery in that country today. The funds for carrying on the war in Mexico are furnished by large industrial institutions in certain other countries of the world."

His plan in which he was supported by many speeches by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was to build up the youth and beauty of the country in manhood physically, mentally, morally, as well as spiritually. He recalled the speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the contest for the Palma trophy, when the present leader of the opposition said that every man should be furnished with a rifle, a horse and a saddle, that he should be able to shoot straight, and should be trained in manoeuvring, and also have the advantages of rifle ranges. The upbuilding of the Militia of the country was the aim of the department of Militia and Defence.

But the department also included in its programme a plan for organizing or systematizing cadet corps throughout the Dominion. Last year, 44,680 cadets were drilled, equipped and inspected of which some 30,000 were over sixteen years of age. Colonel Hughes pointed out that many of the men who fought at Alma and Waterloo were sixteen years of age and upwards and they made good soldiers. Besides, during the last year 12,000 teachers have been trained to enable them to instruct classes in squad drill. Since the present minister assumed office, 17,000 officers and teachers in Canada have been given cadet certificates. Since Confederation, less than $5,000,000 have been spent on the Canadian Militia, and the large number of applications for drill halls throughout Canada would necessitate an increasing expenditure if the Militia was to be properly organized and efficiently instructed.

While some have criticized the cost of drill halls, Colonel Hughes pointed out that money squandered on the Newmarket Canal, the expenditure upon useless dredging, useless wharfs and useless breakwaters, would have built at least, 1500 drill halls, and his plan for this year embraced the construction of only fifty drill halls. Besides the department included in its programme, military instruction and physical drill in the Universities of Canada. The department were, however, just following in the line of public-spirited citizens who had made grants to some Universities to provide military training. Lord Strathcona, before his death, had given nearly $100,000 to purchase a site for a drill hall, adjacent to McGill University. Very recently, Colonel Leonard has presented ground to Queen's University at an expenditure of $600,000 for the purpose of a drill hall and residence buildings for that institution.

Ever since Confederation, Canada has been spending money on the Militia. Colonel Hughes plans to continue the policy on a scale of sufficient comprehension to put the Militia on a substantial and proper basis. The reason for following such a policy was well set forth by the Honourable Minister's following statement:—

> "In olden times home training fitted men for the army. Today it does not. In olden times every boy could handle the quarter-staff and the single stick. Today the service is very different; the sword is no more used, but the long-range rifle in the hands of the straight shooter is what counts. We must have the militia spirit if we want to have a proper militia system, because we could not, in a country such as Canada, afford to maintain a large standing army."

SHOULD INVESTIGATE THIS COMPANY.

THE POSITION OF the Honourable W. T. White, Minister of Finance, on the bill to grant Dominion Incorporation to the Prudential Life Insurance Company, shows that the Government is going to investigate carefully, the chartering of any financial institution before granting it the seal of approval. When the application was made for a charter for the Farmers' Bank, the Liberal Government approved of the institution in spite of various warnings from high authorities as to the unsoundness of the venture.

It seems that there has been a good deal of adverse criticism of the Prudential Life Company of late, and for this reason Mr. Guthrie thought that the Finance Minister should look into the affairs of the company very carefully before any license was issued. Mr. White admitted that the request of Mr. Guthrie was only reasonable and stated that he had no knowledge whatever as to the standing of the Company, because it has not hitherto had Dominion Incorporation. Mr. White inserted in Hansard a letter which he directed to the Superintendent of Insurance, stating along what lines the report of the Prudential Life should be made, and it must show a wholly unimpaired capital of at least $100,000.

However, he said that he thought it only fair to this company to say that in his judgment nothing was established against it before the committee of Banking and Commerce. The Committee was not in a position to pass upon the financial strength of the Company. If the Company could satisfy the requirements of the Superintendent of Insurance, it will likely receive Dominion Incorporation. Up to the present time it has operated under the laws of Manitoba, in which province it obtained its incorporation. Not being incorporated under the Dominion of Canada it was not necessary to comply with Dominion regulations, nor to submit reports to the Insurance Department. The government should thoroughly satisfy itself that the Prudential Life is a sound institution. Weak insurance companies prey on the savings of the common people, as much perhaps as unsound banks, and the people are entitled to protection from insurance exploitation as much as they are from wild cat banks.

There is a good deal of confusion in the public mind over the fact that the Prudential Insurance Company of America with headquarters in Newark, N. J., is an entirely different concern from the Prudential Life Insurance Company of Winnipeg. Speaking with the local agency of the former company we were informed that it is incorporated under a Dominion charter and that it has a three per cent. basis for its reserve when most other companys have a three and a half per cent. basis. Objection can be taken to the new company seeking incorporation in that the name leads to confusion and would apparently indicate that trading on a good name was contemplated. However it is hoped that the authorities at Ottawa will safe guard every legitimate interest in considering the bill at present before the House.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE ADDRESS of Mr. E. A. Peck, M.L.A., at the Board of Trade yesterday evening, was an exceptionally instructive one. He explained in his usual clear manner, the important legislation of the Ontario House and also that which affected the city. The important Workmen's Compensation Act was well explained, and altogether the address showed that Mr. Peck had assiduously attended to his duties in the Legislature, as well as securing important legislation for the City of Peterborough.

In Montreal Prisoners Shoot the Policeman.

Montreal Gazette.

Dr. Bruce Smith, Government inspector, condemns conditions in the Toronto jail as being disgraceful, chiefly on account of the overcrowding. The city in reply places the blame for the overcrowding on the Government, which fails to remove prisoners from the institutions to the Central Prison quickly enough. There may be a question as to who is responsible for the evil, but it cannot be denied that sinners are entering the cells at a great rate. The city's defence proves that. There must be an awful number of wicked among the visitors to Toronto. It cannot be that the prisoners are genuine residents of the good city.

Too Much Legislation.

Daily Journal of Commerce.

The Ontario Legislature has just prorogued after having crystalized into legislation one hundred and forty acts. These cover practically every range of subject coming under the jurisdiction of the Province and, while doubtless many of the measures passed were needed, the ordinary business man looks upon the lengthy legislative menu with an uneasy feeling.

An examination of the acts passed by the Ontario Legislature at the recent session shows a very large percentage of amendments to existing laws. This is true of all legislatures. As a matter of fact, some of the bills have been so amended that the men who fathered them through the legislature are hardly able to recognize them in their present form. Another objection to the scores of new laws added yearly to our already long list is that it makes more work for the lawyers. Instead of being crystalized into clear, concise business phraseology, laws are oftentimes made as ambiguous and technical as legal phraseology can make them. This is largely the result of lawyers' work, and it requires other lawyers to unravel them. Perhaps some day we will have fewer laws and fewer law makers—a sort of Golden Age.

THE RAIN

By Walt Mason

The clouds are banked up overhead, the thunder rips and roars; the lightning hits old Jimpson's shed, and now the torrent pours. The crazy hens get wet and mad, the ducks rejoice and quack; the patient cow looks pretty sad, and humps her bony back; the hired man, driven from the field, for shelter swiftly hies; old Pluvius can surely wield the faucet when he tries. In half an hour the rain is done, the growling thunder stops, and once again the good old sun is warming up the crops. In half an hour more good is wrought to every human cause, than all our statesmen ever brought by passing helpful laws. Old Pluvius sends down the juice, when he's blown off the foam, and once again high hangs the goose in every happy home. Not all the armies of the earth, nor fleets that sail the main, can bring us prizes which are worth a half hour's honest rain. No prophet with his tongue or pen, no poet with his lyre, can, like the rain, bring joy to men, or answer their desire. The sunflowers have new lease of life, the johnnie-jumpups jump. Now I must go and help my wife to prime the cistern pump.

Birthdays of Note

WEDNESDAY, MAY THIRTEENTH

To-day marks the fifty-sixth birthday of the Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, one of the ablest lawyers in Canada. He was born in Woodstock, Ontario, and was called to the bar in 1881. After attaining the highest rank among the lawyers of Toronto, he was induced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1903 to take a seat on the Supreme Court Bench at Ottawa. He only remained there for two years, however, preferring to practise rather than to deliver judgments. Since then he has been a consulting counsel. Always keen and quite self-possessed, he has distinguished himself in many cases. An amusing incident occurred in 1909 when he appeared before the judicial committee of the Privy Council in the famous Steel and Coal Case. The Dominion Iron and Steel Co. had also engaged Sir Robert Finlay to argue their side. The latter was delivering his argument but was interrupted time and again by his colleague, who threw in explanatory remarks. At last one of the law lords became annoyed at the frequency with which Mr. Nesbitt chimed in and said to Sir Robert, "It would greatly facilitate the hearing of this case if you could manage to keep your junior quiet." It is said that Mr. Nesbitt remained silent after that for about an hour.

Also born to-day:—

Professor A. T. DeLury, University of Toronto, born at Manilla, Ont., 1864.

Lieut.-Col. John Bruce, Toronto, born at Beaverton, 1851.

A man may be as old as he feels, but a woman is generally older than she thinks she looks.

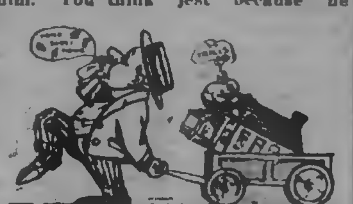
THESE are good days to be happy in. If you own your own home you should warble fer joy jest like Robin Redbreast. If you're findin' the payments and the taxes too heavy fer ye, warble anyway. Be thankful you've got only one house on your hands.

When you hear Mr. Robin whistlin' at dawn or dusk it's a pretty sure indication that his house-buildin' trials are over. You're liable to envy him. You think jest because he whistles his happy leetle song that he hasn't a care in the world. But there you are wrong. He has, lots of 'em. A windstorm may blow his house inter the middle o' next week, lightnin' may strike his tree, rain may drown his young.



But Mr. Robin isn't goin' to worry over possibilities; he's ready to meet troubles when they come. When you and me are worryin' over our house-paintin' bills, our plumbin' bills, our lawn-gradin' bills, etc., Robin is swellin' out his chest and whistlin. Suppose you try bein' a robin?

An Object Lesson For Rent Payers

In Sept., 1909, a wise man with nice family, who was paying rent accepted my advice to buy a home on my easy payment plan. He has been a most satisfactory customer and will have his home paid for within two years, at which time it will be worth very close on $1,000. How can rent payers close their eyes to such an opportunity? Come in at once and learn how easy it will be for you to own your home instead of continuing to pay rent. You can have a garden any size desired at small cost.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

WHEN JUNE ARRIVES.

Here is a sketch of a wedding dress that was made for a metropolitan belle who is to be married soon after Easter. It is of the usual heavy satin and Venice lace in one of the simple designs that are always more effective for such occasions. The veil is silk net, made with a little separate cap, both veil and cap edged with an applique of princess lace. The sheerness of the net makes it most attractive, while an edging of Val lace would be quite as effective. White satin buttoned boots show beneath the lace veiled slash of the skirt.

It Certainly Was Embarrassing

to David Kerr, boss of Belmont, when his charming, motherless daughter Gloria unexpectedly returned from school and a European trip, which, combined, had kept her away from home for many years and deprived her of all knowledge of the occupation of her father, whom she supposed to be a real estate operator, high in society. But that was but the beginning of embarrassments. Kerr was a typical boss of the most brutal type, far removed from "society," determined to use his power to make a place for Gloria. Gloria's bitter awakening to the truth, her falling in love with a young editor who opposes her father, and many other incidents make up a drama of absorbing interest and power. You will enjoy every instalment of our next serial in which the above is told,

MONK'S REPARTEE.

Ex-Member For Jacques Cartier Has a Biting Wit.

The retirement of Hon. F. D. Monk from Parliament leaves a distinct gap in the public life of Canada. From the year 1896 he represented the County of Jacques Cartier in the House of Commons, and no more courtly or kindly man ever sat in the green chamber. A student, orator famed for his skill in drafting legislation, a man of strong and high principles, he filled a niche in Parliament distinctly his own. As a fighter in the Opposition days of the Conservative party—those lean years stretching from 1896 to 1911—he quickly won his spurs, and when the Borden administration came into office on Oct. 10, 1911, Frederick Debartzch Monk was chosen to carry the heavy portfolio of Public Works. From the very day he stepped into the office formerly filled by Hon. William Pugsley, he was plunged into the fog of patronage. The job-hunters made his life miserable. They camped in droves outside his office, followed him on cars, accosted him in the streets, waylaid him on his doorstep, in fact worried him to death. Many a good story is told of the attitude of Mr. Monk towards these importunates. On one occasion a man rang him up at one o'clock in the morning asking for a position. Mr. Monk told him to come round to the office the following morning. Sure enough the man was one of the throng outside the Minister's room in the Public Works Department, before nine o'clock. All the morning he waited, and when Mr. Monk came out at noon to attend a meeting of council the man tackled him.

"What is your occupation?" asked the Minister, kindly.

"I am a waiter, sir," rejoined the job-hunter.

"Then you will have an excellent opportunity of showing your proficiency," was the prompt reply, as Mr Monk strode council-wards.

Mr. Monk's somewhat ponderous style of oratory in both English and French, was enlivened by many flashes of wit and repartee. On one occasion in Opposition days, while making an attacking speech, he stumbled in the gangway, and came within an ace of falling. One of the rank and file of the then Government party, who is out of public life at the present time, and whose private life was supposed popularly to be not above suspicion, jeered and laughed as the man from Jacques Cartier just saved himself from falling. "You see, Mr. Speaker," put in Mr. Monk, "the difference between me and my honorable friend is this: my lapses are physical ones." And a roar of laughter went up from both sides of the House, much to the discomfiture of the jeerer.

In the House, after he became Minister of Public Works, Mr. Monk bore his share of the criticism for dismissals. On one occasion he was accused of dismissing a laborer who had only one leg.

"What was this man with the wooden leg dismissed for?" put in George Kyte of Richmond.

"I suppose my honorable friend will admit that he must have been guilty of 'stumping,'" retorted Monk, amid a peal of laughter.

At a campaign meeting at Three Rivers in the campaign of 1904 Mr. Monk, and Hon. L. P. Pelletier, now the Postmaster-General, were the chief speakers. One man on the fringe of the crowd, in order to embarrass Mr. Monk, kept yelling out "louder, louder." Now Monk's stentorian tones could be heard blocks away, and the audience began to be amused at the yells of the heckler. Mr. Monk paused in his speech and told the audience of how Sir John A. Macdonald had once been interrupted in a similar manner. Sir John had said: "I really believe when on the Day of Judgment the angel Gabriel blows his horn, some fool will cry out 'louder, louder'." The little story was inimitably told in French, and the next thing seen of the heckler he was being lugged down the main street by several loyal and youthful adherents of the Monk Club.

Umbrella Etiquette In Turkey.

In China ladies are attended by servants who hold umbrellas over their heads. The Chinese and Japanese introduce both the umbrella and parasol into their decorative work and athletic sports. In western Turkey it is necessary to close an umbrella on meeting people of high rank and a European traveler who was passing one of the palaces of the Sultan was nearly run through by the guard before he comprehended that he must put down the open umbrella he carried. Every one passing the actual residence of a sultan lowers his umbrella as a salutation to "the brother of the sun and the moon."

Correct Table Service.

The inestimable value and comfort of having the home table correctly served cannot be overestimated, as the refined home, where breakfast, luncheon and dinner are pleasant social occasions and where the maid is taught to serve deftly and noiselessly, need never fear the event of extra guests to luncheon or dinner, owing to the fact that the routine will vary but slightly from that to which the maid is accustomed.

"One does not grow old at table," is a favorite saying in Italy, and almost as important as the food is the way in which it is served and presented to us. Unfortunately many housewives think that with but the services of one general maid, who perforce is both cook and waitress, a perfect table is denied them and, unless she is already drilled in this most important branch of her work, expect but little else save the bringing in of the dinner and the changing of the plates between courses.

Simplicity in home menus as well as in more formal functions is now being adopted by even the most successful hostesses, and the dinner or luncheon of three or four courses, each perfect in itself and correctly served, is infinitely to be preferred to a more elaborate repast, carelessly cooked and presented.

The Motorcar.

Elegance has extended to the motorcar, and the smart woman spares no trouble to turn her automobile into a miniature boudoir or, as some cynics call it, dressing room. A very well known artist has been so busy for the last few weeks with commissions for painting the panels of motorcars that he has been obliged to refuse orders.

Some of the splendid new touring cars have their panels decorated with hand painted pictures representing favorite scenes or figure subjects recalling the days when Watteau and Fragonard were popular.

Inside the whole auto is lined with shot moire silk, and seats are on gilded swivels so that they may be turned in any direction. Small racks contain bottles of perfume, powder boxes in beaten silver gilt or in inlaid shell and the necessary stick of lip salve in a round receptacle of the same shell or metal.

A row of shelves is filled with the last thing in novels, and a neat writing desk is fitted so that letters may be dealt with en route.

The Hat and the Expression.

"Wearing the hat slightly to one side a very becoming to some faces—those with a dash of fun and coquetry in their expression," remarked an observing woman. "Gainsborough's famous 'Duchess of Devonshire' is an instance. But the present fashion of wearing the hat so one sided that part of the narrow brim points to the zenith, while its opposite side rests upon the shoulder, is likely to be grotesque rather than picturesque, especially when the wearer has an air of solemn gloom as her natural expression, as many of us have. A clever woman once wrote, 'Never cry in a rose colored hat.' The greater includes the less. 'Never look glum in a one sided hat.' Though it is a fashion of the hour to wear it so, no one need do it. The middle aged person frequently wears a look of anxious severity that sometimes amounts to scowling. It means short sight or a fear of looking too amiable, that is all, but to unite this fearsome expression with a hat standing on its own brim is to make a sartorial mistake of the first order."

Announce Names Distinctly.

It would be amusing were it not vexatious to note how seldom one hears a name clearly pronounced on introduction. A mumble, where only the word Miss or Mr. is clearly understood, and more often than not it is quite impossible to say whether one has been introduced to Mrs. or Miss. It is always embarrassing to any one to talk to a person of whose name one is in doubt, and few persons have the courage to ask to have it repeated.

While a loud voice is not proper or correct, the name should be distinctly pronounced or mistakes in addressing the person are very apt to cause embarrassment and often misunderstandings easily avoided if the names are known.

Very simple are the rules for making introductions by a host or hostess, as men are always presented to women, younger to the older, unmarried women to married, and only in the event of the guest of honor being a distinguished man are ladies presented to him.

Drinking Healths.

Since grape juice has become the fashion and temperance healths are drunk it is convenient to know just what is the etiquette of health drinking. When the health of a guest of honor is proposed every one rises, including the honor guest, and all drink. In responding one may just say, "I thank you and my kind host and hostess and beg you to join me in drinking to their very good health and happiness." This at once brings about another response and relieves the honor guest, who joins in drinking the toast.

A guest at a dinner party never "drinks alone." All drink whenever a toast is proposed to any one present or absent.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS.

Good Literature Is a Powerful Moulder of Character.

There are three stages in the literary career of a child. He must first have stories told to him. After a while he will enjoy having stories read to him; and, later still, he will take delight in reading for himself. It is a fine art, to be able to tell a children's story well, and one that every parent should practice and delight in.

The best stories never grow old, and they are just as interesting to a grown-up person as they are to a child—at least they are if you add to the natural charm of the story the glee that the child manifests in the fact of your sharing it with him. The parent who would master the fine art of story-telling for children should purchase Sara C. Bryant's little book, "How to Tell Stories to Children." In addition to a most valuable treatise on the story-telling art, this little volume contains a considerable number of excellent stories for small children, and also much information about juvenile classics.

Literature should be presented as art, and purely as art, whether in the home or in the school. Stories should not be put to service in order to convey otherwise unpleasant doses of instruction in history, biology, or what not. Art should be taught as art; history as history; science as science. Literature is a high and pure form of art, and art has its own function to perform. It is a shame to make a drudge of such a heaven-born creature as literature.

Its function is to give joy, to stimulate and feed the imagination, to broaden the sympathies, and to cultivate in the child a sense of beauty. The child whose mind has from infancy been fed on beautiful images and familiarized with the rhythms and melodies of good prose and good verse is thereby better fitted to enjoy life and appreciate beauty better than it could possibly have been without such training.

Good art is sure to touch and mould character, too. A child cannot continually breathe the air of gentle, generous, brave, and heroic characters without unconsciously becoming more or less like them. He grows like what he feeds on. In literature itself we have a classic and concrete putting of the matter in the story of "The Great Stone Face," by Hawthorne. One writer tells of a small boy who, early made familiar with the high conduct of mediaeval heroes and knights, knew no greater joy when he had done a worthy deed than to have his mother attach a bit of blue ribbon to a gilded wooden shield that hung on the wall of his playroom.

It is best to avoid books that are written specifically for children. They are usually written down to children, and in consequence lack sincerity, naturalness and simplicity. The fault of many of our modern books is that they are written down, thus, to the children. The great books, like "Robinson Crusoe," "Pilgrim's Progress," and the "Arabian Nights," were not written primarily for children, but were written for the human race. They are as fascinating to grown-up people as they are to children. There is a German saying that puts the matter in a nutshell: "If you propose to write especially for young people, you must not."

It is, too, a mistake to suppose that children must continually be supplied with new books. A good book never grows old to a child any more than a great painting or a great oratorio grows stale and wearisome to an adult. If we place in the hands of our children the true classic for childhood, and see that these classics come into their possession progressively at the age when they are sure to be most enjoyed, we need not trouble ourselves about buying for them the latest cheap, flashy, sentimental or sensational children's books.

Land of Long Livers.

If race suicide and race degeneration applies to the more settled centers of the North American continent, its effects do not seem to have penetrated across the Straits of Northumberland to Prince Edward Island, where, according to a recent census, it is shown that the largest per thousand of people over seventy years of age are to be found than in any other province of Canada.

In most countries a fourth generation is rare, but Prince Edward Island can boast of a fifth, in the Poirier family, of Tignish, the men of which are fishermen, and men of robust health. The head of the family, great-great-grandfather Poirier, has 202 living descendants, and at 99 years of age gets up at daybreak, turns his fish on the "flakes" to dry and chops his wood.

Spoiled a Nice Surprise.

They were having a quiet little home supper, for it was the girl's day off, and they were all by their two loving selves.

"What is this meat?" asked the husband.

"I'm not going to tell you," answered the wife. "You'll know when you taste it—it's to be a surprise."

"But I have tasted it."

"And do you mean to say that you don't know what it is?"

"Pardon me for being stupid, darling, but I don't. Is it chicken or lobster?"

"I've had bad luck! I don't know either. The label was torn off the can when it was delivered."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Doing Their Best.

Little Margie had not been to the country before, and, getting lonesome, she was told she might go to the barn and look for eggs. Presently she returned without any.

"Couldn't you find any eggs, dear?" asked her mother.

"No. The hens were scratching all around as hard as they could, but they hadn't found a single egg," was the doleful reply.—Philadelphia Ledger.

LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

SEPARATE BLOUSES.

The new separate blouses are prettier than ever before this season, for the old time mannishness of tailored effects has been replaced by unusual daintiness, and especially by sheerness. Thin linen, crepe de chene, cotton crepes and chiffon are favorite materials. Sleeves usually strike a note of individuality as in this design with the raglan shoulder and loose kimona effect.

Not Reassuring.

He was so well satisfied with the impression he believed he had made on the young lady that he did not attempt to verify his belief, but boldly tackled his standing with the rest of the family.

"Do you think," he said, "that your worthy father will accept me as a son-in-law?"

"I haven't a doubt of it," said she. "Father and I never agree on anything."—Washington Star.

It Was Hard.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced against you?" asked the judge.

"The only thing I'm kickin' about," answered the convicted burglar, "is bein' identified by a man that kep' his head under the bedclothes the whole time. That's wrong."—Puck.

How to Make Home Happy.

PLANTS IN SLEEP.

Some Take Their Naps at Night, Others During the Day.

Clover shuts its leaves before rain and at night, bringing two of its three leaves face to face and folding the third over the top. The young blossoms are also carefully sheltered by inclosing leaves which move forward in the evening and wrap them around.

There are two plants in the garden whose flowers sleep by day—the night blooming stock and Lychnis vespertina. The former is withered and shriveled in daylight, but expands and exhales a vanilla-like odor at night. The lychnis is white, and in bright sunshine every flower closes and hangs limply down.

As the sun sets this Endymion plant awakes expectant of the moon. The drooping calyxes raise themselves and slowly expand their flowers. It visibly ceases to droop and fade, and the plant, which almost died by day, is adorned anew. Its sister, the red lychnis, shines by day and is called diurna, but this white one has long left the beaten ancestral path and has become vespertina.

As it opens small flies appear and visit it. The calyx is of that reddish hue which they approve. The sun dew which attracts flies shows the same dull red in its leaves. It is not a rarity, but few have seen its blossoms opened.—Scotsman.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Shortness of Breath.

When a person begins to complain of habitual shortness of breath it is important to have a physical examination made without delay. One reason is that tuberculosis often begins with no other symptoms than shortness of breath and a slight cough. If these cases are seen and diagnosed very early it is not hard to arrest them. The symptom is, of course, present in such troubles as pneumonia, broncho pneumonia and pleurisy, which attack the organs of breath directly. Violent exercise naturally causes temporary shortness of breath. In the case of healthy people it disappears quickly when the exercise ceases. If it does not do so it is a good plan to have a careful examination in order to find out what is wrong. Young people sometimes persist in a favorite form of exercise after they have begun to notice their shortening breath. In that way they may do themselves lifelong injury.

Catacombs of the Druids.

Eleven miles southeast of London, in Kent, not many years ago were discovered the catacombs of the ancient druids, which are now much visited by sightseers and are lighted, for a part at least, by electric lights. Over fifty miles of chambers, cut in the chalk cliffs, have already been explored. The druids lived in these catacombs when attacked by their northern enemies, and here they buried many of their dead. The stone in which the human sacrifices were made is still to be seen, and also the well, from which water is drawn to this day.

Professional Banter.

Parson A.—It's hard to get people into the church. Dr. B.—But it's easier to do that than it is to get them into heaven. Parson A.—True. We ministers can only point the way to heaven. When it comes to getting people there we are obliged to fall back on the doctors.—Washington Herald.

Relief In Music.

"Did you enjoy yourself at the musical?"

"Very much. A musical is a great relief after a series of card parties. You don't have to take part in conversations or remember what the trump is."—Boston Record.

NEW EVENING WRAPS.

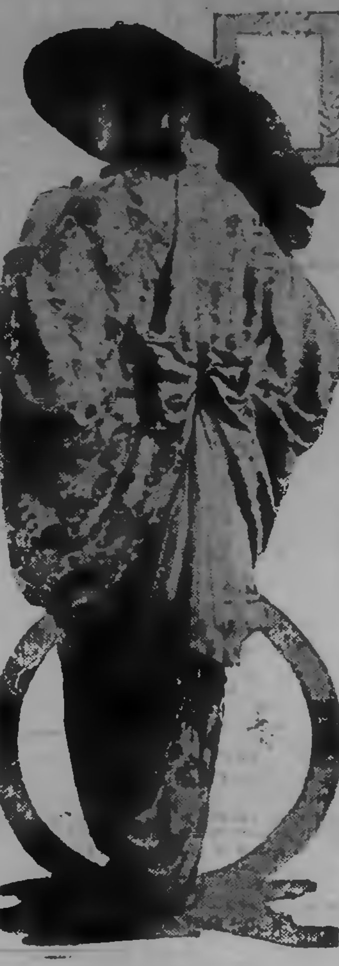
Butterfly Bows and Bustle Draperies New Style Features.



THE BUTTERFLY WRAP.

The most artistic ideas are carried out in evening wraps. Every smart wrap now bears a large bow at the back. The model illustrated here is a French design fashioned in Egyptian crape. It has the huge butterfly bow at the waist line. The new bustle back drapery is used on it with quaint effect.

On many new evening gowns and wraps tassels are prominent. They are ideal weights for draperies, and yet they have a decorative value, especially those that reflect beads of many colors. The jet tassels answer so well the demand for cut jet that they are being used in many ways.

Cordlike girdles of jet and beads give a classic air to many evening gowns in which the simple Greek lines have been retained.

Medici collars of silver lace, ostrich ruching, jeweled girdles, velvet flowers and lace decorated with strass and silver or gold threads are a few of the methods by which quality is made the feature of the present day evening costumes.

An Elephant's Appetite.

Since the elephant's digestive functions are very rapid it requires a large amount of fodder daily—about 600 pounds in most cases. In its wild state the elephant feeds heartily, but wastefully. It is careful in selecting the few forest trees that it likes for their bark or foliage, but it will tear down branches and leave half of them untouched. It will strip off the bark from other trees and throw away a large portion. As it is a nocturnal animal, it selects its trees by the senses of touch and smell. Its sense of smell is said to be so delicate that wild elephant can wind an enemy at a distance of a thousand yards, and the nerves of its trunk are so sensitive that the smallest substance can be discovered and picked up by its tiny proboscis.—Harper's Weekly.

Stern George Washington.

Etiquette at the White House has never been so severe as in the days of Washington. The first American president had a code of observances drawn up, with which all persons coming into contact with him were expected to make themselves acquainted. He exacted well nigh as much deference as royalty. At receptions he greeted all comers with a stately bow, but never deigned to shake hands, and nobody was allowed to address him until he took the initiative. The gentlemen ushers in attendance were expected to see these rules observed. Washington never visited a private house, and at his own dinner parties the protocol stipulated that "the president does not remain at the table drinking after the cloth is removed."—London Chronicle.

LAUNDRY BOX.

A Pedestal Shaped Affair That Will Fit Conveniently Into Corners.

Better far than the laundry bag is the pedestal shaped box. It may be as elegant looking as its owner elects to have it and stand about the dressing room on an equality with the other necessary pieces of furniture.

The pedestal may be made of the most ordinary wood, since invariably it is covered with cretonne, worsted brocade or any thick, closely woven window draping material. It should be neatly finished at the edges with a gimp or a fancy braid.

Inside it may be lined with white oilcloth, although that is not necessary, and it has a flat lid which, when closed, makes a convenient table top. This laundry box fits into a corner, out of the way. It may stand beside the bed, as it is precisely the right size to hold a night light, a book and a carafe.

REJOICES IN HER DEED.

Suffragette Glories In Having Slashed Wellington Portrait.

LONDON, May 13.—Miss Ansell, the suffragette, who yesterday slashed the Duke of Wellington's portrait in the Royal Academy, was arraigned at the police court where the magistrate committed her for trial at the London sessions.

The prisoner sent to the Women's Social and Political Union a message asserting that her deed was a protest against the present unjust position of women for which militancy was the only remedy, and concluding:

"I have done this deed deliberately and rejoice that I have not failed in my duty."

Mr. Lancaster Takes Rest.

ST. CATHARINES, May 13.—E. A. Lancaster, M.P. for Lincoln, father of the marriage bill and chairman of the railway committee of the Dominion House of Commons, left town last night, accompanied by Mrs. Lancaster and daughter, for a point on the south coast of Nova Scotia, where he will rest in the hope of regaining his lost health. To guard against correspondence reaching him, physicians are keeping his destination a secret. Premier Borden placed his private car at the disposal of Mr. Lancaster to avoid a change of cars.

Asleep For 21 Days.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 13.—An unbroken sleep of 21 days ended in death yesterday when Maude Walker, aged 22, died at her home here.

The young lady retired to bed on the night of April 22 and started on her long sleep. At times she would move restlessly but never once opened her eyes or spoke a word.

She had been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for some time.

AND SHE KEPT ON SMOKING.

"Aunt Chloe, do you think you are a Christian?" asked a preacher of an old negro woman who was smoking a pipe.

"Yes, brudder, I 'spects I is."

"Do you believe in the Bilbe?"

"Yes, brudder."

"Do you know there is a passage in the Scriptures that declares that nothing unclean shall inherit the kingdom of heaven?"

"Yes, I'se heard it."

"Well, you smoke, and there is nothing so unclean as the breath of a smoker. So what do you say to that?"

"Well, when Igo dere, I 'spects to leave my breff behind me."—Kansas City Farmer.

ENGLISHMAN HAS REMARKABLE TALE TO TELL

Boer War Made Him Penniless, But He Became Rich in Canada

GOING HOME FOR BRIDE

"Bristling with romance was the story related to a Review scribe last evening at the C. P. R. station while waiting for the first midnight train going east.

"Have you got a light?" was a question that resulted in his turning around to notice a tall, well-dressed Englishman leaning against the railing. The request was granted and a conversation started regarding the merits of the city and general topics. This was easy owing to the fact of the lateness of the night and the lonely appearance of the station.

"I have heard considerable of this city and the famous Life Lock," remarked the stranger, who gave his name as Richard M. Young, of London, England.

Conversation lagged, and the scribe asked a few questions regarding the stranger's visit to Canada. Then came forth such a story as is generally found only in fiction.

"Young," he said, is not my correct name, "it does not matter to you, anyway, but it is an old and well established one in the Old Land. My father was an English clergyman and heir to large estates. He unfortunately passed away before enjoying any benefit.

"Naturally I became heir. This was about fifteen years ago. My name and that of my relatives, of whom few are living now, has been conspicuous in the Old Land since Georgian days." Continuing, after a minute's sorrowful pause, the narrative went on to tell how he had been very fond of travel. When the Boer War broke out he was in South Africa. He had invested heavily in mining stocks, mortgaging his estate in the homeland to do so. After a long tour on the continent and the Holy Land he had arrived at Capetown just before the war broke out. Here he joined forces with the volunteers and served. He was wounded and returned. But, when the war was over he found himself penniless. Trade and industry was demoralized, and his bankers pressed him for money. Finally, in despair, he sailed for Canada. After remaining in various cities of the East for sometime, he went to the west. At McGrath, Alta., he commenced working on a farm. One year later he directed his footsteps to Lethbridge, Alta. He then located on a small farm near the mountains. His land has grown to such a value that in the meantime he has been able to make sufficient money to return to the Old Land and redeem his lands and incidentally meet his future wife, whom he has never seen except by photo. She, he claims, is a distant relation, and first corresponded with him five years ago.

"There is nothing like the frugal life, guarding well your past and having your revenue produced on a farm," he concluded, just as the train pulled in.

One thing that has been puzzling us lately is: Do the girls pin those funny little buns over their ears before or after washing?

CHILDREN'S EYESIGHT

It is astonishing the number of children who suffer from the effects of eyestrain, and many of them are unjustly blamed for being unambitious or mentally stupid. It has been shown by authentic investigation under municipal direction that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the children in public schools have defective vision and should wear glasses.

We make a specialty of examining children's sight by the most improved scientific methods, and if your child does not need glasses, we will tell you so frankly, and make no charge for the examination. But if your child should need glasses, we will guarantee that the glasses we fit are the proper correction, and will give perfect results. Our 10 years of successful optical business in this city is the guarantee we offer you.

We carry a special line of children's spectacle frames in heavy weight, in Gold Filled and Aluminum.

such as may be made by the township affected, are considered by the Provincial Board of Health, which department gives the decision, thus avoiding arbitration and delay.

When the approval of the Board is received, the city can go ahead with its undertaking.

Mr. Peck said he had been assured by the department engineer that the plans as prepared by the city engineer will provide a plant entirely free from odors. No one in the neighborhood of the plant need have any fear that there will be any nuisance.

Workmen's Compensation.

Many points of the Workmen's Compensation Act were taken up by the speaker. Some of the main provisions are as follows:

Summary of Act.

1. Act will not come in force until a date named by the Lieutenant-Governor, expected to be about the First of November.

2. Act does not affect farm laborers, or domestic or menial servants, or their employers, but applies to all other classes of employment.

3. Act is divided into two parts, the first and most important part dealing with and making special provisions in respect of certain classes of labor, and the second part with all other classes of labor affected by the Act.

Part 1.

4. This deals with all those classes of employment (about fifty in number) set forth in Schedules One and Two to the Act. Speaking generally, these employments include all lines of manufacture and construction work, operation of machinery and steam and power plants, operation of railways, navigation, etc., but;

5. This part does not apply to an outworker, or a person engaged in clerical work, and not exposed to the hazards incident to the nature of the work carried on in the employment, or to a person whose employment is of a casual nature, and who is employed otherwise than for the purpose of the employer's trade or business, these last mentioned persons coming within part 2 to be referred to later.

6. A workman engaged in any employment to which this part applies and who sustains injury in the course of that employment will be entitled to compensation if he is disabled for at least seven days from earning full wages, and the injury is not attributable solely to his serious and wilful misconduct.

7. If he is killed or seriously disabled, compensation is awarded himself or those dependent upon him in any case.

8. ~~Where~~ the employment is in connection with certain industries set out in Schedule 2 to the Act, and which may be summarized as the operation of railways, railway machine shops, telegraph and telephone lines, employment under municipal corporations, etc., the employer is individually liable. In other cases the compensation is payable from an accident fund levied and controlled by a Commission.

9. Right to compensation depends on notice of accident being given as soon as practicable to employer, and also, where compensation is payable out of the fund to the Commission and workmen must submit to medical examination if required.

10. It is not competent for a workman to waive any of his rights under the Act. It is not lawful for an employer to require any contribution by employers to compensation funds, and except in minor cases settlements must not be made without approval of the Commission.

11. Where employer is individually liable the Commission may re- compensation to workmen y. quire him to insure against liability.

12. Where there is total disability, the compensation shall be a weekly payment equal to 55 per cent. of the average weekly earnings of the workman during the previous 12 months (if he has been so long employed) so long as the disability lasts.

13. Where there is partial disability the compensation shall be a weekly payment of 55 per cent. of the difference between such average weekly earnings and the amount he is earning or is able to earn in some suitable employment after the accident.

14. Where death results from an injury an allowance for funeral expenses is made and dependents are compensated as follows:

A widow or invalid husband $20 per month, with an additional allowance for children under 16 years of age, or other dependents, but the total compensation shall not exceed $40.00 per month, nor 55 per cent. of the average monthly earnings of the workman.

15. The compensation payable under this part shall be in lieu of all other claim or right of action statutory or otherwise, and no action shall be brought, all questions being settled by the Commission without suit.

16. The Commission appointed to administer this part shall be composed of three members and will be styled The Workmen's Compensation Board. They will appoint a Secretary, a chief Medical Officer, and such other official as may be required, and the Government will contribute $100,000.00 per annum to the expenses of administering this part.

17. The accident fund shall be provided by contributions by the employers in the classes, or groups of industries in Schedule 1, and compensation in respect of accidents happening in any industry included in any such classes or groups shall be paid thereout.

18. Every employer will be required to make returns to the Board and will be assessed periodically a percentage of his wage roll to meet the share of the fund.

19. Apportionment of the burden of assessment shall be made by the Board according to, in their view, the hazard of the business, and the Board may increase individual assessments, if in their view sufficient steps are not taken to prevent accident or they may exclude such employer from his group and render him individually liable for accidents.

20. Where a workman suffers from an industrial disease due to the nature of his employment, he shall be entitled to compensation as if disease were a personal injury by accident.

21. The employers in any of the classes included in Schedule 1 may form themselves into an association for accident prevention, and may make rules for that purpose and the Board may approve such rules. Such employers may also appoint a committee as a medium of communication with the Board and to watch over their interests.

22. Employers in Schedule Two and who are individually liable to pay compensation must contribute to expenses of the Board in administering the Act.

Part II.

23. In respect of the classes of labor coming within the provisions of this part, an employer will still remain liable to a workman by reason of any defects in the condition or arrangements of the ways, works, or machinery connected with the business, or by reasons of the negligence of his employer.

24. The employer will also become liable to a workman injured through the negligence of a fellow workman, and a workman will not be debarred from recovery of compensation by reason of his continuing in an employment with knowledge of the existence of defects, or of negligence which might render him liable to injury.

25. Contributory negligence on the part of a workman shall not be a bar to recovery by him of compensation, but nevertheless any such negligence shall be taken into account in assessing damages.

In moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, Ald. Duffus said that Mr. Peck had given an interesting synopsis of the legislation and had given a good account of his stewardship.

MacLennan and Lawley, of Halifax, wrote that they wished to secure an agent for a Black Fox company, and asked that the enclosed literature be placed in the hands of someone the Board could recommend.

J. H. Munro reported that it had been found impossible to secure reduced rates to Peterboro for the opening of the baseball season.

A committee will be appointed to take further action relative to the move of the Board to promote excursion trade to Peterboro. Literature will likely be secured, and used for this purpose.

Ad. Club Convention.

G. O. Cameron reported on the progress of the proposition to advertise Peterboro at the Ad. Culb convention in Toronto. "It looks as though this is going to be a grand success," said Mr. Cameron.

President Hall felt that the souvenirs of the Salvation Army could be used to good advantage. He thought it might be well to distribute from 2,500 to 3,000.

The convention will open June 21, and continue for five days.

Mr. Hall read a communication which stated that there would be no room at the convention for exhibits.

"Whatever is done, should be done well," remarked H. B. Cowan.

It was decided that the whole matter be referred to the manufacturerers' committee for a report to the Board Council.

New Members.

On motion, a new list of members was added to the Board membership.

TRAIN TO AND FROM 'CAYGEON FOR THIS CITY

At the Board of Trade meeting last night, President Hall brought forward the matter of a train to and from Peterboro, on the C. P. R. Port McNicoll line, and a resolution asking the consideration of the company in regard to this question was passed by the Board.

Mr. Hall pointed out how a train to Bobcaygeon and return daily would assist in bringing trade to Peterboro, which at the present time goes to Lindsay, and that the train would also be of service to people of Peterboro who might wish to spend vacations at Bobcaygeon and other points.

Ald. Duffus understood that the company had practically decided to operate this train to and from Peterboro.

RAILWAY BOARD BLAMES MOYES FOR THE WEST SHORE FIASCO

Promoter is Charged With Misappropriation of Large Sums, Jugglery of Accounts and of Fabricating Story to Lay Blame on Shoulders of Dead Man—Other Officials Were Only Agents of President.

TORONTO, May 13.—The result of the probe into the affairs of the Ontario West Shore Railway was made public yesterday by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, and in a lengthy finding the Board delivers an unqualified denunciation of the whole affair, and especially of the business morals of John W. Moyes, promoter of the scheme.

Moyes is charged with wholesale misappropriation of funds, juggling of accounts to conceal his operations, and with having woven "an infamous fabrication" to lay the blame upon the dead vice-president, Mr. Smoke.

The Board finds that Moyes and the Huron Construction Co. were one. In spite of Moyes reiterated statements under oath that he had nothing whatever to do with the Huron Company, the Board is convinced of the fact.

"That company was without doubt John W. Moyes," reads a section, "He was the sole initiating, efficient actor throughout, the others who appeared upon the stage, Roberts the engineer, MacEwan, secretary, and Pattinson, the accommodating broker, being admittedly mere agents moved by him and doing his will."

Illustrating Moyes' method it is stated in the report that he drew $58,900 on false and fraudulent certificates of work and material when not one dollar went into construction. The sum of $402,837.37 remains to be accounted for and of this $174,565 the Board says is traceable to Moyes. The documentary evidence makes it clear that large sums were deliberately misappropriated.

No direct recommendation of criminal action is made but such steps will undoubtedly be taken.

The Board, in their report, go into the full details of the history of the railway, telling of how it was incorporated under 1902 revised statutes, as the Huron and Grey Electric Co., to construct out of Goderich. The change of name brought increased powers, the share capital to be $500,000 and bond issue of $600,000 based on the mileage from Kincardine to Goderich. The latter town had guaranteed $150,000 worth of these; Kincardine $50,000 worth, and the other parts interested making up $400,000.

In a summary of the whole investigation the Board reports as follows:

(a) That Moyes, by false and fraudulent representation, that $12,500 had been paid to the Dominion Bank, Toronto, on account of capital stock, procured the Ontario West Shore Railway to be permanently organized.

(b) That no permanent capital was contributed to the undertaking beyond the proceeds of the sale of bonds guaranteed by the applicants, although 15 of these at a par value of $15,000 appear to have been taken by the Provincial Steel Co. in part payment of rails.

(c) That Moyes, in breach of the Ontario Railway Act, procured a colorable agreement for the construction of the railway, to be entered into between the railway company and the so-called Huron Construction Co., which latter was Moyes.

(d) That by procuring to be issued false and fraudulent progress certificates, Moyes withdrew from the Toronto General Trusts Corporation the proceeds of the sale of the bonds, guaranteed by the applicants, amounting with interest to the sum of $402,837.37, and Vaughan M. Roberts, engineer, by gross negligence and breach of duty, aided and abetted Moyes in his fraudulent design.

(e) That owing to the fact that no books of account of the company's business were kept, and that many vouchers for payment are missing, the Board cannot report with exactness how much of the amount so fraudulently withdrawn by Moyes was properly expended. This much is clear, that while several thousands were applied to purposes foreign to the railway, the sum of $228,272.06 was properly expended in railway construction and materials.

(f) That the assets of the company consists of the right of way (which for the entire distance, except for twelve parcels, has been acquired), and construction work and material, which according to the corrected valuation of Mr. Midlemist, C.E., is worth $276,021.21.

(g) That all the liabilities of the company known to the Board are the bonds guaranteed by the applicants (Townships of Ashfield and Huron, and Towns of Goderich and Kincardine), of a par value of $400,000, and a parcel of unguaranteed bonds of par value, $15,000, both of which are secured by a mortgage on the company's undertaking and $2,000 worth of outstanding, unsecured accounts.

Delayed 17 Days In Ice.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 13. — The steamer Southern from Shields, Eng., March 28, arrived in port yesterday after spending 17 days in the ice on the way. She was held up for five days off Cape Race, was gripped by the ice again for two days outside Sydney, C. B., and was held up in Sydney harbor for another ten days.

Opportunity.

In one of the old Greek cities there stood long ago a statue. Every trace of it has vanished now. But there is still in existence an epigram which gives us an excellent description of it, and as we read the words we can surely discover the lesson which those wise old Greeks meant that the statue should teach to every passerby.

The epigram is in the form of a conversation between a traveler and the statue:

"What is thy name, O Statue?"

"I am called Opportunity."

"Who made thee?"

"Lysippus."

"Why art thou upon thy toes?"

"To show that I stay but a moment."

"Why hast thou wings upon thy feet?"

"To show how quickly I pass by."

"But why is thy hair so long on thy forehead?"

"That men may seize me as they meet me."

"Why, then, is thy head so bald behind?"

"To show that when I have once passed I cannot be caught."

Odd Claim For Damages.

Action for damages has been taken by a citizen of St. John, N.B., named Galbraith against the commissioners of the general public hospital based upon a claim that when an operation was performed upon him nine years ago an instrument was sewed up inside him and only discovered last spring, when he was again operated upon.

Snow Beautiful But Costly.

For removing the snow from the streets during the winter, the City of Montreal has spent $400,000 with the account still open. The largest item was $201,143, for keeping the street car tracks clear, for which expenditures the Montreal Tramways contributes one-half.

OLD TIME OTTAWA.

The Capital Has Changed Rapidly In Recent Years.

In the days when shipping and commerce on the canal-side were at their prime, the Ottawa of the last three decades was not even dreamed of. Those who read of the discovery of layers of cities below cities in the old world, such as those of Asia Minor, would be surprised to be told that such a process has been rapidly going on in such places as the capital of Canada — and it is curious how building may succeed building, in turn to be replaced even in the short space of a couple of generations. In those days, not far from the canal, up what is now a side street, stood the old wooden building used as the Bytown Grammar School, presided over by a scholarly old Scottish dominie and divine.

It is now a place of paved streets, many-storied office buildings and the clang of street cars.

But then the conditions were more primitive and idyllic. Near this place, we are told, there ran a brook or stream, across what is now Elgin street, out of a sort of swamp below two graveyards. This brook found its sinuous passage, by all sorts of declivities, mysteriously into the old canal. In this brook fish of a kind were said to have been caught. The dreamer may, perchance, imagine the small boy of that period, weary of much study in the dingy walls of the old school and fain for the outdoors, and the sun and wind's companionship, on his way loitering eager for the gleaming and hurrying bass or perch that flashed under the amber water of a sunny pool; or we may stray with him down to the rude wharf-side, in wonder at some strange craft just arrived from the outside world, bearing those cargoes delightful and mysterious to the boy mind; and with him watch the slow, old-time process of unloading and storing in the equally mysterious gloom of the, even then, dingy and cobwebby old warehouses.

At that time there were few houses in what was called Middle Town; and from near what is now Connaught Place a pathway, wound over the hill to Upper Town. At each end of this path was a turnstile, and this was the only means of approach for many a year. North, on the cliff, were the soldiers' barracks and the town jail—while on the east side of the sappers' bridge was a lodge and gate, which was the entrance to Mayor's Hill, where was the residence of the military commander. That certainly was a different environment from what exists to-day. It is indeed a place now long dead and gone, a mere memory and a dream vanished with the youth and vague longings or imaginings of the schoolboy of that period, now, perchance, like the old Bytown, a part of what is dust and ashes.—Wilfred Campbell, in The Canadian Magazine.

Money Letters Impounded.

Thousands of letters are lying in the dead letter offices in Ottawa, Toronto and other cities that contain money. That is the reason why they are in the dead office. It is contrary to a regulation recently put in force to send money through the mail, unless by postal order, check, or in a registered envelope. The order was issued to stop the sending of money through the mails, and the idea was to remove temptation as far as possible from postal employes.

Many retail houses do a good deal of rural business in this way. Many of their customers enclose coins in envelopes and send them through the post to retail houses. There is no penalty attached to the sending of money through the mails, but the sending of it is contrary to the regulations, and unregistered letters which are being found to contain money have been sent to the dead letter offices.

Representations are being made urging that the rule be rescinded and sums less than $1 may soon be sent by letter.

Quebec Marriages.

The Province of Quebec is the most expensive place there is in which to be married by license. This is because the province puts a tax on marriage by license. Six dollars is drawn down every time a license is issued by the Government. The total cost is eight dollars. Two of these go to the issuer of the document. This money does not go into the general fund of the province, but is devoted to the higher Protestant educational institutions, and is placed at the disposal of the educational board. It is given in this way because Roman Catholics do not marry by license.

The tax amounts to many thousands of dollars every year. In one office alone in 1813 no less than 800 licenses were issued. Undoubtedly the total would be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Strathcona's Romantic Marriage.

The marriage of Lord Strathcona was a romance. He met the lady when he was twenty-nine, and living on the coast of Labrador. She was a widow, and had a little son. There was no priest or church within 1,000 miles, and the marriage was a simple contract without ceremony. It was for this reason that when the High Commissioner became a peer in 1897 a re-marriage was held to be necessary, and it was solemnized with the full ritual of the Church of England.

A Clean Vote.

An innovation was introduced into university election contests at the Trinity College Literary Society annual elections in Toronto recently, when in the last five minutes of polling a number of men were discovered in the shower baths who had not exercised their franchise. These were not permitted to even put on their slippers. One student shouted as they were being carried to the polling booth that it would be a clean vote.

INDIAN LIFE.

Priceless Records of Canadian Artists Now In Ontario Museum.

On the walls of two of the large rooms of the new Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, there is spread out a history of Indian life in Canada on canvas, which forms one of the most valuable treasures of which the city can boast. They are the combined paintings of Paul Kane, Edmund Morris, and John Catlin, the gift to Toronto of Sir Edmund Osler, and there are 190 paintings in all. Many of these have hung until recently on the walls of University College, where they were not so accessible to the Toronto public as their broad historic value deserves.

They are a prairie breeze medley of G. A. Henty and Fennimore Cooper, with only two detractions. One is their sad lack of heart interest; only one squaw being visible, and that one absolutely impossible. The other is that they are evidently historically accurate.

In the sixty-odd paintings by Edmund Morris, the student of physiognomy may form a different theory as to the origin of Lo, the poor Indian, each time he wanders past. All of these paintings are life portraits of Chieftains of the Plains Tribes. When it is remembered that evolutionists are already preparing to say good-bye to the last redman as he steps off into the setting sun, the value of these splendid portraits to future Canada will be seen.

First are the Blackfoot Indians, and their terribly slanted foreheads have the stamp of the negroid races. In the race of the Crees are the high-bridged noses identical with the race which takes all our sneers and our money back to Jerusalem, while the slanted eyebrows, long, sharp eyes, and high cheekbones of the Assiniboine tribes only need a coating of powder to pose for Japan.

And over all the faces is the black tragedy of the people who asked no mercy because they showed none, and who froze, starved, or burned themselves to the Happy Hunting Grounds in gloomy calm and dignity, until the white man brought the fire-water.

"Stapiedlamsink," is the name of one solemn-eyed Cree person, and this on being translated reads: "Slow coming over the hill," but it was probably the name which delayed him. "Man Sitting in the Middle of the Sun," "Man Standing Above Ground," and "Man Who Ties the Knot," are some others of the chiefs represented, but the face of one called "Pound Maker," unless the artist idealized it, carries all the poetry and blackness of the Indians' losing game in his fathomless eyes.

Apart from the historic value, the paintings of Morris are splendidly executed, very little dress detail being used, lest it detract from the centre theme, the spirit of the Indian race.

The Paul Kane pictures of life among the Indians make it very evident that these artists lived for years with the Indian tribes to become imbued with their life. They breathe the open air of the larger Canada. Few of them are remarkable from the artists' viewpoint, but they all lean together and shout "Canada" till the walls fade away and you hear running water dashing through little rocky crevices and over sheer rocks while the sun weaves rainbows through its thin green mist. Then crouched in the grass, just safe, you watch the wide red tongue of flame lick the green covering from the prairies. "Indian Summer" can almost stand up for criticism, with a brown mist of water, grey-green frost-bitten meadows, and a wet, pink, mournful sky.

The buffalo predominates on the canvasses of Catlin, a weird sketch showing the artist and a hunter disguised in wolf skins lying close to the herd in order to sketch them.

Move Dead by Night.

In future the bodies of persons dying at the Toronto General Hospital will be removed from that institution after nightfall, whenever such an arrangement can be made with the relatives of the deceased. Sensitive persons who have seen bodies removed from the hospital in the day time have complained of the unpleasantness of seeing the passing of the dead, and the authorities have wisely decided to curtail that awesome sight as far as possible in the future.

Should Beat Wife Once a Month.

Joseph Wyseluk appeared in the Hamilton police court recently charged with assaulting his wife. Doctors told of the woman's injuries. Through an interpreter the man said, "I don't beat my wife every day, I have not time to because I work sometimes. I think she ought to have a trouncing once a month to keep her quiet."

Called to Bar at 60.

Magistrate William Trant, of Regina, Sask., has just celebrated his 70th birthday. He came to that city twenty years ago, and took the editorship of The Leader, Nicholas Flood Davin's organ. At 60 years of age Mr. Trant was called to the Bar, and in 1907 was appointed police magistrate.

CATCHING THE COD.

Newfoundland's Great Industry Carried On By Whole Families.

We are in the days of the succulent codfish ball—to be exact, of the prepared cod, in one form or another.

What a tale the cod could tell, had he but his life and the gift of speech! What a long cry it is, too, from his place on the salesman's shelf to the storm-swept ocean wastes off Newfoundland's grand banks.

Thirty thousand or so of Newfoundland's fishermen go each year to take the cod. Inhabitating the miserable little turf houses, they work seven days of the week, but their lives are not without interest.

Cod fishermen go out early, usually four in a boat, sometimes leaving the shore as early as four o'clock in the morning. No bait is employed; they use mammoth cod traps, which have square pounds or enclosures of netting. To these traps there extends a "leader"—a rope or wall of the netting leading to the shore. As the school of cod advances, it strikes this wall of netting and follows it out into the trap.

Usually a trap holds from 30 to 100 quintals of fish at a drawing. The traps are made by the fishermen themselves, in the winter — large enough to hold 200 quintals. A quintal is 100 pounds.

The drawing of a trap—the "raising," it is called—is a process ever full of interest to the newcomer. Out of the strait, between Portugal Cove and Belle Isle, three fishers, in the yellow, oil-skin "slickers," are engaged in raising the great cod net as you approach. You row over to watch them. All three are leaning far back and pulling at a rope, strung with squares of cork to keep it up in the water; this is the line to the long trap, 15 fathoms square. Each of the three men is astride a seat. The oldest cries "heave!" and all three pull back as far as they can to bring in the net. First, however, they bring in the line which the cod had followed to the trap.

When once they have in hand the cork-strung rope forming the top of the net, they set it into a notch at the end of the dory or boat. Now begins the real hauling in of the net. Two of the men take places at one end of the boat and the third at the other to pull. It will take a long time, for there are full 15 fathoms to be hauled in. Only now does one realize how very heavy is the load. As the net is drawn in it is at the same time released over the other side of the boat, so, as fast as they are drawing it they are again casting it. By and by, however, the fish are drawn together in one ever-narrowing section close to the boat, until finally the wriggling mass of fish is near enough to be scooped from the net into the bottom of the boat and taken ashore.

These nets or traps have taken the men, working four or five in company, from two to three months to make and are valued at about $200 each. The fishers may make $20 at each raising, or may get next to nothing, according to the catch. Much depends on prices, for when the fish are too plentiful prices are low; only when they are scarce do high prices prevail.

On shore with the catch, men, women and children clean the fish and set them to curing. At the wharves of St. John's, Nfld., one may witness the process. When the fish have been cleaned and washed they are set out on the flakes to dry—not on the naked stages, for the sun would then crack the fish. Instead, evergreen boughs are laid on the stages, and on these the fish are placed, so that the wind can get underneath and assist materially in the drying.

At night the fish must be taken in, likewise when a fog comes up; otherwise they will again take up the moisture. In fact, even when they are dried and stored away in the warehouses they must be brought out now and then for redrying. There are thousands and thousands of them on the wharves of St. John's, ready for shipment all over the world. Up on the coast there are additional thousands, where picturesque schooner girls, who ship with the fishermen, attend the cleaning and curing.

To remove a stain caused by the fading of red crepe paper, wet the spot in cold water and rub between the fingers, but if this does not affect is try alcohol; then, if this, too, fails, try a weak solution of hydrochloric acid.

Official Protest.

I don't like a man who is fussy.
Do you?
It may be all right in a woman,
But who
Can stand for a beau
Whose hair must be so
Or the world to an end
It will send,
Don't you know?

The masculine creature's the limit
Who must Be spotless and speckless and dustless or bust.
It gets on my nerves
To follow his curves,
As the man in a tree
Very sagely
Observes.

No objection I make to the man
Who is neat,
But if he must also be cunning
And sweet
Please hand me an ax,
I want to relax
And go to the length
With what strength
I can tax.

Let a man be a man,
Not an ape,
Not daily and gone
On his shape.
He needn't be rude,
Uncultured or crude,
But if he's a fusser—
Well, fishes need food.

Not Bargain Day.

"A penny for your thoughts," said the flippant young man who could think of nothing else to say.

"Sir," said the pretty young authoress with flashing eyes, "you have insulted me."

"I assure you," stammered the young man, "no harm was intended."

"Probably not," she replied, growing somewhat calmer, though still stirred deeply, "but I would have you know that I can get 10 cents a word and upward for my thoughts."

LOUIE SCHETTLER AND BOBBY HECK MAY TWIRL THE OPENER

Manager Blount is Optimistic and Says Petes Will Improve With the Weather—Shortstop Price the Smallest Man on the Team

Curley Blount's hired men arrived in the city this morning about 1 o'clock, and after a pleasant sleep under the hay, were out on the street to-day renewing acquaintances and looking over the burg. "Gee, the new pavement makes it look like a big city," was Peggy Swartz's comment. The boys are all enthusiastic over the prospects and claim when they hit their stride with the willow they will take some beating, as the pitching staff when right is the equal of any in the league.

Manager Blount is well satisfied with the club in its performances so far, and is sure the boys will come through with the necessary punch. He has no fault to find with the fielding, considering the disagreeable weather, which the team has been up against, and all that remains to send the Petes higher up is a little slugging. "Few of the boys have hit their batting stride, but they can be relied upon to show a steady improvement as the weather improves. A little stick work would have won two more games at Erie, but that's baseball and the break did not come. A team may go along and deliver in a pinch continuously, and then fall down. But the fans can rest assured that the team will hit and hit well, as the men are all good batters once they get under sail," he said.

Schettler to Pitch.

The manager intends to pitch Schettler to-morrow and the local fans will have their first opportunity to look the new addition to the hurling corps over. Ryberg or Kelly will do the receiving, and there is a chance that Wilcox will replace Swartz in left field. The former hit .300 last year, but so far has had little success with the willow, while Peggy has been stinging 'em on the nose quite regularly. Wilcox is a likely looking chap, and by his make-up should be able to clout them where they aint.

Price is the smallest man on the team. He claims to weigh 140, but he looks more like 125. He is fast and possesses a grand arm.

Belting's arm is still sore, the big fellow complaining in the first game of the Saturday double header at Erie and he will be allowed to nurse it before being called upon to take his turn in the box. Creswell's arm is back in shape after a siege of soreness, and the local boy, who is well thought of by Blount, should enjoy a great year. Cressy will surely go up if he has any of the breaks and shows the control he has displayed so far.

Len Dobson says all the teams on the circuit are strong, if reports can be taken for granted. The team passed through London last evening, and the London players although sure their club will be in the fight all the time, spoke very highly of the bunch Knotty Lee has collected to represent Toronto. The St. Thomas players also boosted Ottawa, saying that Shag's team is even stronger than last year. Len says that Erie has a good sticking team, but are none too classy in the field. The fans there have commenced to hand out the raps already. They got after Manager Smith on Saturday because he booted a couple and the veteran did not appear in the Sunday game. Len also says that the Erie management will go the limit to produce a winner.

Bobby Kerr, business manager of the Hamilton club, and Mr. Dobson exchanged greetings in Buffalo Sunday night, the Hamilton team being on its way to Erie and the Petes to St. Thomas. Bobby was in so big a hurry to catch the train that he forgot to tell Mr. Dobson that Hamilton had the greatest team in the league.

Chaney, a big hurler, who worked out with the team in early training, but who was let out, is dickering with the Feds. He is a Buffalo boy.

Schrage, who tried for a place on the infield, walked the plank a few days ago.

Bob Sterling was on the streets this morning, but his large sized callabash was conspicuous by its absence. Someone swiped it.

The team worked out this afternoon at the park. Batting practice played a big part in the workout and the boys went at it with a vengeance. The infield showed speed, and the large gathering of fans were well pleased with the work of the team.

London will probably arrive here to-night. It was raining pitchforks there when the locals passed through last night, and Doc. Reisling told Curley Blount that if it did not clear by this morning, he would leave for Peterboro at noon to-day. Bobby Heck will probably do the slab work for the Cockneys.

PETES SECOND; TEAM FIELDING

All That is Needed is a Recovery of the Artillery's Batting Eye

The unofficial fielding and batting averages up to and including Sunday's game, show the Ottawa Senators out in front in both departments. However, averages at this season of the year count for naught. None of the teams have displayed consistent form either in spring training, exhibition games or the few league games which have been played. A team cannot be termed in a slump at this stage of the race, as the loss of a few games is not a slump in the real sense of the word. The Petes are hitting away below form, but are fielding neatly, being in second place, and the heavy artillery can be counted upon to get into action very shortly. Hamilton is also away down the list in team batting, while the Brants are going good. Yet the Hams took two games from the Brants with both teams fielding about on a par, so at this stage, although they make good reading, averages do not signify the strength of a team.

WITH THE PETES

STANLEY CRESWELL, Pitcher.

Born at Peterboro, Ontario, in the year 1893. Height 6 ft., 2 in. Weight, 170 lbs. "Stan." is a product of the local City League. Started playing semi-professional ball in the year 1912 with Newmarket. Worked part of a game with Peterboro that season, but was let out.

In 1913 "Stan." paid his own expenses for trial with the Club. He made good and was with the club all that season.

Creswell is young, a big fellow, and shows every promise of developing into a big league pitcher.

COMMENT
As You Like It

Rain to the ordinary individual is just rain, as A is A, and B is B, but, to the owner of a baseball club, rain is loss. Everytime it rains the expense of housing the players at a hotel and paying them salaries still goes on without anything coming in to help meet the bills. When a bricklayer is laid off on account of rain his so much per hour ceases, but not with the ball player. So you see what a serious set back the bad weather of the past week has been to the moguls of the Canadian League. During the past week numerous games have been postponed and the loss to the owners amounts to thousands of dollars. Those games will have to be worked in as double headers, where the public sees two games for one admission. The field at St. Thomas is so rain soaked that to-day's game with the Petes was called off yesterday and the locals left the railroad city last night and arrived her this morning in the wee sma' hours.

The seasons are changing. Of that there is no doubt. A few years ago it used to be an early sparkling spring and an early dismal fall. Now it is a late, dreary spring and a late bright, balmy fall. Such conditions have existed for the past three or four years and will continue, so say the philosophers.

Would it not be wise for the Canadian League moguls to take up the question of a later start and a later finish? The time would not be ill spent. It is possible to commence the season about May 20 and close about September 15. The teams who are away for the opener could be sent home for May 24. It looks feasible, and in the long run would prove financially good according to the way seasons now run

Jimmy Archer, the greatest backstop Canada ever produced, and possibly the greatest in the game, is 31 years old to-day. He was born in Dublin, but came to Canada when a mere child. His baseball career was started in Toronto with City League clubs. He was side tracked by the Detroit Tigers and sent back to Buffalo. Frank Chance grabbed him in 1909, and since that time he has been with the Cubs. His squat throw is a sure killer for prospective base stealers.

Ty Cobb is said to be flirting with the Feds. Ty has ben accused of flirting so many times, that we will begin to wonder who he has not become engaged. Ty's salary from Detroit amounts to $17,000 per year, and his contract is for one year, minus the reserve clause and ten day stipulation.

Beltz, the Brant's young second sacker, was let out yesterday He claims he can get a job in Hamilton. Yes, they need some new faces in the works department up there, but Beltz will hardly catch a place on the ball team.

Amby Kane is skipping the Taunton club in the Colonial League. He has with him Delocutt, Hadley and Clearmont, of last year's Red Sox.

"The old town looks like a big city now, kid," was "Willie" Swartz's first greeting. The paved roads and new lights are in his opinion a big improvement. Peggie is looking fine and says prospects for a good season are very bright.

Wilcox, the new outfielder, sizes up about the same as Dave Hilliard.

Whoever sprung the tale about Ryberg fracturing his ankle ought to be astracized. A few of the fans were very anxious in the nearly part of the morning.

BIG CROWD TO WELCOME BLOUNTMEN

All is Ready for Festivities at Riverside Park To-morrow

The stage is all set for to-morrow's grand opening, when Curly Blount's crew will face the aggregation led by Doc Reisling, the eminen tooth specialist of the Forest City, erstwhile big leaguer and other things too numerous to mention. The only thing which can spoil one big day is rain, but as Mr. P. Pluv. has paid several visits to the circuit during the past week it is to be hoped that he'll consider his visits sufficient and decide to call again when he's not got so much time to stay.

The opening ceremonies will not be any miniature production of the goings on which surround the ushering in of the big league seasons. The team is here, having arrived at one o'clock this morning, and the boys are all eager to take a look at the assortment which Mayor Buller will send in the whereabouts of the pan.

The parade will form at the market and proceed along Charlotte to George to Hunter and thence to Riverside Park. The band of the 57th Regiment will lead the parade, while the players, city officials and fans will follow in autos and cabs. Any person having an auto is invited to fall in line. At the Park the players will be lined up in deep centre field and will march abreast to the plate, where the band will strike into the strain of O Canada and the Maple Leaf, which will be quite appropriate as the towo teams are representing Canadian cities. Mayor Buller will then offer a few words of fatherly advice to the boys and turn over the keys of the city to them. He will then take his place on the mound like the big shooters do and formally open the season by shooting one across. The Mayor says he'll come closer to the plate than some of the soldiers who shot under his namesake did in eliminating a few Boers.

That the game will attract a record crowd is evident by the interest which is being shown in the city. Despite the fact that the club has met with reverses on the road, the fans have great faith in the ability of Curly Blount to produce a winner and will show that appreciation in no mild form when the popular curly headed one steps to the pan in the first innings.

Peterboro fans have a reputation all over the circuit for loyalty to their team. The writer happened to be talking a few weeks ago with Red Fisher and a few more of last year's Hamilton team who visited here and they were all agreed that the fans in this city were the real stick to the end sort. That is some compliment, but nevertheless, it is deserving.

Every fan realizes what it means to his home town to be in an organized or any high-class baseball league. It places that town before the eyes of the entire continent at all times, as everyone of the big clubs watch the smaller fellows and in that manner become acquainted with places they would not have otherwise have heard of. The town also derives advertising in the box scores which are shot across the wires to the various newspapers almost every day and the league standing which appears each day. Then the players who are gathered from all corners of the continent, always delight in boosting the stock of the town they played in during the summer. The fireside leagues acquaint fans and players with places they did not know existed. They are a vertitable lesson in geography and history. So it's up to the fans to see that the Petes are given all the support possible.

Jealous.

ST. PAUL'S CHOIR CONCERT

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was well filled last evening, on the occasion of the annual choir concert. Well should it have been, as music lovers of Peterborough will go many a day before they shall hear a more excellently balanced and rendered programme. The compositions selected by the soloists and those selected for the choir showed excellent knowledge of the public taste, for every number was warmly encored. The visiting artists were Mr. Ruthven Macdonald, the renowned Canadian basso, and Mr. Redferne Hollinshead, one of Canada's most finished tenors, both of whom have won laurels in this city on previous occasions. Miss Dorothy Allan, the local soloist, assisted the choir and acquitted herself in excellent style.

Messrs. Hollinshead and Macdonald rendered solos and duet numbers which were delightful, while they also assisted in choruses which the choir sang. In all his numbers, Mr. Macdonald sang with a feeling of expression which was magnificent, while his robust bass voice seemed to respond with a tone which was soft and voluminous when the occasion demanded, but always sweet. His rendition of "Come Unto Me" was perfect. Mr. Hollinshead's rich tenor voice, which possesses all the qualities of the true tenor, was given scope for its powers and beauty in several numbers, but the old favorite, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," although not possessing the qualities for display of dramatic effect which his voice is capable of producing, was sung with a sympathetic interpretation which was without fault. Messrs. Hollinshead and Macdonald rendered "Wachman! What of the Night" in duet arrangement, in a manner which left no room for criticism.

Miss Dorothy Allan seldom sang better than she did last night. Her clear, well trained, soprano voice was heard to fine advantage in all her numbers, while the duet "Day is Dying in the West" with Mr. Hollinshead was one of the treats of the evening. Her solo of the Bach-Gounod "Ava Maria" with violin, organ and piano accompaniment was very impressive. Miss Allan's voice beyond having the natural beauty of the pure soprano, is well trained, and she realizes its possibilities and uses them with fine taste. The violin in the Ava Maria was played by Miss Lora Logan whose ability to produce a tonal effect was never better shown. She played the number with fine powers of technique and softness of tone which was admirable.

The numbers rendered by the choir created a very favorable impression, the chorusters singing with a unison which was perfect, while the tone produced was very good, as was the spirit in which the numbers were sung.

Two numbers by Gaul, sung by Mr. Macdonald, with soprano obligato by Miss Allan, and ladies' sextette were highly appreciated, as were the quartette numbers by choir members and the solo parts in the compositions rendered by the choir.

The concert was one of the finest given here in some time, and much credit is due to Mr. John Allan, choir director and organist of the church.

ASTRONOMY

H. B. Collier Will Give Address, To-morrow Evening

Photographs of the moon made at the Paris Observatory with special equipment. Two men were assigned to the task and for twelve years had this as their chief duty. The cost of such is beyond calculation, but would naturally run into many thousands of dollars.

These copies were presented to the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, and have been so carefully guarded that never before have they been allowed to leave the library in Toronto.

The pictures are so clear in detail that the great craters, extinct volcanoes, ocean beds, seismic cracks and other numerous features, are brought so vividly before the eye that you are made to feel an inhabitant for the time being.

H. B. Collier, of Toronto, will lecture in the Collegiate Institute tomorrow, Thursday evening, when he will show some of these photographs and display his sculptured moon. This meeting promises to be of great interest.

THE LADY EXPLAINED.

Then He Probably Smiled, but It Must Have Been a Sickly Effort.

A woman with fifteen bundles boarded the street car the other afternoon when I was on my way to my suburban residence. She was a very pretty young woman. I felt sorry for her. She was returning from a shopping tour. Being a man with a kind heart, I helped her upon the car and piled her bundles about her. A man got on at the same time and took a seat on the other side of the young lady.

When the car came to my street I was surprised to see her rise and begin to pick up her bundles. Instantly my sense of chivalry prompted me to help her off the car, and, as I was going in the same direction, I asked permission to carry her fifteen bundles. The man got off also and started on ahead.

I was loaded down like a camel crossing the desert. In those packages she had everything from an electric flatiron to a five pound bag of prunes. We trudged along about a half mile. The man turned in at a gate.

When we reached this gate the young lady thanked me and said: "This is as far as I go. I live here. Thank you very much."

"But the man ahead of us, the man who came out on the car with us, turned in here too."

"Yes," she said. "He is my husband, but he hates to carry packages through the street."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Descriptive.

He was accustomed to drinking straight, plain drinks. But one day they inveigled him into taking one of those mixed affairs, one of those that not only includes a combination of liquids, but also orange peel, pineapple, a cherry and other rank outsiders.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he was asked by the bunch that had done the inveigling.

He looked disapprovingly at the sunken garden before him.

"Boys," he said, "I object to drinking a mince pie."—New York Times.

Huge Wireless Station.

When complete the new wireless station at Newcastle, N.B., will flash 150 words a minute across 2,700 miles of sea to the corresponding station at Ballybuion, on the southwest coast of Ieland. There is much discussion now over the question as to whether the wireless will do away with the cables. The commercial speed of the wireless at this station when in use will be in the neighborhood of 150 words a minute. The greatest speed now worked by cables across the Atlantic is 50 words a minute.

The big steel tower at Newcastle is 500 feet high and is surrounded by six auxiliaries. Between these towers is strung a network of 120,000 feet of wire. A large number of trenches have been dug on the grounds and another 140,000 feet of wire has been laid in them to secure the proper ground connection. The total cost has been $175,000.

Not an Ardent Lover.

Dr. Brandes, the Danish man of letters, tells a curious story of himself. At the very moment he had appointed to keep a tryst with his sweetheart he was deep in Hegel. "With a passionate desire to reach a comprehension of the truth I grappled with the 'system,' began with the encyclopedia, read the three volumes of 'Aesthetica,' the 'Phenomenology of the Mind,' then the 'Philosophy of Law' again and finally the 'Logis,' the 'Natural Philosophy' and the 'Philosophy of the Mind' in a veritable intoxication of comprehension and delight." The lamentable sequel was that he forgot all about the young girl to whom he had to say good-bye—time, place and promise.

Advantage of Being Dull.

There is a quality in certain people which is above all advice, exposure or correction. Only let a man or woman have dullness sufficient and they need bow to no extant authority. A dullard recognizes no betters; a dullard can't see that he is in the wrong; a dullard has no scruples of conscience, no doubts of pleasing or succeeding or doing right, no qualms for other people's feelings, no respect but for the fool himself. How can you make a fool perceive that he is a fool? Such a person can no more see his own ears. And the great quality of dullness is to be unalterably contented with itself.—Thackeray.

SAVED BY HIS WIT.

One Warrior Who Was Too Much for Frederick the Great.

Frederick the Great was very fond of hearing what the common soldiers thought of him and often frequented in disguise the taverns where his soldiers caroused. One day he went into a tavern and sat down at a table with an old soldier. The latter insisted on paying for everything, and the king noticed that the fellow had money, although it was not pay day.

"How is it, comrade," said the king, "that you can make your money last so long?"

"That's easy enough if you know the Prussian dodge," was the answer—sell or pawn everything that you don't need. To-day, for instance, I sold my sword and made myself a wooden one; that's good enough in times of peace," and the soldier drew his sword and showed the king a wooden one.

A few days later the king was reviewing his troops, and he recognized his old acquaintance with the wooden sword. He immediately dismounted, walked up to the man and said to him, "Draw your sword and cut off my head!"

"Your majesty," said the trembling soldier, "how can I commit such a crime?"

"Your first duty is obedience to your king!" shouted Frederick with an angry voice. "Draw your sword!"

Then the old fellow lifted his eyes to heaven and with a trembling voice exclaimed: "I obey! But may heaven change my steel sword into a wooden one when I draw it to strike my king." Thereupon he drew his sword, and it was a wooden one With a hearty laugh the king mounted and rode on.

Male Brides.

It had rained all the long dreary day, and his golden curls were bedraggled and wet, and his nice collar hung limp down his slender shoulders when he came home at a quarter past four o'clock and threw his schoolbook at the cat, which lay beside the hearth.

"Grandpa," he said softly as he came to where the old man was quietly sitting, smoking and thinking, "I thought all brides were of the female sex."

"They are, child; they are. Why do you make such an odd remark?"

"Because, grandpa, in looking over my geography lesson I came upon the Bebrides. Are they females, too, and, if so, why are they called 'he'?"

Try a New Start.

"You are going to marry a lady with lots of money," said the fortune teller.

"Anything else?" he asked eagerly.

"Your salary will soon be raised."

"Go ahead. Do you see anything else that is encouraging?"

"You will in a short time start on a trip around the world."

"Fine! What else?"

"Your worst enemy will be ruined before the year is ended."

"Say, wait. You're getting things mixed. Just before I came in here a man in whose judgment I have a lot of confidence told me I was my own worst enemy. Let's go back to the trip around the world and start again."

THRILLING STORY OF SCOTT'S FATAL DASH TO SOUTH POLE TOLD

Commander Evans of the Ill-Fated Expedition Graphically Described the Exploration Which Ended in the Death of His Leader and Companions

Before an audience which, although not very large in numbers, was strong enthusiastically, Commander Evans, second in command of the Scott Antarctic Expedition, related the story of the dash to the South Pole at the Conservatory of Music last evening. The lecture, which was illustrated by limelight views, proved very interesting and instructive.

His Honor Judge Huycke introduced Commander Evans. In introducing Commander Evans, His Honor paid a tribute to British bravery, and referred to Commander Evans in glowing terms. Great Britain was great because Britons were great, said His Honor, who extendeda warm welcome to the speaker.

Commander Evans was loudly applauded, said in part:

On June 1, 1910, the Terra Nova left London with most of the members of the expedition. She finally left New Zealand on November 29. Captain Scott had with him fifty-nine officers, scientists, and seamen. The Terra Nova left New Zealand a very full ship, besides four hundred tons of coal she carried provisions for three years, two huts, forty sledges, fur sleeping bags, bales of clothing, all kinds of instruments, and the hundreds of little items of equipment necessary to a Polar expedition with an ambitious scientific programme. Besides these things, which filled our ship's holds and the between deck spaces, we carried nineteen Siberian ponies, thirty-four dogs, three motor sledges, 2,500 gallons of petrol, and our paraffin on the upper deck. The animals were under the charge of Mr. Cecil Meares, who with Lieut. Bruce, bad brought them down from Siberia. The ponies after we left New Zealand were taken charge of by Captain Oates, of the Inniskilling Dragoons.

The first exciting incident on the southward voyage occurred on December 2, when we encountered a gale which, in the deeply laden condition of the ship, nearly caused the loss of the expedition. First the engine room choked, and then the hand-pumps. Heavy seas washed over the vessel, and fires had to be extinguished as the engine room was feet deep in water. While the pump suctions were being cleared the afterguard formed a bucket discharge party, and baled the ship out continually for twenty-four hours. At the end of this time the gale abated, and we proceeded southward, having come through with no loss save two ponies, and one dog which was drowned.

Proceeding south on the meridian of 179 deg. W., the first ice was seen in lat. 64 deg. The ship passed all kinds of icebergs, from huge tabular to little weathered water-worn bergs The Antarctic pack was reached on December 9, in lat. 65 deg. S., and the ship boldly pushed through for some 200 miles under steam and sail, when her progress was rearded to such an extent that, to save coal, engines were stopped, sail was furled, and the ship lay under banked fires for some days. We spent three weeks in the pack, and emerged on December 30, after pushing through 380 miles of ice. The time was not wasted: magnetic observations, deep sea soundings, and serial sea-temperatures were obtained.

Captain Scott then attempted to secure a suitable landing place, but as none were in sight we rounded Cape Bird and entered McMurdo Sound. It was remarkably clear of ice. We passed Shackleton's winter quarters, and noticed that the huts looked new and fresh. On January 4, 1911, Captain Scott, Dr. Wilson and myself went across the ice and visited a little cape which afterwards proved an ideal spot for wintering purposes. Captain Scott named it Cape Evans. Immediately the stores and transport were unloaded. Lieut. Pennell took charge of the ship, Lieut. Campbell the transport, while I looked after the base. Captain Scott supervised and improved.

On January 24, 1911, Captain Scott and eleven companions left with two dog teams and eight ponies to lay out a depot of foodstuffs before the Antractic winter set in. Nearly one ton of provisions was taken out to a point 144 miles from our base. This spot was named One-Ton Depot. The party for the return journey was split up into three detachments. Captain Scott with Meares, Wilson, and Cherry Garrard came home with the dogs. Scott and Meares had the misfortune to run along the snow bridge of a crevasse. The bridge gave way, and all the dogs but Osman, the leader, and the two rear animals, disappeared down a yawning chasm. With the greatest difficulty the dogs were rescued. Scott and Meares were lowered by Wilson and Cherry Garrard into the crevasse. They found the dogs twisting round, suspended by the harness, fighting, howling, and snapping. One by one they were freed from the trace, and hauled up on to solid ice; as each animal regained safety he lay down and slept. It was an anxious period for all concerned.

On March 4 the depot parties were safely housed at Hut Point with the two dog teams and two remaining ponies that had survived the ordeal. We could not reach Cape Evans because the sea had not frozen over so we lived in the hut. A blubber stove was installed, and we killed

OPENING OF NEW ORGAN AT CHURCH OF THE SACRED HEART IS ARRANGED FOR NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock an important event in the history of the Church of the Sacred Heart will take place. The handsome new pipe organ, donated by the late Mr. McManus, will for the first time flood the sacred edifice with its sweet and voluminous notes. The religious nature of the occasion will be signified by Pontificial Vespers which His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, D.D., will sing, assisted by a deacon and subdeacon. His Lordship will also preach. Priests of the diocese who find it possible to come have already expressed their intention of being present.

Lay visitors will be likewise in attendance and to afford them accommodation no children will be admitted. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament is to be given especially for them at a later date.

Mr. John Armstrong, organist of the Church of the Sacred Heart, will preside at the new organ, and his excellent work in the past, together with his experience with pipe organs, is an assurance that the new intrument will be heard at its best. The choir has been practicing for some weeks past, and the singing will be of a high order.

The new organ, which is situated in the gallery, is the work of Sasavant Freres, St. Hyacinthe, Que., and reflects great credit upon that firm. The new instrument presents a splendid appearance, is artistically finished, and adds greatly to the interior of the church.

It is a tubular pneumatic, doubled bank organ. Some of the details are as follows:

Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, spoke very highly last Sunday of the generosity of the late Mr. Martin McManus. The organ was donated by him in memory of his wife and daughter, and was truly a living monument to the faith and zeal of that benefactor. Father O'Brien referred briefly to the nature of the gift, remarking that a man could not do better than leave something to assist others in worshipping God.

COLLAPSE OF GIGANTIC ENTERPRISE WOULD MEAN NATIONAL CALAMITY

Premier Borden in Introducing Aid Legislation Declares That Nation Must Act to Prevent a Disaster Which Would Ruin Canada's Credit.

The Railway Will Be a Great Asset to the Dominion.

OTTAWA, May 14.—The galleries of the House of Commons were crowded yesterday afternoon and evening to hear the opening debate upon the proposed legislation in aid of the Canadian Northern Railway. The resolutions were presented by the Prime Minister in a thoughtful and well-prepared address which held the attention of the House.

Although devoted mainly to an explanation of the agreement between the Government and the company, Mr. Borden planted himself squarely upon the proposition that the great transcontinental must be completed. He said it would be a national misfortune to allow the enterprise to collapse, and a national disgrace to permit any loss to fall upon those who in good faith invested in the securities of the company. The only point as to which he believed there was any dispute was the security to be taken by the Government. That security, he believed, was ample, and the $40,000,000 of common stock which the Dominion of Canada would acquire was bound to become in time a national asset of great value.

Mr. Borden, in opening, briefly reviewed the history of the Canadian Northern Railway, which to-day served every province in the Dominion except New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, and had 7,056 miles in actual operation. In addition to this, 1,542 miles of construction had the steel laid, but were not yet operated. The grading was also complete as to another 850 miles, so that the system to-day embraced fully 10,000 miles of railway.

The Government was now confronted with this situation, namely, that Mackenzie and Mann were unable to link up and complete their transcontinental without assistance from the Government of Canada. There were several reasons for this. One was the financial stringency prevailing throughout the world. They were in urgent need of real money, which they could not raise upon the security available.

Everyone, said the Prime Minister, would admit that the road must be completed—but how? It was suggested by some that the C. N. R. should go into the hands of a receiver, for the purpose of reorganization. To follow such a course would be to injure the credit of Canada for a generation, and to inflict loss and hardship upon innocent investors who had purchased the securities of the company. The only remaining course was for the Government to come to the assistance of the company, and difference of opinion could only arise upon the nature of the agreement to be made and the security to be exacted.

A searching investigation had disclosed that the charge against Mackenzie and Mann of diverting subsidies to their own use was entirely without foundation.

Mr. Borden said that as a matter of fact Mackenzie and Mann had devoted to the enterprise a great deal of money they might properly have retained for their own personal aggrandizement.

Mr. Borden then detailed the gross and net earning of the road for several years past, and the estimated earnings for the next few years. He believed the road had a great future, and pointed out that its earnings last

BALD-HEADED INFORMER ADHERES TO HIS STORY

Faces Relentless Cross Examination by Becker's Chief Counsel

NEW YORK, May 14.—Bald Jack Rose, chief witness for the prosecution at the second trial of Charles Becker, charged with being the instigator of the plot that resulted in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, came from the stand yesterday at the conclusion of five hours of relentless cross-examination, bright-eyed and smiling. The bald-headed informer quietly and unfalteringly answered every question asked him by Martin T. Manton, chief of Becker's counsel. Even when Manton shouted accusations of murder at Rose and tried to make him admit that he had made his living by committing petty larceny and selling opium to the slaves of the habit of New York Chinatown, the former gambler remained unperturbed.

Rose's expression never changed nor lowered at any time. He reiterated his story of underworld intrigue and murder with a calm and matter-of-fact air. He showed no fear, no emotion and no remorse, except on one occasion. Then he said his conscience pricked him when he thought over how he had plotted to have Herman Rosenthal murdered.

TAMPICO FALLS

Rear-Admiral Mayo Reports That Federal Troops Put Up a Desperate Resistance Before Evacuating the City and Are Now Retreating Towards San Luis Potosi

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Evacuation of Tampico by the Mexican Federal garrison began at 12.50 p.m. yesterday, according to a relayed wireless despatch to the Navy Department from Rear Admiral Mayo. The Federal troops were leaving by the railroad.

Rear Admiral Mayo, at Tampico, reported to the Navy Department last night, that at 2 p.m. yesterday the Mexican Federal gunboats Bravo and Zaragoza steamed out of the Panuco river and anchored near the foreign warships outside.

The gunboats had been the chief support of the garrison and their flight was accepted by naval officers here as meaning that the Constitutionalists were about to occupy the town.

That the rebels encountered desperate resistance in their final attack on Tampico, and that they were compelled to carry their fight to the heart of the town, was indicated by Rear Admiral Mayo's report. He stated that at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, when it was reported the rebels had occupied Tampico, there was heavy firing in the plaza and that big gun firing continued.

Advices received by Constitutionalists here stated the Federals were evacuating Tampico, but details were lacking.

The Federals were retreating by way of the railroad leading to San Luis Potosi, and it was assumed that they hoped to reach Pachuca, the terminus of a railway line that leads indirectly to Mexico City. The railroad out of Tampico to Monterey is held by the Constitutionalists.

The taking of Tampico, the port next in importance to Vera Cruz, will raise many interesting questions, as the Constitutionalists have hitherto held no sea coast towns. It is possible that the Federal gunboats outside the harbor, reported by Rear Admiral Mayo, may seek to prevent arms and supplies from landing at Tampico, but such an interference with international commerce might not be tolerated by the big foreign ships lying there, and complications are possible. As there is an embargo on the exportation of arms into Mexico from the United States, ammunition could be shipped only from European ports, and hitherto there has been no interference by Gen. Huerta with foreign commerce other than that with the United States. With success at Tampico, the Constitutionalists will press hard for possession of Saltillo and San Luis Potosi, where the garrison from Tampico is believed to have fled.

First formal steps in the program of mediation in the Mexican problem were taken here yesterday. Justice Lamar and Frederic W. Lehmann, together with their secretary, H. Percival Dodge, who will represent the United States, paid their respects to the three South American envoys who have undertaken by diplomacy to solve the Mexican question.

The representatives were presented by Counsellor Robert Lansing, acting Secretary of State, in the absence of Mr. Bryan. It was a call of courtesy, but paved the way for informal conferences in advance of the first meeting at Niagara Falls, Ont., next Monday.

Coincidentally, word was received by the mediators direct from the Mexican Foreign Minister at Mexico City that the Huerta representatives would arrive at Havana last night or this morning and leave immediately for Niagara Falls via Key West. An earlier despatch from Consul Canada at Vera Cruz intimated that the Huerta delegates might delay several days at Havana.

NO ACTION ON PETITION FOR STREET PAVING

Residents on Hunter Street West of Aylmer, Ask That Work be Done.

A letter was read from the Board of Education by Alderman Duncan, chairman of the Board of Works, last evening, requesting the use of the city's grader to go over the ground in front of the west ward school. On motion of Alderman McIntyre and Anderson the request was granted.

A communication was received from Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., requesting that London Street, east of Reid, be included on the route of the watering cart. As the contracts for this season have been awarded, no action was taken.

Street Paving.

A largely signed petition was received from residents along Hunter Street asking that that street be paved from Bethune to Belmont Avenue. The matter was left in abeyance.

Gravel for Roads.

Alderman Saunders asked for gravel on Romaine Street, and then every member of the Board had a place in mind where a little gravel would help a great deal. Mayor Buller suggested that when they start to remove the surface off Charlotte Street they could hire a couple of dump carts and go all over the city, filling in the holes. This was decided upon. The Mayor asked if the date had been set for the Board's annual tour of the city and was informed that it is not far distant.

TO DEDICATE NEW ORGAN

REV. DR. HANSON OF MONTREAL AT KNOX CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Rev. Dr. George Hanson of Erskine Church, Montreal, who will officiate at the dedication services of the new pipe organ in Knox Church on Sunday next, is a preacher of great repute. He came to Montreal from Belfast in 1912, after Erskine Church had issued its second call to him. Previous to his work in Belfast he was minister in Marylebone Presbyterian Church in London, England.

He is described as a clear and forceful preacher, who speaks out of the experience of life in a most persuasive and convincing way. He has an exceedingly attractive personality and fearlessly delivers the message he has for the people. He is an author also, and his book, "The Resurrection and the Life," has attracted wide attention and admiration. Rev. Dr. Griffith Thomas of Toronto, was a neighbor of Dr. Hanson in London, and wrote of Dr. Hanson's coming to Canada, "the Presbyterian Church in Canada is to be congratulated on the acquisition of so noteworthy a preacher and teacher. At the great Presbyterian Congress in Toronto last May, Dr. Hanson was a distinguished factor in shaping its spirit as he was on the program each day for devotional themes. The people of Peterboro will enjoy a great privilege on Sunday when Dr. Hanson will be here in Knox Church. At the morning service he will dedicate the new pipe organ now being installed.

SIDEWALK TO BE MOVED IN ### STREET LINE ON CHARLOTTE STREET IS INSIDE THE PRESENT WALK.

CHANGE WILL ASSIST PROPOSED STREET RAILWAY EXTENSION.

When the Street Railway Company signified their intention of extending their line west on Charlotte Street from Park, City Engineer Parsons was instructed to look into the matter of straightening the street in front of the lots directly west of Park Street. Government Surveyor F. W. Wilkins went over the property, and his letter was read to the Board of Works by Mr. Parsons last evening.

The line is some eight feet inside the sidewalk on the south side, while on the north side, residents have erected fences which are on city property. Mr. Parsons pointed out how, if the sidewalk on the south side were moved in seven or eight feet, nearer to Mr. Brown's residence, the bend could be eliminated and the cost would be about $100.00. The line on the north side runs through Mr. Medd's verandah, and through the lawn in front of Mrs. Fitzgerald's property, but it is unnecessary to touch that side.

On motion of Aldermen Johnston and Stratton, the sidewalk on the south side will be moved in accordance to Mr. Parson's plans, while Alderman Duncan, and the Engineer will interview the residents on the north side, and report back to the Board. In an effort to protect the city's rights, it was suggested by Mayor Buller that the parties using the property pay a nominal rent. This will be decided upon at the next meeting.

DAMAGES OF $1,000 AWARDED

Italian was Killed by Accident at Kendry.

Damages of $1,000 were awarded to the executors of the estate of the late Antanio Andreola against the Canadian Pacific Railway yesterday before Mr. Justice Britton and a jury in the Assize Court at Toronto. It will be remembered that Andreola was killed when struck by the 7.57 p.m. Toronto train about a quarter of a mile west of Kendry Station on September 4th last. Damages of $5000 were asked. The railway company claimed Andreola was a trespasser at the time the accident occurred. He was employed by the C.P.R. as a laborer, and had left the boarding cars near Kendry and came to Peterboro for supplies. They were travelling on a hand car, and when returning met the above train, but they were unable to see it in the darkness. The other men jumped, but Andreola was killed.

THE DEBATE ON THE C.N.R.

THE LAURIER OPPOSITION at Ottawa is in a quandary to attack the government's proposals on grounds acceptable to all members of the Liberal party. The Liberal opposition is far from being a unit in opposing the Government's plan of assisting the railroad. Western Liberal members are plainly in an embarrassing position, when both the Liberal Governments of Alberta and Saskatchewan have made representations to the Conservative Government that the C.N.R. should be assisted. Moreover, the Liberal members from Nova Scotia are in the same situation in view of the letter of Premier Murray of the Liberal Nova Scotian Government, asking that aid should be extended to the C. N. R. The opposition has in addition been overwhelmed by the large amount of information which the government has laid on the table of the House of Commons. Day by day, Premier Borden has brought down voluminous returns with regard to the C.N.R., and the Liberal complaint of lack of information has been dispelled, so much so, that they are somewhat amazed and lost amid the wealth of detail.

The Daily Journal of Commerce of which the Honourable W. S. Fielding, Liberal ex-Finance Minister, is Editor-in-Chief, has this to say of the Government's action respecting aid to the Canadian Northern Railway.

> "To allow the concern to fail in its finances and leave the various railway lines in an unfinished state would be a national calamity that could not be seriously contemplated by any one possessed of a due sense of responsibility. The company, if it is in difficulty, as is alleged, must be helped, and the only questions to be considered are the form and extent of the assistance and the proper means of protecting, as far as that may be possible, the Dominion in the way of security for the aid to be given."

This newspaper further conveys the idea that the government has not gone too far. The latest report of the gross earnings of the C.N.R. for the fiscal year, July 1st, to date, shows an increase of $771,800, a substantial fact in support of the government's policy to aid this enterprise.

In view of all the facts it is confidently expected that the debate on the C.N.R. will be of short duration, chiefly because the Liberals have no substantial ground for adverse criticism of the government's policy. The lateness of the session also indicates a short debate and it is thought that the opposition will merely move a few amendments and allow the government legislation to pass.

EMPIRE CITIZENSHIP.

THE NEW LAW on naturalization, introduced in the House of Commons by the Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, is uniform with a bill already introduced in the British Parliament, and provides for an imperial naturalization. But it does more since it repeals the present Canadian naturalization law. The new law, which is infinitely more rigid than the old one, means the end of the wholesale naturalization of foreigners which has been such a scandal in Western Canadian elections. The present law required only three years' residence to become naturalized. The new law will require five years' residence in some part of the British empire with the last year spent in Canada. In addition there is a certain educational test. Hundreds of foreigners have been naturalized in the past who did not know a word of English but the new law will require an adequate knowledge of either French or English.

There is one interesting modification in the present law. Under the proposed legislation it is only required that the father o[illegible]ch a person should be a natural born British subject.

Our naturalization which is now uniform with that of Great Britain, will be effective in the United Kingdom and the empire generally and in all self-governing dominions which also adopt this legislation. It is expected that Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, and Newfoundland will pass similar legislation so that there will be real imperial naturalization—a great step forward in imperial unity.

THE MONTREAL NEWS.

RECENTLY, it was asserted that over a million dollars had been lost in newspaper enterprises in Montreal. The Chicago Record-Herald lost $400,000 in 1913, yet in many respects it has been for years one of the very best newspapers in its section of the country. The Inter-Ocean is to be sold at auction. In New Orleans the Times-Democrat and the Picayune were forced to unite, as two morning papers could not be supported in the territory. The number of wrecks in journalism recently is significant of the effect of the higher cost of newspaper living.

Facts like these are pointless shafts against the publishers of the Montreal Daily Mail. They are proceeding to the publication of a new evening daily in Montreal, the News, with an optimism that is inspiring. A real evening newspaper in that city should be a benefit. All we can say now is that if the new enterprise is as good a product as the morning edition, the Mail, it will be a good paper and should succeed. With the advent of the Daily Journal of Commerce, Montreal leads in new journalistic ventures and the coming of the new evening daily will be watched with interest by a large number of people outside the big city.

SANDFORD EVANS TO INVESTIGATE.

W. SANDFORD EVANS, Chairman of the Georgian Bay Canal Commission, has been in the Capital organizing the commission for the purpose of inquiry into the Georgian Bay Canal scheme. Before calling on interested parties to give evidence before the board, it is the intention to gather all the statistics and facts already available. This data is expected to cover the question of traffic of the Great Lakes, shipping facilities on the Lakes, and diversion of traffic to American ports. The commission propose to secure in this way the most reliable statistical material. It is thought that this is the logical method of proceeding and most desirable for the interested public as well as the commission. As soon as this material is collected, which will probably be in about two weeks, it will be rendered available to all. If this method were not followed public bodies and individuals who desired to give evidence before the commission would be under the necessity of collecting more or less fully these facts and it is thought that it would be economical, both for the public and the commission to have these collected by an adequate staff. As soon as this is done the commission will be prepared to hear the views of the interested parties.

A GREAT SINGER.

THE DEATH OF Lillian Nordica removes one of the greatest singers from the stage. Ever since 1880 when she made her operatic debut at Brescia, Italy, in La Traviata, she has been charming music lovers of two hemispheres. Endowed with a magnificent voice from birth and musical talents of a high order, her wonderful success was not attained by any royal road. There was a tremendous amount of exacting work, slow, slave-driving toil behind her great performances and charming songs. She had to struggle with the dry details of foreign languages, points of grammar and pronunciation; she had to study the thought and spirit of the great operas in order to give her roles the right musical interpretation. She had to drill her voice constantly, go to rehearsals, study the history of her roles as well as master the great quantity of technical details connected with music and singing.

Few of those who heard her sing thought of the path by which she was enabled to give such an excellent rendering of her roles. To do good work in any calling, particularly in the higher fields of activity, requires slow, laborious toil. Nordica's success in a life-time that was not long, is a tribute to the patient work for which she had persistency enough to accomplish. She did the best that she could for it was said of her that she sang oftener than any other soprano, and that "there never was a role she could not sing, and never was a time she was not ready." Bliss Carmen's words have a fitting application to her.

"Have little care that Life is brief,
And less that Art is long,
Success is in the silences
Though fame is in the song."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE DEBATE on the amendment of the Honourable H. R. Emmerson, condemning the Conservative Administration of the Intercolonial Railway has redounded to the credit of the Borden Government. It was brought out in the debate that the government has been accomplishing the transformation of the road from a political railway, to one that is governed by business principles. It has involved an increase in freight rates in some cases, but the wages of the men on the railway have been raised, and many improvements inaugurated that tend to produce an efficient service that has not been too marked in the past.

THE ANTICIPATIONS of Liberals regarding the speech of Colonel, the Honourable Sam Hughes were sadly disappointed. They had expected considerable fire works and to involve the minister in a few entanglements. But the Minister of Militia had fortified himself well for the occasion, and criticism of his speech dwindled to a mere nothing before his volleys of fact and countermoves of comparisons. Thus, when he said buying rifle ranges by public arrangement would be like duck hunting with a brass band his epigram was decidedly effective.

MORNING SESSIONS have been started in Ottawa. These are always the sign of early prorogation. Members will have to get up earlier and legislation is rushed through. What remains to be done is very little of a contentious character, so that little delay is expected from the opposition for the legislation that remains to be passed.

Conclusive Evidence.

Montreal Mail.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's indignation over the proposed new agreement with the C.N.R. will likely be accepted as pretty good evidence that the interests of the public are well protected by it.

Have a Heart for the Telephone Girl.

Christian Guardian.

We are told that the average term of the 125,000 telephone girls in the United States is only three years. They respond to about 140 calls an hour, and each call is accompanied by four flashes of light. This results in eye-strain, followed by headache, dullness and exhaustion. It is well to remember this, and not to be too much put out when the wrong number is given or some other mistake occurs. The telephone girls have no easy task.

Is It False Economy?

Montreal Gazette.

In 1895 the revenue of the United Kingdom was £101,697,000, or $508,480,000. For 1915 it will be increased to meet an expenditure of £204,750,000, or $1,023,000,000. Though some of the increase is due to the greater wealth accumulated in recent years, most of it is the product of new taxes, many of them made necessary by experiments in state socialism. While this increase in [illegible] of about 100 per cent. was being made the population increased about 12 per cent. American countries are not alone in thinking more of the spending of money than of the power of the people to provide it.

MISFITS

By Walt Mason

So many men now wield the pen, who should be herding cattle! So many shirks who should be clerks now make the welkin rattle! So many skates are filling dates as Hamlet or Othello, who ought to rush and get a brush and paint a cowshed yellow! I go to church and take my perch where I can hear the speaking, and then the priest knocks galley east my comfort, with his squeaking. I concerts seek, say twice a week, to hear some music charming; then tuneless jays a discord raise—they should be busy farming. An there are dames who jar our frames, with their "dramatic readings;" we wish they'd quit, and sew and knit, but they resist our pleadings. Of 'leven men it seems that ten to wrong trades are committed; we seldom find a man whose grind is that for which he's fitted. Thus knights and peers are auctioneers and blacksmiths are musicians, and gifted bards are spading yards, and grocers are physicians. Yet let's be gay, the livelong day, and dance and sing and frolic; it will not help to kick or yelp, or have eight kinds of colic.

Birthdays of Note

THURSDAY, MAY FOURTEENTH

Sir Frederick Borden, who was continuously minister of militia during the entire period of the Laurier administration, and who is the head of the Borden family in Canada, was born at Cornwallis, N.S., sixty-seven years ago to-day. His father, the late Johnathan Borden, was the paternal uncle of Premier Borden, so that Sir Frederick is a first cousin of Canada's present prime minister. Educated for his father's profession, Sir Frederick began practise as his assistant in the village of Canard afterwards removing to Canning where he has ever since resided. He early became interested in military affairs and was appointed surgeon of the local regiment of militia. This connection led to his being chosen for the portfolio of militia and defence in 1896. He had meanwhile enjoyed a lengthy Parliamentary experience, entering the House of Commons for the first time in 1874 and sitting continuously therein until 1911 with the exception of a term from 1882 to 1887.

Also born to-day:—

E. R. Wood, financier, Toronto, born in Peterboro, 1866.

SOMETIMES I think if some of the things we larned in boyhood were meant to be forgot, we wouldn't have got 'em so thorough. There's a lot of leetle things mixed up with my boyhood, slender meshes in the fabric of life, so's to speak, that stand right up through the old weave t'-day bright as ever. I kin recollect without strainin' my mem'ry one iota, old scenes I knowed then, old tunes I uster whistle, and an old prayer I uster pray—and do still fer that matter—and one er two other things as had an important part in my early shapin.'

In other words jest as a buildin', straight and plumb, depends pretty much on its foundation, a man's success er failure in life depends a good deal on his early trainin'.

FEATHERED SCAVENGERS.

Crows as Track Cleaners and Gulls as Government Workers.

As unique a crew of track cleaners and police as could be found anywhere is enlisted in the service of the Southern Pacific railroad. The members are neither Americans nor foreigners. It is a crew of crows.

The big black birds built their nests near Hornbrook, Ore., on the northern division of the road. They have become fat and sleek living off the generosity of tourists and of dining car employees.

When the trains arrive at Hornbrook the crows leave their roosting places and circle about the depot. As the limiteds pull out the birds follow them for five or six miles. Scraps are thrown to them, and they devour every bit, policing the tracks and acting as scavengers. The section hands and other employees of the road realize the value of these birds and keep them from being molested. Trains crossing the Great Salt Lake are followed by sea gulls, the latter, like the crows, feasting on scraps thrown from the diners.

In a similar way the great lakes are patrolled by white winged gulls. The government protects them, appreciating the work they do in following the ships or hovering over the fishing grounds and keeping the waters free of pollution.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Feathered Police.

"Our aerial police force" is the picturesque and at the same time accurate phrase that the state ornithologist of Massachusetts has applied to the birds. They concentrate rapidly on any unusual irruption of insects or of the smaller animals that we class as vermin. They guard alike the property of rich and poor, demand no salary, accept no "graft" and ask only to be protected in the performance of their beneficent work.—Youth's Companion.

WASHING DISHES.

There Is an Art In This Homely Everyday Duty.

THE PROPER EQUIPMENT.

When Washing Cutlery It Is Always Best to Use a Good Silver Soap. This Method Does Away With the Weekly Cleaning.

The art of dishwashing has become almost extinct in this quick going age, when the only way to do a thing is to do it at once and have it soon over. Yet real dishwashing is an art.

Dishwashing requires two dishpans, one in which to wash and the other to rinse the dishes; an abundance of heavy linen towels, some lighter ones for glasses, a good dish mop and dishcloths. The dishcloth should be of strong linen. Stair crash is excellent for this purpose, as it will become soft enough to be flexible and is very durable. Make these cloths about ten inches long, of narrow crash and hem them to prevent the edges from fraying when they are put through the laundry.

First of all, the dishes should be gathered up and properly scraped, then held for a moment under the hot water faucet to take off the first coating of grease. Any dishes or knives and forks used for fish should be carefully wiped with paper, as dishcloths are infected by fish immediately.

Put the dishes in hot suds. Use the dish mop freely and transfer them to the other pan to be rinsed. Let this second pan be very large and have a wooden drainer fitted in two inches from the bottom, so that the boiling water poured over the dishes will drain off them. This is the best and safest way of draining.

In washing the silver use a silver soap and thus avoid the weekly silver cleaning day, with the added inducement that the silver is constantly bright.

Wash spiders, pots and kettles separately and with an iron dishcloth. Pots and kettles should be washed inside and outside and thoroughly wiped before being set away. The coffee pot and tea kettle should be boiled out at least once a week with soda and water to keep them tastelessly clean.

New Year Calls In China.

New Year calls are the custom in China, and you have to pay them in festive attire of silk or satin.

These fine clothes (says Archdeacon Moule in the Chinese People) can be hired, the price being gradually lowered as the hours of the first six days pass by. We complained once of the very late arrival of a caller, who should have been among the first to salute us. He replied that money was scarce, and he was obliged to wait for the cheapest day to secure a fine robe already donned and doffed by a dozen of others. During these ceremonial days the whole community seems to give itself over to indiscriminate gambling, a practice illegal and condemned both by Chinese law and standards of morality, but winked at during this season.

Anglo-Saxon Poise.

First Sport (looking at magnificent view of the Alps)—Not bad, that. Second Sport—Yes, it's all right, but you needn't rave about it like a bally poet. —London Punch.

"No Questions Asked."

Advertising in England for lost property and adding "No questions will be asked," is illegal, the penalty being £50.

SERVICEABLE SERGES.

They Make Nice Frocks For Girl's School Wear.

RED SERGE DRESS.

After all serge makes the most serviceable frocks for the little folks. The gown illustrated here is designed in red, with touches of white on the shoulders and sleeves. The blouse is fastened with fancy buttons and is brought low on the body, a wide girdle of satin encircling the hips. The skirt has a single box plait in front with another in the back. This makes a pretty and useful school frock for the little girl.

Lingerie collars will be worn on suits for late spring and summer, collars and cuffs of embroidered batiste, plain organdy or lace. Fancy silks, too, will be used in light colors and novelty printed effects.

FLORAL TRIMMINGS.

A Single Flower on the Corsage Gives a Smart Touch to the Gown.

The use of a single flower on the corsage is one of the most effective decorative fancies of the season. The flower may be of satin or velvet. It is considered very chic to select a futurist flower, which is, of course, a somewhat bizarre variation of the natural type. The restaurant gown illustrated here is suitable for tangoing or for wear at a smart restaurant in the evening. It is carried out in one of the smart shades of green with the vest of embroidered net and the shoulders trimmed with passementerie. A very decided pannier falls over the skirt, which, while rather narrow, is slashed below to permit freedom of motion.

GREEN SATIN GOWN.

In many of the spring gowns there is evidenced a return of the pannier drawn in at the knees, which is usually becoming to the average figure.

Such panniers are draped with considerable fullness at the waist line in order that the puffed effect may be obtained below the hips. The hem is sharply drawn into the figure, and the waist line is accentuated by a wide girdle of velvet ribbon into which is tucked a careless bunch of roses.

IOWA WOMAN TELLS OTHERS

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Carried Her Safely Through Change of Life.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—"At the Change of Life the doctor said I would have to give up my work and take my bed for some time as there was no help for me but to lie still. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and kept up my work and now I am over the Change and that is all I took. It was better for me than all the doctor's medicines I tried. Many people have no faith in patent medicines but I know this is good."—Mrs. E. J. RICKETS, 364 8th Avenue, West, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

VERDICT OF THE PRINCE.

Napoleon's Great Pride in the Infant King of Rome.

A certain Frenchman of spirit once found himself in great distress. It was necessary to find a means of livelihood or die in misery. There was a vacant place that was worth 10,000 francs a year. He wanted it, but how could he get it? It was under the first empire. The king of Rome was a child in the cradle. The aspirant thought of an ingenious plan to bring about the success of his hopes.

He wrote a petition, addressed it to the young king and, through the friendship of a general officer attached to the emperor, got it presented to Napoleon.

The emperor took the petition and, seeing the superscription, began to smile. "Very well," said he, "let the petition be carried to him to whom it is addressed."

Four chamberlains conducted our hero before the cradle of the infant king. After a profound bow he began in a high voice to read his petition. From time to time he bowed before the cradle. As is the manner of infants, the child uttered several unintelligible sounds.

After having taken his leave respectfully the petitioner returned to Napoleon, who said, "Ah, well, what response?"

"Sire, his majesty said nothing."

"Who says nothing gives consent," said the emperor. "The petition is granted."—Youth's Companion.

IMPROVING THEM.

It's mean, but we all like to do it
If we can connect with a date
To puncture the ego inflated
And smile as we watch it deflate,
To prick with a hatpin the pompous
And grin as the wind makes escape,
To drive with a steam roller over
The one who is stuck on his shape.

There's nothing that rouses the meanness
That's latent in all of mankind
Like meeting one puffed like a porpoise
And all of the cheese in his mind,
And, viewing pretense as it passes
And reading it just like a book,
The person who views them is tempted
To giggle and call for the hook.

The man who has nothing to back him
But bluster and buncomb and bluff,
Whose greatness is founded on something
Substantial and strong as a puff,
May hope and expect in his honor
The world its obeisance will make,
But he has another guess coming
And things that will keep him awake.

The man who is modest and normal,
Who takes what he only deserves,
Has ever an eye out for merit.
The egotist gets on his nerves.
And so can you blame him for trying
Whenever a case is at hand
To shrink to the normal the ego,
By this means improving the brand?

Only Natural.

"He is always talking about the dinners his mother used to get up when he was a boy," said the young married woman.

"Yes," answered the sympathetic neighbor. "Men always do that. You see, when he was a boy, somebody else had to do the worrying about the cost of food. He simply sat down as a guest, with no financial responsibilities whatever. It is only natural that his enjoyment should have been greater."

He Had No Kick.

"I really believe," said her jealous fiance, "that you permit other men to kiss you."

"Surely you can't object," replied the bright girl, "for you've always said you were opposed to monopolies."

Safer.

"What are you going to hunt in Africa?"

"Tigers."

"But there are no tigers there."

"That is just the kind of a place I prefer to hunt them."

String Them Along.

"What are you doing for amusement?"

"Thinking of buying an automobile."

"Where is the amusement in that?"

"Every salesman in town is after me to take me riding."

Simple Trial.

Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast.
If so we ought to give the thing a test
By sending phonographs to every foreign shore.
The listening heathen then might rage
no more.

Proper Place.

"How is your rubber plantation?"

"No good."

"Poor investment?"

"Yes, we got it in the neck."

It Certainly Was Embarrassing

to David Kerr, boss of Belmont, when his charming, motherless daughter Gloria unexpectedly returned from school and a European trip, which, combined, had kept her away from home for many years and deprived her of all knowledge of the occupation of her father, whom she supposed to be a real estate operator, high in society. But that was but the beginning of embarrassments. Kerr was a typical boss of the most brutal type, far removed from "society," determined to use his power to make a place for Gloria. Gloria's bitter awakening to the truth, her falling in love with a young editor who opposes her father, and many other incidents make up a drama of absorbing interest and power. FLOUNCES FOR HER LITTLE MAJESTY.

Little girl styles follow very closely after those of mamma and here she is in quaintly ruffled and peplum effect in a simple design that is easy to follow. Machine embroidered voile and plain voile side pleated make a one-piece frock of which the upper part is cut in two pieces, giving kimona and bolero suggestions.

About the first thing a woman does after moving into a house is to look in all the closets to see if the last tenants left any family skeletons.

To some men no deeper tragedy could be imagined than the story of the Britisher who hunted his lost wife for thirty-seven years—and then found her.

VITALITY REGAINED KIDNEYS CURED

Health Restored By "Fruit-a-tives"

HAGERSVILLE, ONT., Aug. 26th. 1913.

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My kidneys and liver were not doing their work, and I became all run-down. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, I decided to try them.

Their effect, I found more than satisfactory. Their action was mild and the results all that could have been expected.

My liver and kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes, and I regained my old time vitality. Today, I am as well as ever, the best health I have ever enjoyed, and I unhesitatingly give you this testimonial for publication if you wish"

B. A. KELLY.

In hundreds of letters received by the Fruit-a-tives Company, the same expression is used "Fruit-a-tives is the best kidney remedy in the world". At any rate, these tablets have proved the best to the hundreds of men and women who have been cured by taking them. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

A DAY OF FLUFFY WRAPS.

The dressy wraps of the spring are the most charming, picturesque garments that women are wearing, they are so femininely fluffy and graceful of design. Here is one of shot taffeta moire in green and blue, cut on loose lines and finished with flaring frills at neck, sleeves and edge. The front is snap fastened together under a self ornament. While these little wraps are usually made in taffeta or moire, Egyptian and mandarin crepes are used as well, in block or colors, and they serve for afternoon and evening.

SHOULD GET AT BOSSES

SENATOR DAVIS WOULD MAKE EMPLOYERS LIABLE FOR TIP-TAKING

OTTAWA, May 14. — The Senate gave the bill against tipping a long step forward yesterday by putting it through the committee stage.

Senator Davis, the author of the bill, said he thought there should be an amendment, which would make a distinction between the penalties provided against employers and employes. He would not like to see a boy or girl who took remuneration for helping a rich person in a hotel fined $25 or $50 or given a term in jail. If employers were under penalties they would see their employes took no tips. The Senator said that in Winnipeg and Montreal waiters had formally expressed their approval of the bill.

Hon. Arthur Meighen introduced in the Commons yesterday morning a bill permitting the establishment of co-operative credit societies throughout the country. He said that the measure was practically the same as the measure introduced last session, and it did not differ essentially from the measure introduced in 1907.

Hon. J. D. Hazen brought in a bill to provide loans of nine and two million dollars for the Montreal and Quebec Harbor Commissions. The loans are to run twenty years and the interest rate is to be 3 1-2 per cent.

In a bill introduced by Hon. Mr. White the number of commissioners of the national battlefields of Quebec is increased from five to seven, and they are given power to pass bylaws to administer the affairs of the commission. They shall also have power to purchase without waiting for an order in council lands already authorized by Parliament to be purchased, when the funds have been provided.

SEVEN BOYS ARE IN JAIL

YOUTHS ARE CHARGED WITH BURGLARIZING RESIDENCE

GALT, May 14. — Miss Dickson's residence, which in the absence of the mistress abroad has been left in charge of a servant, was entered by burglars and ransacked from cellar to garret. Every room was visited. The drawers of bureaus, sideboards, desks, and other articles of furniture were opened and their contents strewn over the floor. Closets and trunks were emptied, and a general search of the interior made for valuables. The housekeeper discovering the raid, notified Chief of Police Gorman, who found a clue which led to the rounding up yesterday of seven boys, the oldest 15, suspected of the crime. Two more are wanted, but have disappeared. Just how much loot was secured is not known, but a considerabel quantity of stolen stuff has been recovered. The boys were remanded till Saturday to allow the police time for additional work on the case.

MAPS NO GOOD SAYS ROOSEVELT

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados, May 14.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt yesterday replied to Sir Clements Markham's criticism of his discovery of an unknown river in Brazil, by saying that the British geographer had unconsciously paid the greatest possible tribute to what he had done. He declared the best existing maps to be utterly wrong in regard to all this part of South America, and said that they made mistakes as to the courses of the Gyprana and Juruena affluents.

The mountains given on the maps were, according to the colonel, mostly imaginary. He said that where his party had remarked on a mountain the maps indicated a valley.

THRILLING STORY OF SCOTT'S DASH

seals and thus obtained food and fuel. Taylor's party, which arrived by the Terra Nova on January 27, arrived at the hut on March 14. The party had explored what is known as Dry Valley, which is entirely free from snow. It is a promising region of limestone, rich in garnets. The gravels were washed for gold, but only magetic was found. Thanks to Ponting, our photographic artist, we have a splendid collection. We must now hurry through four months of darkness. The winter seemed to pass quickly, as every man was hard at work on his special subject. On June 27, Dr. Wilson, set out to explore the incubation of the Emperor penguins. In the olden days a rookery of 3,000 of the birds existed, but now about only 300 could be found. Wilson described the birds as stupid stating that they had been setting on rounded pieces of ice, imagining them to be eggs. At Cape Crozier, Wilson and his men built a stone hut with a canvas roof. On one occasion the roof was swept away by a hurricane, and the party was forced to lay for two days in their sleeping bags, half smothered by the fine drifting snow. On their return they wanted bread, butter and jam most, and loaves disappeared with extraordinary speed. Their sleeping bags weighed 47 pounds at the start of the journey, and on the return 118 pounds, mostly ice. Wilson's clothes had to be cut off him.

From the journey we derived experience in the matter of sledging rations. This was the ration for the colder weather which we expected. 16 ounces of biscuit, 12 ounces of pemmican, 3 ounces of sugar, 2 ounces of butter, .07 ounces of tea, .06 ounces of cocoa, which equals 34.4 ounces of food daily for each man. The pemmican is beef extract with 60 per cent. fat.

During the second half of the winter we were all busy preparing for the sledge expedition to the Pole. Food rations had to be prepared, instruments calibrated, sledges specially fitted to carry the travelling equipment and our own clothes adapted for sledge according to experience gained in the depot and winter journeys.

On October 24 the advance guard of the Southern party, consisting of Day, Lashly, Hooper and myself, left with two motor sledges. We had with us three tons of stores, pony food and petrol, carried on six sledges. The object of sending forward such a weight of stores was to save the ponies' legs over the variable sea-ice, which was in some places hummocky, and in others too slippery to stand on.

Plans Worked Well.

Captain Scott's plans worked easily and well. The ponies pulled splendidly, and their masters vied with each other in their care and management. Oates always kept a very careful look-out on his charges. The tough little beasts pulled about 650 lbs. each, and were fed daily on 10 lbs. of oats and 3 lbs. of oilcake. On camping, large walls would be erected by the pony leaders to shelter their animals from the wind, and while this was being done, the cook of each tent would prepare the supper hoosh. We were all so happy and full of life on the march over the great ice barrier that we often would wrestle and skylark at the end of the day. We had our good and bad weather, and we had our turns of snow blindness. This ailment was common to the ponies and dogs as well as to ourselves. Depots were made every 65 miles. They were marked by big black flags, and we saw one of them, Mt. Hooper, 9 miles away. Each depot contained one week's rations for every returning unit. That outward Barrier march will long be remembered—it was so full of life, health and hope. Our sad days came when the ponies were killed one by one. But hunger soon defeated sentiment, and we used to relish our pony meat, which made the hoosh more solid and satisfactory.

Taking sights when we stopped was a bitterly cold job, fingers had to be bared to work the little theodolite screws, and in the biting wind one's finger tips soon went. On Christmas Day we marched 17¼ miles, and during the forenoon again crossed a badly crevassed area. Lashly celebrated his forty-fourth birthday by falling into a crevasse 8 feet wide. The laden sledge just bridged the chasm, and poor Lashly was suspended below spinning round with 80 feet of clear space beneath him. We had great difficulty in hauling him up on account of his being directly under the sledge. When he reached the surface, one of the party wished him a happy Christmas and another many happy returns. I will not tell you what Lashly's reply was.

On January 3, Captain Scott came into our tent and told us that he was sure he could reach the Pole if my party gave up one man, and made the homeward journey short-handed. Of course we consented, and Bowers was taken into the Polar party. On January 4 the last supporting party, consisting of Lashly, Crean and myself, marched south to lat. 87 deg. 34 min., with the Polar party, and seeing that they were travelling rapidly, yet easily, we halted, shook hands all round, and said goodbye.

Off to the Pole.

Up to this time no traces of the successful Norwegians had been seen, and we all fondly imagined that our flag would be the first to fly at the South Pole. We gave three huge cheers for the Polar party as they stepped off, and then turned our sledge and commenced our homeward march of nearly 800 miles. We frequently looked back until we saw the last of Captain Scott and his four companions, a tiny black speck on the horizon, and little did we think that we were the last to see them alive, that our three cheers were the last appreciation they would ever know.

I developed scurvy about January 17, when we had 500 miles to go. My condition became daily more serious until I entirely lost the use of my legs. But I could not afford to give up as I was the only one in the party who knew anything about navigation, and I had to keep them marching until they could see Mount Erebus, or some known landmark. When 75 miles from Hut Point I ordered Crean and Lashly to leave me with my sleeping-bag and some food, and go on, sending out relief if possible. They refused to do this, and strapping me on the sledge, dragged me 40 miles in four days, helped by a southerly wind. When 35 miles from Hut Point we had a heavy snowfall, which made it impossible for Lashly and Crean to move the sledge.

Crean then left us on February 19, and marched for eighteen hours with nothing to eat but a few biscuits. He plodded on stolidly through the soft snow, and eventually reached Hut Point utterly exhausted and numbed with cold; but he gave our whereabouts to Dr. Atkinson, who was there with Demitri and the dog teams, and they came out and rescued us. Lashly undoubtedly saved my life by his careful nursing. It was very brave of him to stay with me, as he had only had three meals left, and if relief had not come in time he could never have walked in without food, as he himself was very done after hauling in my sledge-team for over 1,500 miles. Crean volunteered to come out again with Atkinson, but was, of course, not allowed to.

And now we will turn again to the Polar party itself. They covered the 145 geographical miles that remained in a fortnight. Captain Scott came across Amundsen's dog tracks soon after lat. 88 deg., and followed them to the Polar area. Scott, Wilson, Oakes, Bowers and Seaman Evans reached the South Pole on January 17, 1912. They fixed the exact spot by means of a 4-inch theodolite, and the result of their careful observations located the Pole at a point which only differed from Amundsen's by half a mile, as shown by his flag. This difference actually meant that the British and Norwegian observers differed by one scale division on the theodolite, which was graduated to half a minute of arc. Experts in navigation and surveying will always look on this splendidly accurate determination as a fine piece of work by our own people as well as by the Norwegian expedition.

Scott and his companions had done their best, and never from one of them came an uncharitable remark. On January 19 the homeward march was commenced; the party had before them a distance of over 900 miles. They came back at a fine pace over the ice-capped plateau. A blizzard stopped them from travelling on January 25, but otherwise their progress was not retarded materially. Seaman Evans was causing anxiety, and his condition naturally worried Captain Scott and his comrades. But, however great their anxieties, they looked after Evans carefully, and hoped to pull him through, but he fell and suffered a concussion of the brain from which he died. Then the heroic Oakes, who knew he could not last very long, and was only eating up rations which his comrades should have, and also holding them back, committed suicide that his comrades might benefit, which they did till death claimed them also.

It seems a pity that full justice cannot be done to all the parties who went forth sledging in various directions, but a single lecture does not permit very full descriptions. Griffith Taylor, the Australian physiographer, with Debenham, Gran, and Seaman Forde, made a most valuable jouney along the coast of Victorit Land for geological and surveying purposes. I hope Taylor will prepare a paper on this this expedition at some future date. The work of the Terra Nova is also worthy of a special lecture; and here I would like to say that Lieutenant Pennell, her commander, Lieutenats Rennick and Bruce, Mr. Drake and Mr. Lillie, have worked incessantly in the ship and on the less frequented coasts of New Zealand for nearly three years. They have been ably and loyally assisted by the seaman and stokers of the Terra Nova—worthy fellows, whose byword has been "Play the Game."

PEBLO

CHILDREN'S EYESIGHT

It is astonishing the number of children who suffer from the effects of eyestrain, and many of them are unjustly blamed for being unambitious or mentally stupid. It has been shown by authentic investigation under municipal direction that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the children in public schools have defective vision and should wear glasses.

We make a specialty of examining children's sight by the most improved scientific methods, and if your child does not need glasses, we will tell you so frankly, and make no charge for the examination. But if your child should need glasses, we will guarantee that the glasses we fit are the proper correction, and will give perfect results. Our 10 years of successful optical business in this city is the guarantee we offer you.

We carry a special line of children's spectacle frames in heavy weight, in Gold Filled and Aluminum.

BOARD OF WORKS AGAIN RECOMMEND ELEVATOR

Application of Barries Ltd. is Granted in Form of Bonus

The main item on the menu which confronted the Board of Works last night, was their recommendation to the City Council to allow Mr. Thos. Barrie to erect a goods elevator in the sidewalk in front of a large building which he intends to build and use for retail and wholesale business. This recommendation was passed at the last meeting, but the City Dads looked at things from different angles, with the result that it was sent back for further consideration.

Alderman Stratton was very strong against allowing such elevators to be built and thought that if the city granted this one, they would form a precedent which would cause no end of trouble in future years. He thought the best way out of the difficulty was to pass a resolution either condemning or allowing them. The elevator would according to his mind, be unsafe to pedestrians, and for that reason he would rather see Mr. Barrie use an opening in the front of his store.

Mayor Buller expressed himself as in favor of Mr. Barrie having permission, so long as he had no back entrance. If a stranger came into the city and asked this request it would be granted, but one of Peterboro's leading merchants makes a small request when erecting a factory, and is turned down. As for the elevator being dangerous, he and City Engineer Parsons were walking along the street in Toronto recently and noticed one in particular. The doors protected the sides and a bar was placed across the front, rendering it impossible to fall into it, unless some one climbed over the sides.

Mr. Barrie, who was present, was asked if he had anything to say, but he replied that he was there merely in case the Board wanted to ask any further questions. He had tried to get permission for a right of way from Water Street, but finds it impossible. He intimated that he was negotiating with people in Toronto, and if he cannot get his goods into the factory here either by the elevator or right of way, then he'll leave his retail business here and have his factory in Toronto. In answer to a question by Alderman Green, Mr. Barrie stated that he would not cease his efforts to obtain a right of way and if he is successful then the elevator would be unnecessary.

Alderman Green then spoke of Mr. Barrie starting a factory in this city and not asking any bonus. They could grant this elevator in the form of a bonus and thus not establish a precedent, which would be used by other merchants in asking the same privilege. He put his idea in the form of a motion which was seconded by Alderman Johnston and carried.

Ald. Stratton attempted to bring about a resolution to forbid granting coal shutes or any other kind of openings in the pavement on George Street, but without success.

Messrs. E. H. D. Hall and T. Brightman waited on the Board and requested that no pavement be laid on Aylmer Street between Hunter and Brock. They claimed that the road bed is by no means solid, and could not support pavement. Mr. Hall stated that if he erected houses the buildings would face Fleming Place, and their rear would be on Aylmer Street. Mr. Brightman remarked that owing to the creek cutting in on the back of his property there is quite a strip, but too small to build on. The pavement therefore would not benefit him.

The matter was left in the hands of the City Engineer, who will report at a later date.

Wanted Damages.

Geo. Detcher, a blacksmith, applied to the Board for damages as his business is affected while paving operations are being carried on between Brock and Murray Street on George Street. The idea of granting damages did not meet with approval, but Mr. Detcher was assured that the roadway would be opened to-day.

Sewers and Sidewalks.

Several recommendations were received for sewers and sidewalks, but they were left over and will head the next list. Mayor Buller urged that something be done on Bethune Street south of Perry. He requested that a board walk be placed there, although the property belonged to the G.T.R. A suggestion was offered whereby the material be given to the residents and they would build the walk. The Chairman of the Board and Engineer will interview the residents and find if this arrangement would be satisfactory.

LEAD MONEY IS IN CIRCULATION

Look Out for Counterfeit Ten and Twenty-five Cent Pieces.

Don't take any lead money. Counterfeit ten and twenty-five cent pieces have circulated in Peterborough according to the complaints of several who have been victimized. Business men would do well to closely observe all quarters and dimes taken over the counter. The imitation is said to be one of 1913. So far only a very few of these have been accepted by the merchants.

BICYCLE RIDERS WILL HAVE TO PAY THE COSTS

Magistrate Dumble Gives Out a Warning at Police Court

Three cyclists appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on the charge of riding on the sidewalks. They pleaded guilty, and each was fined $2. His Worship remarked that in future he was going to use more stringent means in regard to these law breakers, and impose costs.

The dangerous practice has been so much increased this season that several accidents have resulted.

SEND TO CANADA FOR THEM

Nothing In The United States Like Gin Pills For The Kidneys.

"One touch of misery makes the whole world kin". One box of GIN PILLS made a royal friend of Canada of a lady living in the United States. She suffered with Kidney and Bladder Troubles for years. Found it impossible to get relief from any medicine she could buy at her home. Then she heard of GIN PILLS and sent all the way to Toronto for them. But—here is her last letter. It certainly is convincing evidence of the powers of GIN PILLS to help the Kidneys and make sufferers from Kidney and Bladder Troubles feel better.

292 Gaskell St., Woonsocket, R. I.

"I enclose post office order for $2.50 for six boxes of GIN PILLS. Please forward to me as soon as possible as I have only ten pills on hand and as I am receiving such great benefit from them, I do not want to stop taking them. I have gained seven pounds since I began taking GIN PILLS".

Mrs. W. G. GRANT.

GIN PILLS are sold by all druggists at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Sample free if you write National Drug and Chem. Co. of Canada Limited, Toronto. 210 year exceeded the earnings of the C.P.R. in 1901.

COLLAPSE OF GIGANTIC ENTERPRISE WOULD MEAN NATIONAL CALAMITY

Explaining the agreement with Mackenzie and Mann, Mr. Borden said that they undertook to pay off the temporary indebtedness and to reduce the floating debt, and thus make available for construction the entire forty-five million dollars to be raised upon the Government guarantee. In addition to this the Government received outright 40 per cent. of the capital stock of the C. N. R.

After detailing the precautions taken in the agreement to protect the Government in case of any default, the Prime Minister said that the collapse of this great enterprise would be a national calamity, and to force the road to repudiate its securities in whole or in part would be a national crime. He believed by the contract just made the Government would protect itself against any possible loss in the future, and would recoup itself for advances made in the past, and, moreover, have the satisfaction of bringing to a successful completion another great railway binding the provinces of Canada from sea to sea.

Great applause greeted the Premier upon the conclusion of his speech, but the Liberals gave no less hearty applause to Sir Wilfrid Laurier when he rose to reply. He believed, and he had always believed, that this country needed three transcontinental railways, and he quite agreed with the Prime Minister in saying that the Canadian Northern should not be allowed to collapse. But why should it collapse? Mackenzie and Mann were evidently not hard up. They were not asking money to pay off any debts. The Prime Minister had explicitly stated that every dollar to be raised upon the proposed guarantee was to go into construction. He thought these gentlemen could finish the road if they had to without any assistance. "I am not opposing them," continued Sir Wilfrid, "although they are certainly not friends of mine, but I admire them as one must always admire energy, courage and pluck."

Sir Wilfrid said that, speaking for himself and those associated with him, he must frankly say that he was opposed to the resolution. In the first place he could see no necessity for the Government again coming to the relief of Mackenzie and Mann, and, in the second place, he could not but regard the so-called security given to the Government as illusory. It was pretended that some 28 lines were to be consolidated in one transcontinental railway, but the fact was that there was to be no such consolidation or amalgamation.

When the late Government guaranteed the C. N. R. bonds in 1911 to the extent of $35,000,000, he said it was secured by a first mortgage on the line between Montreal and Port Arthur, and a second mortgage on the entire C. N. R. system. That first mortgage is as good as gold. "When I first heard of the present agreement I understood there was to be a Canadian National Transcontinental which would absorb 27 other lines, and that the Government would get a mortgage upon the entire Canadian Northern system. But I find I was mistaken. The 28 lines maintain their identity, and the Government gets a part of this $45,000,000 for construction. It does not get a mortgage on the C. N. R. system. True, it is claimed that we might, in case of default, take over the C. N. R., but to do so we would at once have to pay off debts aggregating $312,000,000."

Sir Wilfrid said that all agreed that our third transcontinental railway system must not collapse; if necessary, Government aid must be extended. But why were we dealing with 28 separate companies? He doubted if the common stock of the C. N. R. was worth a great deal, but by accepting it the Government virtually went into partnership with Mackenzie and Mann, and Mackenzie and Mann were the dominant parties.

"To recapitulate," said the Opposition leader in conclusion, "I oppose the resolution because there is nothing to show that Government aid is needed. I also oppose it because the so-called security amounts to nothing; and, finally, I say that if the Government of Canada is to go into partnership with Mackenzie and Mann, the Government should be their master and not their servant."

Solicitor-General Meighen expressed surprise at Sir Wilfrid's anxiety for the Government to acquire more common stock. Why did not the Laurier Government get some common stock in the Grand Trunk Pacific when they made their famous deal in 1903? The Solicitor-General said that it would be impossible to amalgamate the subsidiary companies within a reasonable length of time, but that the contract between the Government and the Canadian Northern was so drafted that the former would be in as good a position as though an amalgamation had been effected.

W. F. Nickle (Con., Kingston) was the next to speak. Mr. Nickle said he stood where Mr. Borden and the Conservative party stood in 1904 and 1908, when they demanded Government-ownership and Government operation of the National Transcontinental. He believed to-day that the Government should take over and operate both the Canadian Northern and the National Transcontinental. Only by Government competition could the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. be compelled to lower its rates.

Mr. Nickle declared that Sir William Mackenzie had threatened to punish Kingston on account of his (Mr. Nickle's) position. Every influence had been brought to bear upon the member for Kingston to compel him to fall into line with his party. He was sorry to differ from his party leader and party associates, but he claimed the right of free speech, and if a member of Parliament could not express his conscientious convictions without being subject to obloquy, then he preferred the freedom of the elector to the fetters of the elected.

Mr. Boivan (Lib., Sheffield) moved the adjournment of the debate.

SUFFRAGE IDEA

Dr. Anna Shaw Says It Has Become a Practical Question

ROME, N.Y., May 14. — Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw yesterday delivered a striking address on "Woman Suffrage" at the fourth public meeting under the auspices of the International Council of Women, and in the presence of a distinguished audience. Dr. Shaw said the first duty of patriotic women was to bring the practical life of governments into harmony with the fundamental principles of governments which demands the laws governing the people give equal privileges and equal opportunities to all regardless of sex.

During the past five years, she said, woman suffrage had grown from an academic to a practical question, and all political parties had realized that it was one with which governments must speedily deal. She declared that the growth of the suffrage movement had been proved in several ways.

Canadian as Governor-General.

OTTAWA, May 14. — That Canadians should be eligible for any position in Canada and that the office of Governor-General should be filled by a Canadian is the conclusion of John E. Ewart, K.C., in a statement to the Canadian press yesterday respecting the Prince of Teck's appointment, to which, however, he raises no objection.

The only safe way when you lose your temper is to hold your tongue.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, May .—At the C.P.R. live stock market trade was rather slow this morning, owing to the fact that buyers, in most cases, had filled their requirements earlier in the week, and therefore the demand was somewhat slow, but as the offerings were much smaller than generally expected a steady feeling prevailed. Choice steers sold at $8.25 to $8.50; good at $7.50 to $8; medium at $6.75 to $7; common at $5 to $6, while butchers' cows brought from $5.50 to $7.50, and bulls $5 to $7.50 per 100 pounds. Demand for milch cows was fair, the supply ample to fill requirements and sales were made at prices ranging from $60 to $90 each as to quality.

The weak feeling which has characterized the market for hogs of late was more pronounced than ever today and prices for Ontario stock scored a further decline of 15c per 100 pounds, but Manitobas were unchanged.

WEIRD TALE OF THE SEA.

When Death Was Cheated by a Rope's End in a Raging Gale.

Few living men have ever looked death so square in the face as a certain Captain Hodson, who was for years connected with the customs service at Honolulu. Before that he was a shipmaster, and the remarkable adventure of which he was the hero occurred while he was in command of a schooner that traded in the Pacific.

On this occasion the vessel was several days out from land, in the midst of the ocean, when it was overtaken by a severe gale and thick weather. For a time Captain Hodson tried to keep the schooner's head up into the wind, but the storm became so violent that there was nothing for it but to run before the gale. He brought the vessel about and, pursued by a heavy following sea, scudded it under almost bare poles to the northward.

The captain himself stood by the wheel to give the helmsman directions. The rest of the crew, having made everything as secure as possible, were crouched in the lee of the deck house.

A flaw in the wind took the schooner aback for a moment, and in that instant a tremendous wave that was following close behind mounted over the bulwarks and swept several feet deep from stern to bow.

Every one but the captain had something at hand to cling to, although the wave wrenched the man at the wheel from his hold and threw him on his face. However, he brought up against the deck house and scrambled to his feet just in time to see the rushing water carry Captain Hodson overboard.

Hodson's case was as nearly hopeless as it could well be, for it was, of course, quite impossible to put out a boat in such a sea or even to bring the schooner about to pick him up. But at the very moment that the catastrophe happened the ropes that held the gaff of the foremast in place broke and let the stick drop to the deck. One end hung out over the side of the schooner, and several broken ropes dangled from it. As Captain Hodson swept by these rope ends struck him on the head. Instinctively he seized one of them and clung to it with desperation.

The schooner tore on through the water, and her master at the end of the dangling rope was drawn in close under her bulwarks and dragged along through the waves. He could not have long withstood this sort of treatment, for the sea beat him about fiercely and flung him again and again against the side of the vessel.

But presently a gust of wind lurched the schooner well over, her lee rail plunged beneath the water, and at the same instant another wave picked the captain up and tossed him sprawling on the sloping deck. Battered as he was, he had enough strength left to seize the standing rigging and cling to it, while the water poured back again into the sea.

The helmsman had seen Captain Hodson swept away to death, as he firmly believed, and his astonishment at seeing him back again on deck may be imagined. Hodson was not seriously injured by his experience, and his vessel weathered the storm and brought her cargo safe into port.—Youth's Companion.

The Gaelic Tongue.

The Gaelic language was once spoken by a considerable number of the human race in the British isles, the Isle of Man, northern France and Spain. There is evidence that the Gaelic branch of the Celtic breed was widespread. For instance, it is maintained by some excellent authorities that the Cimbri, who threatened at one time to overwhelm Rome and who were stopped by Marius, were of Gaelic speech. The ancient language is found today in the Isle of Man, Wales, the highlands of Scotland, western Ireland and in Brittany, northern France.—New York American.

Every home owner has use for a good old-fashioned general purpose varnish.

The best varnish of this kind is which is made of carefully selected materials put together in the right way, and carefully aged. S-W Kopal has all the good qualities of a correctly made varnish, properly matured.

It is clear and brilliant, brushes out easily, dries with a fine wear resisting gloss, can be used inside and outside, and is just the varnish for touching up inside work, doors, window sills, bath rooms and for such hard outside usage as porch ceilings, porch furniture, front doors, carriages, automobiles, canoes, boats, etc.

We sell and recommend Kopal because we know that it is one of the best general purpose varnishes on the market.

RECORD CROWD AT BALL LOT FOR OPENING GAME

Mayor Buller, Judge Huycke and E. A. Peck, M.L.A., Take Part in Opening Ceremonies Following Big Parade to the Grounds

The local ball season was ushered in this afternoon by a big auto parade in which city officials, members of the London and Peterboro teams, numerous fans and the 57th band participated. Hundreds of fans made the trip across the river to Riverside Park, and the day was ideal for baseball, although the wind was a little cool. The parade which formed at the market, proceeded along Charlotte to George to Hunter to the grounds, where Mayor Buller, E. A. Peck, M.L.A., and Judge Huycke had charge of the ceremonies. The teams had a good workout previous to the speech making, the locals shaping up very good. Gorman at first showed a lot of speed and a good pair of hands, while King and Byrne also displayed mid season form. Curley Blount selected Schettler and Ryberg as his battery, while Doc. Reisling warmed up Beebe, Stieger and Hammond from whom to select his twirler. Snyder will do the receiving.

The players were lined up in deep centre and marched abreast to the plate, headed by the band, after which Mayor Buller, Judge Huycke and E. A. Peck, M.L.A., formally opened the season. The Mayor then wound up like a grandfather's clock and they were off to the strains of Umpire Bedford's mezzo-soprano.

A. W. CRESSMAN PRESENTS CUP TO CHURCH BASEBALL LEAGUE

SCHEDULE AND CONSTITUTION

At the executive meeting of the Church Baseball League held in the Y. M. C. A. Parlors last night, the League was the recipient of a beautiful silver challenge cup, the donor being A. W. Cressman, always a lover of good clean sport. Mr. Cressman has never failed in lending his support financially and otherwise to the development of athletics of all kinds.

The competition for the trophy already promises to be particularly keen, during the first season of its institution. The schedule for the spring season calls for twelve games opening with a double header at Nicholl's Oval, Saturday, May 23.

Wednesday, June 24.—George St. vs. Y. M. C. A.

Friday, June 26.—St. Paul's vs. St. Andrew's.

All evening games will start at 6.30 sharp.

The Constitution.

The constitution provides eighteen certificates for each team, eleven from each club to be in the hands of the president or secretary before the first game. Playing a player not eligible means the loss of the game. Protests in writing must be in the hands of the secretary, accompanied by $2, three days after the game and the money will be forfeited if the protest is not allowed. The executive appoints umpires, who will have full authority. Postponed games will be played at the end of the season if the league standing be affected. The league will supply all balls, catcher's mask, mitt and pad, and also pay for umpires. All games will be played on Nicholl's Oval, unless otherwise stated.

LEAGUE NOTES

Rain again played havoc with the box office receipts around the circuit only London and Ottawa getting down to business in a contest which the Senators won by the score of 2-0. Heck and Kubat opposed each other, each allowing five hits. Ottawa had one error, while London slipped up three.

The London crew arrived this morning in the early hours and are quartered at the Oriental. Doc. Reisling says his club is O.K., although they have not shown their true form as yet, owing to the wretched weather encountered.

Toronto and Ottawa open the season in "grafttown" this afternoon. All the frills will be noted and some notables with their silks will play the leads in the opening act. Premier Borden and several of the cabinet ministers will be on hand, while Jay Jay McCaffery, President Fitzgerald and Sammy Litchenheim will also be there.

Brantford opens at Hamilton, where Mayor Allan of the mountain city, Mayor Spence of Brantford and Sir John M. Gibson, lieutenant-governor of the province will perform the induction.

Why Clerks Go Mad.

"Are you sure this is a good cantaloupe?"

"Reasonably so, madam."

"Is it sweet and ripe, of good flavor, with not too many seeds?"

"I think it's all that."

"Hasn't been picked too long, has it? How about the rind?"

The grocer finally got her 15 cents.

"I'd hate to try to sell that woman an' automobile," said he to the clerk wearily.—Louisville Courier Journal.

COMMENT

As You Like It

The Petes entertained the Brantford Red Sox, at the opening of the Canadian League at Riverside last season. The date was May 12, and it took eleven innings to decide the battle in favor of the homesters.

Bob Sterling heaved in grand style for the Petes. The big fellow had a two-base hit, he fanned eight men and gave but three passes.

Chapdelaine scored the winning run on his own single and a hit to centre by Sargent. The score was 3-2.

Did you hear the latest? It remains for Erie scribes and Erie backers to suggest that next year the Canadian League increase its rating to Class "A." According to the Erie Times, the matter of dropping two of the present cities and taking in Montreal and Youngstown, Ohio, would increase the population of the league to the total required for Class "A" rating. Owner George O'Neil of the Erie Club made the suggestion at a banquet tendered the Peterboro supporters after the opening game.

Whether Mr. O'Neil was kidding or smoking something terribly strong we do not know, but we do know that the Canadian league, even with the addition of Montreal and Youngstown, would not be a financial success with Class A ball, as the cities could not stand the salary boost. Even Erie would be a very doubtful proposition. Erie has yet to reach the 75,000 mark, while Youngstown is not as big. Then if Montreal is a loser in the International, and has been one for years, how can the Canadian League expect to make money there? We shudder to think of what would happen to Brantford, Peterboro, St. Thomas, and possibly London and Hamilton, under present conditions, with a higher rating. The Erie idea is not being taken seriously and will probably die a natural death. Class B looks the limit for five years at least.

The "dook" visited Hamilton on Monday, and there was much glee, but the glee wasn't half as great as it was yesterday, when Harry Corns the slugging outfielder, wired that he had left for Hamilton.

Brantford is negotiating for the services of Eddie Wright, formerly with St. Thomas, who has been playing third for Providence since the season opened. Bauman, the clam's third sacker, has been out of the game with injuries and is now ready to jump in, and Wright will be benched. If the Brants secure him the team will be greatly strengthened.

The day is drawing nigh. Hank O'Day, who has shown on numerous occasions that he is a brave man, first by becoming an umpire, and next by accepting the management of the Cincinnati Reds, and last but not least the leadership of the Cubs, is to be deposed, so rumor says. It is rumored that Roger Bresnahan will succeed him.

Osborne, the human hat pin, who dished up slants in this vicinity, was let out by Manager Smith of Erie yesterday. Ossy was so long that he had to put his feet out into the aisle while travelling in the pullman, and 'tis said Manager Smith did not like the idea or the feet either. Ossy was long by nature but short by ability.

Bob Dibble, the Don Rowing Club sculler, who is to represent Canada in the Diamond Sculls leaves Toronto to-night for the old land. Yesterday he had a trial spin on Ashbridge's Bay, and rowed the mile in 5.55½, which is the fastest mile he ever rowed, and considering that Dibble is seven pounds heavier than he will be when in shape the trial was remarkable.

WITH THE PETES

WILLIAM SWARTZ, Outfielder.

Born at Reading, Pa., in the year 1890. Height, 5 ft., 6 in. Weight, 155 lbs. "Peggy" started playing semi-professional ball when 16 years of age. In 1910 joined the Frankfort Club in the Blue Grass League.

In 1911 played semi-professional ball in Reading.

In 1912 with Peterboro in the Canadian League, batted .286.

In 1913 with Peterboro in the Canadian League, batted .276.

Swartz is the oldest member of the Peterboro Club, being the only survivor of Templin's Club. He has shown good form this spring, and should be able to hold his position with the club.

Buxton's Fishing.

"The other day, when the Prime Minister was good enough to ask me whether I would take up the responsible position of Governor-General and High Commissioner for South Africa, I need hardly say that the first question I asked him was, 'Is there good fishing there?'" said Sir Sydney Buxton, in presiding over the annual dinner of the Fly Fishers' Club. "Well, so far as I can recollect, he is not a fisherman himself, and did not appreciate the whole force of my question, but he understood that there was some trout-fishing and salmon-fishing, and therefore, of course, I asked him if he would allow me to think it over, and in the end I accepted."

Sir Sydney, in accepting the badge of the Order of Fly Fishers' Club, a fly, dressed in black and white colors, in recognition of his services in connection with the Copyright Act, said: "I cannot help thinking also that at the present moment, so far as I am concerned, it is somewhat appropriate, because in the duties which I am about to take up the great problem is the problem of the black and white."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

SOME men are so obtuse that you have to show them the door when they are looking right at it.

It doesn't follow that because a man continually makes thoughtless remarks he is remarkably thoughtless.

A thick skin is not beautiful, but it is often comfortable.

There are as many different kinds of women as there are women.

Nobody is going out of his way to carry a barrel of flattery to you just from love of you or because he is needing exercise. Remember that.

You may be rich without being happy, but you can't be happy without being rich.

Speak well of your friends. Their enemies will do all the knocking necessary.

George Washington was tempted to go fishing, but he always remembered that he had a reputation to preserve.

Don't listen to the voice of trouble, for trouble is apt to be a liar anyhow.

Thanksgiving.

No fireworks to light the skies
And neighbors' barns to burn,
No shooting crackers while you walk
And everywhere you turn,
No shooting in the public streets
Nor spouting in a hall,
On this delightful, festive day—
Just eating; that is all.

No presents that you have to buy,
Although you may be broke,
For nieces, nephews, neighbors' kids
And all the other folk;
No heavy packages to mail,
No janitors to treat—
Just coming home to see the folks
And sitting down to eat.

Not even postal cards to send
To comrades far away
Or mottoes wishing them returns
Of this auspicious day,
No pranks to play on any one,
No jokes, refined or crude—
Just simply drawing up a chair
And dallying with food.

Yes, only on Thanksgiving day
Of all the festive dates
On which the world puts by its work
And gayly celebrates
Is there the single, central theme
That makes this day the best.
Just bring along your appetites,
The cook will do the rest.

Cultivation to Burn.

"Is there much culture in this town?"

"Culture?"

"Yes."

"You bet! The boys all insist on havin' their own special designs on their bandannas, and the girls won't chaw nothin' but tutti frutti."

Natural Exclamation.

"What did you get your wife for her birthday?"

"A pair of fine gloves."

"And what did she say?"

"Oh, you kid!"

Getting Ready.

"What would you consider good practice for a critic?"

"A critic?"

"Yes."

"An apprenticeship in a blacksmith's shop."

CHAMBERS OF HORRORS.

Two Famous Tower of London Dungeons to Be Exhibited.

The dungeons of the White tower and the Bloody tower, two of the most interesting parts of the Tower of London, will be thrown open to the public for the first time within the next few months, and the prison's torture chamber will be seen for the first time in all its eerie and mysterious gloom.

In the wall dividing the two dungeons is the narrow black cage, like a recess, in which Guy Fawkes was immured between periods of torture on the rack, and all about the walls are hanging the instruments of torture—thumbscrews, temple bands, searing irons and a rack. Only a few yards away from the well of the Tower in a dungeon is a small, domelike recess, where the gallant and unfortunate Walter Raleigh spent ten years of his life, and, as if by the irony of fate, almost overlooking the spot is a model of Queen Elizabeth, wearing the gorgeous state robes in which she went to St. Paul's to celebrate the triumph of her fleet over the Spanish armada.

Seven hundred Jews once sought refuge from a London mob in the dungeons and spent long days and nights in darkness, huddled together, until they crept out and sought safety elsewhere.

While a good part of the Tower has been open to the public for a long time, still many of the historical parts are always closed.—New York Tribune.

Celluloid Cement.

Celluloid articles can be mended with a cement made by dissolving bits of celluloid in acetone. It takes only a few minutes to make the cement, which is applied like glue. The broken edges are pressed together and in fifteen minutes the cement is hard.

Her Ears In Danger.

Susie had left her toys about the kitchen. Mother (picking them up)—Susie, if you leave these things about the kitchen again I'll box your ears and throw them in the ash pit.

Twenty-Three Nations Understood.

Have you ever looked at Esperanto, which is an attempt at the language the whole West can understand, as the East understands Hindustani or pidgin English? The British Esperantist publishes the words and music of a song that Mr. Harrison Hill wrote, composed, and sang at the Berne Congress, and 23 nationalities joined in the chorus with immediate understanding.—London Chronicle.

Was at the Front.

A retired army officer was in his back garden one day when a tramp came round the end of the house. "I've been at the front," he began, "and"— The old officer beamed on him as he interrupted to ask: "Have you indeed, my man? And were you wounded?" "No," said the man; "no, sir, not exactly. But I couldn't make no one 'ear, so I come round to the back."

IS PETERBORO HUMILIATED?

IN APPOINTMENT OF POLICE MATRON WHO RECEIVES ONLY HER EXPENSES

There appears to be an under current of feeling in regard to the action of the Police Commissioners in appointing Mrs. McElhiney as police matron.

The objection seems to be that the city is placed in a humiliating position, because the arrangement provides that Mrs. McElhiney will not receive a salary, but will be allowed $25 per month for expenses.

One opinion expressed to the Review was that the holder of the position of police matron should receive a salary, the same as any other public official.

So far as can be learned there is no objection to the appointment of Mrs. McElhiney from the standpoint of qualifications.

Naturally the appointment has been discussed by the Council of Women, which body asked for a woman police. Another meeting is to be held next week.

As has been explained before, a Salvation Army officer is not permitted to accept a salary for duties outside the Army.

TWO WRITS ARE ISSUED

ACTION FOR THE RECOVERY OF $260 AND $295

Two County Court writs were issued yesterday afternoon, one by G. N. Gordon, and the other by O'Connell and Corkery. The latter firm, acting on behalf of James and Jane E. Cruickshanks, commenced an action against Thomas P. McGarrit yfor the recovery of $260, representing the amount of damages for an alleged breach of contract.

The writ issued by G. N. Gordon is on behalf of Malcolm McConomy and against J. Allen. It concerns an action for the recovery of $295, which the plaintiff claims he loaned to the defendant and which the defendant has not paid back.

The Pictures being shown nightly at the Grand Opera House are the very best ever seen in this City. They are so clear and steady, and the subjects are so good, and interesting and educating. Then, the theatre is so clean and the seats so comfortable, and it is a treat to listen to the music from the Grand Opera House Orchestra.

PANIC BROKE OUT IN CROWD

CHICAGO, May 14.—The return of the body of Samuel Meisenberg, the Chicago boy who was among the first of the American marines to lose his life in the occupation of Vera Cruz, was marked by a panic in the City Hall, where the body lay in state for three hours yesterday.

So great was the rush to view the catafalque in the rotunda of the municipal building that scores of women fainted, while men, caught in the smothering press, cried for air. Only the names of 12 women who succumbed were obtained by the police, but among these were Mrs. Morris Meisenberg, mother of the dead marine.

Banquet For Laurier.

OTTAWA, May 14.—The Liberals met in caucus yesterday morning and it was held to make plans for a dinner to Sir Wilfrid on his completion of forty years in public life. Sir Wilfrid first entered Parliament in 1874.

Tactful Remark.

Mrs. Fatleigh, a lady who did not belie her name, got thirsty during a social entertainment and smilingly mentioned the fact to a group of young men standing near her chair. There was a rush to supply her want, and the young man who reached her first with a glass of water she complimented on his quickness.

"Oh, that's nothing," he replied lightly. "I'm used to it. I got into many a circus and menagerie when I was a boy by carrying water to the elephant."

Quaint Little English Church.

Culbone church, which among many others claims to be the smallest church in England, is situated on the coast of north Devon, not far from the picturesque little village of Porlock, and the church is so guarded by hills and woods that the sun's rays reach it only four months of the year. The building is but thirty-three feet long by twelve feet eight inches wide and has a porch, nave, carved oak chancel screen and Norman font, an alabaster altar piece and a quaint high pew near the chancel, used by the family of Lord Lovelace, by whom the property is owned. The slanted chancel is lit by a tiny square headed iron barred window, the oldest feature in the church, being pre-Norman and cut out of a single stone. It is amply large for the population, which is about thirty-five in a parish of only 1,237 acres. In summer the church is crowded owing to the influx of visitors from many parts of the world.

Poaching an Egg.

The food value of an egg is enormous, but an invalid soon tires of eggs served in the ordinary way. Here is a method, involving some trouble, but worth it for the sick person's sake. Break an egg into a flat dish of cold water and let it remain covered with muslin for twelve hours. Then pour the water off very gently indeed, so as to prevent the egg going with it. Now poach the latter in boiling water, adding just a tiny pinch of salt. This, nicely served, can be eaten by any one, for it melts in the mouth, literally. Two might be cooked, for done in this way one egg is not much.—London Answers.

Farming on Shares.

There is in vogue in Ontario a system of land tenure which is practically unknown in England, that of renting on a share basis, says London "People." This arises mainly from the labor scarcity, and, in some cases, from the fact that young men leave their fathers' farms and go into cities to enter the professions. Consequently, it is that many a farmer is prepared to make an arrangement whereby the newcomer, if he is competent, is able to settle at once upon a thriving farm; have the use of implements, of stock, and share alike in the profits, be, of course, doing the work.

CHOIR REHEARSAL.

The Charlotte Street Church Choir will meet as usual this evening for rehearsal, John Crane presiding.

A distinct advance in tea wrapping has been heralded by The "SALADA" Tea Co. In the place of lead they are now commencing to use a strong thin sheet of aluminum, which not only preserves the tea better than lead, but is as light as fine letter paper.

WARRANT OUT FOR MOYES?

Brother Alleges Animus and Blames Success of Hydro Electric

TORONTO, May 14.—Although no official information was forthcoming it was reported last night that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of J. W. Moyes, promoter of the Ontario West Shore Railway. The action was decided upon at four o'clock yesterday afternoon at a conference between William Proudfoot, K.C., M.P.P., for the council of Ashfield Township; Inspector of Detectives Kennedy, and Crown Attorney Corley. The warrant was made out by five o'clock, it is declared.

"My brother would have been much better off in every way if he had not touched that thing at all," said the brother of John W. Moyes last evening in discussing the Railway Board report on the Ontario West Shore Railway. He went on to say that the report might easily have been expected from the attitude of personal antagonism that Chairman McIntyre had shown throughout the hearing. He characterized the findings as vindictive and misrepresentative of the conduct of the enterprise. The irregularities were largely imagined, and if his brother were to be subjected to such treatment so should others who had begun railways in a similar fashion.

"My brother never made a dishonest dollar or any sort of a dollar out of the undertaking," he declared. "The commission proceeds to make capital against my brother out of the fact of Mr. Smoke's death."

He claimed in addition that the board had heard nothing but ridiculous estimates of the enormous amounts his brother had taken, and called attention to the examination of F. H. McGuigan to prove it. If his brother's health had permitted or the board had searched for facts this would have been learned. His brother had put in more than be ever took out, but the enterprise of the Hydro-Electric Commission had spoiled it all.

Kent Farms Flooded.

CHATHAM, Ont., May 14.—Scores of farms in the low-lying sections of Kent County and particularly those in the Raleigh plains are inundated as a result of the heavy downpour of the past few days, and great damage has already been done the crops that have been planted. It is not uncommon to see houses and barns completely surrounded with water and the farmer using a boat.

Judge Willing to Please.

Judges were very considerate in the old days. Lord Brampton, in his "Reminiscences," relates a story illustrating this:

Baron Martin, a famous English jurist of the old school, whose native leniency and sense of fun often placed him at the mercy of the very men he was trying, was once about to sentence an old offender charged with a petty theft.

"Look," said the Baron, with an assumption of severity; "I hardly know what to do, but you can take six months."

"I can't take that, my Lord; it's too much," said the prisoner, respectfully but firmly. "I can't take it. Your Lordship sees I didn't steal very much, after all."

The Baron indulged in one of his low, chuckling laughs before replying:

"Well, that's very true; ye didn't steal much," he said. "Well, then, ye can take four months. Will that do—four months?"

"Nay, my Lord, but I can't take that, either," was the reply.

"Then take three."

"That's nearer the mark, my Lord," the prisoner said, approvingly. "But I'd rather you made it two, if you will be so kind."

"Verra well, then, tak' two," said the judge, with an air of one who is pleased to have done the right thing at last. "And mind, don't come again. If you do I'll give yer—well, it all depends!"

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Knights of Columbus Appoint Officials For Another Year.

OTTAWA, May 14.—The state council of the Knights of Columbus in session here yesterday morning reelected all officers and appointed delegates to the convention of the supreme council to be held at St. Paul, Minn. Those again honored by the unanimous choice of the council are: T. N. Phelan, Toronto, state deputy; Dr. J. F. White, Ottawa, state secretary; L. B. O'Connor, Lindsay, state treasurer; J. A. Mulligan, Sault Ste. Marie, state advocate; J. A. Hussey, Sault Ste. Marie, state warden. T. N. Phelan, state deputy; Judge Dromglowe, of Windsor; Bishop Fallon, of London; Hugh Hennessy, of Hamilton, and D. W. Downey, of Brockville, were selected to attend the supreme council. The alternates chosen were J. F. Lannigan, Ottawa; L. Zinger, Berlin; Rev. Father Kelly, North Bay; L. B. Montreuil, Windsor, and L. McNamara, Sault Ste. Marie.

It was decided to hold the next state council in the cities of Fort William and Port Arthur.

Story of a Novelist.

Mrs. Henry Wood, author of "East Lynne," the "best seller" of its generation, was forty and a wife and mother before she turned her hand to novel writing, and her most famous book seems to have been written to soothe the weariness of a severe illness. Much of it indeed was composed in bed, and the writer scarcely hoped to live to complete it. After running an obscure course in a monthly magazine the story was refused by several publishers and accepted only with considerable misgivings by Richard Bentley. It fell flat until some one reviewed it enthusiastically in the London Times, and then the printers worked night and day to cope with the demand. Within a very short time "East Lynne" was translated into almost every language in Europe, and as book and play its popularity has known no eclipse.—Argonaut.

In on the Ground Floor.

"I have always been suspicious of good things," said a well known New York lawyer, who has a reputation for a large philosophy. "I remember when I was a young man I had an opportunity to get in 'on the ground floor' of what looked to me like a load of easy money.

"I consulted one of the old time conservative men of Wall street. He smiled and said: 'Listen to this story and then decide:

"'A wife arriving home in high spirits tells her husband she has purchased a new bonnet. "And, sweetheart," she said, kissing him, "I got something for you too."

"'"Good!" exclaimed the happy husband. "What is it?"

"'"The bill," she said.'"—New York Sun.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONTINUE BEAUTIFICATION PLAN FOR PETERBORO

Citizens Endorse Proposed Civic Driveway and Ask Residents Residing Along the Route to Co-Operate—Slogan is Picturesque Peterborough.

Moved by J.. W. Miller, seconded by W. A. Logan, that the Peterborough Horticultural Society, Board of Trade and Ad. Club be appointed a Committee, with power to add to their numbers, for the purpose of continuing the work of civic improvement so successfully launched here this evening. We would recommend that steps be taken by this Committee to have local committees appointed in the different wards to act under its central direction in carrying out the details of the scheme of civic improvement, as outlined here, this evening."

Moved by R. J. Soden, seconded by W. E. Conway, that this gathering of citizens, having heard with pleasure and gratification the report of the special committee of the Peterboro Horticultural Society, that has been co-operating with the officers of the Board of Trade and Ad. Club in the movement for the civic beautification of Peterborough, desires to most heartily endorse the proposed civic driveway, to compliment and thank those who have worked so faithfully in promoting the movement and perfecting the details as well as those who have contributed financially, and to call upon the City Council and other civic bodies, and the citizens of Peterborough generally, especially those who live along the proposed driveway, to co-operate with the originators of this movement in carrying it to a successful conclusion. We desire, also to approve of the slogan—"Picturesque Peterborough," and to express the hope that its suitable character may soon be exemplified by the improved appearance of our City.

Picturesque Peterboro, the Lift Lock City. This city has already acquired a lawful right to the second part of the title, but the first part has been, up till the present, but the theme of the dreams of many. It appears as though these dreams are to become a reality, and the first movement along that line was the civic luncheon held last night in the Oriental Hotel, under the auspices of the Horticultural Society, Board of Trade and Ad. Club, and at which sat many of the leading citizens, including E. A. Peck, M.L.A., and the majority of the City Council. There were about sixty took up their places in the banquet hall.

After the dinner had been served, F. Wise, the chairman, called the gathering to order and proceeded to explain the movement already on foot to make Peterborough really the beauty spot of Ontario. One of the ideas involved a proposed driveway, embracing some six or eight miles, which would run through the city, and connect up all the principal points of interest, such as parks, manufacturing concerns and the churches. Mr. Wise referred to the two capable speakers of the evening, Park Commissioner C. E. Chambers, of Toronto, and B. R. Morton, B.S.F., of the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, stating that they had been secured to address the meeting because of their vast experience, and he knew that the meeting would relish their ideas. After reading a letter of regret from J. H. Burnham, M.P., who found it impossible to be present, Mr. Wise called upon H. L. Beal, President of the Horticultural Society to propose the toast of The Guests.

Park Commissioner Chambers was the first to reply. He expressed his appreciation of the kindness shown him in inviting him to be present at such a gathering, because the object in view was of interest to everyone in Ontario. He was pleased to learn that the city has not rushed into this work offhand, but had given it a great deal of forethought. Beyond any shadow of a doubt the best possible step to beautify Peterboro was the idea of linking all the various points of interest by means of a driveway. In Toronto, they are seriously handicapped as the early planning of that city was very poorly performed, and now they are receiving dire results. In this city, now is the opportune time and with the various bodies, such as the Horticultural Society, Board of Trade, Ad. Club and City Council filled with enthusiasm there is no excuse for not having it laid out properly in its infancy.

Loss of Waterfront.

He expressed great regret at the city allowing the railroad to pirate the water front, for once those corporations get hold of it, the city can never get it back. He referred briefly to the result of such mismanagement in Toronto and now the city is called upon to spend millions and millions on harbor improvements, which is the only possible way of rectifying matters. He was pleased to note that the committee in charge had drafted a plan of the proposed route, and if after careful consideration they confirm it, then they want to stand by it, in face of all odds. In his vast experience he has seen more money wasted through the authorities not having definite plans than through any other mismanagement.

If a boulevard were desired, the walks must not be next the curb. That is a hard-pan fact. It often gives rise to argument as to how wide a street should be. He suggested 28 feet is enough for the driveway, so long as there are no street cars. In Toronto the City Engineer is very particular about having wide streets, but this, according to Mr. Chambers' idea is a gross mistake. A narrow street with regular features is every bit as handsome as a wide street. The beauty does not lay in the width of the street, but rather in the manner of beautification.

About Trees

Dealing a few moments with trees, Mr. Chambers urged his listeners to get away from the idea that a large number was the most desirable feature. In every city in Ontario the trees are crowded too much, and this city is no exception. Trees should be from 50 to 60 feet apart. The best way to solve the difficult problem of trees is to have a man appointed who would have for his duty the examining of trees and ordering, with authority, all poor trees to be destroyed. He urged uniformity, that is, to have all the residents of one street grow the same style of trees and beautify their residences in the same manner. If a Park Commission or some other body had this as a special duty, they might have plans and go around showing these to the people, thus obtaining the co-operation of the citizens. Another item he brought out with emphasis was the co-operation of the children. The younger children are, as everyone knows, inclined to be destructive, but if, through the medium of the schools, they are interested, they can help in a great many ways, the greatest being their influence around their own homes.

Existing legislation provides that ½ a mill can, upon request, be provided for purposes such as the improvements proposed, but before any step is taken along that line, it is very important that a body having power and duties, such as a Park Commission, be formed, to follow definite plans. With definite plans in definite hands, the proposed boulevard or any other item of beauty to Peterboro could not but be an eminent success. "No man, woman or child,' concluded Mr. Chamber,

PULMOTOR ASSISTS IN SAVING THE LIFE OF HYDRO LINEMAN

Isaac Watson Received Shock From Wire Charged With 2500 Volts—Is In Hospital With Fractured Shoulder Blade, Knee Cap and Burns—Fell Fifteen Feet to Pavement!

The requisition of the pulmotor was the means last night of saving the life of Isaac N Watson, of Rubidge Street, employed by the city in connection with the Hydro system, after he had received a shock of fully 2,500 volts, which also caused him to fall to the pavement, fracturing his left knee cap, and also his shoulder blade. Watson was engaged in inspecting a lamp on George Street about nine o'clock, in front of C. B. Routley's store. In some manner he touched a wire and fell fully fifteen feet to the pavement When picked up he was unconscious. The ambulance and Fire Chief Howard were summoned. The latter immediately rushed to the scene with the pulmotor. Dr. Amys was also in attendance, having been summoned from the banquet at the Oriental. The pulmotor was put into operation by the Chief and Dr. Amys. After seven minutes operation the victim showed signs of life. In eight minutes he had revived sufficiently to discontinue the use of the pulmotor.

Left Hand Badly Burned.

Examination showed that Watson sustained the above injuries, also a bad burn from the wire on the palm of the left hand.

He was removed to the Nicholl's Hospital, and was reported to-day to be resting as comfortable as possible.

Watson was formerly employed as a lineman by the Bell Telephone Company. The accident is the first since the introduction of the Hydro system.

Both Fire Chief Howard and Dr. Amys are high in their praise of the pulmotor.

"It has paid for itself before the city has paid a dollar for it," was the remark of the Chief this morning.

"Why, we just dumped the pulmotor out on the street beside the man and went to work and had him revived in eight minutes sufficiently to be removed to the hospital," said the Chief, who claims he would not do without the machine for twice its price.

The date of the convention has not been decided upon, but will most likely be held some time next week. There is some talk of A. H. Stratton being selected. Mr. Stratton is in Toronto to-day, but followers of the party say that no names have been considered as yet.

DEPOSITORS GET 75 CENTS

Dale Bank Settlement Will Give Them Three-quarters of Savings.

MADOC, Ont., May 16.—The depositors in the ill-fated Dale's Bank will have to be satisfied with 75 cents on the dollar, according to the offer placed before them at a meeting held here yesterday at the Masonic Hall.

Very little business is being done here, and the population are discussing their losses at every street corner.

A very large number of depositors were present at the meeting, when William Cross, who was elected chairman, gave, in detail, the events which led up to the closing of the doors of the bank. He explained that everything possible had been done to see that the depositors would not lose more than absolutely necessary, and announced that arrangements had been made, whereby they would receive 75 per cent. of their deposits.

Mr. Dale was not present at the meeting.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce has guaranteed 50 cents on the dollar, 25 cents of which would be paid on July 1, 1914, and 25 cents would be paid by the partners of J. C. Dale & Co., who are the entire shareholders of the banking company, out of their own personal property, and the western real estate, although no specified date for the payment of this latter sum was made.

After considerable discussion, the depositors decided to accept the offer.

There were over 1,400 depositors in the bank, with a total deposit of $475,000.

HURT IN MISHAP WITH AUTOMOBILE

SEATTLE, Wash., May 16. — The discovery of a gang of international counterfeiters became known yesterday when it was made public that United States secret service operatives seized a counterfeiting plant at Seattle, valued at $3,000. Detectives are working on clues concerning the identity of the men who have been operating in Western Washington and British Columbia and eastward throughout Canada as far as Ottawa. The counterfeiters have been turning out twenty-dollar Canadian bank notes and Canadian five-dollar bills, and secret service men estimate that at least $10,000 of this money has been issued on the Pacific coast in the last six months.

Detective Greer Fails to Find J. W. Moyes in North Country

TORONTO, May 16. — Inspector Greer returned to the city yesterday from Algonquin Park, having failed to find any trace of J. W. Moyes, who is wanted by the police in connection with the failure of the Ontario West Shore Railway.

Mr. Greer said he doubted if Moyes ever was in Algonquin Park at the time his counsel stated he had gone north in search of health. He vouchsafed the opinion that Mr. Moyes was too well advised to be silly enough to go north at a time when he might be wanted on a charge. In view of the fact that Moyes left the city while the investigation was in progress, Mr. Greer ventured the criticism that those interested in the case might have taken some action to have him watched until the result of the inquiry was definitely known. As the matter now stands, it is up to the Toronto police, who hold the warrant, to execute it. If any assistance is wanted in this direction Deputy Attorney-General says the provincial authorities will provide it.

Inspector of Detectives Kennedy states that there will be no let-up in the hunt. Circulars will be sent broadcast giving Moyes' description and photograph.

The general impression is that Moyes left Toronto and went north to Scotia Junction. From there be may have gone to Parry Sound and taken a boat to Sault Ste. Marie and thence into United States territory; or on the other hand he may have gone back by way of Ottawa.

THREE NATIONS WILL ASSEST

Rulers to Unfurl flags at Unveiling of Cartier Monument

MONTREAL, May 16. — Arrangements were completed yesterday for the participation in the unveiling here of a statue of Sir George Etienne Cartier, on Sept. 7, by King George, President Raymond Poincare of France, and President Wilson of the United States. They will do so by electricity. King George will press a button at Sandringham, which will unfurl a British flag. A button pressed by the President of France, in Paris, will raise the tri-color, while when President Wilson touches another button at the White House in Washington, the Stars and Stripes will be hoisted.

The actual unveiling of the monument will be performed by Sir Charles Tupper, who will make an attempt to come to Canada for the purpose. If unable to do so he will release the draperies around the statue by cable from his residence in England.

WILL NOT ALLOW LICENSE AFTER LEASE EXPIRES

Snowden House May be Operated as Temperance House or Remodelled Into Offices

Property Exchanges Included Purchase of Church Site For the Mark St. Methodists

Peterboro will probably be minus another hostelry when the lease on the Snowdon House expires. Braund Bros., who recently purchased the property, state that they will not permit a licensed hotel to operate on the premises when the present lease, which is for three years, expires. There is some talk of an office building being erected on the site, but the owners have not formed any definite plans as yet. R. C. Braund, when spoken to this morning, stated that the hotel would not have a license when the lease expired, but if the present proprietor of the Snowdon House or any other person would pay the rent, which will be boosted, a temperance hotel could be operated. If the rental demand was not forthcoming, the building would be used for other purposes.

Site for New Church.

The Clancy property at the corner of Hunter and Mark Streets has been purchased by the Mark Street Church congregation. The East City Methodists hope to have a new church. The price was in the neighborhood of $2,700.

Store Replaces Dwelling.

Charlotte Street is rapidly becoming a business centre, and with the improvements which R. J. Wolstenholme is making to his building, the street will benefit. The building owned by Mr. Wolstenholme is being remodelled into a store structure. When finished it will prove very attractive. The carpenters are at work now and the work should be completed very soon. One portion will be occupied by L. Wiemberg, who will conduct a shoe store and the other by J. Cliff, who will carry on a ladies' and gents' tailoring establishment.

CONVICTION IS QUASHED

ACTING MAGISTRATE SQUIRE HAD IMPOSED A FINE OF $30 AND COSTS.

A conviction made by acting County Police Magistrate J. L. Squire, of Norwood, fining Charles Fitzgerald $30.00 and $10.84 costs, on the fourth day of May, 1914, has been quashed. Gordon and Widdifield were acting for Mr. Fitzgerald, and made an application to the Supreme Court to quash the conviction on the ground that there was no evidence that Fitzgerald gave liquor to Harvey Borland, who was alleged to be under twenty-one years.

The Attorney-General has consented to the quashing of the conviction, provided that no action for damages is brought against the convicting Magistrate or License Inspector who laid the charge.

Bob Sterling is Twirling but is Inclined to be Unsteady

LONDON SCORES FIRST

Shortstop Price Shows up to Better Advantage and Works a Double

Riverside Park.—Two pleasing items—the weather and the startling reversal of form shown by the Petes yesterday attracted a good crowd to the ball yard this afternoon. They were still coming when the game was called.

Heinie Steiger was selected by Doc. Reisling to dish them up, while Snyder will do the receiving. Sterling was the choice of Manager Blount, and Mr. Kelly, the Irish diplomat, was entrusted with the mitt behind he plate.

Both teams shaped up well in the warm up. The locals hopped about in good style, Kid Price handling himself fine. Kelly had a lot of pep, and he distributed it. The Cockneys worked all the time.

The teams lined up as follows:

London—Linneborn, 2b., Long, l.f., Lamy, c.f., Bierbauer, 1b., Whitcraft, s.s., Reidy, r.f., Mullin, 3b., Snyder, c., Stieger, p.

Petes—Blount, c.f., Fox, r.f., Wilcox, l.f., King, 2b., Byrne, 3b., Gorman, 1b., Price, s.s., Kelly, c., Sterling, p.

First Innings.

London—Linneborn grounded to King, who flopped the pill to Gorman. Long died by the same route. Lamy walked and swiped second. Bierbauer clouted to left centre for a triple and Lamy waltzed over the plate. Sterling passed Whitcraft, but Reidy went out King to Gorman. One run, one hit, no errors.

Petes—Blount laid one to Stieger who fell all over it. Fox sacrificed, Stieger to Bierbauer, Blount stole third. Wilcox skied and Snyder grabbed it. King went out Mullin to Bierbauer. No runs, no hits, one error.

Second Innings.

London—Mullin slapped a single through short. Snyder hit to Price, who threw to King, who doubled Snyder at first. Steiger drew a pass. Linneborn flied to Price. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Petes—Byrne hit one to Stieger, which was easy. Mullin made a great stab of Gorman's scorcher along the third base line, and threw him out. Price dropped one in front of the plate and was an easy out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THE NEW ORGAN AT KNOX CHURCH

Is Fine Instrument With Exterior Case of Solid Oak

The new pipe organ to be opened to-morrow in Knox Church is a very fine musical instrument, not only in appearance but in interior construction. The exterior case, filling the large arch, is of solid oak, with quarter cut panels made to match the gothic designs of the church furnishings. The pipes, some eighty in number, are covered with gold bronze. They are extended some three feet out from the base of the organ, and the whole is very imposing. The tone of the organ has not been tested to any extent, but the stops show a wide and effective range. The organ specifications contain the following:

Compass of manuals CC to C, 61 keys.

Compass of pedals, CCC to F, 30 keys.

Great Organ

1. Open Diapason.
2. Melodia.

THE ISSUE IN ONTARIO POLITICS.

RUMORS INDICATE that the Whitney Government will shortly make an appeal to the Electorate of Ontario. In view of the impending election the statement of Mr. Rowell's policy by the Toronto Globe is interesting. In a recent issue appeared the following :—

> "In asking for the abolition of hotel and club licenses he asks for the abolition of licensed social drinking places. If his views were carried out people would still be able to obtain alcoholic liquors for their own use or to give to their friends, always provided they are not consumed on the premises where they are purchased."

From the above statement it is evident that Mr. Rowell's policy will not accomplish what it pretends to do, nor is it an answer to the requirements of the temperance people. He aims to abolish social drinking, yet the people will be able to secure liquor for their own use and to give it to their friends. He does not propose to introduce prohibition, he merely proposes to abolish hotel and club licenses, so that as far as the people of Ontario are concerned, the question they have to decide is whether, on the liquor problem, Mr. Rowell's policy is superior to that of the Conservative party. They have to decide whether drunkenness will be less when liquor could be secured just as easily as it can at the present time. Instead of buying a drink in a bar, a man who wants it will buy a bottle in a store. The people are thus choosing between two restrictive policies.

That of the Conservatives has been tried and found to be beneficial, while the Liberals' policy is untried and largely an experiment. It is utopian to say that social drinking will be less, and that prisons and prison farms will be unnecessary, by merely banishing bars, when liquor will be as easily obtained as ever. Mr. Rowell's platform is no answer to the temperance people, nor has he shown that it is a solution of evils incident to intemperance. He has tried to shift the evils of liquor-drinking wholly on the bar, without any regard for the question of individual morality, or of the fact that the real evil, liquor, is not to be curtailed by his policy, either in production or sale more than it is now. Mr. Rowell's policy will not lessen the evils of over-indulgence in liquor—it merely shifts them from bars to stores and to places where they may be consumed. The evil still remains.

The Conservatives have inaugurated the Local Option Act and enforced it. They have increased the cost of licenses, and made heavier the penalties, so that infractions of the law have become much less. In a great many places where hotels are not needed, the high cost of licenses and Local Option campaigns have eliminated the sale of liquor entirely.

Another point that should be mentioned is that Mr. Rowell proposes to place his whole policy on a simple majority basis. Thus it will be easier to carry reform measures, but just as easy to repeal them. Such a basis allows for frequent changes according to popular agitation, so that permanency is often lost together with all the benefits that otherwise would have accrued. A measure like Local Option requires strong support to carry, but it also requires just as strong support to repeal it. Prohibition of liquor is a radical question, and, having become a political question, it must require a strong public sentiment to make legislation regarding it a success. The Conservatives have attempted to move in accordance with public sentiment. Mr. Rowell and the Liberal party are attempting to anticipate public sentiment—a policy that is dangerous in that it provides legislation before its time.

Aside from the temperance issue the Conservative party has a long list of useful legislation on which to appeal to the people for continued support. Take a measure like the Workmen's Compensation Act, for example, Mr. Rowell himself admitted in the House that it was a good measure and gave it support. A great deal of legislation has been passed referring to municipalities, such as that secured through the efforts of Mr. Peck for this city. The record of the Conservative party is that of a vigorous policy conducted in the interests of the people and in accordance with public sentiment. It is a record which justifies a return to office and such a verdict we have every reason to hope, the people will give.

A NEW COMPETITOR.

NOW THAT THE Canadian Northern has its through line between Quebec and Toronto, that system has to be reckoned with in the prosecution of the immigration business. The Canadian Northern steamers carry the passengers to Quebec, and then they are taken by its own trains to Toronto, from which they are despatched to points in the west. This competition for immigration business has now reached an active stage. Time was when the C.P.R. had the whole of the immigration business to itself. This it enjoyed for many years, making a profit but at the same time building up the country with settlers obtained, as the result of one of the most persistent propagandas ever undertaken and sustained under great difficulties. Just when the C.P.R. had made the business valuable the Grand Trunk, through its western affiliations, broke in and claimed its share of the business. Now the Canadian Northern pokes its nose in and insists that it is to be reckoned with in the immigration business. The Grand Trunk Pacific when its eastern connections are complete will be properly and efficiently in the business, which depends, of course, to a great extent upon the economic conditions in Europe. The American migration can be counted on indefinitely ; and European countries will always in their straitened areas and circumstances fling off their surpluses in our direction ; but even with an increasing volume of business the competition will be keenly felt.

The Canadian Northern plans to add to its Atlantic fleet, while the Grand Trunk Pacific will put on a fleet of Atlantic and Pacific boats —just as soon as all the outstanding troubles are composed and the line is running from coast to coast, and the prospects justify the large move.

ON THE BRINK OF NIAGARA.

A SMALL RIVER, the Rubicon, was the historic halting place of the forces behind Roman republicanism and Roman imperialism. For a brief space, peace hovered over the little stream while the Great Caesar debated in his mind whether to pursue the course of events to their logical conclusion or to remain simply the master of barbaric Gaul. The crossing of that little stream definitely started Rome on its imperial course amid the clash of arms in party strife. Alexander the Great made the river Granicus historic when his crossing signified his intention to subdue the armies of Darius. On other occasions, an obscure geographical feature has marked the beginning or the turning point of great historic movements.

Now, three peace envoys have chosen a river, small and unimportant save for its great waterfalls, as the halting place of the forces pushing the United States and Mexico into the turmoil of war. Perhaps their deliberations will cause the overhanging war cloud to melt away, but, the interests at stake are so divergent that the mission of the South American arbitrators seems to have been vainly undertaken in fruitless task.

At any rate the choice of Niagara was prophetic. If the arbitration is successful, the river has been given a new historical significance in marking the place where an impending war, one in which the introductory shots had been exchanged with consequent loss of life, was settled without a reference to the law of Mars. If the arbitration does not accomplish its purpose, the little river Niagara will go down in history, as marking the place, where peace made her last effort to appease the differences between the two most populous countries of North America. It will mark the definite beginning of a war the complications and outcome of which are impossible to foretell.

Fate plays queer pranks with men and things. One would suppose nobler rivers would mark great historical movements, but the course of events has shown otherwise. If the choice of the Niagara River is prophetic of great events we shudder to think of what the great falls may be the deep-voiced speaker.

THE MATTER OF BEADS.

SOME SAY the attraction of men for swords and red coats denotes the early days of eugenics when savage man fought to the death for the possession of a woman. Women of the present time exhibit relationship to a former savage state as well as men in the feminine love for beads concerning which the London Daily Graphic gives some interesting details. Not since the days of Caesar have beads been so copiously used in women's dress.

The barbaric spell has been cast on the day dress, its elegant embroideries being picked out in beads, and beads are used profusely on the evening wrap. The passion for beads also runs riot on the matron's cloak, and the old bead work bags carried by Victorian belles are brought forth from the jewel caskets for the use of her latter-day descendant, who now carries them proudly to the theatre or the fashionable Tango tea.

The very thought of summing up the kinds of beads for the coming season makes the brain reel, but here are a few of the materials they are made of : Glass, china, wood, celluloid rubber, metal, pearl, agate, Galalith, porcelain amber, amethyst, paste, jet, coral and Florentine, mosaic. They come mostly from Bohemia Rome, Venice, France, the various districts in Italy, and Germany sends the cheap ones. "In some of the peasant homes the designs are handed down from generation to generation The Galalith beads are in all colors and hues to match the dress materials, and this can only be done in the Galalith composition, which is really milk. The design was inspired by the famous milkstone of Greece. There is a big demand for beads in wood because they are light and wear better than glass, and they look well in embroideries. The aluminum bead which is unbreakable, is another novelty, like the gold bead from Bohemia, which is made of pure gold under glass.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WHEN THE ONTARIO Government goes to the country, as it will do shortly, it will be upon the great new Good Roads policy, involving the expenditure of no less than thirty millions of dollars. There can be no question that two such measures as this bill and the Compensation Act should go to the people

WE WOULD respectfully call the attention of places like Orillia to the fact that Peterborough, having a population of 21,000 no longer possesses a Town Council.

The Inevitable.

Sarah Knowles Bolton.

I like the man who faces what he must
With step triumphant and a heart of cheer ;
Who fights the daily battles without fear ;
Sees his hopes fail, yet keeps unfaltering trust
That God is God, that somehow, true and just
His plans work out for mortals, not a tear
Is shed when fortune, which the world holds dear,
Falls from his grasp—better, with love, a crust
Than living in dishonor ; envies not,
Nor loses faith in man, but does his best
Nor even murmurs at his humbler lot,
But, with a smile and words of hope, gives zest
To every toiler. He alone is great
Who by a life heroic conquers fate.

GRIM VISAGED WAR

By Walt Mason

Our Uncle Sam despises strife, although he knows no fear; he likes the calm and peaceful life, with happy faces near. He'd rather suffer for a while, and hold his anger down, than change his double-leaded smile for grim and warlike frown. And so some foolish nations think that they can rub it in, and twist his nose till it is pink, and kick his starboard shin. He's slow to anger, so he is, but mighty in his wrath, and when he does get down to biz you see him mow a swath. And when he sheds his vest and coat, and mixes in a spat, remarking, "I will get the goat of those who kicked my hat," we all stand up for Uncle Sam, our hats on high are tossed, we do not care a tinker's jam how much the scrap may cost. Before the fur begins to fly we argue and debate, and roast the government sky high, and kick up ructions great; but when our Uncle Sammy plans an enemy to scrag, we all are good Americans who love the starry flag. We hate a scrap, but when it comes, we kiss our weeping dames, grind up our swords and beat the drums, and fairly bust our hames.

Birthdays of Note

SATURDAY, MAY SIXTEENTH

Frank Stillman Barnard, elder brother of G. H. Barnard, M.P. for Victoria, B.C., and himself an ex-member of the House of Commons, was born fifty-eight years ago in Toronto. Shortly after his birth his father moved to the coast, where he established a stage line between Yale and Barkerville. F. S. Barnard was sent east for his education and on his return took an interest in the express and transportation business. He succeeded his father in 1888 as M.P. for Yale-Cariboo and sat until 1896 for that constituency. He is one of the chief promoters of the B. C. Electric Company and a prominent citizen on the coast, with extensive interests throughout the province.

SUNDAY, MAY SEVENTEENTH

The Right Rev. Michael Francis Fallon, Bishop of London, one of the most popular prelates of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, was born at Kingston, Ont., forty-seven years ago to-day. He obtained his college education at Ottawa University and on graduation became professor of English literature in that institution. Later he was rector of churches in Ottawa and Buffalo and then provincial of the Oblat order. In 1909 he was consecrated bishop. In his younger days he took a keen interest in sport and was coach of the old Ottawa University team which won the football championship of Canada. The public will probably remember him best as the clergyman who protested against the terms of the Coronation Oath, as being insulting to the Sovereign's loyal Catholic subjects.

Also born to-day:—

Senator Beith, Bowmanville, born 1843.

C. W. Young, Cornwall, born 1847.

THE EARLY BIRD

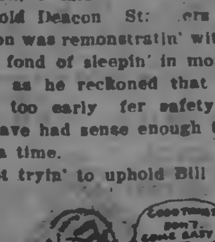
EVERY time I hear somebody preachin' that early bird sermon, I think of what Bill Jacobs told Deacon St[illegible]ers when the deacon was remonstratin' with him fer bein' fond of sleepin' in mornin's. Bill said as he reckoned that worm was out too early fer safety and should have had sense enough to laid low fer a time.



GOOD THINGS DON'T COME EASY

I'm not tryin' to uphold Bill in his argument none when I say that people air too busy laudin' the early bird to have any sympathies fer the poor worm. Somethin' is due him shorely if only fer the fact that he's an early riser. Trouble is he was born to get caught.

Business, to-day, is run pretty well along the line of the early-bird-early-worm line. A man who succeeds in business, agin' the tide of opposition, is a bird; nobody gives a hang fer the leetle fellers he feeds on.

Certainly women have been known to stop talking for the purpose of thinking.

Roumanian Avatrice Who Seeks American Trophies.

MISS HELENE CARAGIANI.

From the beautiful and romantic land of Carmen Sylva comes Miss Helene Caragiani, a daring woman aeronaut, who hopes ere she returns home to win many trophies away from the American aviators, with whom she wishes to compete.

Miss Caragiani brings her own aeroplane with her and spends all her spare time in practice. She believes that women make quite as skillful and daring aviators as men. She herself has made many notable ascensions abroad.

Speaking of the possibilities of crossing the Atlantic ocean in an airship, Miss Caragiani said:

"If men wait much longer some woman will take the trip before them."

Miss Caragiani makes no secret of the fact that she would like to be the woman to do so.

Suspender Gowns.

Suspenders of various sorts are in fashion. There are many skirts this spring with suspenders to wear with separate blouses. Some of them are made of the wonderful new plaid taffetas. Sometimes the suspenders are wide and worn quite at the edge of the shoulders, and sometimes they are narrow. Sometimes they are fastened to an odd little waistcoat belt—a belt like the lower part of a waistcoat, including sometimes two diminutive pockets well toward the front.

The plaid taffetas are expensive, and, although it does not take much to make a skirt with suspenders, still the required amount of taffeta would cost $11 or $12—the silk is about $3 a yard in a width of which almost four yards are needed. But there are cheaper plaid silks than taffeta that can be substituted for it. These suspender skirts in silk of plain color will also be seen. They are very useful, for they can be worn in warm weather with thin blouses and without coats, at the same time giving their wearers a feeling of being completely dressed.

Curtaining Casement Windows.

The picturesque casement window requires a simple treatment. Each window is done separately, with sheer, although not necessarily, expensive material.

The curtains should be shirred to a rod—that is, set inside of the frame if the window swings out and on the sash if the window swings in. If there is a group of windows a valance across the top, with draperies on the outside edge, is often the only curtaining.

Shades are not generally used, but if they must be added they should be hung inside and when not performing their mission of giving privacy arranged so they may be rolled up out of sight.

Binding Seams.

The raw edges of seams should be either bound with this silk seam binding or carefully pinked on the edges by snipping them in little V shaped pieces with the scissors. If working with material that frays easily, such as serge and some of the loosely woven silks and woolen materials, all seams should be oversewn or "whipped" on the edge. The armholes of an unlined blouse should be bound and those of a lined bodice whipped.

Homemade Window Pole.

Take an old broom handle. Paint it to harmonize with your room and insert at one end a screw hook. Screw into the upper sash of each window in the room a ring screw for the hook on the pole and your window pole is ready for immediate use.

This will save you from having to run about the house looking for a window pole or climbing on chairs to reach the sashes every time you wish to raise or lower a window.

Use For Empty Cans.

Tin cans in which one has bought meat or fruit make fine roofing for sheds or henhouses. When empty cut or melt off the bottoms and hammer them out flat. Then nail them on to the framework just as you would shingles or slates. Tar the whole inside and out, and you will have a water tight and practically everlasting roof.

HIS DEATH IS DEPLORED BY PREMIER BORDEN

MONTREAL, May 16.—Hon. F. D. Monk, former Minister of Public Works in the Dominion Cabinet, died here yesterday morning.

Mr. Monk resigned his seat for Jacques Cartier on March 3 last, owing to the continuance of his ill-health. He had been absent from Parliament since his resignation of the portfolio of Public Works on Oct. 22, 1912, hoping against hope that he would recover sufficiently to attend to his Parliamentary duties.

The late statesman had been suffering from hardening of the arteries. It was noticed Thursday night by his physicians that he was sinking and the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church, to which he belonged, were administered by Rev. Father Troie, a personal friend.

The end came about 3.25, the daughter of Mr. Monk and his two sons, F. A. and J. D. Monk, being present. Mr. Monk was conscious to the last.

Among the earliest callers on the bereaved family was Henri Bourassa, a very old friend of the dead former Minister.

Frederick Debartzch Monk, D.C.L., K.C., was born at Montreal in 1856. He was a son of the late Hon. Samuel Cornwallis Monk, a judge of Court of Queen's Bench for the Province of Quebec, his mother being of French descent. He graduated in law at McGill University and was called to the Bar in 1878. He represented Jacques Cartier in the Dominion Parliament from 1896 to 1914. He was Minister of Public Works in the Borden Cabinet from Oct. 10, 1911, to Oct. 28, 1912, when he resigned, being out of sympathy with the Borden naval policy. Owing to continued ill-health he relinquished his seat on March 8, 1914.

Hon. Mr. Monk was leader of the Conservative party in Quebec from 1900 to 1904. He was said to have been the best bilingual speaker in Canada, and his unfailing courtesy and kindliness made him popular on both sides of the House.

Premier Deplores Death.

OTTAWA, May 16.—The death of Hon. F. D. Monk drew tributes to his worth from Premier Borden, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Hon. C. J. Doherty and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux in the Commons yesterday. The Premier said that he and Mr. Monk were first elected members of the House at the same time, and ever since they had been closely associated in public affairs. Though there were sometimes marked differences between him and Mr. Monk on public policies, yet those differences never interfered with their personal friendship. He was a man of distinguished qualities, a great Parliamentarian, of great ability and industry and of commanding presence in the Parliamentary and public affairs of Canada.

Mr. Doherty said that the death of Mr. Monk was a loss to the country.

Thousands of mothers use no other medicine for their little ones but Baby's Own Tablets. Once a mother has used the Tablets she will use no other medicine. Concerning them Mrs. Geo. M. When baby is cross and ailing I give him a tablet or two and he is soon well and happy again. I know of no other medicine to equal them and find them far superior to Castor oil." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BANISHED THE SPIRITS.

Brides May Now Safely Cross Japan's Bridge of Ill Omen.

Japan's bridge of ill omen has been exorcised of its evil spirit, and no longer is it known as the Bridge of Strange Disappearance. Hitherto no bride would cross it, for it was the firm belief that if she did so she would surely be divorced. Recently the Shinto priests came in procession to do battle with the forces of darkness. Duly robed and equipped with patent charms, they formed themselves into two parties. One recited prayers while the other passed to and fro over the bridge, striking with long staffs at the spirits which they alone were empowered to see. This done the bridge was pronounced "open" and safe for the most timid bride.

The incident to which the bridge owes its ill omened reputation dates from the thirteenth century. In the neighborhood, says tradition, lived one Nakano, a wealthy but unpatriotic man, whose constant fear was that his goods would be seized to swell the nations' war chest. So he buried his treasure in boxes by the river, slew the servant who had assisted him and cast the body into its dark waters. His sin was visited upon the daughter, who, thrice married, was thrice left a widow. Distracted, the unhappy girl fled from her father's house, but in crossing the bridge she disappeared and was never seen again.—Argonaut.

It is used in the manufacture of noninflammable films and in the treatment of paper to make it waterproof, flameproof and germproof.—Boston Herald.

U. S. PROTESTS.

Reported Execution of Infantryman Arouses Indignation.

WASHINGTON, May 16. — Postponement of the Niagara Falls Mexican mediation conference from next Monday to the following Wednesday at the request of the Huerta delegates changed the plans of the South American mediators and the American commissioners for departure yesterday or to-day, and produced at the same time much speculation as to possible significance in the delay.

Later the Spanish Ambassador here, who is caring for the interests of Mexico in the United States, authorized the statement that the two-day delay meant that the Huerta delegates wanted a brief respite from their long journey and had no political importance. The Spanish Ambassador will give the Mexicans a dinner here Saturday night, after which they will proceed to Niagara Falls, Ont. The three South American diplomats and American commissioners will leave to-day or Monday and all will assemble on Wednesday.

There were many developments in the day clearing the horizon for mediation, but one sinister aspect developed in the sending of a strong note of protest by the United States Government to Gen. Huerta through the Brazilian Minister in Mexico City declaring the reported execution of Private Parks, an American infantryman, a hostile act in view of the suspension of hostilities at Vera Cruz. The refusal to divulge information about Parks, in answer to repeated requests, also was resented by the American Government, and while there is no intimation as to what the course of the United States would be, it is practically certain that when the final reckoning is made for offenses alleged to have been committed by the Huerta administration, the Parks incident will have a prominent part.

WEALTH OF HAIR

Parisian Sage Makes Thin Lifeless Hair Soft and Abundant.

Beautiful hair, fluffy, lustrous, abundant and free from dandruff, is one of woman's greatest charms—it's her main delight—yet so many of the fair sex who would be most attractive but for their streaked, thin and lifeless hair, go on thinking there is no remedy. Quickly put aside such thoughts. Beautiful hair is largely a matter of a little care and attention. Parisian Sage rubbed into the scalp and applied to the hair with a sponge or cloth will work wonders. Do it daily for a week, then occasionally, and you will be surprised and delighted with the result—not only will the hair become abundant, soft, fluffy, radiant with life, but really doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage supplies hair and scalp needs. It surely removes dandruff with one application and cleanses the hair of all dirt and excessive oil. It is not sticky or greasy, is delicately perfumed and contains nothing to injure the hair or scalp. All drug and toilet counters sell it in fifty cent bottles. Look for the trade mark—"The Girl with the Auburn Hair."

Delighted users pronounce Parisian Sage the best, most pleasant and invigorating hair tonic made. Try at least one bottle. The Warne Drug Co. will refund the money if you are not satisfied.

THE NEWEST IN SAILOR HATS AND COLLARS

An odd little sailor hat that will make a fashionable finish for the school dress of the little girl is here shown in a soft straw with band of red satin, drooping brim and an eight cornered crown. Likewise in sailor effect is the slightly stiffened collar of lawn flaring up high at the back as all collars should now, and rolling away to a very jaunty width. The red silk tie gives the tone of color and softness.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

What a Miller Says in Regard to the Cost of Canadian Flour

The following letter appeared in the Montreal Gazette:

To the Editor of the Gazette:

Sir,—Under the above heading a Montreal paper has recently published a number of letters by anonymous writers, and it is not surprising that they have not signed their names to these letters, because their statements are not only untrue, but very ridiculous. It will be sufficient to analyze the statement made by "Canadian Consumer" in an article of April 4th. This writer credits the mills with having made the following statements to Hon. Mr. White and characterizes them as untrue:

1. That the Canadian people would not eat the inferior grades which are exported and

2. That the export business did not pay and was conducted at a loss.

In the first place the statement made to Hon. Mr. White was to the effect that the Canadian trade demanded a higher average quality of flour than the millers were in the habit of exporting, and that the great bulk of the flour exported was of intermediate and lower grade.

I think the business of this company may be taken to cover the average condition of other spring wheat millers in Canada, and as an offset to this bald statement of untruthfulness on our part, I would simply say that in our business year which ended on August 31st last, of our total exports of flour to Europe in that year less than 10 per cent. was of the highest quality that we sell in Canada, and that over 80 per cent. of the exports consisted of 4th, 5th and 6th grades, which substantiates the statement made to Hon. Mr. White, and I might add that the higher grades are only sold for the reason of assisting to sell the lower, or for the purpose of keeping the mills running to supply the local trade with offal (bran and shorts) that was required in our own country.

In regard to the second statment, I may say that when this letter was written on the 4th April, No. 2 northern wheat was worth in store, London, $1.07 per bushel, which at the average allowance for making a barrel of flour (4½ bushels) would mean $4.81, so that it can readily be seen that the cost of the wheat alone would be greater by 63 cents than the price quoted by the writer as that for a top grade flour in London, namely, $4.18. By his own statement of prices, therefore, he clearly proves that he is wrong and that the statement of the millers in this connection is correct.

The next statement is that Canadian flour is being carried across the continent and transported over the Atlantic and then sold in London at $1.50 per barrel less than the same grades are sold for in Canada, and he attempts to prove it by prices which, as far as this company's business is concerned, are absolutely incorrect. But, taking his own figures, observe the serious discrepancy. He describes flour as being carried across the continent, and although Winnipeg is only half way across from Montreal, it is the farthest point named, and we will take the price he quotes in Winnipeg as against what he quotes in London as follows:

Top Grade..$4.50 Winnipeg .. ..
.. .. .. .. .. .. ..$4.18 London
(Note—the difference is 32c.
Patent......4.80 Winnipeg .. ..
.. .. .. .. .. .. ..$4.06 London
(Note—the difference is 74c.)
Bakers......$4.00 Winnipeg .. ..
.. .. .. .. .. .. ..$3.60 London
(Note—the difference is 40c.)

And through these figures he attempts to prove that these grades of flour are being sold cheaper in London at $1.50 per barrel cheaper than the same brands are sold to the Canadian people. He must surely attribute to readers a serious deficiency in the knowledge of mathematics, but even by the prices he has presented (which are quite incorrect) he most effectively disproved his own statement that flour is sold at $1.50 per barrel cheaper in London.

His fourth and final statement is —the Ogilvie, Lake of the Woods and International Milling companies, according to their published records, made last year profits from 30 per cent. to 60 per cent. upon their capitals.

I cannot make any statement as far as the International Milling Company is concerned, for their business is a combination of two moderate sized mills in Canada with some larger mills in the United States, but as far as the purely Canadian mills are concerned, I fail to find a record of any such profit.

Applying, however, the more modest figure he mentions: namely, 30 per cent. to the business of this company with a capital of $6,250,000, it would mean a profit of $1,875,000. Anyone can consult the published statement of this company for last year, which he quotes as his authority and they will find the profits for the year to have been $576,734.80—a trifling difference of $1,298,265.20, or not one-third of the lowest amount he claims is being made. As a matter of fact the earnings on the capital invested were a little less than 9¼ per cent. instead of 30 per cent. Had we used the larger figure of 60 per cent., the profits would have amounted to $3,750,000 in place of the actual earnings of $576,734.80—a difference of $3,173,265.20. While on this subject I might further state that the average of the last three years makes the profits some $50,000 less than they were in 1913, and the average earnings on the capital invested less than 8½ per cent.

I think the foregoing is sufficient to convince any fair-minded person that the earnings of the milling companies are not excessive; and that the writer of the article in question is not qualified to act as a director of public opinion.

That we are forced to sell our flour for export on a basis of lower prices than the highest prices received at home, however, is denied. In fact, coming back to the statement made to the Hon. Mr. White by the millers, it is exactly what they claimed, and to anyone conversant with the export business in many manufacturing lines this condition in the milling business is by no means unique. The fact is that no mill can possibly run exclusively on export business and remain solvent; but the great bulk of the flour exported to the larger markets of the importing countries of the world is of a grade and character for which the mills cannot find a market in his own country; and in order to supply the consumer at home with the flour he desires, he is forced to take the best price he can obtain in such countries in competition with all the surplus shipping countries of the world, such prices in turn, together with that obtained for the offal, regulating the price at which he can sell such of his product as is required in his own country. He is at times forced to sell some of the higher grades in order to supply the extreme demand for offals at certain seasons of the year in his own country, for without a reasonable supply of some he would be unable to secure orders for flour, the preference by the buyer, being naturally given to the firm who can give him what he actually requires.

While these writers have kept to the subject of flour, they have not said anything about the by-products, which have been sold steadily at lower prices than they were selling at elsewhere. Take, for instance, the matter of bran; Canadian spring wheat bran has been selling straight along as much as $7.50 per ton higher in the United States than on the Canadian side of the line in the same locality, and as each dollar per ton is the equivalent of 3½c on the barrel of flour, it really makes a difference in round figures of 25c. per barrel. This plainly indicates how keen the competition is between the six hundred odd Canadian mills for the home business; otherwise these extraordinary differences would not be evident. The Canadian trade quotations are invariably the extreme prices for small quantities, including delivery, which in many instances involves cartage for many miles from the mills, and in conjunction with such prices there must also be considered the cost of selling, and the not infrequent loss from bad debts. As against this the cable quotations are generally those of cost on vessel at point of quotation for large quantities and for which the terms of payment are cash.

Frequent reference has been made by these writers to the question of ocean freights, and it is quite true that the millers think they are discriminated against in the matter of frights on wheat as compared with flour. Some years ago the difference ran as low as about 1½c per 100 lbs. more for flour than for wheat, the average for a number of years being in the neighborhood of 2½c. Within the past year or two, however, this difference has greatly widened to from 3 to 8½c per 100 lbs., which makes a competition on a profitable basis on current values of wheat entirely out of the question. We are quite aware that there is a difference in the cost of handling flour as against wheat, but we feel that the difference charged is more than the actual cost. The mills are indirectly very good customers of the steamship companies on west-bound business, as much of their supplies, (notably jute for the manufacture of bags) is imported from the other side, and not unnaturally feel that they are not fairly treated. That the steamship owner is entitled to a profit just as much as the miller, goes without saying, and if the rates on grain do not permit of a profit, then they should be increased, and not kept down at an unprofitable figure, and the loss recouped at the expense of the flour.

It may be of interest to state that the present milling capacity of Canada is 37,500,000 barrels of flour per annum—sufficient to grind the present entire wheat crop of Canada less the wheat used for seed, but that they do not grind one-half, and largely for the reason that the difference in freights makes it impossible to do so without loss.

Cause and Cure of Headache

The cause of headache as you know, is the stoppage of the circulation resulting in pressure on the delicate nerves of the head. In time nature will start the blood going again, but meanwhile we suffer and are unfit for duty.

Assisted by two ZUTOO Tablets, which by the way are as harmless as the soda they contain, nature will remove the pressure and stop the headache in twenty minutes. Why continue to suffer? Why be unfit?

It is really remarkable how many people now use ZUTOO to cure their headaches. Do you? If not, why not?

NEW SPECIAL TRAIN FOR WESTERN CANADA

The Better Farming Special, which will be run by the Canadian Pacific Railway, in co-operation with the Saskatchewan College of Agriculture, will, it is expected, start on June 15, or within a few days of that date. It has been arranged that the special will cover the Weyburn-Lethbridge line as far as Shanavon, while it is possible that it may go 26 miles further west to Estend. It will travel on the main line west of Moose Jaw and cover the Expanse Express and Vanguard branches. In all 90 meetings will be held, including such places as Strasburg, Craven, Lanigan, Collinsay, etc. This special train will be the first of its kind to tour this part of the Dominion for the purpose of providing education in agriculture, and the Saskatchewan Government has given Canada the lead in every instance in giving to the farmers in the outlying districts facilities for accumulating knowledge in farming and agriculture.

Postals by Telephone.

Telephone postcards are now being seriously proposed. A message would be written on a special five cent telephone card and mailed like ordinary mail. The postoffice that receives the card would then call up on the telephone the person to whom the card was addressed and whose telephone number appeared in the address, and read the message, [illegible]

EXPERTS IN CIVIC PROBLEMS TO DISCUSS CITY PLANNING

Conference to be Held in Canada This Year for First Time

The International Conference on city planning will be held in Toronto on May 25, 26 and 27. During the last five years National Conferences on City Planning have been held annually in various cities of the United States, and have aroused such widespread interest that many American communities are now anxious to have the Conference held in their city and are willing to contribute the funds for that purpose. The city of Toronto, therefore, is to be congratulated on being the first place on this side of the International boundary to entertain the Conference, which this year will become international in scope and character. The financial difficulties have been overcome by a generous grant from the Dominion Government, which has appointed the Commission of Conservation to act as hosts. The Ontario government and the city of Toronto are also contributing. The question of city planning is thus recognized to be of national, provincial and municipal concern, and Field-Marshal H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, the Governor-General, has graciously consented to open the Conference and to give an address.

MR. JAMES WHITE

Assistant chairman of the Commission of Conservation. He will be one of the prominent figures at the Conference.

The substantial assistance given by the Dominion government is evidence that the town-dweller, equally with the agriculturist, is receiving attention, and that not only the Federal capital, but all our Canadian cities are receiving from the Federal authorities such advice and assistance as the Congress will afford them. Invitations have been sent to all the cities and towns in the Dominion, requesting them to send delegations to the Conference, and it is hoped that many will take advantage of the opportunity. Money could be spent to no greater advantage than in giving some of our city councillors the opportunity to come in touch with experts in civic problems from all over the continent. The aldermen will carry home ideas that, put into practice, may save their town people millions of dollars, besides acquiring a new sense of the responsibilities of their office and higher ideals of civic administration.

The scope of the Conference may be gauged by a glance at some of the topics which will form the main themes of discussion. Among these may be cited: "The Relative Importance of City Planning as Compared with all other Functions of City Government,' by Andrew Wright Crawford, editor of the city planning section of the Public Ledger; "Provision for Future Rapid Transit," by J. V. Davies, consulting engineer for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company; "Rapid Transit and the Auto Bus," by John A. McCollum, assistant engineer, Board of Estimate and Apportionment, New York City; "Protecting Residential Districts," by Lawrence Veiller, secretary and director of the National Housing Association, New York City; "Toronto's Water Front Development," by R. S. Gourlay, of the Toronto Harbor Board; "A Consideration of the Principles and Procedure of a Canadian Town Planning Act, a draft of which is now being prepared by a special committee appointed by the Commission of Conservation; and Recreation Facilities in City Plan," by Henry V. Hubbard, professor of landscape architecture in Harvard University.

Additional interesting features will be a tour of the city and harbor of Toronto, luncheon topics, and an open session for the discussion of subjects to be submitted by members of the Conference.

MAYOR HOCKEN

of Toronto. He will extend the city's welcome to the delegates.

LIVING A CENTURY OR SO AHEAD

An amusing interchange took place between Mr. J. H. Burnham (West Peterboro) and Mr. W. F. Carroll (Cape Breton S.), when the Nova Scotia member was making his plea for more generous treatment for the judges of his province. Mr. Carroll was emphasizing the need of increased salaries when he was interrupted by Mr. Burnham. "Does the hon. gentleman think," he asked, "that in this twentieth century of learning and culture everything is measured in dollars and cents?"

"The trouble with the hon. member," retorted Mr. Carroll, amid laughter, "is that he is not living in the twentieth century. He is living ahead of his time, in the twentieth century, perhaps. He is the gentleman who sees the commerce of the country handled in flying machines. He's living a century or so ahead."

"Hurry up and catch up, then," countered Mr. Burnham.

SUITED FOR BETTER THINGS.

Jimmie's New Clothes Stirred Ma's Ambition For His Success.

Sir Thomas Lipton says it requires a vast deal of courage and charity to be philanthropic and tells the following story in illustration:

"I remember when I was just starting in business. I was very poor and making every sacrifice to enlarge my little store in Glasgow. My only assistant was a boy of fourteen, faithful and willing and honest. One day I heard him complaining, and with justice, that his clothes were so shabby that he was ashamed to go to church.

"'There's no chance of my getting a new suit this year,' he told me. 'Dad's out of work, and it takes all of my wages to pay the rent.'

"I thought the matter over, and then took a sovereign from my carefully hoarded savings and bought the boy a stout, warm suit of blue cloth. He was so grateful that I felt repaid for my sacrifice. But the next day he didn't come to work. I met his mother in the street and asked her the reason.

"'Why, Mr. Lipton,' she said, courtesying, 'Jimmie looks so respectable, thanks to you, sir, that I thought I would send him round town today to see if he couldn't get a better job.'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

FARMER'S WIFE ALMOST A WRECK

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — Her Own Story.

London, Ont.—"I am a farmer's wife and a very busy woman. Last summer I was taken with severe pains in my back so bad that I could not get up or scarcely move without pain, and my periods were painful. My husband called in a good doctor and I was under his care for some time, but he did me little or no good. One day a friend of mine told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had been greatly helped by it. I began taking it and soon got well, and my periods became natural again. Since then I have had perfect health. In fact I have never felt so well in my life. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine many women need. If you think this letter will help other women please publish it."—Mrs. K. C. YOUNG, Tambling's Corner, London, Ontario, Canada.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

COMMITTEE TO CONTINUE

"could do anything better than to assist in your plan. What are we living for, if it is not to make our surroundings beautiful, and anyone who assists in this, will be well repaid."

As Regards Peterboro

Mr. Morton, the other speaker, dealt chiefly with trees, and the species suitable to Peterboro. He had looked over the city and finds that it needs a tree warden or some man gal TWO the banquet v-wand now to perform his duties. T he first duty of this man would be to get the tree census, that is to find out and put on paper where every tree is situated and its condition. There are far too many trees in the city, and the sooner they are weeded out the better. He found, in making a tour of the city, that about half the trees in Peterboro were soft maple, which is a very poor tree. Its drooping branches bother persons walking along the streets, and unless carefully trimmed, does not put up much of an appearance. It, and the Manitoba maple, should be removed and gradually replaced with a better species. He noted quite a few poplars in the city, and thought they should likewise be removed, and if the city had any pull in Ottawa the poplar trees upon the canal would be replaced with something else.

He urged the planting of elm and hard maple and also encouraged red maple and red oak, but was strongly opposed to chestnuts. The latter trees gather all the dust, and with the exception of a few months in the early part of the summer, they present a very poor appearance. The Norway maple and basswood are not very desirable, but he remarked that they can survive amid great dust and smoke and are very suitably placed when planted near factories or railroads.

Picturesque Peterboro

The toast of Picturesque Peterboro, proposed by Basil Hall, president of the Board of Trade, was responded to by H. B. Cowan, and in the latter's remarks the proposed boulevard drive-way was presented together with a map of the city. The drawing was the work of City Engineer Parsons. Through the medium of a lantern which Mr. Chambers intended to usew ith some slides, but did not, owing to the lack of time, a strong light was placed on the map, and it was easily discernible from all parts of the room. The following is the route, as marked on this map, and as proposed by the committee in charge:—

Central Park, along McDonnel to Park; north to Smith, west to Jackson Park; south along the Boundary to Weller, east to Belmont, south to Hunter, east to Reid, south to Charlotte, east to Rubidge, south to Park, south to Princess, east to George, south to Lansdowne, east to the river, north to Crescent as far as George, north to Hunter, east to the Lift Lock, along the east side of the canal to MacFarlane, west to Concession, north to Nicholls Oval, west through the Oval to Inverlea Park, north out onto Water, north to Argyle, west to George, south to Barnardo, north west around the Queen Alexandra and Normal School, down Benson to Smith to George and down George to Central Park.

Mr. Cowan took the opportunity to thank the citizens for their generosity in responding to the call for $1200, recently subscribed, and stated that it was the intention of the society to spend $400 a year for the next three years. In the meantime, however, $200 is required to fix Victoria Park, and he felt sure that the citizens would come to the rescue again, if called upon. In speaking of money spent for beautification, Mr. Cowan gave the following statistics for money spent annually by some of Ontario's cities:—

Toronto, $1.75 per head; Hamilton, .46 per head; London, .31 per head; Woodstock, .50 per head; Galt, .20 per head; Kingston, .14 per head; Peterboro, .04 per head.

City Engineer Parsons also responded. He spoke very briefly, stating that unlike the City Engineer in Toronto, he was in favor of narrow streets and uniform beautification. He asked Mr. Morton if he thought the soil in this city was the right calibre for the growing of trees, and the reply was 70 per cent. sand, 20 per cent. clay, and 10 per cent. humic, which was plenty good enough, and in fact, much better than in Paris, a city, which is known all over the world for its trees.

Ald. J. J. Duffus then proposed the toast of E. A. Peck, M.L.A., who replied with a few appropriate words, and stated that in time he hoped to see the whole county included in this driveway.

G. O. Cameron, proposed the toast of the City Council, which was responded to by His Worship Mayor Buller, Ald. Anderson and Ald. Duncan. Mr. Buller stated in his reply that he was pleased to see so many young men connected with the movement, and admitted being in perfect sympathy with it. He is an ardent supporter of sidewalks inside the trees, and the curb on the outside. He assured the gentlemen present that he would do all in his power to keep the roads in good condition and also let it be known that the City was contemplating the purchase of the Dickson property on the south east side of Hunter Street bridge and turn it into a park.

Other toasts honored were: Citizens of Peterboro; Board of Education and Horticultural Society; Public Utilities; Automobile Association, Retailers and Manufacturers.

The resolutions were then unanimously adopted as well as a vote of thanks to the speakers.

Music by Asa Huycke, piano W. Wilson, violin, and J. Minicola, cornet, was delightfully rendered at different intervals, while solos by Mr. Huycke were also well received.

PEBLO
CHILDREN'S EYESIGHT
It is astonishing the number of children who suffer from the effects of eyestrain, and many of them are unjustly blamed for being unambitious or mentally stupid. It has been shown by authentic investigation under municipal direction that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the children in public schools have defective vision and should wear glasses.
We make a specialty of examining children's sight by the most improved scientific methods, and if your child does not need glasses, we will tell you so frankly, and make no charge for the examination. But if your child should need glasses, we will guarantee that the glasses we fit are the proper correction, and will give perfect results. Our 10 years of successful optical business in this city is the guarantee we offer you.
We carry a special line of children's spectacle frames in heavy weight, in Gold Filled and Aluminum.

CHANCEL FOR ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

Steps are being taken by the members of St. George's Church to build a chancel for the church.

For more reasons than one, this movement has become much desired

The estimated cost is about $600. Two vestries, in addition to the chancel, are to be provided.

To raise part of the necessary funds, a "Summer Sale of Work" is to be held in the church grounds, about the end of June. The Ladies' Guild of St. George's will be most thankful for any gifts for the Sale of Work from their fellow churchwomen in the city.

OBITUARY

EDWARD WEBB.

Edward Webb, aged 83, passed away in the Nicholl's Hospital this morning after a few weeks' illness, due to a paralytic stroke. The deceased was a well known bricklayer. The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. Walter Squires, 529 Albert Street, to-morrow afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery, under the auspices of the Sons of England.

London, May 16.—"The Stephen of our free churches has been taken from us," was Rev. Dr. Clifford's tribute at the funeral service of Rev. Sylvester Horne, held at the City Temple yesterday.

Principal Selbie referred to the dead pastor as a modern puritan, who was not a sour fanatic, but a practical mystic. Harry Jeffs voiced the grief of the Brotherhood Movement at the loss of its president.

Hundreds sought entrance to the Temple in vain. Some sixty members of Parliament were present, including such prominent Irish members as T. P. O'Connor, and Mr. Devlin.

When a man forgets to ask his wife if she needs any money it's a sign that the moneymoon has slumped the slumps.

This Sea Grass Furniture is exceptionally well made, and is both durable and quite artistic. It lends itself admirably to the furnishing of the summer cottage, and is also greatly in use for verandahs, lawns and bedrooms. A few suggestions as to the low prices as follows:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ISN'T THIS AWFUL?

Editor Review;

Dear Sir, —I went to a store and bought some fish. The man cut it and placed it on the scales with his bare hands. At another store where I bought some sausages, the same thing happened. And would you believe me, when at the butcher shop, the man cut and weighed the steak and used his hands. Can anything be done to remedy this? Could tongs or knife and fork be used instead of hands?

Yours truly,
HOUSEKEEPER.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

Sir:—

The Police Department should not be subject to influence from any society or religious institution.

As the Salvation Army is chiefly engaged in the immigration business, it is obvious their officials should not be in any way engaged by the Police.

Yours truly,
W. WILLIAMS.

PLENTY OF ICE.

"No, there is no change in prices. The ice supply this year will last through the season."

This statement was advanced to The Review to-day by the only iceman in the city. The regulations set forth by the Board of Health that the ice taken from the Little Lake could be used for cooling purposes only did not affect the prices. Two different grades are being supplied the consumers as result of the action of the Board of Health, one for domestic and one for cooling purposes.

BENNET HANDLED WITHOUT GLOVES BY J. J. CARRICK

M. P. From Rainy River Recounts the Advantages Which the C.N.R. Has Brought to the Port Arthur District—Has Brought About Big Freight Reductions, Declares Mr. Bristol—Six Months Hoist Moved

OTTAWA, May 16.—A slim house and vacant galleries greeted the C.N.R. debate yesterday. The first line-up will come on Tuesday, when the House will divide upon E. M. Macdonald's motion to postpone the further considerations of the Government proposals until that day six months hence.

Mr. Edmund Bristol (Con., C. Toronto), in resuming the debate, dealt mainly with the arguments advanced by Mr. Bennett, which he characterized as unfair and unfounded in fact. The Calgary member had spoken of the road as almost worthless, yet he must have known that the Canadian Northern carried one-third of the western wheat last season and had proved to be a real competitor to the Canadian Pacific. The Canadian Northern had brought about freight reductions in the west which saved $50,000,000 to the people of Canada.

It was absurd and unjust to speak of Mackenzie and Mann as mendicants because they asked for financial aid upon good security. If they were mendicants, then every man who borrowed money on collateral from a bank should be denounced as a beggar.

Hon. George P. Graham, who followed, hadn't anything to say against Sir William Mackenzie, Sir Donald Mann or the Canadian Northern enterprise. He believed that Canada needed three transcontinental railways, and that the Canadian Northern should be finished as speedily as possible.

Mr. Graham said that if the road had to be completed by the Government, it would be better for the Government to borrow the money upon its own credit and apply it on construction. He thought, at the time at least, that the Government should take possession and control of the system. The Government would gain little advantage, being a minority stockholder, or from having one representative on the board of directors.

Mr. Graham said he would oppose the resolutions because he thought the contract made by the Government was an improvident one. The so-called securities had no real value. The Government should require statutory declarations from Messrs. Mackenzie, Mann and Lash as to their financial resources, and the Government should not come to the assistance of the road unless the proprietors risked their private fortunes in saving the enterprise.

J. J. Carrick (Con., Rainy River) went after R. B. Bennett vigorously. He said that the Calgary member was a disappointed office-seeker who was sore because he had not been taken into the Cabinet. His bitterness arose from the fact that Mr. Meighen and not Mr. Bennett was Solicitor-General. The Conservative members had been sent to Ottawa to follow R. L. Borden, not to follow a "bucking broncho from Alberta."

"We have a new party in this country," Mr. Carrick continued, "of which the member of Calgary is chief and the member for Kingston (Mr. Nickle) is first lieutenant. The member for Prince Edward County (Mr. Hepburns) was to be chief whip, but declined the honor, and the member for Brandon (Mr. Aikins), who was to be the only private, has started for the woods."

Mr. Carrick said the Canadian Northern had done a great deal for Port Arthur and Fort William and New Ontario. Years ago the town of Port Arthur held up a C. P. R. train in order to collect a small debt, and Sir William Van Horne had declared that the grass would grow in her streets. The grass had begun to grow, but the Canadian Northern had mowed it down.

E. M. Macdonald (Lib., Pictou) moved the six months' hoist. He said that last year Mr. Lash had toyed with the Finance Minister and put it over him so grossly that this year Mr. White refused to deal with the Canadian Northern host and turned them over to Mr. Meighen. Now it would be found that Mr. Lash had also put it all over the Solicitor-General.

The House was told that it was a great concession to have the Canadian Northern accept running rights over the Intercolonial. As a matter of fact, the Canadian Northern and the Canadian Pacific as well had been offering big money for years for such running rights. Now the Canadian Northern not only got them for nothing, but Mr. Lash had made Mr. Meighen believe that the Government was scoring a great victory.

EXPLOSION KILLS TEN.

Detroit Rubber Plant Is Scene of a Terrible Disaster.

DETROIT, Mich., May 16. — Ten men, most of them chemists, were killed by the explosion of acid and chemicals in the mixing room of the Mexican Crude Rubber Co. on the west side here yesterday. Four other employes, removed from the steaming debris, were taken to a hospital and all may die. Two men were less seriously hurt. The building, a one-storey structure of solid concrete and cement, was almost obliterated. Other buildings within a radius of a mile were more or less damaged. The loss was estimated at $50,000.

The dead are: Edward Christopher, Wm. McCoy, C. Larsen, Al. Hodgkins, Victor R. Burhs, Wm. F. Niles, Jose Casso, Gorton Latta, Emon Aman and Geo. Gleggoria.

Youth Murdered Three.

IRONTON, O., May 16.—Mrs. Dennis Massie, 75, her son Robert and daughter Mary, aged 45, were murdered Thursday night at their country home at Greasy Ridge, two miles from Ironton. Miss Mary was found in the kitchen with her hands tied behind her back and her throat cut. Robert was found in the back yard with his head battered in, and the mother in the front yard with her throat cut and skull crushed.

Harley Beard, 18 years of age, arrested at Chicago yesterday afternoon, confessed to the murder.

Take Exception to Statements.

FORT WILLIAM, May 15. — The chief of police and license inspector say there is no truth in statements which Rev. H. A. Berlis is reported to have made before the Presbyterian W. H. M. S. in Toronto Thursday night about the beer joints and disorders in the foreign section here.

The Times-Journal comments scathingly upon the license apparently allowed preachers to make unwarranted statements regarding communities.

Suffragettes' Arson Squads.

LONDON, May 16. — "Arson squads" of militant suffragettes yesterday set fire to and destroyed costly grandstands at the County Cricket Grounds in Birmingham and London.

Vesuvius Active.

NAPLES, May 16.—Mt. Vesuvius is again active. A dense column of vapor and tongues of flame were coming out of the crater last night.

Strike Oil In Alberta.

CALGARY, Alta., May 16.—Oil is reported struck in the Dingman well in enormous quantities. A telephone message from the well at 2 o'clock yesterday morning stated that there was 1,000 feet of high-grade oil in the well and rising rapidly with prospects of overflowing before morning.

Russian Airman Killed.

SEBASTOPOL, Russia, May 16.—The military aviator Semichkura, fell from an aeroplane during a flight yesterday and was killed.

SUFFERS FROM PAINFUL RHEUMATISM

Liniments of No Avail—Must Be Cured Through the Blood.

Why are there so many failures in the treatment of rheumatism ? Why are so many sufferers resigned to a life of pain, despairing of a permanent cure ?

Because rheumatism defies any treatment that does not build up and purify the blood. The poisons of rheumatism are in the blood and it is only through the blood that the disease can be fought successfully. Unless the blood is weak and impure rheumatism cannot get a foothold. When it does the thin and impure blood is not strong enough to overcome the poisons alone. It must be strengthened and purified. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best blood-building medicine you can take. They make new blood with every dose and promptly check further progress of the disease. They make the blood so pure and strong that not the least trace of rheumatism remains. Mr. R. J. Sinclair, Goshen, N.S., says: "About two years ago I was laid up with rheumatism. For two months I could not walk and had to stay in an invalid's chair. My feet were badly swollen and my arms seemed to be paralyzed. I had been using doctor's medicine for a long time, but it did not seem to help me, and the doctor finally told me that the only thing that would cure me would be a change of climate. At this time I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and got a supply. After I had taken them for a while I found they were helping me, and I got a further supply and they completely cured me, and I have not been sick one day since. I strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for this trouble."

You can get these Pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAVINGS BANK DEPOSITS.

How the Interest Even on Small Sums Swells the Accounts.

A savings bank in Evanston has advertised that it will place $1 to the credit of every baby born in that city, and it advises the parents of the children to deposit on each birthday of the child as many dollars as the youngster is years old, then to let the money remain in the bank, drawing interest, until the child reaches twenty-one.

If parents did that the total sum deposited to the credit of the child upon its twenty-first birthday, including $21 for that birthday, would be $231, of an average of $11 a year. But the bank account on that twenty-first birthday would show a much larger sum—$284.50, in fact, computed at the savings bank rate of interest, 3 per cent. That is, the sum of $53.50 will have been paid in interest, compounded. The amount which would accrue at simple interest would be $46.20, or more than twice the amount deposited on the twenty-first year, while the actual interest received would be two and a half times the last deposit.

Besides, the interest on interest—that is, the excess produced by compounding—would amount to $7.30, or more than one-third of the final and largest deposit, and would be about 60 per cent of the average yearly deposit of $11. Thus is well shown how money breeds from itself, and there is little doubt that parents able to make such deposits would afford to their children a remarkable illustration of the value of thrift and its influence in life, besides giving each youngster a substantial sum with little hardship to the depositor.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

BLOWING HOT AND COLD.

A Machine That Makes Ice and Heat at the Same Time.

A machine that makes heat at one end and cold at the other, so that it can be used for heating a house and making ice at the same time—to blow hot and cold, like the man in Aesop's fables—has now been perfected and is coming into practical use abroad. All it needs to do its work is power of some kind. It will take electricity, for instance, for its power and turn the electricity into heat and cold.

It is really a refrigerating machine that turns out heat as a byproduct. Every icemaking machine makes a great deal of heat, which is wasted almost completely. In fact, the more completely the heat is wasted from an ordinary icemaking machine the more ice it will make.

The new double action machine takes out of the icemaking part every bit of heat it possibly can, and then this heat, in the form of hot water, is sent round the building as a hot water heating system. Every part of the machine juggles the heat and the cold round so that they may be used to the best advantage.

For instance, in the icemaking part a certain amount of cold is delivered to the freezing apparatus and a certain amount of cold is used up in the works for "precooling," and the machine delivers the most intense cold to the freezing apparatus and thriftily uses the milder degree of cold for precooling purposes.—Saturday Evening Post.

Monument to "the Hour."

In March, 1911, there was an international standardization of the hour and Paris was chosen as the "centre horaire mondial." Now the Eiffel tower at regular intervals sends out by means of its wireless installation powerful time signals that are carried through the ether into various parts of the world. Recently a proposal was made to the Paris academy of science to commemorate the above occurrence by a monument to "the hour." The proposal was received kindly and a special committee appointed to solve the problem of ways and means. The scheme is to place the monument at Villers-sur-Mer, where the Greenwich meridian cuts France.

New York's Millions.

That New York is now a 10,000,000 state is indicated by figures that have just been prepared by William Liebermann, who was United States census supervisor for the district of which Brooklyn was a part. These figures show that the population of the state on April 15, 1900, was 7,269,894. On April 15, 1910, the population was 9,113,614. The daily increase therefore was 629. Assuming this daily increase, the population of the state passed 10,000,000 on Washington's birthday.—New York American.

American Literature.

Edwin Bjorkman, seizing upon the fact that there is a literary man in the White House, has written "An Open Letter to President Wilson on Behalf of American Literature," in which, without implying that the president is at the present time unoccupied, he strongly urges him to foster the literature of America. He compares what we do for literature with the encouragement offered by a small country like Norway through national institutes, prizes, etc.

Selling Children.

In selling their children, the Japanese in the famine stricken districts have been following a costume that has not always been unknown in Europe. In the year 1017 King Canute found it necessary to issue an edict forbidding English parents to sell their children to the Irish as slaves, in accordance with their habit. In ancient Egypt the unwanted child had only to be exposed on the banks of the Nile to be adopted and protected by the state.—Chicago News.

PETES SHAPED UP BETTER AND HELPED TRACEY DEFEAT THE COCKNEYS BY 3-2

Hammond's Offerings Were Hammered When Locals Wanted Runs

FANS WERE TICKLED

IT'S funny what a difference a few hours make. The local team of Friday and that of Thursday looked about as much alike as Cleopatra and September Morn. As a result the old fable that looks are but skin deep was quite true, as the Petes were on the long end of a 3-2 score when the sun set last evening and London had been shoved a notch down the ladder of fame.

The form displayed by the locals in yesterday's encounter pleased the four hundred fans immensely. The Blountmen had pep, ambition, a get-together spirit and an amazing disregard for the other fellow, with the result that everybody seemed happy when the last man had died. Right from the signal of "play ball" the locals looked vastly different, than they did on Thursday and the game which at the start promised to be a good one developed into such. The old pill was stung quite freely by both teams and the fielders had a big time of it, but the locals pelted the Spalding invention at opportune times while our own Mr. Tracey who is no relation to the late outlaw became a regular Chinese puzzle in the pinches. Mr. Tracey pitched one of his nice games and there was no cause for the presence of handkerchiefs among the tender hearted section of the fans.

Manager Blount shook up his batting order and the shake was a profitable one as the team drew seven hits. Then again a Mr. Kelly was introduced behind the plate and believe us Kell is some catcher. The youngster had more pep in him than the warehouse of Kinnear's contains. Unlike the warehouse he unloaded it all. The Emerald one displayed a good whip, eagerness to work all the time and loads of speed and above all a grand collection of what are sometimes called brains.

Then the team hit better when pokes meant something. True London outhit them but a hit when you need it is like a nickle to the hoboe who is broke and the locals certainly got the nickles.

Wilcox Did Well.

With all credit to Mr. Tracey the smooth shaven stingy individual who dished 'em up, for he sure was good when he was expected to be so, there is one player whose name was placed on the bad list Thursday, who showed the fans that he could deliver. Mr. Wilcox is the name of the tall, thick set addition of the Sandow race whom we refer to. He covered more territory in left field than was expected of him but he made no mistakes. In the opening frame he pulled off a shoe string catch and a running catch. He was not afraid to go after them and hereafter Mr. Wilcox may be referred to as a resident of Peterboro, because he also collected a bingle.

The whole team played better ball than shown on Thursday and Gorman who had an off day in the opening struggle showed all kinds of baseball wares yesterday. Joe Bryue was there with the club again and the first thing Joe knows he'll be charged without assault. He had two neat ones yesterday while his work around the difficult corner was perfect. Frank Fox was suffering from a sore finger. Frank used a safety razor for the first time and now realizes that it is not always "safety first." But the injured digit did not prevent him from scoring two of the runs and pilfering a sack. Little Price shaped up well in the early stages but had two errors at the critical moments. He dumped a nice single though. Kelly had a wallop at the pill also, while King our best drawing card dealt out two blows which went for hits. He also cavorted nicely. The whole team except Price fielded in great style.

The London crew fielded perfectly and Hammond has no one to blame but himself and the Petes for the loss. He issued two passes which figured in the run getting and also hit two batters which hurt his chances. He was not there in the pinch and Tracey was, so Peterboro jumped out of last place as St. Thomas lost at Erie.

How They Got 'Em.

The Petes started right in to do something and they certainly accomplished their object. Blount swung lustily but without avail and then Hammond tried to locate Eve in the ribs of Frank Fox. Wilcox was also hit but it was about as close as some of the multi-millionaires. King then punched a single to centre and Fox counted, Wilcox going to third. Bryne lifted a long sacrifice fly to Lamy and Wilcox scored. Lamy pulled the portion of a bone in the inning when he tried to head Fox off at the plate. He did not have a chance as the play was deep and if his throw had been to second Wilcox would have been held there.

In the second innings the attack was kept up but no damage resulted. Kelly lined one to left and made second on it by a piece of the hustling which wins games. Kell kept right on going and hooked the bag. In the third Fox and Wilcox drew passes and King sacrificed them along and then Joe Bryne smeared the pill for a bingle and Fox scored but Wilcox was nabbed at the plate by a nice throw from Lamy. Gorman skied to Lamy. There was nothing more stirring for the locals, but in the eighth they looked dangerous when Wilcox singled for a starter. A fast double smothered the chance when Whitcraft gathered in King's hot one, shot it to Linneborn [illegible] sped it to first for a double.

The Cock[illegible] not have a look in until the fifth when after Whitcraft had flew to Wilcox, Cy Reidy bingled his second of the day. He went to third when Price mussed Mullin's infield hit and things looked rather embarrassing as the cricketer would say. Danford hit to Bryne who threw to Kelly, who chased Reidy and touched him and then threw to King who caught Mullin a yard off second bag. It was one of the headiest plays of the day and pulled the locals out of a big excavation. In the seventh the Cockneys were very persistent in their notion to break in, again became dangerous. Lamy and Bierbauer singled and moved up one on Whitcraft's sacrifice. With one out Cy Reidy who had been binging the ball on the nose performed the Casey stunt and then Mr. Mullin rolled an easy one to Tracey and the community breathed easier. Not to be denied the Reislingites bobbed up again in the eighth and Danford dumped one into center. Mr. Hammond the serving artist at this point kept up his 1000 strike out average and swung like a gate at three of Tracey's floaters. Linneborn singled through second and a moment later the thing which London had waited for appeared in the form of two tallies as Mr. Long only took a short time with his double to right center. Price wobbled on Lamy's roller and then threw the pill over Gorman's head, Lamy going to third. Bierbauer was safe on a fielder's choice Gorman fielding the ball and throwing to Kelly who caught Long a yard off the plate. Whitcraft hit to Bryne who forced out Lamy, the ice wonder, at third.

NOTES ON THE GAME

Good afternoon, Mr. Fan, how did you like it?

Once again we are out of the cellar. Here's hoping the elevator only calls Peterboro when going up.

The small hammered gentry who jump to conclusions faster than the hoboe hops a freight will have something to think over.

The team looked so much better than it did on Thursday that Umps. Bedford fined a London player for "twitting him," my word, that he forgot to get the player's name, so busy was Mr. Bedford in watching the speedy Petes.

The brewery got up steam along about the first innings. Probably the owners expect another win today.

That was a neat play that Kelly pulled in the fifth. Cy Reidy looked as though he had escaped from a glue factory when Kell chased him down the line. Kell then whipped it to King for a double which pulled the locals out of a hole.

We have only seen Ryberg and Kelly work, but there's nothing too hard for the Irish.

Linneborn made a great attempt to rob Price of his hit in the fourth, but missed by inches. Linny would have gone down in the gallery as a highwaymen if he had succeeded.

Wilcox delivered and made a regular rapid transit out of it. Four put outs, two of the hair raising variety, and a wallop out of twice up ought to convince the fans.

Tracey was the stingy mortal yesterday. Like numerous attraction managers he refused to hand out a pass. Tracey hurled nice ball and was deserving of victory. He was great in the pinches.

And his team mates stood behind him in great style.

There was lots of pepper but no sneezing except when Doc. Reisling commenced to laugh in the seventh with second and third occupied and only one out. The Doc's laugh when Reidy whiffed and Mullin went out sounded something like a sneeze but the expert said it was (—&AMG

Price robbed Linneborn of a hit in the first when he made a great play of a ball hit through second. The youngster's throw was perfect, and it was a pity he did not keep up the good work.

Lamy showed an "ice arm" in centre and lots of speed. Evidently the great ice speed merchant can show something even without a skate on.

King hit one in the fifth to the midfield fence but only got two bases on it.

Joe Byrne's long sacrifice fly in the first helped some.

The peanut market opened strong, but the price remained firm. The bags are the same size, probably because the national commission ruled that all bags in baseball games be of regulation size.

One of the refreshment sellers yelped "ice cream." "Got any bathing suits you want to rent," piped a fan in the stand, as the breezes from the river played the "Wedding of The Winds" on his spinal cord.

When the umps. announced the batteries it sounded something like this. "Ladies and geneltmen. The batt-er-ies for to-day's game. For London, Ham and, and Snyder. For Peterboro, Tra-cey and Kelly." He cut the Irish short, but he was long on the Ham, and someone asked him whether the eggs were fresh or otherwise.

Truly it was a good exhibition of the Father Chadwick pastime and the fans should be out in goodly numbers to-day to help the team keep up the good work.

Poor Cy. Reidy. Six hits in two seven chances, and then he fanned in a pinch.

WITH THE PETES

Knute "Swede" Belting, Pitcher.

Born at Stockholm, Sweden, in the year 1889. Came to America in 1896. Height, 5 ft., 10 in. Weight, 165 lbs. Started out in baseball as an infielder, with the Cardinal team of Rockford, Ill. in 1908, playing independent ball for that season. In 1909-10 he was with the same club but branched out into a pitcher first season.

In 1911 joined the Lincoln Club of the Illinois and Missouri League, won 18 and lost 9. 1912 with the Lincoln Club of the same League when they won the pennant, won 21, lost 12.

After the season was over he went to the Decatur Club of the III League, for trial and won the only two games he pitched.

In 1913 the Lincoln League sold him to Decatur and he was with that Club until he was traded to Peterboro.

"Knute" needs no introduction to the local "fans," who saw him perform last season. In shape he is a grand pitcher, but was handicapped the latter part of last season through illness. He is having trouble with his arm this spring but claims that warm weather is all that is needed now to put him in first class condition.

And it is easier to see through some people than it is to see through a glass eye.

It is wonderful what a looking-glass will do toward cheering up dark corners.

STUDIES IN CANADIAN IMPERIALISM

Centralization or Decentralization

(Written exclusively for The Review by J. P. Laycock, M.A.).

Canadian constitutional controversialists fall naturally into two classes. The advocate of decentralized imperialism or imperial co-operation desires ultimately the disintegration of the British Empire into a loose league of its component parts owing only allegiance to a common crown. The exponent of centralized imperialism works for the consolidation of these sections under governmental machinery for the management and superintendence of their intercommunal concerns. The cry of the one is, "Each oversea dominion for itself"; of the other, "All together."

Advocates of decentralization assert that friends of imperial unity would make Canada a province; those of complete Canadian self-government, a nation. The realization of centralized imperialism in their view would mean the abridgment of the liberties of Canada, her subjection to a tyrannical, central and sovereign government. It would mean the granting of self-government and political equality to the Hindu and Egyptian, an event undesirable and impossible. It would place Canada in permanent inferiority to the United States. It would run counter to Canadian nationalistic evolution.

Let the illusion be examined. The decentralizationist pictures his ideal—Canada a nation,—attributes to her all the characteristics of nationhood, then insinuate she will lose certain liberties existing largely in the realm of fancy. He conceives for instance a naval platform strictly local as an essential feature of Canadian nationality, proclaims abroad that its rejection would curtail the constitutional liberties of the Dominion, and, forgetting that the policy has never been an expression of Canadianism, that it is not made but in the making, upon which statesmen are experimenting at the present time. How can Canada lose such powers as have never been exercised? How can she be degraded from a national to a provincial status when not a nation and when it is problematical whether she would surrender existing privileges or share in higher? It will not do to assume as exiomatic tha forfeiture of certain rights will pierce Canadianism to the heart—that must be proved. It is either forgotten that if indeed powers are lost compensation comes in the acquisition of new privileges; or it is desired that Canada should take all she can from the Empire and grant nothing in return.

For Canada to stay a province of the empire, it is claimed, would permanently place her in a lower rank than the United States. This badge of inferiority if such it be would remain to a certain extent under complete decentralized Imperialism. Only separation could remove the supersensitive stigma, and then it is decidedly doubtful if the Dominion with her Arctic wastes would ever have that populational equality so essential in modern days to maintain first political and mercantile rank. The Empire, however, has within it the possibility of outdistancing the republic in this matter. The co-operationist forgets that the realization of his ideals will weaken the political influence of Canada and of the British Empire itself in the counsels of the world. He ignores the fact that the Canadian's pride in imperial citizenship is equalled only by his satisfaction in Canadian citizenship. He will prefer remaining in an empire which can give him a work to do and an influence to exercise which the republic can never grant nor independence yield.

The existence of the old style imperium in Egypt, India and elsewhere is no reason for the deduction that the rest of the empire can not unite for the administration of its own affairs and the governance of dependencies now ruled by Downing Street; nor for the other assertion that the latter can never enter a self-governing nation. Britain would lose nothing by sharing the burden of empire as she still retains her commercial and other interests; and as the over sea dominions share, and will share to an ever increasing extent in these advantages they should participate in the responsibilities involved. To assume that because India and Egypt are not now self governing they never can be is to ignore the principles of political progress everywhere, and is as sensible as the declaration a decade ago that because China had always been an empire it never could be a republic. It is not necessary for the imperium to be admitted to the councils of the empire until its people prove their political fitness. It is even now imperial policy to grant the Hindus more autonomous powers as their political education progresses. The time will come when they will demand either autonomy or independence, and after a fair trial of the first Greater Britain may have the opportunity to teach the noblest lesson of history by admitting them to its council chamber. The future knows few impossibilities. A centralized government for the British Empire with men of every extraction at the head—British, French, Dutch, Hindu, Egyptian,—would prove effectively that a cosmopolitan government enforcing international law was feasible.

It is so often urged that history shows that the movement towards complete self-government can never lead to separation, when that tendency is not yet completed, and when therefore all the data upon which to base a sweeping judgment are not available. "All history is against the belief," it has been said, "but for some men history is written in vain. The same errors are repeated from age to age." However, only if history be complete can its lessons be infallible. The law of flux, evolution, progress, permits sometimes similar, but never the same errors. Would Joseph Howe have believed that the demand for Canadian self-government should ever invade the field of Imperial governance? How do decentrailationists to-day know that their arguments may not form the bulwark of the evolutionary doctrines of separationists to-morrow? Why should they tantalize centralizationists with not knowing how far their path may lead, when they cannot be absolutely certain how far their own road may extend and how far their successors may turn from their ways?

Already the surplice is the surplice of decentralized imperialism but the voice of the preacher is the voice of nationalism. Nationalists know that their struggle for independence is futile, and, from Henri Bourassa to John S. Ewart, seek a house of refuge in decentralized imperialism which by a stretch of the imagination they call nationalism.

The ideal of a group of dominion in perpetual alliance through allegiance to a common crown, conceivable indeed, is undesirable, as it would not assure the empire sufficient stability. The machinery for joint action in matters of peace or war would be necessarily cumbersome and involve complicated and unnecessary negotiation. Reforms of common interest would be delayed. Lack of centralization of military defence, would imperil the existence of the empire on the outbreak of war. Foreign nations, recognizing these weaknesses, would have little respect for a mere disorganization called an empire.

At its best the desire for practical independence is the real reason for the proposed program of decentralisation. Isolation of small communities begot nations in the past, but in these late days when international good feeling is on the increase, why should the Anglo-Saxon people hazard its growth by multiplying the number of nationalities, that fruitful source of misunderstanding in the past?

To the individual, what difference can it make whether the protection of his private rights and property—the basic reason for association of people in communities—be performed by nation or empire? Why should he be disturbed by tyranny of centralized government which exists only in the fevered frenzy of theorists? Has he not sufficient faith that people of the same tradition, racial origin, education, will respect his rights? Is British fair play so meaningless a thing that he will not sacrifice selfish interests to those of the entire race? Is he still such a prey to petty provincialism as not to see that compensation comes in the greater strength of the empire to guard and advance his interests? Can he not see that Canada will be of more service to the world within than outside the empire?

The essence of patriotism is attraction to home and to brother men; it is provincial when zeal for the province, national when affection for the larger nation, imperial in the British sense when devotion to the still larger empire; and cosmopolitan when love for the whole world. Each is a higher sentiment than that preceding, because a bigger and more unselfish thing. As long as the liberties of the individual are properly protected, other things being equal, the larger the community, the more justifiable its existence. The provincial patriot in the past let his blind passion for home make him forget that this was not the supreme good, but that service to the individual was. Nationalists and pseudo-Nationalists in the present age are also prone to forget that nationhood is not the end but only the means. Let us hope that the day will dawn when the British imperialists will remember the mistake of his provincialistic and nationalistic brethern, and be prepared to sacrifice imperialism on the holier shrine of world-wide embracing love.

MOREAU BROTHERS ARE CHARGED WITH MURDER

Det ecve Miller Had a Long and Difficult Chase Before Landing His Men—Prisoners Spent Money Freely.

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., May 16.—Arrested Thursday at Honey Harbor on suspicion of complicity in the murder and robbery of Robert Hayde, the Tomahawk Point grocer, on March 27, Peter and Andrew Moreau were brought here last night from Midland by Provincial Inspector John Miller. Magistrate Spencer remanded the prisoners until next Thursday.

Suspicion to the Moreau brothers was first attracted by the manner in which they are alleged to have spent money shortly after Hayde was murdered, while previous to that time they were like the majority of settlers near Tomahawk Point, living in a hand-to-mouth fashion, depending on farming in a small way and fishing for their sustainence.

Provincial Inspector Miller was reticent about the case. From what information could be gleaned from him the evidence that will be produced by the crown will be almost entirely circumstantial, although he stated that he felt sure he had secured the murderers in the Moreau brothers.

When Miller arrived the ice which connected the islands was unsafe, and his investigation was hampered. When he became satisfied that the Moreau brothers knew something of the murder he started to search for them, but it took two weeks to locate them. They submitted to arrest without any fight.

The prisoners, who so far have denied any connection with the crime, are French-Canadians. Peter, who is about 24 years of age, is married and has a four-weeks-old baby. Andrew is about 18 years old. They were a dejected-looking pair, poorly clad, sullen and untalkative. During the trip from Midland scarcely a word passed between the two brother.

It is understood that while the detective has been in the bush much stolen property has been located, as well as two illicit whisky stills, and further arrests are expected any minute.

KINGSTON, May 16. — The Donnely Wrecking Co. has raised the barge Ceylon, owned by the Montreal Transportation Co., which ran ashore late last autumn five miles from this side of Long Point in Lake Ontario. The vessel carried 45,000 bushels of wheat. Part of the cargo was removed before winter, but the weather was too rough to release her. The barge was towed to Kingston and does not appear to have suffered any great damage as the result of the winter's gales.

SUCCESSFUL SERVICES AT DEDICATION OF NEW PIPE ORGAN AT KNOX CHURCH

REV. DR. HANSON.
Who dedicated the organ and delivered two strong messages.

Large Congregations Enjoy Sermons by Rev. Dr. Hanson of Montreal

The minister and congregation of Knox Presbyterian Church made another step forward on Sunday, when the new pipe organ was dedicated by the Rev. Dr. Hanson, of Erskine Presbyterian Church, Montreal.

It was a beautiful day, the congregation, both morning and evening, was very large, and the messages of the visiting minister were an inspiration to all. The choir of forty-five voices was heard to excellent advantage and the organist, Mr. George Kenyon, displayed ability which was more than sufficient to show that within a very short time, when the organ will have been brought to its full power and tone, he will do full justice to the important work before him.

At the morning service, Dr. J. Malcolm McCulloch, chairman of the organ committee, presented the statement of that committee, telling of the initiative steps which had been taken to secure an organ and of subsequent action, the results of which were before the congregation. The first application to the Carnegie Corporation had been unsuccessful because no money had already been subscribed. Then Rev. Mr. Keith asked for leave of absence, and "disappeared." After three weeks, he returned and then having subscriptions of $1300, the application was renewed and the acquisition of the organ was made possible. The Young People's Society and the Ladies' Aid gave material assistance.

Presentation of Key

Dr. McCulloch gave full credit to Rev. Mr. Keith for his efforts on behalf of the church and on behalf of the organ committee, he presented Mr. Keith with a gold key with which to open the organ. The key is attached to a fob, on the face of which appears an appropriate inscription.

In making the announcements, Rev. H. J. Keith extended a hearty welcome to the visitors from other churches and to Rev. Dr. Hanson. It was from members of Dr. Hanson's church that much aid was secured. He also expressed satisfaction at the work of the builders of the organ, who in the face of handicaps and difficulties had made it possible for the organ to be ready for the services.

The special collections of the day were quite satisfactory. The cost of the organ, including installation, was $3500.

Dr. Norman Anderson of Toronto will give an organ recital in the church Tuesday night, assisted by Mr. W. S. Davidson, also of Toronto, and Mr. George Kenyon and the choir.

MR. GEORGE KENYON.
The Organist and Choirleader, who has made a wonderful improvement in the choir.

NEAR TRAGEDY AT THE LAKE

Two Canoeists, Irwin and Desautel Were Upset

Yesterday morning the waters of the Little Lake almost claimed its first victims, when two young men named Irwin and Desautel had a narrow escape from drowning. The young men had been sailing a canoe on the lake, and in making the Point the canoe upset and they were thrown into the water. After a hard struggle they managed to swim ashore, almost exhausted.

ACTION AGAINST INSURANCE CO.

Costs to the extent of $40 are also claimed.

Close Office at Funeral Hour.

WOULD ACCEPT THE NOMINATION

A. H. Stratton Willing to Take the Field

Stratton this morning, when speaking about the possibility of him being the Liberal candidate in the forthcoming provincial elections. Mr. Stratton said he would be willing to take a chance. He was always willing to do such, even if he did not win.

Richard Cornell of Thurlow Took Poison

Beleville, May 18.—In a barn near the village of Shannonville on Saturday afternoon the body of Mr. Richard Cornell, of Thurlow Township, was found. ## ASSOCIATION'S GOOD WORK FOR AUTO OWNERS

Dr. Doolittle, President of Motor League to Speak at Meeting

NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

There are now about 230 auto owners in Peterboro and the vicinity. It is to the interest of each of these to support any movement that will aid in improving road and other conditions or in any way add to the usefulness and enjoyment of the automobile.

The majority of the owners of last year became members of the local association, which is in affiliation with the Ontario Motor League. Some of the recent owners have not yet become interested, and in order to awaken an interest this article is written with a view of enlightening them as to the work of the Ontario Motor League and also of the local association.

The Ontario Motor League has been very active in securing and preventing legislation that will be advantageous or detrimental to the interests of auto owners and has succeeded in such instances as: license money being spent in connection with good roads, prevention of an extreme increase in the license fee, erection of road signs, posting of pickets on the main roads warning drivers against exceeding the speed limit, supplying a lawyer for defence in certain cases where a verdict against the auto owner would be a precedent in other cases, interchange of visiting courtesies along the Niagara frontier, etc., a list that could be easily lengthened but is already long enough to prove that satisfactory work is being done.

The League also publishes a magazine—Canadian Motorist—forwarded free to members of the League—which contains interesting news as well as useful information in the care of cars, etc.

The local association aims at improving road conditions both in the city and the surrounding country, and last year entertained the County Council and the Road Commissioners at South Beach. This bore fruits in the betterment of certain roads.

New Signs Erected.

This year, so far, the work has consisted in the erection of road signs and already the roads leading to Buckhorn, Bobcaygeon, Young's Point, Norwood, Port Hope, Millbrook, Keene, Hastings, have been marked, while all roads leading to Peterboro have been indicated so that tourists will have no difficulty in finding our city.

The Entertainment Committee are making arrangements for another outing for the County Council to Hastings, for a League outing at South Beach, for a basket picnic at Bewdley, for drives around the city for the inmates of the various institutions in the city, in short, for a summer of enjoyment for League members.

Attend the meeting on Tuesday night in Bank of Montreal Chambers and hear Dr. Doolittle explain fully the work of the Ontario Motor League, and Mr. Peck, M.L.A., the recent legislation in connection with the Good Roads Commission.

Everyone in any way interested, whether owning an auto or motorcycle or not, is cordially invited to attend.

THIRD BOAT FROM BURNED STEAMER COLUMBIAN FOUND

U. S. Revenue Cutter Picks Up Lifeboat, Which Has Been Missing Since May 3, and Out of Fifteen Who Put Off in Her Four Are Still Living—Biscuit Crumbs and Boot Leather Their Fare.

BOSTON, May 18. — Four survivors of a boat load of fifteen, who escaped in the third boat of the freight steamer Columbian, burned at sea on May 3, were picked up yesterday by the United States revenue cutter Seneca, forty miles south of Sable Island, according to a despatch received here from the cutter last night.

When their short allowance of biscuit and water had failed, they maintained life by chewing boot leather and the few stray crumbs of hard tack. Rainwater served them when their cask went dry. The first two days after drifting away from the flaming Columbian they saw three steamers, too far away to be signalled.

The despatch from Captain Johnston of the Seneca follows:

"Sable Island, S. S. Seneca: 10 a.m., forty miles south Sable Island, rescued lifeboat with Officer Robert Teire, sailors Oscar Kendal, Peter Belanger, Fireman Michael Ludwigsen, survivors of fifteen. Oiler Geo. Hull died tenth, Peter Triel to-day, others between, namely: Engineer Margetta, Fireman Anderson, Antonio, Richmen, Gustafson, Jakob, Boy Dickmen, Cook Schrimberger, Sailor Christensen. All died from exposure and hunger. Short allowance biscuit and water. Eating biscuit crumbs and boot leather when rescued. Saw three steamers first two days, none since. Much rain. Fine to-day. All under doctor doing well signed, 'Johnston'."

Although the survivors were too weak from their sufferings to tell the story completely, the revenue cutter's officers gathered that some of the sixteen who had hastily piled into the third boat had been so badly burned that they died within the first few days. It was decided to lighten the boat by casting the bodies overboard at once. Some who had tumbled from their bunks at the first explosion and had rushed on deck half clothed succumbed to the cold. Others, weakened by starvation and thirst, gradually sank into lethargy that was scarcely to be distinguished from death.

Somehow the survivors managed to keep the boat head-on to the seas when the weather became rough, but for the past few days little or no effort could be made to guide the craft. Day by day the numbered dwindled until the five who were left sank limply to the bottom of the boat and awaited the end.

When the lookout of the Seneca, scanning the horizon for bergs on the ice patrol, sighted the small boat through his glasses, not a sign of life was seen. The Seneca put on all speed running down to the lifeboat and sent her gig alongside. The emaciated survivors were quickly transferred to the deck of the cutter and brandy forced between the parched lips.

As all the men were in apparent need of hospital attention, the Seneca was pushed under forced draught to Halifax, the nearest port.

ISAAC WATSON IS DOING NICELY

Only One-third of Charge in Pulmotor Used

Isaac Watson, the victim of Friday night's accident, who is at Nicholl's Hospital, is doing as well as could be expected, as he was in a very critical condition. His case calls for particular care and attention.

Fire Chief Howard said this morning that only one-third of the charge in the pulmotor was used.

To re-charge the pulmotor, the city pays $2 and express.

BABE DIED AFTER ARRIVING IN CITY

Mother Came From England to Join Husband

Reggie Cutt, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cutt, Western Avenue, passed away yesterday. The funeral took place to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Cutt has been in this country for over a year, but his wife and family arrived Saturday. The deceased infant took ill a few weeks ago, yet the mother thought it was not serious and made the trip. Just one day after the arrival, the little fellow passed away.

BOYS BRIGADE AT ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

The members of St. George's Church Boys' Brigade, which number 28, are giving a concert on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Church Hall. The boys have arranged and are going to conduct this concert themselves, without any help from the adult members of the church. This is their first attempt to do any church work on their own account.

WORKMEN SUFFOCATED BY CAVE-IN AT WATER MAIN

Both Were Beyond Aid When Rescuers Reached Them

GUELPH, May 18. — Wilfrid McRae and Alfred Brake, two employes of the waterworks department, were suffocated Saturday while engaged in an excavation for a water main. They were below the surface a little over four feet, when without any warning about fourteen feet of earth caved in on them. Both men were in a stooping position. A fellow workman had just left to get a crowbar from the sewerage men, who were working close by, when the cave-in occurred. As soon as he discovered what had happened help was summoned from the men nearby. They dug with all their might, but when the men were reached both were beyond aid. McRae just breathed his last as he was reached, while Brake was quite dead.

An inquest will be held.

Wilfrid McRae, with his wife, lived on Strange street, while Alfred Brake, with his wife and family of ten children, some of whom are quite small, lived on Suffold street.

SURGEON IS DEAD.

Manchester, N.H., May 18.—Dr. Jos. E. A. Lanouette, one of the foremost physicians in New Hampshire, died Saturday. He was a surgeon in the Canadian militia from 1873 to 1881.

Soap is one of the few things that should be handled without gloves.

Yes, everybody is planning a summer holiday except the town gossip. She is always with us.

WILLS FILED FOR PROBATE IN SURROGATE COURT

Estate of The Late Geo Rosborough is Divided Between Son and Daughter

Among the wills filed for probate in the Surrogate Court is that of Mrs. Margaret Huston, covering an estate valued at $4,628, made up of notes, real estate, and cash. By the will the estate is equally divided among four daughters, Jennie Huston, Elizabeth McIntosh, Edith Sutherland, and Minnie Huston, all of this city.

The estate of William Mackey, of Peterborough County, is entered as being valued at $2,850, according to the will which has been filed with the clerk. The will instructs that the estate be divided as follows: Winnifred C. Elliott, granddaughter, $200. Mary E. McCracken, daughter, $600; Margaret Scott, daughter, $600; Lily M. Webster, daughter, $600; and Robert Mackey, a son, $600.

The estate of George E. Rosborough, which is valued at $1,662, according to the will, which is divided between a son and daughter. The daughter, Stella Rosborough, receives $1,000 and a son, Hall Rosborough, the residue of the estate.

In the estate of David and Helen Cumberland, Frances B. McRoberts, maternal aunt of the deceased's children, has been appointed guardian of a benefit being paid by the Bank of British North America, amounting to $167 per year, and which will be paid to the children until they all become of age. The children, who are residents of this city, are: Kieth, Helen Phylisa, and David Cumberland. The father was a former employee of the bank and shar in its benefit fund.

NEARLY $100,000 IN NEW DWELLINGS THIS SEASON

Seventy-one Permits for Residences Have Already Been Issued

Building operation in dwellings this year promises to reach a higher mark than even before in the history of the city.

Figures obtained at the City Clerk's department gives seventy-one permits issued up to date, which total nearly $100,000. The month of April accounted for 41 permits amounting to $82,800. May, so far, has seen 22 permits, amounting to $10,800.

The figures for the first five months up to date are:—

January, 2 permits, $3,400.
February, 1 permit, $300.
March, 5 permits, $1,700.
April, 41 permits, $82,800.
May, 22 permits, $10,800.
Total, $99,000.00.

Other permits taken out will swell the above amount considerably over the $100,000. mark. Also, considering that this is apparently the busiest building part of the season, this year ought to see over $250,000 in building operations according to the figures and opinions of the prominent contractors. They are booking large contracts every day.

Among the large permits issued during the season for some of the finest residences are: H. T. Hickey, double dwelling, costing $5,500; R. H. Copping, $6,200 dwelling on Aylmer Street; G. H. Thompson, $7,000 residence on Hunter Street; Dr. Amys, $3,000 residence on Stewart Street; John Crane, $4,000 residence on Weller Street, and Mrs. Reid, $5,000 residence on Murray Street.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN PRICE OF BREAD

One cent per loaf is the difference in the price of bread this morning.

Bread will in future be eleven cents per loaf instead of ten cents. This has been brought about on account of the increased expense in the manufacture and other overhead expenses. The bakers claim that it was impossible to bake and sell bread at the old price. They also say that bread has been sold cheaper in this city than in a great many other places in Ontario, even as close as Lindsay the bakers have been getting 12 cents per loaf for some considerable time.

In order to keep bread up to the highest standard it was found necessary to increase the price to eleven cents per loaf.

AIRMEN ARE KILLED

Week-end Flying in Germany Exacts Heavy Toll

HALBERSTADT, Prussian Saxony, May 18.—A fatal military aeroplane accident occurred here Saturday evening. Lieuts. Wiegandt and Fellinger were instantly killed while attempting a landing at the aerodrome. The motor was shut off, and making too sharp an angle, the monoplane capsized and dropped 2,000 feet.

FRANKFORT - ON - THE - MAIN, Germany, May 18.—The Prince Henry aviation competition began yesterday at Darmstadt. The start was made at four o'clock in the morning, and eighteen military aviators and thirteen civilians took the air. About thirty additional military aviators will take part in the contests later. These embrace duration and military reconnaissance features.

One fatal and several minor accidents occurred. Lieut. Walz fell at Pforzheim owing to the explosion of his motor. He was slightly burned, but his passenger, Lieut. [illegible], was killed. Lieut. Hidessen and passenger also suffered a fall, but escaped with slight injuries.

Prince Henry of Prussia witnessed the start.

Starting at Darmstadt the reconnaissance contest will cover a total distance of about 1,103 miles. This is divided into two stages, the first including the towns of Mannheim, Pforzheim, Strassburg, Frankfort, Coblenz, Cologne and return to Frankfort. The second stage will begin on Wednesday next and will include the towns of Frankfort, Brunswick, Hambrug, Hanover, Minden, Muenster, Bremen and return to Hamburg.

Lieut. Beullau completed the first stage of the journey, a distance of 480 miles, at 11.55 o'clock yesterday morning, and six others had finished by two o'clock.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD AT THE ARMY TEMPLE

Adjutant McElhiney Deals With the Life of Joseph

About two hundred members of the Woodmen of the World enjoyed a stirring address delivered in the Salvation Army Temple last evening by Adjutant McElhiney. The members of the organization formed up in front of their rooms on George Street and were marched to the Temple by the army band. Reserved seats were set aside for the accommodation of the society members. One of the degrees of the order is based on the life of Joseph and Adjutant McElhiney spoke along the lines of Joseph's life. He read the chapter which told of the betrayal of Joseph at the hands of the traitors, who were his own brethern. The speaker said the type of life Joseph had lived was Christlike. He was ever ready to help his brethern and was faithful. He was betrayed and sold by his own people, but still he was faithful to them, displaying a faithfulness which ultimately triumphed. Although he was ill-treated by his brethren he showed an ever-willing spirit of forgiveness and was ready to help in the hour of need.

Mrs. McElhiney also addressed the gathering for a brief period, her remarks concerning charity and benevolence, which are two of the principles of the order.

After the meeting the band led the members of the society back to their headquarters, where William Gibbs, one of the board of management, on behalf of the local members of the Woodmen of the World, thanked Adjutant McElhiney and all who took part.

WHY THE PAVEMENT HAD TO BE TORN UP

Some people are complaining because the pavement had to be torn up on George Street in front of Neil's shoe store. The Review investigated the matter and found that the pavement was laid over a valve on the water works system, which was below the surface, and completely overlooked. This valve regulated the water used in operating the lift in Richard Hall's store, and it was very necessary that it be in a position where it could be got at if necessary. The pavement was penetrated and the valve raised to the surface.

As for the patches on Hunter Street, they were the result of some asphalt which was a little too hot, and did not make a satisfactory job. City Engineer Parsons and the contractors decided last fall to rectify the matter this spring.

CHILD'S HAND BLOWN OFF BY DYNAMITE CAP AND SIGHT OF EYES IS LOST

Seven-year-old Lad Wrapped Explosive in Paper and Lighted it

Persons at the G.T.R. depot this morning when the early train from Beleville arrived, had their curiosity aroused when a stretcher was lifted from the train and placed in the baggage room. On the stretcher reclined a little form, so thoroughly bandaged that it was impossible to state whether it was a boy or girl, the only visible part being a tiny left hand resting idly upon the top of the blankets. Close by the little cot stood a weeping lady, presumably the child's mother, and after taking a glance at the small crowd and not seeing a friendly face, she dropped to one knee beside the child and watched over it.

It is not an unusual occurrence for a crowd in this city to gather around the scene of any excitement and stand there, but this morning evidently the sight of the heart-broken mother touched them, for the spectators withdrew after a glance, and a few, after they had learned the facts of the case from another gentleman who came with the mother and the child, took it upon themselves to 'phone for an ambulance and have the child removed to Nicholl's Hospital.

While waiting for the ambulance to arrive a Review scribe learned that the child on the stretcher was a little boy, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William White, of Campbellford. Yesterday afternoon the lad came across a dynamite cap and with childlike innocence he wrapped it in paper and lit a match to it. His right hand was blown off at the wrist and the right side of his face was likewise very badly injured. The sight of both of his eyes is gone. Medical aid was summoned, but the doctor deemed it advisable to send him to Nicholl's Hospital.

The sad particulars surrounding the case are further magnified when one considers that the child's father had been ill for many months and the past winter had left the family in rather destitute circumstances. This mother has withstood the trials during the hard winter months and now as a climax there is practically no hope held out for the recovery of her little boy.

HAVE AUTHORITY TO SUBMIT RESIGNATION

Huerta Would Resign, Should This Step be Necessary to Conclude Peace Negotiations

Canadian Press Despatch.

Washington, May 18.—According to telegrams received here from a reliable diplomatic source in Mexico City, by one of the foreign embassies, Huerta has authorized the Mexican peace mediators to submit his resignation if such course prove necessary to a successful conclusion of the peace negotiations. This bears out statements made yesterday by Mexican peace delegates to friends here.

PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, MAY 18, 1914

PICTURESQUE PETERBOROUGH.

THE CITIZENS' BANQUET the other evening has brought forcibly before the people of this city the need of some system of civic beautification and also emphasized Peterborough's potentialities as a centre of tourist trade. So far as the plans go they deserve support, but the problem of beautifying this city is only part of a larger and very important question.

Beautifying a city is part of a definite, comprehensive plan for a city's growth. It is part of the problem known as City Planning. It is all very well for Peterborough to build a driveway and plant flowers. That is better than nothing, but to stop there shows a want of foresight and a narrowness of vision that should have been outgrown years ago. If this city wants to be the beautiful place it should be, if it wants to accomplish this desirable end satisfactorily and in the public interest, it will begin by devising a comprehensive plan, not only to direct the building of driveways and the planting of flowers, but also to oversee the development of new surveys, the construction of proper streets, the elimination of crowding and all those problems that confront the development of a modern city.

The council this year faces a problem at the corner of Charlotte and Park Streets, in order to extend the street car service along the former street. Had a city plan been struck, comprehending growth west of Park Street, such a problem would not now be taxing the municipal body nor threatening injustice and law proceedings.

It is evident that this city is going to adopt some plan of immediate improvement. Why not start at the very beginning, scientifically? A commission of some sort to present to Council such a plan is necessary. Then just such a problem as this is being discussed by experts in Toronto at the City Planning Conference, and if there is to be any such commission in this city, the benefit of that conference should be secured.

One thing is certain, every intelligent citizen should oppose vigorously the expenditure of public money in a beautification scheme that has no organized plan. If expenditure is undertaken without a proper plan, waste will be a sure result.

THE LATE HON. F. D. MONK.

THE HAND OF DEATH has removed in the person of the Hon. F. D. Monk, a man who was known to his own day not so much for force and assertiveness, as for fine intellectualism and ideals. He was considered the most picturesque figure in the House of Commons and was by far its best linguist, being an eloquent speaker in both English and French. Possessing an English name, of Devonshire stock on his father's side and descended from one of the oldest French-Canadian families on his mother's side he combined the artistic temperament of the Gaul with the judicial mind of the sober Anglo-Saxon.

In his own constituency of Jacques Cartier he had the respect and love of all who knew him. He was a man of unspotted character and of exceptional legal acumen. His work as Professor of Law in McGill University was marked with the greatest care and in the Montreal Bar he occupied an honoured place. In 1896 he was elected to the Commons for Jacques Cartier which owing to ill-health he resigned on March 3, 1914. From 1900-1904 he led the Opposition in the Quebec Legislature and in 1911 he was called to the Cabinet by Premier Borden as Minister of Public Works. Although a Conservative he was not in sympathy with the naval policy of the Right Honourable R. L. Borden and he resigned his portfolio in October, 1912, rather than go back on his pre-election pledges.

He was a dependable man, an honest, highly educated man, one who brought rare qualities and gifts of a high order to the service of his country in the Dominion Parliament. He was a man above the common lot, and of a standing not too common in Canadian political life.

THE DEBATE ON THE C. N. R.

ONE OF THE MOST memorable debates that has ever brought crowds to the galleries of the House of Commons is taking place over the government's proposition to extend aid to the Canadian Northern Railway to the extent of $45,000,000. Mr. Borden introduced the measure on Wednesday in a lengthy speech in which he carefully and clearly set forth the main points of the government's proposal. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied at considerable length, the closing sentence of his speech being :—

> "I have to repeat that the interest of the country is not served by the present resolutions, and as they stand it will become the duty of the opposition to oppose them from first to last."

At eight o'clock the Honourable Arthur Meighen, who had most of the work in preparing the resolution, replied in a speech lasting about an hour and a half. This was the closing sentence of the Solicitor-General's speech :—

> "But Sir, we lay the Bill on the table of the House and before this Parliament as the solution proposed by us of a very vast and very difficult problem, a problem freighted with difficulties on every side ; and we say, in laying it before this Parliament, that we believe it at once preserves the public interest and does justice to all the fair claims of private capital ; for only by concurrent regard for the interest of private enterprise and promotion of the public welfare can the ultimate ends of government be properly subserved."

Then came the speech of Mr. W. F. Nickle, the Conservative member for Kingston, which lasted from a little before ten to half past eleven. Mr. Nickle opposed the Government's plan, the closing lines of his address follow :—

> "I have tried to place fairly before the House by reasons for my stand. if they are incorrect, it is open to other gentlemen to refute them ; but as I have spoken, so I believe."

The debate continued the next morning by Mr. G. H. Boivin and some other members, and shortly after the House met in the afternoon, Mr. R. B. Bennett, Conservative member for Calgary, began perhaps the longest speech on the subject of aid to the Canadian Northern. Mr. Bennett recited Kipling's Recessional and closed his address with the following sentence:

> "On behalf of these true and real empire builders who have made this West what it is, and who have done something to make this Canada what it is, I give voice to a protest against the measure that has now been submitted for the consideration of this Parliament."

The C.N.R. problem, dealing as it does in figures of large dimensions and with twenty-eight different companies is one of the most difficult questions to understand, even when all the facts are at hand. From the speeches that have been delivered, it is quite evident that the leaders in the debate have been quite sincere in the position they have taken. The debate was of a high order, higher than the usual Parliamentary debate. The common quibbling and jibes that chequer discussion in the House were wanting. All seemed to realise the seriousness of the problem and the importance of the stand they were taking. Mr. Borden has brought figures galore to the House regarding this railway. These have been printed and have been arranged into various tables and schedules. So far as the members of the House and the press are concerned, who have received copies, they have little proof of the real meaning of the figures contained in them. The government has accepted them and on that basis has outlined its plan to assist the railway conceived by Mackenzie and Mann. If these figures are incorrect the Conservative party stands to receive the censure of the Canadian people. If the figures are true, the country has much to gain. Even if the data is not what it pretends to be, Canada will not be a sufferer from the aid extended to this railway. Its potentialities are great enough to save it from disaster. The main question in dispute in the House is what is the best means of dealing with this problem. The government has outlined one plan. Messrs. Bennett and Nickle claim that the plan is not the best plan because they dispute the figures which form the basis of the Government's bill. Messrs. Bennett and Nickle have not broken from the Conservative party. They have merely shown their capacity to take an independent view of a question which will not likely become an elective issue. Whether they are right in their position or whether the Government will modify its bill remains to be seen. This much is certain that Conservative members in the House of Commons are not entirely actuated by a hide-bound loyalty to party for party's sake.

LABOUR AND LIBERALISM.

THE FRONT PAGE of the Toronto Star has on more than one occasion lately been decorated in big letters with the statement that British Labour and British Liberalism have fallen out. With a distinct Labour party in a Liberal House of Commons, this is a self-evident fact. The truth is that Liberalism is nothing but a vague profession of Free Trade or non-control principles which the practical working people of this country know to be the reverse of good government. The whole policy of Let Alone is found to be impossible. Free Trade or Let-Trade-alone is out of date. It has been outgrown. It put Labour at the mercy of the strong financial men and kept it there. Liberalism is already hedging, although the fact is repeatedly denied. To point to trade results is fallacious. The rubber trade of South America is an extreme instance. This trade grew and grows enormously. The shares are out of sight. But at whose expense?

Doings in Our Neighboring Villages.

Orillia Packet.

Things are looking up in Cobourg. Last week, as we learn from the Sentinel-Star, an enterprising citizen had the roof of his back kitchen shingled. Port Hope may get even by flooring the Mayor's "stoop."

Passing It On.

A Sunday School teacher, after conducting a lesson on the story of "Jacob's Ladder," concluded by saying : "Now is there any little girl or boy who would like to ask a question about the lesson ?" Little Susie looked puzzled for a moment, and then raised her hand. "A question, Susie ?" asked the teacher. "I would like to know," said Susie, "if the angels have wings, why did they have to climb up the ladder ?" The teacher thought for some moments, and then, looking about the class asked : "Is there any little boy who would like to answer Susie's question ?"

"God Save the King."

An English professor, who had been a fellow-student and friend of Edward VII. when he was the Prince of Wales, was appointed honorary physician to His Majesty shortly after he became King. The professor was very proud of this, and wished his students to know of the honour conferred upon him. So he wrote upon the blackboard in his class-room : "Professor Baker is pleased to inform his students that he has been appointed honorary physician to His Majesty King Edward." The professor shortly left the room, and when he returned to meet another class he could not understand why they should be so much amused at what he had written. Later, however, he discovered that someone had carefully added to his announcement the following : "God save the King."

MAY

By Walt Mason

This blooming month deserves all praise, and should inspire some poet's song; it ought to have two hundred days, and each day just a fortnight long. In May the winter chill is gone, and there's not heat enough to hurt, and we can play upon the lawn, or manufacture pies of dirt. The garden sass we love is cheap, and we may have a full repast; the nights are cool, and we can sleep as slept Old Masters in the past. In May the flies are far between, and one can slumber in his bed, on Sunday morn, without a screen in which to hide his weary head. The chiggers and the bugs and bees are not yet organized for strife, and one may sit beneath the trees, and there enjoy a peaceful life. May is the resting place betwixt the winter stress and summer strain; it keeps the two from getting mixed, and shields us from all kinds of pain. And now the girls are bending o'er their needles, morning, night and noon, and buying glad rags at the store, which they will wear as brides in June. And every one feels young and gay, existence is a cheerful thing; and he's a dead one who in May declines to smile and dance and sing.

Birthdays of Note

MONDAY, MAY EIGHTEENTH

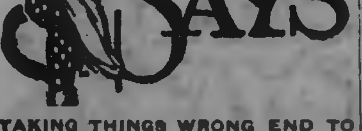
This is the sixty-first birthday of Colonel Andrew Duncan Davidson, sometime known as "The Father of the American Invasion," one of the right hand men of the Mackenzie & Mann interests and head of their land department. Born in Glencoe, Ont., he spent his younger days in the western states and then engineered the movement which directed a flood of American settlers into Canada. Since 1905 he has been chief land commissioner of the Canadian Northern Railway. Apart from his wonderful success in settling the Saskatchewan Valley with Americans, his most interesting coup was in connection with the C.N.R. entrance into Montreal. When he heard that it was proposed to tunnel Mount Royal, he instantly saw the way to pay for the right of way and the terminals. Going to Montreal, he established himself in a rather obscure corner, kept away from hotels and clubs where he would be known and working quietly and steadily succeeded in buying up the whole of the property behind the mountain now belonging to the C.N.R. No one knew anything about the move until the deal was consummated. The same plan was worked by him at Leaside, near Toronto.

Also born to-day:—

P. C. Larkin, Toronto, born Montreal, 1856.

John Standfield, M.P., Truro, born Charlottetown, P.E.I., 1868.

Elliott G. Stevenson, Toronto, born Middlesex County, Ont., 1856.



TAKING THINGS WRONG END TO

THINGS are not always jest what they seem to be and it's human natur' to feel sore when you find that our jedgment has been in error. It takes a man a long time to realise jest how easy it is to make mistakes and it takes him, usually a sight longer to get up nerve enough to back-pedal and size up the snags that have caused his trip-ups. It's mighty good reasonin', when you've made a mistake, to look fer the cause and in lookin' fer it to keep your weather-eye opened.

I remember gettin' stung by a bumble bee one time and bein' curious to larn how so much itchin' smart could be contained by one leetle bee, I started in investigatin' that busy feller with the result that I got stung ag'in and a good deal harder too than I did fust time. If I'd stopped t' think I would have started in different. Trouble is we're liable to start in on things wrong end to, so's to speak. I'm of the opinion that everythin' wuth doin' is wuth a lot of thinkin' over.

It has been so long since we have heard about the demoralising influence of the peek-a-boo and the slit skirt that I wonder how public speakers can find anything at all to talk about.

Remember every garment must be thoroughly cleaned and aired before it is put away.

NIPPED IN THE BUD

How a Mexican Revolution Was Averted

By DONALD CHAMBERLAIN

On a veranda of a house situated on a hacienda in Mexico a man was pacing impatiently back and forth, now and again looking up the road that passed the place as though expecting some one. Presently a mounted man in the uniform of a general appeared and, on reaching the gateway of the hacienda, turned in and dismounted at the veranda. Without a word the two men entered the house and were closeted together.

"Well, general!" said the host.

"Everything is ready for the revolution. Yesterday I ordered certain troops on whom I believe I can rely from the provinces to march early this morning for the capital. The troops now quartered there, who are supposed to be strong supporters of the president, cannot all be relied upon by him. The Fifth and Seventh regiments are said to be disaffected. By 11 o'clock tonight I shall have an army that will obey my commands ready to march at daylight to the city, seize the president and proclaim you as dictator. But it would not be policy for me to concentrate troops at a single point, for in this case the move would be suspected and thwarted."

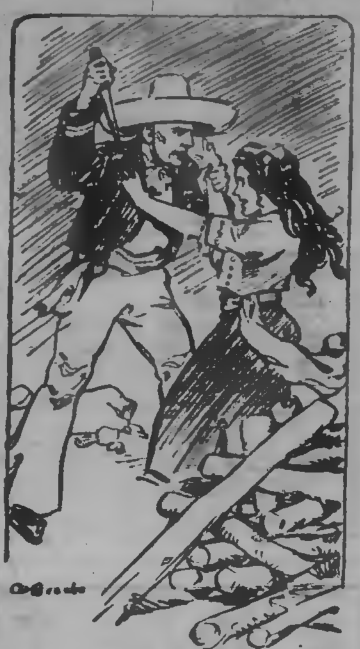
Manuel Herrera listened to this with deep interest. He had filled some of the most important offices in the government, and ambition had led him to enter into a conspiracy to place himself at its head. There was no especial reason why the president, Molina, should be deposed other than the fact that he was not the choice of all the factions that were pulling in different directions.

"To what points have you ordered these troops?" asked Herrera.

"To points surrounding your hacienda. From the hill back of your house a signal fire can be seen by every one of these corps. It is for you, senor, to give the order that will place in your hands the government of Mexico. At midnight light a fire on the hill, and each corps will march by converging roads to the capital. As soon as we are in possession a courier will be sent you to offer you the dictatorship."

"Very well, general. I will see that the signal fire is lighted at midnight. Go, and success attend your efforts."

The men left the room, and scarcely had they done so than a man of stunted figure and a crafty eye opened a closet door, looked out, listened and,



"SILENCE OR DEATH!" HE SAID.

hearing footsteps on the veranda, passed through the room into the hall.

"There's a fortune for me in this," he said, and, leaving the hacienda, he began a walk of some ten or twelve miles to the capital. There, after some difficulty, he succeeded in getting an interview with the president.

"That will do," said the latter when he had heard the man's story. "But wait." Opening a safe, he took out a handful of gold coin and gave it to the informer. "If what you have told me is true, come again and I shall have much more for you." Then he tapped a bell on his desk and an attendant appeared.

"Tell my son that I wish to see him immediately."

A few moments later Jose Molina, a man not long past majority, entered the room. He found his father much excited.

"Jose, my son," he said, "we are in great danger."

"How so, father?"

"There is a movement on foot to depose me and put Herrera in my place. That arch traitor, General Ortez, will have before 12 o'clock tonight some 8,000 troops at different points surrounding Herrera's hacienda. At midnight a fire will be lighted on a hill in rear of Herrera's house, which will be a signal for these troops to march here, seize my person and make Herrera dictator."

There was a silence, which was broken by the son.

"What action do you intend to take to abort this effort?"

"What would you propose?"

The young man's eye lighted. This was the first time his father had ever asked his advice.

"Give me an hour to consider. If I can decide in less time I will do so."

"Very well. I shall need some time for consideration myself. Go and return as soon as your mind is made up."

The young man retired and before the expiration of the hour returned.

"Have you come to a decision?" asked his father.

"I have. These revolutions are more easily nipped in the bud than broken down after the first success. If all does not go well in the beginning those who have been led into them become panic stricken and desert. In this case we have an opportunity to cause the affair to fall apart without having struck a blow."

"Explain."

"I will go myself to the Herrera hacienda and conceal myself at the point where the signal fire is prepared. Doubtless but one person will be charged with that work. That person I will eliminate with cold steel. The fire will not be lighted."

"My dear boy," exclaimed the father, embracing his son, "you have hit the nail on the head! But suppose you have knifed this single person you assume will be charged with the lighting of the fire. Will not Herrera, not seeing the sequel, send another?"

"Never fear, father. Whoever he sends shall receive the same steel."

As soon as the darkness fell Jose Molina, disguised as a countryman, mounted a rawboned horse and set out for the Herrera home. One matter of which his father was ignorant troubled him. Senor Herrera had a sister much younger than her brother, whom Jose had met, and an affair of the heart had resulted. The conspiracy was liable to break up this attachment. Inez Herrera undoubtedly sympathized with her brother's movement and Jose must stand by his father.

Young Molina directed his course to a part of the Herrera hacienda farthest from the house and, passing through a grove, climbed the hill where the signal fire was to be lighted. As he expected, he found a pile of wood collected on the very apex. Underneath was kindling, and all that was needed to depose his father and put a rival in his place was a match.

Not a dozen yards from the pyre was a clump of bushes, in which Jose Molina hid himself. He had taken the precaution to be on hand two hours before the appointed time and had a long wait before him. The night was starlit, with no moon. At midnight the watcher heard a faint sound of some one climbing the hill, and soon he saw the dim outline of a figure.

The figure apparently stopped by the pyre. Like a flash Jose passed the interval between him and it and clasped a body in his arms.

"Silence or death!" he said in a low voice.

Jose knew that he grasped a woman by her dress. She struggled for a few moments, then remained quiet.

"Who are you?" he asked.

There was no reply for a time, then: "I know you by your voice. You are Jose Molina."

"And you are Inez Herrera. Listen to me. The fate of the Mexican people, your father's life, depends upon what we do here. This plot has been revealed by one of your servants. I knew that a signal fire was to be lighted here to start a revolution. I came to put this knife into him who would light it. How came you here?"

"My brother would trust no one else."

"And I would leave my father's interests in no one's keeping but mine. This signal shall not be given. My father is prepared for the emergency. You must remain here till it shall be too late to start the revolution. Then I will offer on behalf of my father, the president, terms to Senor Herrera."

"And suppose he refuses?"

"The garrote."

The girl shuddered. She had been opposed to her brother's project both on her own account and because she loved the son of the man he would depose.

"Very well," she said presently with a sigh; "I will do as you say and use every effort to persuade my brother to adopt your suggestion."

"He shall have the most exalted office next to that of president."

"How can you assure him of this?"

"I have saved my father from revolution and probable death. He cannot gainsay anything to which I bind him."

Inez suggested that they go to her brother at once, inform him that his plan was known to the president and that the signal fire had not been lighted. But Jose would not consent to this. He preferred that sufficient time should expire to thwart the revolution. Half an hour passed, and a footstep was heard below.

"Father!" called Inez.

"Why have you not lighted the fire?"

"I have been stopped from doing so. Your plot is known to the president."

"Advance, senor!" called Jose. "I am authorized by President Molina to make terms with you."

Herrera considered for awhile, then asked what would occur if he returned to his house. Jose convinced him that such a course would be unwise in the extreme. Inez settled the matter by telling her brother that she was held as a hostage.

There have been many revolutions in Mexico and many intended ones. The one that has been narrated here and that never came to a head ended very happily. Senor Herrera became the head of the Molina cabinet, and the political alliance was cemented by the union of Jose Molina and Inez Herrera.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Nasal Catarrh.

The most common cause of nasal catarrh is chronic inflammation of the nasal mucous membrane. Undoubtedly it affects the general health and absorbs certain nutriment that should go to other parts of the body. Moreover, it affects the other nerves that lie in its region.

Simple remedies are often more efficacious than pretentious ones. Try this: Obtain some boracic acid powder and an ordinary glass nasal douche. Put a teaspoonful of the powder into a pint of hot water. When dissolved thoroughly douche the nose. After this is done sniff a little of the powder itself up each nostril.

This should be done unremittingly night and morning and it will not be long before the wonderful healing powers of the boracic powder will be felt. Only—one must persevere.

Ripping a Garment.

There is an inexpert way and an expert way to do so small a thing as ripping a garment. The wrong treatment sometimes puts a perfectly good garment beyond the possibility of making over.

Scissors should not be used for ripping. A sharp pointed knife does the work better.

Hooks, eyes, buttons and clasps, etc., should be taken off with great care and patience, bias seams carefully held that they may not be stretched and all threads neatly pulled out after they are well cut.

Lace trimmings should be most carefully taken off without pulling or snipping.

Fly Swatting
Is Useless

Our Dominion Entomologist says: "I am convinced that the practical results of the fly swatting campaigns that have been carried on by some of our newspapers are useless as fly reducers." But the fact that one ten-cent packet of WILSON'S FLY PADS is capable of killing a bushel of flies proves them to be the best of all fly killers and recommends their continuous use to good housekeepers.

WILSON'S FLY PADS are sold by all grocers and druggists everywhere.

Curly Hair.

The difference between a plain and a pretty girl is often simply a question of hair.

A Venus must fail to appear charming with long, straight, untidy ends of hair hanging about her eyes. Undoubtedly nature favors the lassie to whom she gives curling locks. Waves made with "wavers" will come out, though a damping with eau de cologne before putting the hair into the instruments of torture helps. A hair net, many invisible hairpins and a veil fastened securely at the back of the neck will keep the waves in shape.

It is quite true that hair can be made naturally curly. The process is expensive, however. It was first discovered by a clever foreign hairdresser. He had noticed that if a naturally curly single hair was stretched to its full length and left in a heated atmosphere it became perfectly straight and that if that hair was afterward placed in water it returned to its original wave. This made him think and make numbers of experiments with a strong microscope, and he found that the curly hair was covered with tiny open pores, and so he realized that if the hair was to be made curly it must first be made porous. The pores of straight hair are closed.

His hair waving process is based on these experiments, and the results are said to be wonderful.

The hair is thoroughly well brushed, then strands of it are wrapped closely and evenly around small metal cylinders. These are then covered first with strips of fine flannel damped with borax water and next with brown paper, each end being secured with string.

Next these are slipped into still larger metal cylinders and quite moderate heat applied. The hair remains in the cylinders for ten minutes or so, when all the wrappings are removed, and the head is found to be covered with delightful natural looking waves.

The hair can be washed as often as one likes, and the pretty, wavy look does not disappear. In fact, it becomes more pronounced after washing.

Understanding the reason behind this process makes one realize how necessary it is to keep one's hair absolutely clean both by daily brushing and frequent washing. Perfectly clean hair doesn't fall into those dreadfully disfiguring "tails," even though it is straight.

Skipping Rope Exercise.

To develop the figure and correct round shoulders well bathe to the waist in cold water every morning if you do not take a cold tub. Then with a skipping rope skip for five minutes in front of an open window before you put on your outer garments. Next stand straight up, heels together, stretch your arms out in front of you as far as they will reach with the tips of fingers together; then with mouth shut spread them slowly open until quite wide apart, then stretch them backward, trying to touch the backs of the hands. Draw in a deep breath through your nostrils all this time. Then slowly bring your arms back to their first position, exhaling the breath through the mouth. Repeat this twenty times morning and night.

For Slender Waists.

A good exercise for decreasing the size of the waist is the following: Stand erect, place the heels together, raise the hands high above the head, joining the finger tips, then quickly bring the arms down as low as you can. Bend the body forward at the same time, so that the hands almost touch the floor. Keep the knees firm and bend from the waist only. Then swing the arms back to their former position raised above the head. Repeat ten times if you can do so without undue exertion, but should the exercise tire you commence with fewer repetitions and gradually increase. Practice before breakfast in front of an open window, no corsets on.

Most Remarkable.

"She's awfully happy, isn't she?"

"Well, why shouldn't she be? Every time she's married for love."—St. Louis Republic.

CHILD'S SPRING COAT.

Natty Garment of Blue and White Check.

CHILD'S SPRING COAT.

Children's garments are extremely picturesque this spring. Kate Greenaway effects are favored. Many other quaint conceits that are just suited to the kiddies are utilized by the designers who specialize on children's garments. A coat that is comfortably plain, yet has all the dash and daring that mother or little daughter could desire, is illustrated. It is made of checked wool in dark blue and white and trimmed with white flannel and blue braid. The plain lines of the design are especially fashionable, while the high belt and the pockets offer their share of the chic and the practical. White buttoned boots and stockings and a blue and white hat complete the little lady's outfit.

Bless the Baby.

Bless this little heart, this white soul that has won the kiss of heaven for our earth.

He loves the light of the sun, he loves the sight of his mother's face.

He has not learned to despise the dust and to hanker after gold.

Clasp him to your heart and bless him.

He has come into this land of a hundred crossroads.

I know not how he chose you from the crowd, came to your door and grasped your hand to ask his way.

He will follow you, laughing and talking and not a doubt in his heart.

Keep his trust, lead him straight and bless him.—From "The Crescent Moon," by Rabindranath Tagore.

Get a druggist to make up this special lotion: Tincture of storax, one dram; tincture of benzoin, two drams; rectified spirits, one ounce; rosewater, eight ounces. Shake the bottle before using. Apply frequently to the nose with a piece of cotton wool, letting it dry on.

For Puffiness Around Eyes.

As an application for puffiness around the eyes this astringent lotion is recommended: Rectified spirit, one-eighth dram; simple tincture benzoin, one-half dram; glycerin, one dram; powdered tragacanth, two grains; rosewater to make three ounces. Shake the bottle before using. Use this on a small sponge to bathe the eyes three or four minutes several times a day.

CANADIANS FOR BRITISH NAVY

From the Naval College at Halifax

Ottawa, May 18.—Arrangements have just been made by the Dominion Navy Department with the British Admiralty whereby not more than eight graduates of the Royal Canadian Naval College at Halifax, N.S., will be taken every year into the British navy as cadets.

For some time the Admiralty has not been taking any young men from the college at Halifax, and as the number of ships in the Canadian navy is very limited, the prospects were not encouraging for lads who desired to go to sea.

The Admiralty has written to the Navy Department here stating that it will agree to take not more than eight young men from the Royal Canadian Naval College, providing, of course, they come up to the necessary requirements. Cadets in the British navy get very small wages, so that young men thinking of going as such need to be assured of an allowance from their parents.

BOBCAYGEON LOOKS FORWARD TO BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

The special Kawartha Express, from Toronto, will leave at 1.30 every Saturday during July and August, starting possibly middle of June. This train will leave Bobcaygeon Sunday evening. It was found quite successful last year, and had much to do with the boom in cottage building. Trade always follows accommodation in transportation. In never develops ahead of accommodation.

The direct service of two trains daily to Peterboro will be an added convenience, and should be of service in developing the lakes. The round trip from Peterboro by boat to Bobcaygeon and return by rail, or vice versa, will be quite in order, and make a most enjoyable outing. Such a round from Bobcaygeon might be made once a week during July and August, and would be fairly safe of paying business.

Altogether if rumors are correct, Bobcaygeon will have a train service that will provide all the accommodation that could well be desired.—Independent.

GAS STOVE EXPLODES

GUELPH, May 18.—An explosion of a gas stove caused considerable damage to the house of Mr. M. Wolfe, 16 Harrison avenue, Saturday. The explosion blew the stove to pieces and two windows were very badly smashed up, and the kitchen otherwise wrecked. Mrs. Wolfe, who was in the kitchen at the time, luckily escaped with some severe bruises about the face and hands. Her injuries are not of a serious nature.

Senator Coffey Better.

LONDON, Ont., May 18. — The condition of Hon. Thomas Coffey showed still further improvement yesterday. The Senator is still in a critical state, but as he has been a little better each day since Thursday his physicians now hold out excellent hopes for his ultimate recovery.

Must Stand Trial for Murder.

SYDNEY, N.S., May 18. — Mrs. Ben Atkinson, whose hearing on the charge of being an accessory after the fact in the murder of Benjamin S. Atkinson, was concluded Saturday, has been committed to stand trial before the Supreme Court on that charge by Magistrate Hearn.

Two Killed In Duel.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 18.—Word reached here Saturday that Hubbard Minlard, aged 17, son of County Attorney J. B. Miniard of Leslie Co., and Joseph Hensley, a member of a prominent Leslie County family, had killed each other in a pistol duel at Coons Creek, near Hyden.

TOUCHED LIVE WIRE

KINGSVILLE, Ont., May 18. — A young son of H. Govern's had a narrow escape from death when his hand came in contact with a live wire which passed through a tree he was climbing on Main street. The wire carried 2,200 volts and the shock made the child lose his hold and fall. The branches of the tree broke his fall and he escaped with but a slight burn on his hand where the wire had scorched it.

A CONSTABLE IS BEATEN

Railway Officer is Found Unconscious

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., May 18.—County Constable George Wilson, who up to a month ago was a special officer of the Grand Trunk, was waylaid near the Michigan Central Railway depot here Saturday night and severely beaten. He was found unconscious at half-past three yesterday morning, and it is believed that he lay two hours before he was discovered by customs officers. Dr. J. R. Moencke was called, and it was only after two hours' work that Wilson regained consciousness and it was believed that when found he was almost dead. Wilson, when he could talk a little, said that he knew who had assaulted him, but he would not give their names.

During the three months he was employed by the Grand Trunk he became very unpopular with the men.

MURDERER IS SANE

MONTREAL, May 18. — Tomasso Bernardi, sentenced to hang here on Friday next, was reported sane by a committee of experts who examined him Saturday. His guards at the jail said he was sane, too. When he was first arrested he sank rapidly until it was thought he would die before his trial. When it came he was but a shadow of his former self and seemed to know little of what was passing. Since his conviction he has regained his health and is reported sane. He murdered a man on McGill street last summer for stealing his Italian sweetheart.

They've Had Enough.

CLEVELAND, O., May 18. — Because of an accident last night in a race at the motordome at Luna Park, in which three racers and two spectators were injured, the officials of the park announced that the motordrome would be permanently closed.

DROWNED IN SWAMP

BROCKVILLE, May 18. — Edgar Cliffe, 33, residing with his mother and two sisters at Cliffe's Crossing near Lansdowne, was found drowned in a swamp hole on his farm by neighbors who had gone in search of him. It was noticed that for some days Cliffe had been acting strangely and fears were entertained that he was suffering mentally. He left the house to look after his team in the barn, and when he did not return within a reasonable time search was made with the above result. It is supposed that he ended his life while temporarily insane.

CORNWALL, May 16.—Mayor Gillies received a letter from Arthur F Sladen, private secretary to H. R. H the Duke of Connaught, stating that the duke, duchess and Princess Patricia would be pleased to pay a visit to Cornwall on June 3, if such date would be satisfactory. Mayor Gillies called a special meeting of the town council last night and an entertainment committee was selected for the royal party. The date was accepted.

LINGERIE BLOUSE.

Pleasing Combination of Cotton Net and Lace For Morning Wear.

More and more are blouses and frocks made up after the simplest and least "cut up" design possible. Here are combined two new notes in fashions, the kimono blouse and the raglan shoulder, in sheer cotton crape with a cotton velvet stripe. Cotton net is another of the requisites of the mode that is used for its transparent effect on cotton blouses of the season. In this case the long sleeves that in Paris are proper on day blouses are of net. The high back, low front collar is of venise lace.

NEW NET BLOUSE.

Bathing or Gymnastic Slippers.

For gymnastic or bathing slippers cut the legs off old stockings just below the knees. Use the feet and see that they are darned if necessary. Hem all around the top and work long slits all around just below the hem; about an inch will be enough. Place a pair of cork soles, felt lined, in the bottoms of the feet, sewing them in strongly. Run a wide tape or ribbon in the slits at the top and there will be a pair of serviceable, rather high slippers or boots for bathing or gymnastics.

Soapsuds For the Garden.

Never throw soapsuds down the sink if you have a garden. They are valuable poured over the flower or vegetable beds. Soap is a splendid fertilizer.

HELD SATURDAY SITTING.

House of Commons Deals With Grain and Explosives Measures.

OTTAWA, May 18. — The House met Saturday morning, for the first time this session, and proceeded at once to deal with a number of Government bills.

Mr. Foster's bill to amend the Canada Grain Act was passed, also Mr. Coderre's bill to amend the Companies' Act by authorizing "share warrants" and the issue of debentures of sums less than one hundred dollars.

Mr. Coderre, as Minister of Mines, also piloted through committee his bill respecting the manufacture, storage and carriage of explosives in and about quarries and mines.

Mr. Henderson (Halton) enquired if the clause as amended would apply to the storage of "Crackrock," an explosive used generally and to a large extent in quarries. Mr. Henderson naively pointed out to the House that unless the explosive was subjected to rough usage there was no danger of it exploding. Mr. Coderre replied that no decision respecting this explosive had as yet been reached, but the matter was under consideration by the Government.

WORKLESS ARE SULLEN.

Montreal's Unemployed Problem Takes Troublous Turn.

MONTREAL, May 18. — Grave fears are entertained in police and civic circles of an outbreak among the unemployed thousands of Montreal. So serious is the situation that guards have been posted at the residence of Mayor Mederic Martin day and night, while the vicinity of the City Hall is patrolled constantly. One night last week the new City Hall annex was watched carefully, for it was rumored that the out-of-works had threatened to dynamite it.

The crowd, which is unemployed, is in an ugly mood. It is composed of eight or ten thousand foreigners, who have been coming to the City Hall every day for three weeks, looking for work. They mass on the Champ de Mars daily, and listen to bitter speeches from Socialists and others, who roundly denounce the civic authorities for not having work for them. They have crowded into the hall on several occasions, and raided the quarters of the mayor. The police are alarmed lest they do some serious damage, for they are of the races and condition liable to produce anything.

NATIONALISTS BUSY.

They Will Have 200,000 Volunteers To Cope With Ulster.

LIMERICK, Ireland, May 18.—The County Council unanimously resolved yesterday to support the Nationalist volunteer movement which was started for the purpose of organising a national force to uphold the authority of the crown and government of Ireland on the same lines as the Ulster force.

Thomas Lundon, Nationalist member of the House of Commons for East Limerick, during the course of a speech, said that the day the Home Rule bill was placed on the statute book 200,000 volunteers would parade in Dublin to prevent the withdrawal of the dearly won measure.

Waif's Memory Wins Uncle.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 18.—Helen Sherman, a waif, who for two years has been a charge of the Wisconsin State Industrial School, now has a real home. Her foster father is Charles Page, a millionaire of Tulsa, Okla.

One day recently Miss Mary J. Berry, superintendent of the industrial school, referred in Helen's presence of Mr. Page.

"He is my uncle," interpolated the girl.

Subsequent investigation by Miss Berry revealed that the girl had told the truth. The uncle was communicated with and he promptly adopted his niece.

Langlois Appointment Condemned.

QUEBEC, May 18.—The official organ of the Catholic Church in Quebec, L'Action Sociale, under the heading, "A National Shame," publishes a three-column editorial denouncing the recent appointment by the Gouin Government of Mr. Godfroy Langlois, editor of Le Pays, to the position of representative to the Province of Quebec in Belgium.

"Mr. Langlois is the 'villifier' of his province and his race. Mr. Langlois is the managing editor of Le Pays, which all the bishops of the Province of Quebec were obliged to condemn," says the paper.

Fell Into Vat.

CAME BACK AND WENT TO THE HILL

John Donahue Failed to Profit by Advice

"It's too bad we haven't an ethal chamber," remarked Magistrate Dumble in remanding John Donahue, characterized by the Magistrate as a human derelict of society, at Police Court this morning. Donahue was charged with being drunk. He had appeared in court on Saturday on the same charge, but was given another chance. He was remanded to jail indefinitely.

"I made a little mistake," pleaded Donahue.

"Oh, your promises are like pie-crust," observed the cadi.

Donahue continued his appeal that he had felt rather weak and had had a few drinks.

"Why did you get drunk?" asked the Magistrate.

"I didn't mean to," he answered.

BLACKLISTER FINED $10 FOR HIS SPREE

A blacklister was fined $10 forthwith this morning by Magistrate Dumble on the charge of being drunk while on the prohibited list.

Examined by License Inspector Stewart as to who supplied him with the liquor, he said that he was in Havelock last week. He met a construction worker. They came to the city on the train. On the way the stranger opened a club-bag and extracted a sandwich and also a bottle of beer. On his arrival here he was arrested by the inspector.

"Do you intend to go to the devil?" inquired His Worship.

Inspector Stewart informed the court that the man had a wife and five children. They were in Toronto at her people's, and living apart from the husband.

GOODNESS GRACIOUS LOOK WHO'S HERE

The worst has come. She is a gay young thing, and evidently needs a nurse. To-day she was seen walking about the streets with a slit skirt, or rather one that the scissors slipped on. When the dressmaker made it, it was a case of slashing an apparent umbrella cover to a point where the buttons appear. The scenery consists of a pair of pale green stockings. Talk about Ulster riots. Talk about suffragette parades. Talk about supporters of the cause. Some of the men who passed watched this young thing, who evidently was a stranger, and oh, the tiny spotlight blush that appeared. Strange to say not even a musical comedy company is in the city.

Bishop O'Brien also addressed the children.

CHILDREN'S EYESIGHT

It is astonishing the number of children who suffer from the effects of eyestrain, and many of them are unjustly blamed for being unambitious or mentally stupid. It has been shown by authentic investigation under municipal direction that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the children in public schools have defective vision and should wear glasses.

We make a specialty of examining children's sight by the most improved scientific methods, and if your child does not need glasses, we will tell you so frankly, and make no charge for the examination. But if your child should need glasses, we will guarantee that the glasses we fit are the proper correction, and will give perfect results. Our 10 years of successful optical business in this city is the guarantee we offer you.

REGULAR DRILL AND MARCHOUT

Particulars of Guard of Honor to be Given

Quarter Master Grutte, of the Canadian Ordnance Corp, Halifax, N.S., is in the city inspecting the supplies and making several important innovations with the field guns and supplies.

Corporal Dervine, of the R. C. H. A., is expected shortly to take charge of the Artillery for the annual camp.

Sergeant-Major Webb, of the Canadian Signalling Staff, left at Saturday for headquarters at Ottawa, after terminating the course in signalling at the Armouries.

All arrangements are completed for the visit of the 15th Regiment of Belleville here on the 24th and 25th. The Y. M. C. A. will be thrown open to the visitors during their stay in the city.

The regular drill and march-out will be held to-night at the usual hour.

The St. Catharines and other regiments will pass through the city on June 6th, en route to Petawawa.

Trip of the Belleville Regiment to This City

The following letter is from the Belleville Intelligencer:

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:

Allow me the privilege of voicing my opinion re the 15th Regiment trip to Peterborough, which has been so ruthlessly forced on to the members of the regiment. Last Friday night the men received a terrible shock when they were informed that $4.00 would be deducted from every man's pay for this trip, whether he went or not. Now this thing is outrageous, as the members, as well as the new recruits, had been led to believe that the officers would pay all expenses. In the first place, who gave the commanding officer permission to arrange this trip, and to deduct $4.00 per man, without first consulting the members of the regiment? One officer (who has no brains at all) told me the trip was cheap. Allow me to inform him that he is talking through his hat, as it is not, considering the number of men that are going. The Grand Trunk will run cheap fares for the holiday, and the return fare to Peterboro for May 23, 24, 25 will be $1.90. Considering $1 per day for board at one of the many boarding houses in Peterborough, it will make the grand total of $3.90, which goes to show that the ordinary citizen can go to Peterboro for ten cents cheaper than the soldier and have a better time, as there would be no drilling, marching, or parading to do. Now, Sir, fully 95 per cent. of the men are of the opinion that they have been done a great injustice. I want every man to join in a petition to the Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, protesting against this outrageous affair. What with $4 deducted for this trip and $2 for regiment fund, us fellows will get a fat pay envelope at the end of the season.

Thanking you for the valuable space in your paper, I am,

A DISSATISFIED MEMBER of F Company.

FIRST CONTINGENT OF SALVATIONISTS FOR LONDON CONGRESS

Toronto, May 18.—The first Canadian contingent of the Salvation Army delegates to attend the International Congress to be held in London in June, left the Union Station last night on the Montreal Express of the Grand Trunk Railway, and will sail for England on the Royal George.

The party was practically composed of Western delegates, who arrived in a special tourist car from Winnipeg. They numbered about 50, and were in charge of Major McLean and Staff-Captain Tudge, of Winnipeg. In the party were representatives from the various points in the Prairie Province, all the large divisions being represented. They were accompanied by four Toronto officers—Majors Phillips and Fraser, Captain Lewis and Mrs. Fraser, who will make arrangements for the accommodation of the Toronto representatives in London.

It is expected that the Toronto contingent will number more than 100. The entire staff band will attend and the leading officers of the headquarters' staff. A special service will be held in the Temple on Sunday next, when Commissioner Rees will take charge of the service. The local delegates will sail on the 28th and 30th.

All told the Canadian contingent will number 500. Of these Ontario will contribute the majority of the delegates and a number of bands will attend, including that of the Peterboro corps. Last night the station was crowded, with members of the city corps who turned out to welcome the Western contingent and bid farewell to the Toronto delegates.

ARTILLERY.

There will be an instructor at the Armouries at 7.30 o'clock on and after Tuesday, May 19th. All members of the 24th F. B. C. A. are requested to turn out.

NOT FOR ENTERTAINMENT BUT TO ELEVATE MINDS TO HEAVENLY THOUGHTS

Says Bishop O'Brien at Opening of Organ at Church of the Sacred Heart

The Church of the Sacred Heart was last evening taxed to its greatest capacity, the occasion being the opening of the new pipe organ, recently installed by the Casavant Freres, of St. Hyacinthe, Que. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, D.D., celebrated Pontificial Vespers, assisted by Rev. M. McGuire, of Douro, Deacon, and Rev. C. Phelan, Sub-Deacon. Other priests in the sanctuary were Very Rev. Dean McColl, Monsignor Casey, of Lindsay, Rev. P. J. Galvin, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, and Rev. J. V. McAuley.

Bishop O'Brien preached the sermon, stating the real purpose of the organ was not for entertainment, but rather to elevate the minds of its hearers to heavenly thoughts. It is like all other monuments and fixtures in Catholic churches, to assist in worshipping God. Bishop O'Brien also expressed his gratitude for the act of the late Mr. Martin McManus, in donating the organ, and urged the parshioners of the Church of the Sacred Heart to remember that benefactor, his wife and daughter in their prayers.

Mr. John Armstrong, the organist, performed most acceptably at the new instrument, and truly demonstrated his well known efficiency as a talented musician. Through the efforts of Mr. Armstrong and Miss Annie Simmons, the singing of the choir was extra good and quite in keeping with the excellent music. The following composed the choir:

Tenors—Miss A. Simmons, Miss M. Theobald, Miss A. Grady, Miss K. Masterson, Miss A. Meagher, Miss O. Letellier, and Mrs. Girard.

Altos—Miss A. Murray, Mrs. Popham, Mrs. H. Laplante, and Miss A. Bartley.

Tenors—Messrs. P. Henshaw, J. Corkingdale, J. Cairn and E. Picard.

Bass—Messrs. E. Bartley, W. Collins, and F. Grady.

The tenor to the Laudate Pueri, as sung by Mr. Henshaw, was of a high order, as was the O Saintaris by Miss K. Masterson and E. Bartley, and the Tantum Ergo by the quartette, Messrs. Henshaw, Bartley, Cairn and New.

The ushers were Messrs. W. O'Connell, F. Overend, J. Lynch, L. Lazure, R. Rose, W. Murray, and E. Laplante.

REPRESENTATIVES OF GEN. HUERTA HAVE ARRIVED AT WASHINGTON

Delegates Are Guests of Honor at a Dinner, But Refuse to Discuss Mediation With the Press—They Are Said to be Optimistic of Success—Huerta is Still Jailing His Enemies for Sedition.

WASHINGTON, May 18. — The arrival here yesterday afternoon of Gen. Huerta's three representatives sent to the mediation conference to open at Niagara Falls next Wednesday, gave the most tangible evidence thus far presented of the efforts now under way to compose the Mexican conflict.

Saturday night the Mexican delegates were the guests of honor at a dinner at the Spanish embassy. Other guests were the three mediators, Ambassador da Gama of Brazil and Ministers Naon of Argentine and Suarez of Chili, and the commissioners of the United States, Justice Joseph R. Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, with the American secretary, H. Percival Dodge and numerous American, Spanish and Mexican officials.

Secretary Bryan could not attend, owing to an engagement to see a Greek out-door pageant, given here for charity. The dinner was said to be purely one of courtesy to the arriving delegates and without political significance.

Little excitement but considerable confusion attended the arrival in Washington of the three Mexican delegates.

Spanish Ambassador Riano and Counsellor Walls of the Spanish embassy, representatives of the mediating South American nations, and the remaining officials of the abandoned Mexican embassy, Secretaries Huerta and Fernandez, and Military Attache Avalos, were in the official group that greeted the delegates.

Senors Rabasa and Rodriquez were smilingly appreciative of the courtesies tendered them. They firmly declined, however, to be drawn into any discussion of their mission.

At 5.30 p.m. the three Mexican delegates, under the auspices of Ambassador Riano, made an official call on the mediators, assembled to meet them at the Argentine legation.

Before the departure of the Mexican delegates they were about the lobby of their hotel looking far more refreshed than on their arrival. They received newspapermen courteously but without breaking their silence concerning their mission. The State Department had engaged quarters for the delegates, but they insisted that they must pay their own way.

Though the Mexicans would make no statement, declaring that it would be inexpedient for them to say anything in advance of the negotiations, it was learned from quarters in close touch with them that they were decidedly optimistic regarding the chances for mediation. They have little idea how long the task of arranging a settlement will keep them at Niagara Falls, but they are thoroughly confident that their trip will not have been in vain.

Huerta Jailing Grumblers.

VERA CRUZ, May 18.—Huerta is still pursuing a policy of cowing disloyal residents of Puebla by jailing all those suspected of sedition. Many hundreds of arrests have been made in the past ten days, and some of the most prominent and wealthy Mexicans in the city have been consigned to the army. The latest victims of political persecution are Doctors Jesus Alfaro and Juan Guateau, and Prof. Luis Ibarra. Alfara is the director of the general hospital of the state, and Guateau is a professor in normal school. Ibarra is a close friend of Juan Sanchez Azcona, former secretary to Madero, now the representative of the Constitutionalist Junta in Paris. Azcona after Madero's murder fled from the capital and was arrested in Ibarra's house.

ALASKA FLOODS

Cable Says Many Towns and Villages Are Lost

TACOMA, May 18. — Fairbanks, Alaska, cables that Circle City, Eagle City and scores of woodchoppers and mining camps with many native villages along the Yukon above Fort Yukon have been destroyed by the worst flood in the history of the north, according to meagre reports received last night. Fears are entertained that Fort Yukon has been swept away.

"Ice jammed somewhere below here and water rising at the rate of more than a foot per minute. Everybody taking to foothills." This was the brief message flashed from the wireless station at Circle City and picked up at Fort Gibbon.

Flood marks on the Yukon show that water in the past rose more than a hundred feet when ice jammed in the canyons. Circle City and Eagle City are only thirty feet above the Yukon's normal level.

MONTREAL, May 16. — On the ground that T. McG. Black, park superintendent, was an American citizen, Mayor Martin yesterday ordered him reduced to a temporary assistant superintendent, and placed a French-Canadian, Dr. Badbois, in his place. "I will not have a foreigner drawing a salary of $2,500 a year in Montreal," said the mayor, when it was pointed out Mr. Black had been recommended by influential people in the city.

BRIDGE DESTROYED.

Funston Reports Blowing Up of Link With Mexico City.

WASHINGTON, May 18. — Brigadier-Gen. Funston reported from Vera Cruz yesterday that the Mexicans had dynamited and destroyed the San Francisco bridge, on the line of the Interoceanic Railway, 28 miles out from Vera Cruz.

This bridge was one of the most important on the line of the Interoceanic road, and its destruction greatly increases the difficulty of this route for an American invasion.

The San Francisco bridge crossed the Antigua ravine and was 164 feet in length and 14 feet high. The Interoceanic is a narrow-gauge line, and has not been used for the removal of refugees from Mexico City. It also was the second choice as a route for the American troops to the Mexican capital, the broad-gauge line of the Mexican Central being preferable.

Gen. Funston does not say how the San Francisco bridge was destroyed or by whom, but apparently it was the work of the Federal troops.

Gen. Funston also reported a rumor that Gen. Navarette, the Federal commander, is in the neighborhood of Vera Cruz with a force of 3,000 men. The fact of the actual blowing up of the bridge was not so disconcerting to the Washington officials as was the evidence which it presented of the continued activity of Huerta's forces almost within the shadow of Vera Cruz. This uneasiness was increased by the suggestion by Gen. Funston of the nearness of the Mexican commander with his 3,000 followers.

SCHOONERS FAST IN ICE.

One Hundred Reported Caught In Ice Drift—Tritonia Is Freed.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 18. — One hundred fishing schooners, bound north for bait, were reported to have been caught fast in drift ice in the Strait of Canso while on their way to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. In response to an appeal to the Canadian Government for assistance the steamer Minto was despatched to the scene Saturday. Some of the schooners were said to be in danger of being crushed in the heavy floes.

Tritonia Released.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 18. — The steamer Tritonia, from Glasgow, which has been imprisoned in the ice of Notre Dame Bay for two weeks, was released by the sealing steamer Bellaventure Saturday. She suffered only slight damage about the forepart.

DEFENDS LAWYERS.

Sir John Simon Says They Are Not So Black as Painted.

Great Britain's Attorney-General, Sir John Simon, K.C., M.P., was the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Manchester Law Students' Society. In his speech he said:

"I am heartily glad to find myself in a company of lawyers who are not ashamed of avowing that they are lawyers, who are proud of the profession to which they belong. And I am glad to take the opportunity of giving some sort of answer to those who, not themselves being lawyers, use, as it seems to me, very unfair and unreasonable language of detraction about lawyers.

"What is the popular view of the lawyer? What is the novelist's view of the lawyer? What is the dramatist's view of the lawyer? What is Jack Cade's view of the lawyer?

"According to these uninstructed critics, the lawyer is a man of diabolic acuteness, who spends the whole of his time in saying what he does not believe in order that he may make the worse appear the better reason for purposes and motives entirely disgraceful, and for remuneration invariably extortionate.

"The real truth is that the lawyer is a painstaking and industrious kind of man, who spends a great deal more of his time in endeavoring to reconcile people than in fomenting quarrels; who endures a great deal of unmerited obloquy, without whom no government is complete.

"I claim that we have reason to be proud of the work which is done by the members of our profession, both in its purely professional aspect and in its wider and national applications. Explain it how you may, the fact remains that there is no great civilization either in the historic past or at the present time, either in the Old World or the New World, where those who have had the training of the law have not been called to serve the state.

"In our own country, at every crisis in the history of constitutional liberty, the lawyers of England have played a great and a striking part. And what is true of England is true of ancient Rome; was true and is true of our great neighbors, the French; is true of Europe, and is pre-eminently true of the progressive democracies of America. The reason, I think, is obvious. It could not be so if the success of a lawyer depended on his raising false issues, or gaining a great reputation in all places where hairs are split. The real training of a lawyer should be something very different from that.

"His training ought to teach him, in the first place, calmly to study the facts—and all the facts—not only the facts that tell in his own favor, but also the facts that tell against the view which he is convinced is the right view upon the whole. In the second place, it is his business to anticipate the way in which the argument may be put from another point of view and to weigh it and judge it.

"The mistake which popular judgment makes about us is this: They do not realize that a lawyer who knows his work and has studied the facts and considered the argument against him, if he finds the argument against him is a true argument, will 'cave in,' will settle, will compromise, will admit, will withdraw, will apologize. And it is only when he satisfies himself that, though the matter may be doubtful and difficult, upon the whole the argument will prove that his case is right, that you find him with his back to the wall fighting till all is blue. Those are the real qualities of statesmanship."

Children's Books.

The advertising of children's books does not seem to have advanced in ingenuity since the time of old John Newbery. Here is a specimen of his art, from The Morning Chronicle in December, 1767: "This day was published 'Nurse Truelove's New Year Gift, or the Book of Books for Children,' adorned with cuts, and designed as a present for every little boy who would become a great man and ride upon a fine horse, and to every little girl who would become a great woman and ride in a Lord Mayor's gilt coach. Printed for the author, who has ordered these books to be given gratis to all little boys and girls at the Bible and Sun in St. Paul's Churchyard; they paying for the binding, which is only 4 cents each book."

Herb Growing In England.

The production of medicinal herbs is a very considerable industry in England. Throughout Surrey, Suffolk, Hertfordshire and Norfolk there are many large herb farms. Among the herbs chiefly grown are rue, wormwood, comfrey, horehound, peppermint, rosemary and lavender. The English oils of lavender and peppermint are particularly famous, bringing from two to five times as much as the same oils produced in other countries. Of late years the street sale of little bunches of fresh lavender, especially in London, has consumed a considerable part of the large annual supply.—London Opinion.

Mathematics at Oxford.

There is an interesting story which shows the disposition of Oxford toward mathematics. A venerable don who had bought half a dozen books at 3s. 6d. each requested the bookseller to give him a piece of paper for the purpose of arriving at the amount. He then wrote down 3s. 6d. six times, one under the other, and was slowly adding them up when the shopman ventured to point out the shorter method of multiplying one 3s. 6d. by 6. "Dear me," exclaimed the don. "Really, that is most ingenious, most ingenious."—London Globe.

Didn't Watch His Watch.

In a subway crowd not long ago a New York man was "touched" for his watch. The watch was not intrinsically valuable, but the New York man wanted it back for sentimental reasons and inserted divers advertisements in the papers offering $50 for the return of the watch and "no questions asked."

The "dip" who had "lifted" the watch saw the advertisements and concluded to take the $50. He called on the New York man, handed him the timepiece and demanded the reward.

The owner of the watch was only too happy to give it to him. After examining the watch he returned it to his pocket and handed over five ten-dollar bills. The "dip" pocketed the money and departed. There was little said.

A few minutes later the New York man reached for his watch.

But it was gone.—New York Tribune.

Restfulness of Flowers.

Flowers in the home divert the mind and rest the weary eyes of the housewife and mother.

A bouquet in the sickroom aids in keeping the mind off the disease and often starts the brain on a new channel of thought that puts the patient on the road to recovery.

Flowers in the office or on the desk of the weary clerk or stenographer will produce such a telling effect that by actual comparison more work is accomplished by those whose eyes and brains are rested by the presence of those gifts from nature.

Artists visit the parks and gardens to study the flowers, and their orbs are wonderfully toned up by the refreshing glimpses of the colors in nature, and no artist has ever been successful who does not study colors in the beautiful flowers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Sad Disease.

A well known railroad president once took occasion to visit a small southern town to enjoy the excellent fishing near by. He carefully concealed his identity and was consequently snubbed by a "leading citizen" with whom he attempted to strike up a conversation on the banks of the stream. When leaving he secured the services of an aged black to carry his things from the hotel to the depot. There the departing visitor caught sight of the man who had given him the cold shoulder. "Poor Smith!" he said, smiling amusedly. "Suffering from an aggravated attack of egotism." "Dat so?" said Uncle Silas in surprise, following his gaze. "He done lived heah more'n twenty yeahs an' Ah nevah knowed afore dat he wuz ailin'."—Argonaut.

ODE TO A NICKEL.

O nickel, what a lonely place would be
This world of ours were it bereft of thee!
Of all the minted flock that yearly flies
Across this land you only are my size.
Without thee I would cheerless go my way.
Nor hamburgs would I munch at close of day.
The street car which at midnight takes me home
Would rattle on without me; I would roam
About ice-creamless, poolless, shineless, too,
If some wise statesman had not thought of you.
Fair nickel, all the moving picture shows
Without your aid would shrivel up and close;
The gum trust would be busted, in the lurch;
The contribution plate that's passed at church
Would not weigh half so much; the tightwad's yell
At the hicostoliving soon would swell
Beyond belief. Thou art the poor man's bread,
The rich man's quick excuse when he is bled
For shekels. And had I but saved your kind
Within my empty pockets I might find
The dough which now I lack. My sorry face
Might now be wreathed in smiles which would replace
The clouded brow at this financial pickle
I am in, O nickel!

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Treatment of Bruises.

Bruises are not only very painful at times, but are disfiguring as well when on an exposed part of the body. They require quick action if they would be banished the hour they arrive. Once bruises begin to swell and take on a varied assemblage of colors it is almost impossible to do anything with them but let them run their course. Immediately after the hurt is the time to prevent them. In the first place, they should be given heat at once—that, just as intense as can be borne. For ten or twelve minutes lay hot cloths on the bruised flesh, replacing each cloth with a fresh one as soon as the heat in it lessens. Then dry the skin and bind loosely with a thin strip of absorbent cotton. Put together a mixture of one part alcohol and three parts water. Moisten the cotton with this and as fast as it dries moisten it again. The rapid evaporation takes away the inflammation and is also delightfully cooling. Nor is any other antiseptic needed, as the alcohol kills any germs that may be present. After a half hour's treatment stop for an hour or so. Then if there is any sign of swelling or redness repeat, but usually one treatment is enough.

HANGING OUT CLOTHES.

A System That Saves Time and Extra Labor.

There is an art in hanging out clothes. Begin at lower end of line and hang the flannels, then the small pieces such as napkins and tray cloths, corset covers next, cotton drawers, towels, pillowslips, nightdresses, tablecloths and sheets last.

On the other line hang all colored garments, house dresses, men's underdrawers, shirts, children's dresses, boys' blouses, in the same rotation.

It is much nicer to see every article in its place than a sheet here and there or first a colored dress, then a heavy shirt, etc.

If one's clothesline is kept out in all weather it is bound to get grimy and stain the clothes. Save odds and ends of white cotton cloth and sew firmly together (strips), and as each article is hung pin to cloth on line and the bother of washing out soiled ends of clothes is done away with.

If a women would cut out the milliner's expensive creations and pin a $10 bill in her hair she would attract more attention.

MULLIN'S GREAT WORK TOLD AGAINST PETES

Londoners Took the Final Battle by Two Run Margin

UMPS HELP 'EM

A FELLOW named Mullin and an umpire named Bedford played a big part in the defeat of the Petes by London, Saturday in a 6-4 game. The former pastimed around third base like a big leaguer and robbed the locals of at least four hits by his brilliant work, while his umps presented the Cockneys with two runs by failing to catch an out on a shoestring catch which Frank Fox made in the seventh. The play was close but Fox got the ball before it hopped. The umps evidently thought it hopped, and his decision impressed the fans with the necessity of the double umpire system. Had there been a field umps the teams might have been tied at the end of the ninth as Long's catch constituted the third out. The umps was raw on a few other decisions also, and Sterling should have been safe in the eighth when Bierbauer juggled Mullin's throw.

The game was a fair exhibition with Stieger outpitching Sterling throughout and not till the ninth did the locals solve his slants. Sterling was erratic and did not prove much of a puzzle. On the other hand Stieger did not issue a pass and fanned four of Blount's meal eaters. The work of Price was an improvement over his previous performances, and the two errors chalked up against the locals did not prove disastrous. There was nothing sensational pulled off during the contest except Fox's catch which went for naught and Mullin's specatcular stabs at the difficult corner.

There was nothing doing for the locals until the seventh when Byrne and Gorman singled, but Joe was out at third on a great play by Lamy. In the ninth the Petes jumped on Mr. Stieger for five hits and four runs. Fox started the rally with a single and Bierbauer robbed Wilcox of a hit. King punched one to the outfield, and Byrne did likewise, scoring Fox and King. Gorman was safe on Whitcraft's error, and Long's throw to third was wide and Byrne scored. Miller hitting for Price drove one at Stieger which just missed bouncing over his head by inches and Linneborn scooped it in for an out. Kelly doubled, scoring Gorman, but Ryberg hitting for Sterling struck out.

London scored one in the first on a pass to Lamy and Bierbauer's triple. They were not dangerous again till the seventh, when Mullin was hit by pitcher, sacrificed along by Snyder and sent to third on Stieger's bingle. Lineborn was an easy out, and Fox made a great catch of Long's poke, but the umps called him safe, and Mullin and Stieger scored. The Cockneys grabbed two more in the next frame on Bierbauer's double, Whitcraft's sacrifice, Mullin's out, Snyder's wallop and a pass to Steiger. In the ninth a pass to Long and Lamy's double brought the total up to six.

Summary—Three base hits, Bierbauer. Two base hits, Bierbauer, Lamy, Kelly. Sacrifice hits, Fox, Lamy, Whitcraft, Reidy, Snyder. Stolen bases, Blount, Long 2, Lamy, Snyder. First base on balls, off Sterling 6. Struck out, by Steiger 4. Left on bases, Peterboro 5, London 8. Double plays, Price to King to Gorman; Sterling to Gorman to Kelly. Hit by pitched, Blount, Mullin. Time of game, 1.50. Umpire, Bedford. Attendance 1,000.

Curley Blount was beaned in the sixth by Stieger, the ball bouncing off the manager's dome for some distance.

Joe Byrne carried off the clouting honors, having three hits in four times up.

Only 21 Petes faced Stieger in the first six innings.

Frank Fox was robbed off a nice put out in the seventh. The umps claimed he took it on the hop, and as a result the Realingites scored two runs, enough to win the game.

Sterling issued six passes and hit a batsman. The local slabman had absolutely nothing but a glove in his repertoire.

Creswell will likely to do the hurling to-day and the fast traveling Senators will know they have been in a ball game.

Stieger pitched nice ball except in the last frame when the locals fell on him for four punches.

King the local second sack guardian is shaping up better each game.

Gorman also is showing improvement and had a neat single Saturday.

Lamy's throw in the seventh was perfect. Byrne was on first and Gorman singled through the middle station. Joe tried to make third on the play but the ice skater's whip beat him a block.

Price was robbed of a hit in the seventh. He laid one down and had Whitcraft's throw beaten but the umps couldn't see it that way. The kid also fielded in good style, having four assists and two put outs.

Cy Riedy failed to get a hit on Saturday, but Bierbauer kept up his slugging spell with a double and a triple.

Price, King and Gorman worked a fast double in the second innings. In the ninth Bierbauer slammed one at Sterling and the local slab artist threw to Gorman who threw to Kelly, completing a double play by Lamy's out.

WITH THE PETES

MULLY MILLER, Catcher.

Born at Massillon, Ohio, in the year 1882. Height 5 ft., 9 in., weight 185 lbs. Mully started his professional career in the year 1903, with the Mount Vernon Club of the O. & P. League. Was with the same club the following year.

In 1905-6 played semi-professional ball around his home town. 1907-8-9 with Dallas in the Texas League. 1910-11 with Sioux City in the Western League (Class "A"). In 1912 played with Youngstown in the Central League. In 1913 with the same club in the Interstate League.

The League disbanded in midseason, Mully going to Greenville where he played Independent ball for the balance of the season. Signed to play with Peterboro this spring.

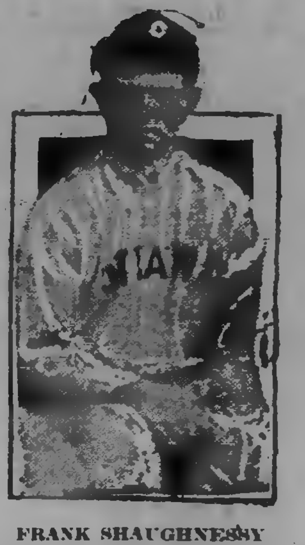
Miller is a veteran catcher, has a lot of baseball left in him yet. He has shown good form this spring and should easily land the first string catching position with the Petes. Mully takes a powerful cut at the ball, has always hit around the .300 mark, and should about lead the catchers in the League this summer.

TERRIBLE SHAG'S CHAMPS HERE FOR THREE GAMES

The fast travelling Senators have arrived to be entertained by the Petes at the local ball yard today, Tuesday and Wednesday and the fans will likely give Shag's men a warm reception. The Senators are going smoothly at the present but as their pitching staff is not the best in the world the Blountmen can be expected to give them a battle all the time. The Senators are leading the league in hitting and are fielding nicely and it will take some classy hurling one the part of the locals to stop them.

On the other hand the Petes' performance have shown that the team can deliver and with some more of the old fight the flying men from Bordenville will have to travel some to get away with the majority on the series.

The local fans will also have a chance to see Eddie Fried the phenomenal young Chicago semi-pro work at short. He is at short in place of Smykal who has been called to his home in the Windy City owing to the illness of his mother. The fans around the circuit will join as one in extending their condolence as the little shortfielder although not a great ball player has always conducted himself as a gentleman on the field.



FRANK SHAUGHNESSY manager and centre fielder of the Ottawa team. He landed the Canadian League pennant for the Senators last season. Pennant winning is his specialty. He won the flag managing Roanoke in 1909, another for Fort Wayne in 1912 and he coached McGill Rugby team in 1912-13, winning two championships. He also managed the Ottawa pro hockey team during the past season.

Wretch!

The bride was overwhelmingly pleased with the progress she was making in cooking, and hubby was always so encouraging and so kind in making excuses if by any chance she did make a mistake when guests were present. This same opinion of her forbearing husband might have continued indefinitely bad she not inadvertently made use of a bit of slang. Noticing that Harry was a trifle downcast when the dinner was about half over, she exclaimed gayly: "Cheer up, Harry! The worst is yet to come!"

Her husband glanced up quickly and, with a despairing look, inquired: "What! Have you made a pie?"—Argonaut.

Discriminating.

Some time ago a traveling man, waiting in a retail store in Richmond to speak to the buyer, said to an elderly colored woman:

"Aunty, what is the population of Richmond?"

"What's dat, boss?"

"I said about how many people live in Richmond?"

"Oh, dat's what you all wants to know. Well, boss, I don't 'zac'ly know, but I 'spects about 125,000, countin' da whites."—Everybody's.

Expert Themselves.

"Disturbances have been noted on Mars."

"Is that so?"

"Some think Mars is trying to communicate with us."

"I wouldn't wonder if they want to congratulate us on finishing the canal."—San Francisco Chronicle.

New Sewing Implements.

Old fashioned sewing implements are to come again into their own. The "sewing bird," as it was called, that holds the work in its beak, so a hem or bit of basting may not have to be pinned to the knee, is to be had now. There is a square base that screws securely to the work table, and the bird will not shake when in use. On the back is a tiny pincushion for needles and pins.

COMMENT As You Like It

Some of the directors of the Peterboro club are not satisfied with the showing of the team and a meeting of the executive has been called for this evening to consider plans for a house cleaning. There are several wild rumors as to who will feel the sting of the official axe, but most of them dwindle down to mere talk. However, that some changes will be made is almost certain, and the decision of this evening's meeting is being awaited with interest by the fans.

Shaughnessy will send Shocker to the mound in this afternoon's encounter, with Lage behind the plate. Creswell is Manager Blount's selection, with Kelly behind the pan.

Shaughnessy, when speaking of the Hamilton club, said the series with Brantford was not a basis for opinion of the strength of Doc. Yates' squad, as Brantford was undoubtedly the weakest club in the league.

To-morrow will be ladies' day. The fair sex will be admitted free and they will no doubt turn out in large numbers. The barbers and other beauty artists may expect a rush tomorrow as the ball tossers always like to attain a Beau Brummel appearance on female day.

Manager Blount shook his line up for this afternoon's game, sending Price to the bench, King to short, and Fox to the middle station. Wilcox will play right and Swartz left. Price's work in the pinches caused the manager to make the change.

To Bill Baker.

Base hits to right of him,
Base hits to left of him,
Base hits in front of him,
Volleyed and thundered.
Walloped by Lage and Nill,
Fried also smote the pill,
"Seems to me," quoth poor Bill,
"Someone has blundered."
Ottawa Journal.

Frank Shaughnessy and his Senators arrived this morning for their three game series with the Petes. "Shag" is well pleased with his team, and also thinks the prospects for a bright season throughout the circuit are very good. The Ottawa leader was high in his praise of the work of Irwin Trout, the former Pete, who is handling the padded mitt department for the Toronto Beavers. It is "Shag's" opinion that to-day Trout is just as good as any man Kelly has behind the plate, and that he is a real Class A catcher. He is very sweet on Fried, his young shortfielder and Art. Lage, who has shown even better form than last year. Yesterday in Hull the Beavers and Senators played to 5,000 people.

"Shag" is of the opinion that the Petes have received a great shake so far as dates are concerned. He points out that four Sundays in Hull and three in Erie should mean an additional income of at least $3,100.

AT THE BALL GAME.

The Pitcher's Idea.

Here comes that slugger to the bat.
His eye is wild and stern,
Within its savage, cruel depths
The fires of fury burn.
His bat is winging o'er the plate,
His attitude is tense,
He's going to life the ball, I know,
'Over the left-field fence.

He likes them swift and straight and high,
How can I keep them down?
One BALL! Just see the beggar grin,
Just see my Catcher frown!
Well, there's a saucy fade-away,
— Gee whillikens, a bird!
He never hit that kind before.
And there he is, on Third.

The Batsman's Idea.

I hate that long, port-sided gink,
His manner makes me cross,
He looks so chesty, and, you bet,
He knows that he's the boss.
He feeds me curves and fade-aways
That fill my soul with doubt,
And I can bet a bone that I
Will end by striking out.

Well, there's a Ball. He's kiddin' me.
He knows I'll never land
Look at him winding up. I know
I'll eat from out his hand.
Here's one. I'll take a swipe at it.
— Good NIGHT! It's going high,
And, I'm on THIRD. Oh, Sister Jane.
But I'm the lucky guy.
From the Toronto News.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on May 12 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper, Kendal, when their eldest daughter, Winnifred May, was united in marriage to Dr. Robert Oakley Frost, only son of Dr. and Mrs. Frost, Kinmount. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. H. A. Frost of the Charlotte St. Methodist Church, Peterboro, cousin of the groom, assisted by the Rev. R. L. Edwards of Newtonville. The graceful bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in ivory satin charmeuse, with shadow lace, and wore a tulle embroidered veil arranged in a Juliet cap with orange blossoms. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Louise Cowan, who wore peach crepe de chine, with mob cap to match. The bride's mother was becomingly gowned in black satin and cerise, and wore Richmond roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Lavergne W. Cooper, brother of the bride. The pianist was Miss Winnifred Stalker, and Mr. Charles M. McLean sang "All Mine Alone" during the signing of the register. Mr. and Mrs. Frost left for an extended trip abroad, and will return in the early autumn.—Lindsay Warder.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

PAQUIN COSTUME WITH FLARING SKIRT

Built of green pussy willow taffeta is this frock that appears simple yet which expresses the latest note of the creations of Madame Paquin of Paris. The frock was one of those exhibited by her recently in America. Note that there is a decided flare in the edge of the skirt. The modern dance, says Paquin, has made necessary greater breadth at the foot, and she has inserted flares, gores, frills and other devices to accomplish this end.

IS GOING TO NEWFOUNDLAND

Duke Will Spend Ten Days on Island

OTTAWA, May 18.—H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught will pay a visit to Newfoundland on July 5, his first since coming to Canada as Governor-General.

His Royal Highness will be met at Quebec by H. M. S. Essex, a cruiser from the Atlantic squadron, which is now en route from Bermuda to Quebec. She is expected to arrive in Quebec on June 4, and will remain there until she takes the duke to Newfoundland a month later.

His Royal Highness will, it is understood, spend about 10 days on the island, and will receive an official welcome on his arrival.

When other people don't wish to do what pleases us, we call them disagreeable. When they try to make us do what they wish, we describe their actions as selfish.

F. P. Gelvin, of Denver, is said to have been cured by radium of cancer of the tongue.

CABLE RATES

Cost of Messages to Australia Reduced

OTTAWA, May 18.—A greatly reduced cable rate for week-end messages, subject to slight delay, has been arranged between Canada and Australia and New Zealand. The announcement was made Saturday by Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, who has been negotiating with the British and Australasian postal authorities in connection with the proposals for a cheaper week-end rate over the state-owned cable. The new rate, which goes into effect forthwith, provides for week-end messages from Canada to Australia and New Zealand at $2.80 for the first twenty words or less, and 14 cents for each additional word. The regular cable rate between points in Canada and Australia is now 58 cents per word. The new rate for deferred messages is only 14 cents. The week-end messages sent at the new rate may be subject to a delay of 24 to 48 hours, but the arrangement should be of material advantage to business men or others where a comparatively short delay will not matter.

WIRELESS TO THE RESCUE!

How Marconi Machine Recovered $100 For Postal Clerk.

A few minutes before eight on a recent Saturday night a stranger called at Londonderry Postoffice and asked for gold for four £5 Bank of Ireland notes. He explained that he was just leaving for Canada, a tender at the quay, close to the postoffice, being timed to start at eight for the liner, which was lying at the mouth of Lough Foyle. The postoffice clerk courteously took the notes, and handed in exchange four little piles of gold which were in front of him. Without counting the money the stranger emptied it into the pouch of his emigrant's belt, which he thereupon strapped round his waist and departed.

An hour later, when he came to balance up for the night, the postoffice clerk discovered his cash to be £20 short. No amount of checking made any difference; the figures would not come right. Late on in the night he sought the help of a senior official. Together they worked at the problem until three on Sunday morning. It then became clear that what had happened was that the stranger had carried away £40 instead of £20. What was to be done? The clerk did not know the name of the visitor, or even of the ship in which he was a passenger. The ship herself was probably already a hundred miles off the Donegal coast on her way to the far West.

It was a case of wireless and Sherlock Holmes to the rescue of a civil servant with £20 at stake. There is a wireless station at Malin Head, the most northerly point in Ireland. Calling up Malin Head, the clerk asked "Wireless" to ascertain for him the name of the Transatlantic liner which had left Lough Foyle on the night before. Away over the dark ocean went the request for information. Within five minutes the reply was in Londonderry: "Wireless reports Allan liner —— left Moville at 9.30 last night for Halifax." One point gained.

Nothing further could be done until morning. After breakfast time the postoffice clerk looked up the clerk of the Allan Line office in Londonderry with a view to getting the man's name. "Yes," said the shipping clerk, "I remember a man named Patrick Sweeney, from Cavan, called in our office on his way to the tender. I asked what money he had, and he replied, 'Some five-pound Irish notes.' I said they should be changed for gold, otherwise he might have trouble in getting them cashed on the other side, and recommended him to try the postoffice for change."

Meantime, the Allan liner was rapidly getting outside the radius covered by the wireless installation at Malin Head.

"Halloa, Malin Head!" once more was clicked on the telegraph wire from Londonderry. "Call up Allan liner ——, and ask the purser to seek out Emigrant Pat Sweeney, from Cavan. Get him to open his belt and return twenty pounds overpaid by mistake."

An anxious half-hour was spent by a Londonderry postoffice official and those who shared the knowledge of his threatened loss. Sooner than was thought possible came the response: "Halloa, Derry! Purser has recovered twenty pounds, and will bring it back when the ship returns."

Black Cap Disappearing.

The action of Mr. Justice Ridley in passing sentence at the Old Bailey, London, Eng., recently without assuming the black cap is held by The Law Journal to have been quite justified. The black cap owes its origin to the Order of the Coif, and the coif originally was a close-fitting head-covering made of white lawn or silk. The chief insignia of the order, the coif, was worn by members when sitting on the bench or pleading at the bar. It was to cover the coif and as a token of sorrow that the black cap was used in pronouncing sentence of death. But it long ago ceased to be used merely as a token of sorrow. The Lord Chief Justice always wears his black cap in receiving the Lord Mayor at the Royal Courts of Justice, and all the judges on state occasions, such as the re-opening of Parliament, carry their black caps in their hands. The writer in The Law Journal ironically remarks that so far, at any rate, as the first-named ceremony is concerned there is no occasion for mourning or sorrow.

As to Quotations.

How many persons can unhesitatingly name the source of the familiar quotations? Many a man goes through life without reading a single play of Shakespeare, but probably no English-speaking man goes through life without quoting him. If he sneers at "a woman's reason," he quotes Shakespeare; if he refers to "a trick worth two of that," he quotes Shakespeare again.

Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" is not a popular work, but one line of it—"Ask me no questions, and I will tell you no lies"—is known and used by everybody.

Then and Now.

The following story is told of Lord Clonmell and an Irishman who met each other once in a New York hotel. On being asked what part of Ireland he came from Paddy replied, "Well, as a matter of fact, at one time I was one of your discontented tenants." Lord Clonmell glanced at him in surprise. "Yes," continued Pat, thoughtfully, "I was. But here are you and I drinking together while in Ireland I could never get close enough to you to hit you with a shot gun."

Pyramids of Cheops.

The great pyramid of Egypt, sometimes called the pyramid of Cheops, stands on a base each side of which was originally 764 feet long, but owing to the removal of the coating it is now only 746 feet. Its height, according to Wilkenson, was originally 480 feet 9 inches, its present height being 460 feet.

PETERBOROUGH, ONT., TUESDAY, MAY 19, 1914

ENVOYS ARRIVE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 19.—Dr. R. S. Naon, Minister to the Argentine at Washington, arrived yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, being accompanied by his son, aged 11, and his valet. Mr. James P. Mee, secretary to the Brazilian party, arrived at the same time. Mr. Rose, adviser to the American State Department, drove to Buffalo to meet the Minister, who reached there about 7.30 a.m. and took Senor Naon and his party to Niagara. The Minister's son was introduced by Dr. Naon as "my secretary." Although he is only 11 years old, R. S. Naon, jr., speaks English as perfectly as Spanish, having learned the former language first.

NEW YORK, May 19.—A diplomatic mission in Washington has received from a corresponding mission accredited to Mexico advices that Gen. Huerta has authorised his delegates to the Niagara Falls, Ont., conference to promise his resignation should circumstances make that surrender necessary to a settlement of the difficulties. It is understood, however, that Gen. Huerta instructed his representatives to make this tender only as a last resort, and to insist upon important conditions. These conditions are briefly summarised as a reservation to Gen. Huerta of some voice in the naming of his successor, an American loan to Mexico of $400,000,000, and a 99-year lease of Magdalena Bay for naval target practice at an annual rental of $1,000,000 gold.

This information has caused a vast deal of speculation in Washington. It follows information of a somewhat similar character known to have been received — probably from the same source—a week ago. That information was that President Huerta would not resign in obedience to any demands from the United States, but that if the "A. B. C." diplomats told him that his retirement was necessary to a settlement of Mexican distresses and asked him to retire he would do so.

There is some ground for the belief that the new decision of President Huerta, if correctly reported by the diplomatic correspondent in Mexico, was reached subsequent to the departure of his ambassadors for the United States. It is not impossible that the fall of Tampico had something to do with it. Looking back at it now, it seems likely that the postponement of the Niagara conference for two days grew out of this change of front.

Official confirmation of this interesting and important story, however, is lacking at the State Department. Mr. Bryan said yesterday afternoon that he had heard nothing of it. The Huertista delegates had informed him of no such authority on their part, he said, and he seemed to think that he would have been informed if the report was true. In other quarters, however, with particularly good opportunities for knowledge of the mental attitude of the principals in the Mexican drama, it was said that the report on its face was not unlikely.

CHINESE SMUGGLED

PATERSON, N.J., May 19. — The local police, on information received from the Department of Commerce and Labor, held a Lackawanna Railroad passenger train here Sunday night and took off five Chinese bound for New York, and who, it is claimed, had been smuggled into the United States from Canada. The prisoners will be held for 10 days to give the Federal authorities a chance to make a full investigation. It is claimed the men were smuggled across the Niagara river to Buffalo, and there boarded the train from which they were taken.

Dark Horse In Ipswich.

LONDON, May 19.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Polling takes place on Saturday in Ipswich. To the surprise and disgust equally of the Unionist and Liberal candidates, a third warrior has appeared suddenly, Scurr to wit, who is vaguely described by his backers as the rebel candidate. Local Laborites don't own him. The general supposition is that if he really goes to the poll he won't secure above a hundred votes.

A fourth candidate is even talked about, a dissenting minister having expressed his willingness to stand on the modest program, "The Democratization of Europe."

Work on New Railway Begins.

CORNWALL, Ont., May 19.—Work on several sections of the Stormont and Glengarry Railway was commenced this week. This information was given out by C. L. Hervey, the promoter of the road while in Cornwall yesterday. The bridges over the Black river will be built by the Smith Concrete Co. of Montreal. The company expects that its rails will connect Cornwall with St. Polycarpe by Dec. 1st.

Age of the Earth.

No one who has attempted to estimate the age of the earth by scientific methods has arrived at a result smaller than 50,000,000 years. Above this the figures run up to 1,000,000,000, so every one is free to take his choice, for when Mother Earth has once owned up to 50,000,000 she can scarcely object to being credited with a few hundred millions more.

TITLES ON SALE

German Socialist Makes Grave Charges

BERLIN, May 19.—Continuing his revelations, begun in the Reichstag last week, in regard to corruption in the German army, the well-known Socialist Deputy, Dr. Leibknecht, alleges in yesterday's Vorwaerts that the lately deceased Gen. Von Lindenau, military governor of Metz, died bankrupt, owing to 101 creditors claims ranging from $1.75 to $37,500.

The gravest charge against the dead officer was that he was accustomed to obtain money by trafficking in decorations and titles. Dr. Leibknecht reproduces an alleged copy of a letter in which Gen. Von Lindenau acknowledged the receipt of several thousand marks, which were to be considered as having been "paid back" when the furnisher of funds had, "through the grace of the Kaiser," become a Prussian professor of medicine.

Gen. Von Lindenau was regarded as a brilliant offficer.

CONVICTS TO TESTIFY.

Auburn Inmates Will Tell of Conversations of Becker In Prison.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Two convicts from Auburn prison, who were in the Tombs while Charles Becker and the four gunmen who shot Rosenthal were prisoners there, will be among the chief witnesses still to be called by District Attorney Whitman agains Becker. The two convicts were in New York yesterday under guard.

These witnesses will testify to conversations they overheard between Becker and the gunmen.

Charles Plitt, jr., former intimate and press agent for Becker, testified that at his last meeting with Becker in the lavatory of the train on the journey to Sing Sing, Becker said to him: "I want you to kill that squealing Jack Rose." Manton tried desperately to keep the Plitt testimony from record, but his efforts were unavailing.

Outplayed.

A Tennessee mountaineer, not in the "moonshine" belt, went to town and among other things, he bought a jug of whisky. Not wanting to carry it about he decided to leave it at a grocery store for a while.

In order that the jug might be properly identified he took a deck of cards from his pocket, extracted the five of hearts, wrote his name upon it and attached it to the handle of the jug.

Two hours later the mountaineer returned. The jug was gone!

"Look here, Jim," he cried to the proprietor of the store, "do you know what become of thet jug o' mine?"

"Sure," rejoined the proprietor, "Jake Harwell came along with the six of hearts and took it."—Everybody's.

TO TRAIL MURDERERS.

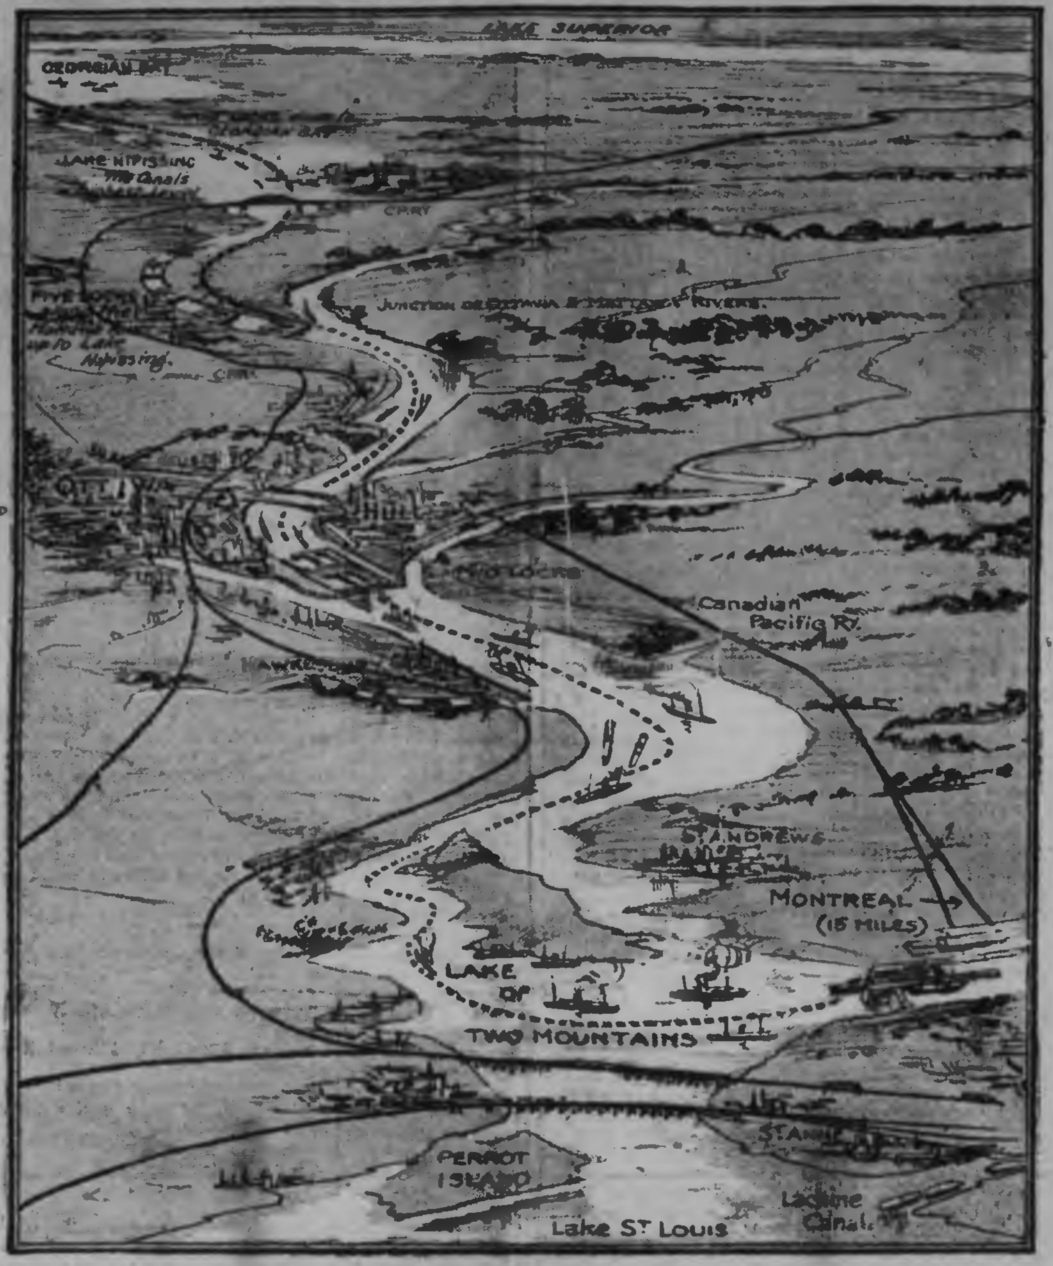
Inspector Beytes of the R.N.W.M.P. Gets Three Years Commission.

REGINA, Sask., May 19.—Inspector Beytes of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police force here has been given three years commission to go to the northernmost part of Hudson Bay in an attempt to find the murderers of Radford and Street, two explorers who were believed to have been killed by Eskimos two years ago.

Beytes will go to Chesterfield Inlet, the farthest point north on the Hudson Bay inhabited by white men, and from there take three years' supply of provisions and travel thousands of miles through the interior. The trip will be one of the most dangerous and trying ever undertaken by an officer of the Mounted Police, involving investigations among savage Eskimo tribes, at whose hands the two lost explorers met death.



Linking Canada's Wheatfields with London—How the Montreal, Ottawa and Georgian Bay Canal will link Inland Canada with England.

Linking Canada's Wheatfields with London—How the Montreal, Ottawa and Georgian Bay Canal will link Inland Canada with England.

In the near future the wheatfields of the Canadian West will be brought into closer touch with England by the formation of the above Canal, which will obviate any necessity for transference of grain or produce in bulk from train to steamer and so forth. The proposed length of the canal is 449 miles and estimated cost $150,000,000. When built it will connect the River St. Lawrence with the great lakes, and for the first time ocean-going steamers will enter lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron, and have access to the ports on their shores. Passing entirely through Canadian territory it will be one of the strongest links to east and west traffic entirely under the control of the Canadian Government. The canal starts about twelve miles below Montreal, and passing up the Back River continues up the Ottawa and Mattawa rivers to and across Lake Nipissing, thence down the French River into Georgian Bay, whence there is a clear course to the big lakes. Incidentally Chicago and Milwaukee will be brought 794 miles closer to Liverpool, and there will be water carriage all the way from Chicago to Liverpool and London. Altogether there are twenty-three locks, 850 feet long, twenty of them being between Lake Nipissing and the St. Lawrence, along which distance of 357 miles there is a fall of 633 feet.—Drawn from an illustration in the London Sphere.

HINDUS DUE FRIDAY

OTTAWA, May 19.—Advices have been received here to the effect that the steamer upon which 400 Hindus are coming to British Columbia in contravention of the immigration regulations is expected in Victoria on Friday. Some highly interesting developments are expected.

Restaurant Affiliation.

The waiter in the light lunch cafe looked expectantly at the first of five men who had just entered.

"Bring me a coffee cake and a cup of coffee," ordered the first man.

"I'll take some milk biscuit and a glass of milk," said the second.

"Tea buns and a cup of tea, please," remarked the third.

"A piece of cocoanut pie and a cup of cocoa," said the fourth.

The waiter went to the fifth man. "I know what you want," he said. "You want a slice of chocolate cake and a cup of chocolate."

"No; I do not," protested the fifth man. "I want a plate of ice cream and a glass of ice water."

Sleep Talkers.

It is a curious fact that people when talking in their sleep are always truthful and never evasive, but if their feelings are played upon by their questioner they will betray great anger. Their eyes are always tightly closed, and the intonation of the voice is very different from the tones used when the person is fully awake. Sleep talkers may by conversation be brought to remember a dream within a dream, and they will recollect what happened in preceding dreams. Very often mental anxiety will make people talk in their sleep when under other conditions they would never do it.—London Standard.

No Need to Call Him.

A curious person of a certain town, who loved to find out everything about the new residents, espied the son of a new neighbor one morning in a doctor's office.

"Good morning," he said. "Little boy, what is your name?"

"Same as dad's," was the quick reply.

"Of course, I know, little boy, but what is your dad's name, dear?"

"Same as mine, sir."

Still he persisted. "I mean what do they say when they call you to breakfast?"

"They don't never call me; I allus gets there first."

QUEBEC VILLAGE IS FIRE SWEPT

Whole Business Section is Destroyed.

OTTAWA, May 19. — Practically the whole of the business section and part of the residential area of the Village of Portage du Port, Que., which is about 50 miles from Ottawa, on the Ottawa river, and has a population of nearly 500, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. In about two hours a property loss of $100,000 had been sustained and many people had been made homeless. How much of the loss is covered by insurance and other particulars, could not be secured last night owing to the telephone and telegraph equipments being burned out. As nearly as could be learned 18 business places and 17 residences were totally destroyed.

The fire, it is said, started in a sample room at Dolan's Hotel, about two o'clock. A few minutes later the building was a mass of flames and the village being without any fire-fighting apparatus, the fire spread rapidly to adjoining buildings, and in two hours it had wiped out the whole of the business section, without even giving time to the occupants to save any of their personal effects. Some had narrow escapes from injury. A high wind was blowing, which helped to spread the fire. Most of the buildings burned were of wood construction. Some, however, were fairly substantial places of brick and stone.

Gerald Brabazon, M.P. for Pontiac, who had his home in the village, heard last night that his house was not burned.

The people who were rendered homeless were offered accommodation by more fortunate neighbors in the village, also by people in Shawville, Campbell's Bay, Halley's Station, Renfrew and other neighboring towns and villages.

Gallant Lover.

"Silly boy," she said, "why did you get offended? Though my words were severe, you might have seen that I was smiling."

"Well," he replied magnanimously, "your mouth is so small I didn't notice it."—Philadelphia Press.

FOUR ELECTROCUTED

MONTREAL, May 19.—Four men were yesterday morning electrocuted at Black Lake, Megantic County.

They were Russians and were repairing a power line.

One man touched a wire carrying 50,000 volts and the others were killed trying to pull the man's body off the wire.

Diversion of Funds Small.

OTTAWA, May 19.—The commissioners who inquired into the recent charges of graft in the Marine Department agency of Quebec, have completed their report. It is understood that the diversion of funds was not extensive, being around $500, but that there were a number of irregularities established.

Decrease Reported.

OTTAWA, May 19. — The Inland Revenue returns for April show a decrease compared with April a year ago. The figures are: April, 1914, $1,795,834; April, 1913, $1,888,607.

Self-Made Premiers.

Australia is, to an extraordinary extent, the home of self-made men.

The present Prime Minister of the Commonwealth, Mr. Joseph Cook, began life as a miner. The ex-Prime Minister, Mr. Fisher, worked as a boy in the coal mines of Scotland. Mr. Holman, the Premier of New South Wales, who is now only in early middle life, served his apprenticeship in a furniture factory in Tottenham Court Road. Mr. Scaddan, the Premier of Western Australia, was, a few years ago, a locomotive engine-driver.

The late Sir Henry Parkes, who had so much to do with the bringing about of Federation, began in England as a farm laborer.

Queen as a China Collector.

Queen Mary has just arranged at Windsor Castle a museum of English china, each variety being arranged in a separate room, over the door of which the name of the pottery is inscribed. Queen Mary is also arranging and cataloguing her collection of English laces at Buckingham Palace.

Egypt as a Cotton Exporter.

Egypt is solely a producer of raw material. Its entire needs of manufactured goods and prepared material are met from abroad. Raw cotton represents four-fifths of the total value of its exports, and cotton and seed four-sevenths of the remainder.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ROAD MUST NOT FAIL

Finance Minister, in Able Presentation of the Situation, Reminds the House That the Liberals Made the C.N.R. Possible, and That Shelving of Measure Would Send Road Into Receiver's Hands.

OTTAWA, May 19. — The debate on the resolution to grant aid to the Canadian Northern Railway was continued in the House yesterday, and in the course of the sitting six speeches were delivered.

W. M. German (Lib., Welland) advocated taking an assignment of all the capital stock of the Canadian Northern. He believed that Mackenzie and Mann had made a great deal of money in the construction of the road and saw no reason why they should not risk their private fortunes in saving the enterprise. Would it not be well to have Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann examined under oath?

J. E. Armstrong (Con., E. Lambton) demanded to know what right Parliament had to pry into the private affairs of Mackenzie and Mann. They were men of sterling worth, whose courage and perseverance had given Canada a transcontinental railway. They had done more than any other men in Canada to build up the Canadian west.

F. B. Carvell (Lib., Carleton, N.B.) said that he would not like to see the Canadian Northern go to the wall; he wanted it kept afloat as a going concern, but he thought that Mackenzie and Mann should surrender their stock to the Government. "I am not enamored at Government ownership and operation," he continued, "but I would rather see this road completed and operated by a Government commission than to see it remain under the control of Mackenzie and Mann."

Mr. Carvell said that as he figured the matter out, the company now owed $312,000,000. If Mackenzie and Mann were left in control, he said they would be back here for more money immediately after the general election. In conclusion, Mr. Carvell favored the Government taking over the road now instead of waiting a year or two, when the operation would be even more costly.

"The Government would force Canada into partnership with a company which is absolutely broken," said F. F. Pardee (Lib., W. Lambton). "It is a policy which is opposed to every Canadian interests. Instead, the control of the stock of the Canadian Northern and its allied companies should be given into the hands of the Dominion, the Government should appoint the directors, and give into the hands of expert railway men, not railway contractors the task of operating this railway in the interests of the Canadian people."

Hon. Mr. White, Minister of Finance, said it was no use now to discuss whether we had built two many transcontinental railways. They were built. It was a condition not a theory which confronted the Government, and we must make the best of the situation and keep on smiling. Personally, he believed that with our great resources and rapidly increasing population, all three transcontinental railways would do a great service and in the end pay well.

Mr. White said he was unable to understand why some of the Liberal members so bitterly opposed the Canadian Northern. That road as a transcontinental system had been created by the Laurier Government. In 1911, when the Laurier Government gave a guarantee of $35,000,000 to Mackenzie and Mann, there was not a whimper to be beard from Mr. Carvell and others who were now so fierce in opposition to any financial aid.

Mr. White said that to adopt Mr. Macdonald's motion for the six months' hoist meant receivership and a great national disaster. The London money market had been disturbed for the past year by the Canadian Northern situation, and the possibilities of the system going into liquidation hung like a cloud over all Canada. The various provinces, our manufacturing enterprises, our business men, were all anxiously awaiting the action of Parliament. The proposal submitted by the Government represented months of earnest, conscientious thought by the Prime Minister and his colleagues. They dealt in an effective way with a grave and embarrassing situation. The sober second thought of the House and the sober business sense of the country would commend the progressive arrangement made by the Government in the best interests of Canada.

Tonic of Outdoor Life.

Outdoor life, contact with the earth, the digging, the wheeling of a barrow, even the quiet contemplation of unfolding animal and plant life, are better tonics and restorers than any man has devised.

There was one gardener who did wonders for himself at the very prosaic task of digging holes. Through a period of three years he dug 400 holes for trees and shrubs. He was three times as strong, he asserted, at the expiration of that time than ever before, and he weighed twenty pounds more. The improvement in his attitude toward life was too great to estimate.

During all that time he had been working in the open air he had "found"—although this particular gardener was no poet, and didn't express it in just this fashion—"tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones and good in everything," including himself.—New York Post.

SOME SURE THINGS.

Do Not Bet Upon Your Ability to Perform These Feats.

Bets to be avoided by those who are cocksure they can do all things are those relating to athletic feats. It would seem that a good runner could easily give a start of fifty yards in a hundred to a man who was doing the fifty yards by hopping on one leg. But few runners, if any, can afford to give that amount of start to any man who is at all strong on his legs. For the first five yards or so they go at practically the same pace, so that to run ninety-five yards while his opponent is hopping forty-five he has to go more than twice as fast, and it is a weak man indeed who cannot hop fifty yards in ten seconds.

An ordinary wooden match is easily broken in the fingers; but, although there are many who will bet they can do it, none succeed in accomplishing the task if the match is laid across the nail of the middle finger of either hand and pressed upon by the first and third fingers of that hand, despite its seeming so easy at first sight.

No one can crush an egg placed lengthwise between his clasped hands—that is, if the egg be sound and has the ordinary shell of a hen's egg.

It is safe to bet a man that he cannot get out of a chair without bending his body forward or putting his feet under it if he is sitting on it, not at the edge of it.

Another equally certain wager is that a man cannot stand at the side of a room with both of his feet touching the wainscoting lengthwise.

It is safe to bet any man, save one who is blind, that he cannot stand for five minutes without moving if he is blindfolded.

Smelter Went Down.

There was an exciting event in Frank, B.C., recently, which for a time rivalled the famous mountain slide of 1903. An old smelter which stands at the west end of the town collapsed and fell into an old mine, being almost a complete loss.

Too Slow For Motors.

London's attempt to limit the speed of motor omnibuses to twelve miles an hour has proved impractical, as when they are geared for this rate they lack reserve power for hill climbing and frequently cause blockades.

LLOYD GEORGE

He Answers Questions in Premier's Absence

LONDON, May 19.—There is a lull in the Irish crisis for the moment and it is improbable that much will be done before the debate on the third reading of the Home Rule bill commences.

Lloyd George, however, in the absence of the Prime Minister, who is on attendance on the King at Aldershot, had to face a number of questions in the House of Commons yesterday relative to the presence of troops around Craigavon, the seat of Capt. Craig, one of the Ulster leaders.

Hon. F. D. Monk Buried.

MONTREAL, May 19.—The funeral of the late Hon. F. D. Monk, former Minister of Public Works, took place yesterday morning. Mass was celebrated in St. James' Church, interment taking place in Cote Des Neiges Cemetery.

The Dominion Government was represented by Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. Mr. Doherty, Hon. Louis Coderre, Hon. Mr. Nantel, Hon. Mr. Hasen, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, and the Opposition at Ottawa by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Robert Bickerdike, M.P.

U. S. Consul-General Dead.

LONDON, May 19. — Gloom has been cast over the American colony in London by the sudden death of Consul-General John L. Griffiths, who succumbed to heart disease.

The British press pays the highest tributes to the late consul-general's abilities as an official, while the newspapers refer to him as a popular figure and praise his efforts on behalf of good relations between the United States and Great Britain.

Coal Strike In Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—Orders declaring a strike of all coal miners in Ohio went out from headquarters of District No. 6, United Mine Workers of America, here yesterday. Miners' officials yesterday also began paying strike benefits of $3 per week to every member of the organization. The mines have been closed since April 1 by order of the operators.

A ROYAL MARRIAGE

How a Prince Went Incognito For His Bride

By JOHN Y. LARNED.

Many years ago, before the modern methods of transmission came into vogue, the Crown Prince Boris of Barataria became betrothed to Wilhelmina of Altruria. Soon after the betrothal it was arranged that the princess should come to Barataria to be married, a deputation being sent to her father's capital to bring her. Now, it occurred to Prince Boris that he would like to go with the deputation incognito and observe the princess.

Prince Boris had a cousin, Prince Paul. Paul was an orphan and had been brought up by his uncle, King Carl, side by side with Boris. Paul, though a manly fellow, was very amiable; Boris, arrogant and dictatorial.

Boris, having determined to accompany the deputation, fixed upon Paul to represent him in bringing the princess to Barataria.

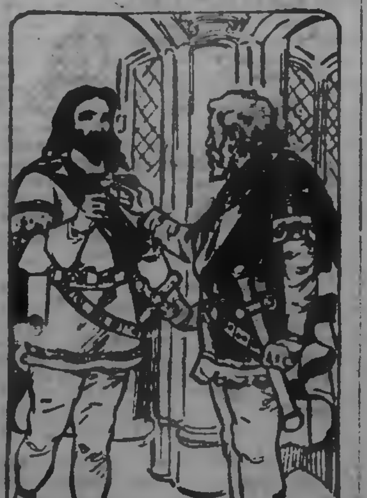
The cousins started at the head of a retinue every person of which was pledged to keep the secret. When they approached the capital of Altruria, Paul rode ahead of the others as the crown prince's representative, the crown prince himself taking position among the hindmost.

On reaching the capital the deputation were given apartments in the palace, and when they had been refreshed, headed by Prince Paul, they were led to an audience chamber, where they were received by the royal family, including the Princess Wilhelmina. There Paul presented his credentials. While he was reading the paper the princess was watching him, and, though she concealed her feelings, a wish was born in her that the crown prince's representative might be the prince himself. Paul had about him a quiet dignity mixed with modesty. He was well formed, handsome, and his voice was melodious. The truth is that the princess fell in love with him at sight. As for Prince Paul, his eyes were on the paper he was reading. At the end of his address he said that he was ready to escort the bride to his master's capital whenever she was ready to set forth.

When the princess heard these last words she resolved that she would not be in any hurry to depart. Having never seen the man she was to marry, she naturally shrank from going to him. She did not realize that the spark of love for his representative kindled in her heart was a great danger and liable to breed trouble. She was very young and not inclined to prudence. A pet of her father, King Ludwig, she had great influence over him, but in matters of state, one of which was the choice of a husband she knew that she would not be permitted to exercise her own sweet will.

Yet the princess was no fool. Desiring to delay her departure for Barataria, she told her father that she wished certain guarantees that had not been mentioned in the marriage contract and asked him to send an embassy to the count of Barataria to demand them. This, of course, would keep Prince Paul and his suit in Altruria till the matter was adjusted. King Ludwig objected, but since his daughter's demands were not important and sure to be granted yielded to her request. The princess' education had been in the care of an old professor, Marxman, to whom she was devoted and who was devoted to her. He had been at one time a member of the king's cabinet and was a shrewd diplomat. Wilhelmina insisted that he be made chief of the embassy, and she asked him to keep an eye open in her interest with a view to discovering if there was any reason why her marriage with Prince Boris would be unfortunate either for her country or for her.

While Prince Boris' deputation was waiting for the return of Professor Marxman's embassy the Princess Wilhelmina was unconsciously showing a marked preference for Prince Paul. Boris saw it and upbraided his cousin, accusing him of attempting to win her heart. Paul, who considered any such attempt dishonorable, forthwith treated the princess with marked coolness. He could not have chosen a better way to win her for himself. Wilhelmina, piqued, resolved that she would bring to her feet this man who spurned her.



"THEY HAVE PROCLAIMED YOU THEIR SOVEREIGN."

The embassy to Barataria was absent much longer than had been expected. The princess was not sorry. Being in love, marriage with a man she had never seen was repulsive to her, and a hope sprang within her that her tutor would discover some reason prejudicial to the interests of Altruria why her union with Prince Boris should not take place.

Meanwhile the crown prince was attempting to force himself on the notice of his betrothed, but to his chagrin she gave every evidence that he was distasteful to her. He abused Paul, who, his position being a burden to him, asked to be relieved and sent back to Barataria. His request was granted only too willingly, but when he announced his withdrawal Wilhelmina persuaded her father to state that such an act would be considered an insult and unless he remained to carry out the purpose for which he had been sent the betrothal would be annulled.

There was nothing for Prince Boris to do but order his cousin to await the return of the embassy from Barataria. It arrived soon after the proposed departure of Prince Paul, and Professor Marxman reported directly to the king, with whom he was closeted for a long period. The Princess Wilhelmina was called into the conference. When she came out her face was aglow with a happy excitement.

It was known that the additional guaranties asked for had been granted by the king of Barataria, but no move was made for the departure of the princess. Another embassy was dispatched to King Carl, but its object was a secret. During its absence the people of Altruria noticed important movements of troops to the frontier. As soon as the embassy returned military supplies were hurried in large quantities to depots near the border.

One morning when Prince Boris was about to leave his apartment he found a sentry at his door. He inveighed against the indignity, but it availed nothing. All the suit except Prince Paul found themselves in a like position. Paul received a command to wait upon the king in his cabinet. On his arrival the king addressed him.

"I have some information with reference to your majesty"—

"Majesty?"

"Yes, majesty. My former minister, Professor Marxman, on his first visit to Barataria unearthed a conspiracy which took place when you were an infant. Your father was king of Barataria and died shortly before you were born, your mother dying at your birth. Your uncle concealed the fact that your father had left an heir and brought you up as the son of a younger brother.

"Recent acts of the usurper, Carl, have led me to prefer that the rightful heir should wield the scepter of Barataria. I have revealed the conspiracy that made your uncle king. The people of Barataria have risen and deposed Carl, and they have proclaimed you their sovereign. I am prepared to support your claims with troops, but so unanimous is the desire of your people to have you for their king that no support is needed."

Paul stood thunderstruck.

"How was all this discovered?" he asked as soon as he regained speech.

"When Marxman went to Barataria he secretly sought information concerning the affairs of the kingdom. Certain of the conspirators who had helped to place your uncle on the throne and had of late not received as much preferment as they coveted gave Marxman a clew by which he learned the whole plot."

It was some time before Paul could be convinced that he should return to Barataria as king. He was decided by the arrival of a deputation of the nobles of Barataria, who knelt before him as their sovereign and begged him to return and assume the reins of government, representing that if he refused anarchy would ensue. Before he set out on his journey King Ludwig asked for his wishes concerning the embassy he had headed.

"Free them and assure my cousin that I have had nothing to do with this great change."

"Are there any other matters on which you wish to consult me before your departure?"

"I wish only to say that I sincerely trust that the two kingdoms we rule shall be always friendly."

"The best way to do that," replied Ludwig, "is by marriage. I offer you the hand of my oldest daughter, Hildegarde, the princess royal."

The prince paused before replying. "If I am to be allied to your family I see no better way than to carry out the contract made between my cousin and the Princess Wilhelmina."

"If you are satisfied, be it so."

The young king went straight to Wilhelmina from her father's cabinet. She congratulated him on justice having been done him with downcast eyes.

"Your father," he said, "has made me happy by transferring to me the contract made with my cousin."

"Perhaps," she faltered, still looking on the floor, "you would prefer another."

"Your father offered me the princess royal. I told him that I would prefer a simple princess."

She raised her eyes to his, and they sprang into each other's arms.

The Star Arcturus.

It is probable that the star Arcturus is one of the six greatest of all the stars in the sky. Notwithstanding its brightness, it is so far away from us that it is not displaced in position in the slightest measurable degree, as we change our position 186,000,000 miles in our annual journey around the sun. Could we be placed midway between Arcturus and our sun we would receive thousands of times more light and heat from the star than from our sun and this notwithstanding that the star's radiation is smothered by a dense blanket of metallic vapors. In spite of its immense distance the star is drifting slowly in a southwestward direction over the face of the sky, its motion changing its apparent position by an amount equal to the diameter of the moon in the course of about 1,000 years. So great an apparent motion must indicate an enormous velocity in space.

An Animal Trainer and Her Pet Kids.

Although New York city is the second greatest in the world, there are large sections within its confines where houses are few and woodlands and farms make up the landscape. Such a place is the town of Woodside, in Queens borough, on Long Island. On the outskirts of this little town there has been for some time an animal training farm. Wild beasts from all over the world are received there and tamed. It is said by some who have been permitted to visit this institution that harsh methods are in vogue. For instance, a newly imported lion is beaten with iron bars and cowed by punishment. Happily this is not the method of the little girl here pictured. She believes and practices the idea of gentle ways. She is a daughter of one of the wild beast trainers and has been brought up among animals. Her way of training is by love. The two little kids are examples of her kindly ways with animals. They know she is their friend.

A Diamond Explosion.

Sounds rather astounding, does it not?

And yet, according to an expert who gave a lecture before the Royal Society of Arts, London, diamonds are quite likely to explode.

He quoted various instances of diamonds exploding on being taken from the diamond fields and said that such an explosion might occur years after being released from the mines. So don't aggravate your diamonds!

Diamonds are supposed to be formed through the fusion of carbon at great temperature under such pressure as could exist only at great depths below ground. The expert remarked that by the time the precious stones had worked their way up near the surface through volcanic disturbances and within grasp of the miner the great pressure was gone.

A Canal Underground.

The most remarkable canal in the world is the one between Worsley and St. Helen's, in the north of England. It is sixteen miles long and underground from one end to the other. Throughout Lancashire the coal mines are extensive, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. So the canal was constructed and the mines were connected and drained at the same time.

Ordinary canal boats are used, but men furnish the power. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross pieces, and the men who do the work of propelling the craft lie on the coal on their backs and push with their feet against these crossbars on the roof.

Famous Persons.

If your friends come to spend an afternoon or evening with you play the game of "Famous Persons."

Prepare in advance photographs of famous people, labeled with names that do not belong to them. Then hand these about among the company for correction. What seems easy at first will be difficult and will tax the memory of your "party."

You can buy penny pictures of famous statesmen, painters, musicians and authors.

The one naming the most pictures correctly should get a prettily framed picture for a prize.

A Famous Bell.

One of the most interesting and perhaps finest toned bells to be found in Europe is the "Kaiserglocke," which is hung in Cologne cathedral. It is comparatively small as regards size, being only a little over twenty-seven tons in weight. The curious fact about the "Kaiserglocke," however, is that it became so badly cracked in 1875 that it had to be recast, and for this purpose the metal of a number of French cannons captured during the war of 1870-1 were used.

Changed Initial.

By changing the initial, make of a high wind a story, hearty, white, valley, masculine, low land, the mark of a blow, a bundle, a transfer for value received. Answers: Gale, tale, hale, pale, vale, male, dale, wale, bale, sale.

If milk be used to soften shoe polish it will improve the gloss.

THE DIFFERENCE.

'Twixt theory and practice
The gulf is so wide
It cannot be covered
With only a stride.
A full understanding
Of method and style
Is not the performing
By more than a mile.

Most any old codger
With half of an eye
For running a business
The plans can supply.
He seizes his pencil,
Though flat he is broke,
And makes himself wealthy
With hardly a stroke.

A million of money
With little delay
He hastens to capture
As though it were play.
To him it is easy
A fortune to gain,
For there are the figures.
The showing is plain.

Yes, that is the theory,
But what is the fact?
And is it in practice
A science exact?
Well, hardly. If thusly
A fortune would turn,
We'd all have spondulics
In carloads to burn.

Too Much.

"Anybody got a chaw of tobacker?" asked the bad man.

Nobody spoke.

"Anybody got a chaw of tobacker?" he asked in a fiercer tone.

"Here is a chew of gum," said a tenderfoot, not realizing his bravery.

The bad man contemplated the tenderfoot for a minute without saying a word, and then he reached for his gun, but the strain was too much for him. He fainted before he could make the draw.

Same One.

"I heard the funniest joke this afternoon."

"What was it?"

"I can't remember, but it was a corker."

"Great, wasn't it? I heard it yesterday."

"How do you know you did?"

"Must be the same one, because I can't remember it."

Not That Far Along.

"He seems to be a very intelligent fellow."

"Yes; he will average up."

"Well educated?"

"He can read the papers and transact ordinary business, but I don't know that he could qualify as a juror."

---

"All I ask is a square deal."

"It could not be."

"Why not?"

"That would be ideal, too, and we never attain to the ideal."

It Always Happens That Way.

Shortcake turns out thin and flat;
Steak is dry and brown;
Maid has gone to buy a hat
Other side of town.

Bread is burned as black as tar;
Cream is in decline;
Father hurries from the car,
Brings a friend to dine.

Not the Right Way.

"I do try to be patient."

"Yes, but"—

"But what?"

"You try so impatiently."

Prudence.

"What kind of a typewriter do you prefer—visible or the old style?"

"The invisible, when my wife is around."

SCREAMED WITH THE TERRIBLE PAIN

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured Distressing Kidney Trouble.

ST. THOMAS, ONT., April 1st. 1913.

"In 1911, I was laid up with Kidney Trouble and not able to get out of my chair. Had tried many kidney remedies without satisfactory results. The pain was excruciating and my screams could be heard on the street. One day a friend from Ottawa came to see me, and when he found me in such poor health, said he would send me a sample of "Fruit-a-tives", which he did and I commenced taking them. The results were so apparent with the first few doses that I continued to take "Fruit-a-tives" and was completely restored to my normal state of health. I would strongly advise anyone suffering with Kidney Trouble to take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure themselves" CHARLES CALVEART.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Clothing In China.

In winter throughout the cold latitude of China the Chinese of all classes wear fur, wool or hair-lined garments. Even the coolie laborers have their sheep or goat skins, and people of the middle and official classes have many sets of garments lined with the richest furs. In China houses are rarely heated to the winter temperatures of European interiors, and in consequence fur-lined clothes are worn indoors as well as out.

Looks Against Him.

"That's the young man at the table over there. He's going to inherit $10,000,000."

"I see two young men—dressed precisely alike. Which is it?"

"Good gracious! Why, the one sitting down, of course. The other is the waiter."

"Indeed! So that's the heir, eh? I was in hopes he was the waiter."

Out of a Job.

Minister—Is your father working now, Johnny?

Small Johnny—No, sir.

Minister—Why, only last week he told me he had a job.

Small Johnny—Yes, sir. But the man he was working died.

"DR." BOWSER HAS A REMEDY FOR SUFFERING FELLOW MAN

By M. QUAD

[Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.]

MR. BOWSER was smiling when he reached home.

He gave Mrs. Bowser's ear a pinch as she greeted him.

"It has been a nice day," she said.

"Bully!"

"Business been good?"

"Tremendous!"

"And you have no rheumatism?"

"Not a bit!"

All through the dinner hour Mr. Bowser was smiling and chatty.

He even got off a conundrum that has been traveling around the world since the flood subsided.

Was Mrs. Bowser happy?

Did she bless her stars for sending her such a mate?

Did she anticipate an old time happy evening?

Mr. Bowser was too good. His attitude meant that he had something up his sleeve. Some new scheme to spring. Mrs. Bowser grinned now and then, but was wondering where the blow would fall.

Mr. Bowser's Secret Is Revealed.

It came half an hour after dinner. Mr. Bowser had finished his cigar when he queried:

"I suppose we have a gallon kettle in the kitchen?"

"Certainly," replied Mrs. Bowser, "but why should you want a gallon kettle?"

"Do you know how many people die of consumption in America every year?" he asked in return.

"No."

"Well the number is close upon a million, and in all but a few cases death ensues because the proper remedies are not obtainable when the dread disease is in its incipient stage. Out of every fifty deaths by consumption forty-nine are poor people, who are not saved because they have no money to buy a remedy."

"DO NOT BE ALARMED."

"Well?"

"Well, I—I have a remedy."

"You have a cure for consumption which you are going to give away to the poor?"

"That is it, Mrs. Bowser—that's the idea. I can't save 'em all, you know, but if I can rescue 5,000 of my fellow creatures from death every year I shall feel amply repaid for the few dollars it will cost. I am going to make a cure for consumption and distribute it free gratis through drug stores and physicians."

"That's all nonsense!" exclaimed Mrs. Bowser with considerable tartness. "You've simply got some new fad to work out, and this turning philanthropist is bosh. You'd better let consumption alone and cure that corn on your toe!"

His Ire Is Aroused.

"You—you are talking to me, are you?" he asked as he put on his glasses to get a clearer look at her.

"Of course I am."

"And being truly aware that I am your husband?"

"But you make me impatient with your fads. Some quack doctor has been working you for a soft snap."

"Soft snap? Quack doctor? Woman I don't want to hear any more such expressions. I don't want my home turned into a minstrel show. If you wish to oppose my idea, founded upon the noblest and grandest sentiments of the human heart, do so, but do it with dignity. You object to my saving 5,000 human lives per year, do you?"

"I do."

"You want me to go my way without care while a million of my fellow beings are marching to their graves?"

"Yes, sir!"

"And not extend a hand to draw one of them back?"

"Not a hand! You'd better attend right to your own business and let the doctors look out for them."

Mr. Bowser glared at her for a full minute. His face flushed, his ears twitched, and his Adam's apple worked up and down like a toy monkey on a stick. He had just drawn a long breath to utter a yell when he checked himself and turned away. He had left a number of packages on the hall tree, and securing these he proceeded to the kitchen and asked the cook for the kettle.

The Cook Refuses to Be a Patient.

"Is it going to be an experiment with gunpowder?" she asked, as she handed the kettle to him.

"My dear woman," replied Mr. Bowser, as he looked at her sharply, "I think you betray signs of consumption."

"It can't be."

"But I'm sure of it. Do not be alarmed, however. I am to compound a certain and speedy cure. One bottle will restore you to health, and it won't cost you a cent. I propose to save 5,000 lives this year."

"If I've got consumption I'm going right away to my sister's tonight!" exclaimed the cook as she untied her apron.

"But you can be saved."

"But I can't wait!"

Away she went to notify Mrs. Bowser and pack her trunk, and Mr. Bowser hadn't got all his stuff mixed in the kettle when he heard the front door shut behind her. He expected a call and a protest from Mrs. Bowser, but she did not appear. He had brought home molasses, gin, gum arabic, licorice and two or three other things, which were to be mixed with the yolks of six eggs and heated over the fire, and he needed no help. He had mixed according to a recipe which had cost him $5, but when the compound began to heat up the smell was not agreeable, and the taste did not suit his palate.

"While it is the duty of a consumptive to swallow a cure without kicking," he mused as he looked about the pantry, "I might as well mix in something to tickle the palate. I'll just shake in a little ginger. I've heard that consumptives craved ginger."

The ginger didn't seem to make much change, and he grated in nutmeg and then poured in half a bottle of vanilla. He was slowly stirring the contents of the kettle and wondering if a lemon or two wouldn't make it just right enough when the compound suddenly foamed up and boiled over. As it ran over the edges of the kettle there was a flash, a sheet of flame and smoke leaped up to the ceiling. Mr. Bowser was in his slippers, and just after the burst of flames had singed off his eyebrows and curled his hair he felt something hot strike his feet. Mrs. Bowser heard a yell, followed by a couple of jumps which jarred the house, but she held her chair. Then she knew that he was galloping about the back yard, and she heard people crying "Fire!" but it was not until the firemen were banging away at the door that she rose up. The house was full of smoke and smell, but there was no fire.

Mrs. Bowser Won't Be Bullied.

The firemen had been gone ten minutes and most of the smell had floated out upon the night air when Mr. Bowser entered the sitting room. He was a dilapidated man. He had suffered for the cause of humanity. He lifted his right foot and his left foot. He gestured with his right arm and his left arm. He wanted to say something. He wanted to utter hundreds of words with six syllables, but his feelings overcame him.

"Yes, I know," quietly remarked Mrs. Bowser as she looked at him. "Yes, you wanted to say that I made another attempt to assassinate you and that the limit has been reached and divorce must follow, but you can't get it out. If I were you, I'd go to bed."

And like one in a dream he dragged his legs after him from stair to stair, wondering and wondering, but speaking no word, and she found him an hour later in bed with the clothes drawn up to his chin and a look of benevolence on his face. He was dreaming of saving the lives of 5,000 of his fellow creatures annually, but as Mrs. Bowser gazed on him his toes began to twitch, the look of benevolence faded into one of surprise, and the odor of singed hair filled the room and made him sneeze in a lonesome way.

A Supposition.

"Yes, at first I didn't want a dog around the house, but now I've really become very much attached to him."

"That so?"

"Yes. All my friends who keep dogs say the same thing. And I suppose people who have children really feel the same way about them too."—Detroit Free Press.

A Mere Suggestion.

"Do you think you can support my daughter in the style to which she has been accustomed?"

"Yes," replied the slangy young man after some hesitation. "But don't you think I'd better stick around with your family a few years so as to get accustomed to it?"—Washington Star.

Honk, Honk.

"I wonder if Shakespeare had an automobile?"

"What makes you ask such a silly question?"

"But doesn't he speak about seeking a 'bubble' reputation?"—Baltimore American.

A Saving Clause.

"Is the doctor taking the proper interest in your case?"

"I think he's doing his best. I told him there was nobody to pay him unless I got well."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Troublesome Entertainments.

Reid—He's become a great entertainer since he got his automobile.

Greene—You don't say so!

"Sure! He's had a blowout nearly every day."—Yonkers Statesman.

FRENCH OF MONTREAL TOOK A RAP AT ONTARIO.

Election of Mederic Martin, M.P., Over Major Stephens In Spite of Unwritten Law Was Direct Blow at Ontario Element—Martin Is a Terrific Worker and Won Contest Almost Single-handed.

The recent civic election in Montreal, which resulted in so sore a blow to the English-speaking citizens, has brought again into public view two of the outstanding figures in the life of the commercial metropolis—Mederic Martin, M.P., the victor, and Major G. W. Stephens, the vanquished.

Martin was born in Montreal forty-five years ago, his father having settled in St. Mary's (the division which Martin has represented in Parliament since 1906), in 1825. He is a cigar manufacturer and was a member of the council that was subjected to a judicial inquiry and scorching. He is a Liberal and a Roman Catholic, and has been campaigning for a year. His program of late weeks was to leave Montreal at 8 a.m. and put in an appearance at the House of Commons returning to Montreal in time for his night meetings. He spent the hours between 12 and 3 a.m. in answering his mail, and was content with a few hours' sleep. Sir Rodolphe Forget was one of his principal supporters.

Major Stephens, who opposed him was born in Montreal 48 years ago, has been a leading business man; was for some years chairman of the harbor board and served two years on the Protestant School Board; he also commanded the Third Field Battery for several years. He is rated as a millionaire and came back from Europe at the request of the "best elements" of Montreal to enter the campaign. He is a Liberal.

The Mayor of Montreal holds office two years, with a salary of $10,000 a year, and the controllers four years at $7,500 a year.

As far as the mayoralty was concerned, the most potent cry used was that made on behalf of Martin, whose supporters asked the French people to teach Ontario a lesson by turning down the English-speaking candidate, even though the traditional understanding that gave the mayoralty to a Protestant once every four terms had to be violated. Apart from the weight lent him by his nationality, Martin had little to help him in the campaign but a forceful personality and an unconquerable optimism. He got no support from the newspapers, either French or English, and had little or no organization.

However, Martin promises that the English-speaking people will receive full justice from him, though he says his victory proves that the French-speaking people can secure their rights when they desire to do so. In six polls Martin did not receive a single ballot.

A "Patriotic" Theft.

There is a picture at Hampton Court which bears witness to a theft that may be termed patriotic. This is Holbein's "Field of the Cloth of Gold," which after the downfall of Charles I. Cromwell proposed to sell. But when the would-be purchaser came to inspect it he discovered that the head of Henry VIII. had been cut from the canvas. He refused to buy the picture and it was preserved to the nation. At the Restoration a nobleman confessed to having committed the crime for "love of art and country." He returned the missing head, which now occupies its original position, the circle made by the knife in the canvas being still plainly visible.—London Daily Chronicle.

Took the Echo Seriously.

A good story is told by Judge Rentoul which has reference to the acoustic properties of the Central Criminal Court, London. These are not so perfect as they might be, and there is a decided echo from the walls. Some time ago Judge Rentoul sentenced a prisoner to six months' hard labor. When the judgment was passed "Six months' hard labor" was echoed from the back of the court. Taken aback, the prisoner turned to the warder by his side and inquired anxiously, "Are these sentences to run concurrently?"

A Rapid Rimer.

In illustration of the working powers of George R. Sims, the dramatist and poet, it is said that one night a new piece was produced at a leading theatre in London. Sims sat it out and then returned to his office, where he wrote a column and a half of criticism in rime. It was near the time for the paper to go to press when he began, and the boy took the piece verse by verse from him to the composing room, the boy walking continuously from one to the other for an hour.

A bragging husband is almost as bad as a nagging wife.

THE SENSITIVE BOLOMETER.

It Measures the Most Infinitesimal Changes of Temperature.

It is no matter for great surprise to be told that the different portions of the spectrum into which a beam of light is spread out show different degrees of temperature when tested by an apparatus of sufficient delicacy. It appears, in point of fact, that the dark lines in the spectrum are also areas of relative coolness and that the spectrum may be charted by moving a sufficiently delicate heat measurer along it.

The instrument with which this feat of measuring infinitesimal gradations of temperature is accomplished is known as a bolometer, invented by the late Prof. Langley.

The principle on which the bolometer is constructed demonstrates that any change of temperature in a metal changes the capacity of that metal as a conductor of electricity. By using an excessively tenuous, flattened thread of platinum for his conductor and an exquisitely sensitive galvanometer to register the effects Langley produced an instrument which will respond to changes of temperature so slight in degree that no one could reasonably have supposed them measurably.

Indeed, the feats accomplished by the little instrument are as incredible, not to say fantastic, as the feats of the spectroscope itself. A generation ago instruments for physical research had attained a high stage of development, but to measure a change of temperature of one-thousandth of a degree was considered a remarkable feat. But the perfected Langley bolometer measures a change of one hundred millionth of a degree. It is competent to deal with the infinitesimal quantities of heat that come to us from such bodies as the moon and the brighter stars.

The Emperor's Beard.

It is almost impossible to imagine the venerable countenance of the Emperor Francis Joseph without his bushy sidewhiskers. The latest story is that the Emperor has been wanting for some time to shave them off. The Emperor's nearest relatives, so the story goes, have been much alarmed at the prospect of seeing the aged head of the Hapsburgs without his world famous beard, and they made urgent representations to the effect that his facial adornment is unique among European rulers, that it is picturesque, and that it has the distinct merit of having created what is regarded as the exclusive Austrian type, which undoubtedly it has done.

Side whiskers a la Francis Joseph are popular in the dual monarchy, especially in the army, and so the Emperor, in the face of urgent remonstrances, has had to yield.

The Angler Fish.

A singular superstition about the angler fish is entertained in some parts of Sweden (Bohuslan), according to Malm and Smitt. "It is so feared by many that the tackle is cut as soon as the 'monster' reaches the surface, and its captor hurries home in order to get there, if possible, before the misfortune portended by the monster overtakes him." The extreme of misfortune—death—is believed by some to be indicated. Nilsson tells that the Swedish fishermen on the banks "believe that on board the vessel on which an angler is taken some one is doomed to die soon. They therefore never or hardly ever take the angler on board, but prefer to cut the line and thus lose the hook with the fish."

St. Peter's In Rome.

From the beginning of the foundation to the time when the great church of St. Peter's in Rome could be said to be complete three and a half centuries had elapsed, eighteen architects had been employed and forty-three popes had reigned. The cost of the great church can never be known with exactness. At the end of the seventeenth century it had cost $50,000,000, without including the sacristy bell, towers, etc. The last important work on the edifice was done by Pope Pius IX., on the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of Michelangelo.

Helps Burglars In Work.

The microphone is now used by burglars for picking combination locks. On turning the lock a slight sound is made when the proper number comes opposite the working point, and this can even be heard by a sensitive ear. However, it is imperceptible to most persons, but by using a microphone it is an easy matter to hear the sound. A suitable form of flat telephone receiver is employed, and it is applied against the safe next the lock. A pair of rubber ear-tubes are used with the telephone. In this way the sounds are heard which allow of opening the lock.

Finger-Prints.

The objection to finger-prints raised by the militant suffragettes in England recalls the plea of Sir Ray Lankester that in a well-governed state every individual's finger-print should be filed. Not only the guilty, but the innocent would appear in the list, and it would afford a means of settling difficult questions of identification. M. Bertillon, by the way, had much greater faith in bone measurements than in finger-prints, and he had a scheme for using the many variations in the form of the external ear as a means of identification.

Irresistible Attraction.

"What are you stopping for, John?" If we don't hurry we will miss our train!"

"You can go on if you want to, Maria. I'm going to see how they get that balky horse started."

Idle Curiosity.

"Why are you calling up the various hospitals?"

"My friend Snigglebat assured me he'd pay me that $5 to-day or break a leg, and I want to find out which leg he broke."

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS FLOORLAC

—a durable floor varnish combined with unfading pigment stains"

That is what many housewives say after using this finish. S-W Floorlac is made in imitation of natural wood effects—Light and Dark Oak, Light and Dark Mahogany, Walnut, Cherry, Green and Clear. Floorlac is made to withstand the hard wear floors are subject to. It gives a good tough finish which does not show scratches or heel marks readily; when water is spilled on it no harm is done. Can be used on old or new floors—for old floors a coat of Floorlac Ground is required before applying Floorlac in the desired color. On new floors it is applied direct and preserves the natural grain of the wood.

Floorlac also gives excellent results on furniture and inside woodwork where a stain and varnish rather than a paint is required. Sold in ¼ Pt. ½ Pt, Pt. Qt. ½ Gal. and Gal. cans, full Imperial Measure. Ask us for a color card, we can also show you panels finished with Floorlac.

AS THE JURY SAW IT.

A Case of Emotional Insanity From Which No Man Is Immune.

SOME time ago a young man was walking through the suburbs with a beautiful girl when he suddenly paused, threw his arms about her and impulsively kissed her on the sweetsome lips. Real peevish got the pretty one. Hastily backing away from the impetuous youth, she called a cop and had him arrested.

At the subsequent trial the young man made no defense, and after hearing the girl's story the jury retired to deliberate. Ten minutes later they filed back into the courtroom and asked the privilege of questioning the plaintiff. The judge granted the request:

"When that young man kissed you, miss," queried the foreman impressively, "were you wearing that saucy little hat cocked down over your left eye?"

"Yes, sir," was the prompt reply of the wondering plaintiff.

"To put it all in a bunch, miss," continued the foreman, "were you dressed like you are now and looking just the same?"

"Why, yes, sir," answered the girl, with increasing perplexity. "I believe that I was."

"Then, your honor," said the foreman, turning to the judge, "we acquit the defendant on the ground of emotional insanity."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

His Turn.

Mr. McCaudle's untoward behavior during the evening out was serving as the topic of the customary curtain lecture.

"I trust I have made myself plain," icily continued his better half in the early stages of her preparations for retiring.

Her crushed, downtrodden victim, casting a haggard eye in her direction, gave vent to a hollow chuckle.

"Yes, my dear," he assented; "I cannot but acknowledge that you have."

And during the period of scornful silence which ensued McCaudle dropped off to peaceful slumber.—Judge.

A DIRECT AND MOST EFFECTIVE TREATMENT For Cold in the Head and Catarrh

Some internal remedies, such as Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, undoubtedly help a great deal in checking a cold in the head. But you get the quickest action from Fossal Balm.

This is applied directly and conveniently through the new nozzle-shaped end of the collapsible tube in which it is put up. This little nozzle reaches well up into the nostril, and a gentle squeeze on the tube discharges enough of the Fossal Balm to spread over the membrane lining the nasal passages, kill the germs of the cold or catarrh, soothe the smarting inflammation, make breathing through the nostrils free and easy, and check the cold or relieve the catarrh at once.

The fact that this new means of applying the Fossal Balm is so handy, and gets it right up where it is needed, adds much to the value of this splendid remedy.

Real Torture.

"Oh, sir," cried the imprisoned militant, "I am being most cruelly tortured here! I am being forcibly fed."

"But I have seen forcible feeding," answered the visiting investigator, "and it does not appear to be torture."

"But, sir, I am being tortured," insisted the militant. "Last night they said if I wouldn't eat I could go hungry and refused forcibly to feed me."—Buffalo Express.

Cain's Predicament.

A Sunday school teacher says that she put the following question to the son of a Cleveland criminal lawyer:

"Who was the first murderer?"

"It isn't positively known," announced the son of his pa. "Cain was supposed to have been, but he had no lawyer to defend him and he was convicted by default."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Test.

"That's a patient man."

A Wise Dog.

"I never take sides in a town row."

MILLY'S SPRING HAT

An Easter Story

By CLARISSA MACKIE

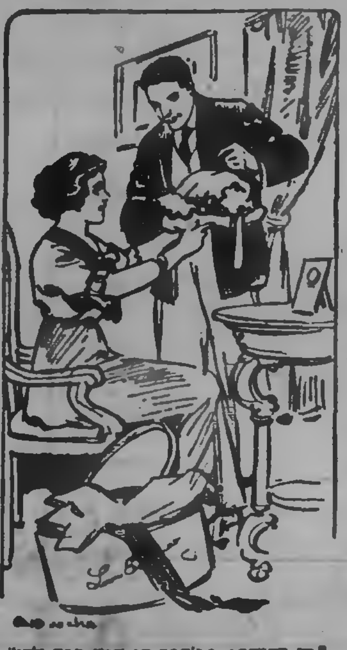
The window of Miss Pettigrew's millinery parlors held a most enticing display of spring hats.

Milly Blake, who sold hats behind Miss Pettigrew's counter, parted the inner curtains and stole a wistful glance at the marvels of straw and tulle and ribbon and flowers.

"Looks pretty nice, Milly," chirruped Miss Pettigrew, who lived over the store and seldom wore a hat herself while she admired everything that her own deft fingers turned out.

"Doesn't it?" agreed Milly; then she added enthusiastically: "That green hat! I just hated to put that in the window. I'm afraid some one will buy it before I can save up money enough."

"Never mind; I got straw enough left for one more and I'll duplicate it for you, Milly, but the materials are all imported, so I'll have to charge you full price for it. I'm not making a penny off hats like that, but they are a good advertisement."



"IT'S FOR YOU IF YOU'LL ACCEPT IT."

"Eight dollars seems a sinful price for me to pay for a hat," sighed Milly after her employer had returned to the workroom. She knew that Miss Pettigrew could not afford to make any reduction in the price of the lovely green hat, for there was Eben Pettigrew, her crippled brother, who had to be supported, as well as the orphan child of another brother.

"I'll have to trim up my old black hat. I'm afraid," decided Milly while she selected a bunch of lavender flowers for old Mrs. Bemis' new bonnet. "There, Mrs. Bemis; that is very pretty. I think a black lace butterfly poised over the flowers would be lovely."

"Not for me, Milly. I should be as nervous as a witch if I thought there was a butterfly or any other insect on my bunnit! I'd feel as if it was nibbling away. Ugh, take it away, child, and put a rosette of black lace there!"

Milly laughed as she put the black butterfly back in the case where it belonged. Mrs. Bemis was as kind hearted as she was queer, and no one knew it better than Milly Blake, for she had boarded with Mrs. Bemis ever since her mother had died and she had been compelled to earn her own living.

"Here comes Evalyn Allen," whispered Mrs. Bemis suddenly, "and I declare if she hasn't got that mincing city girl with her—what's her name? Oh, yes, Rosamund Lagrange. I never knew Evalyn Allen bought her hats in Sunnybrook!"

"She does occasionally," said Milly. "Miss Pettigrew said she'd trim your hat this afternoon, and I will bring it home tonight."

"That's a good girl," approved Mrs. Bemis as she tied on her old bonnet with a jerk. "Come home early, dearie. I'm going to have waffles and honey for supper."

"Goody!" cried Milly with her own sunny smile.

The remains of that smile greeted the two fashionably attired girls who entered the little shop as Mrs. Bemis passed out.

Evalyn nodded carelessly at Milly and spoke in her pleasant way:

"Good morning, Milly. I'm in love with that green straw in the window. Don't tell me that Miss Pettigrew turned out that confection!"

"She copied it after a pattern hat. All the materials are imported."

"Indeed!" smiled Evalyn. "Well, I'd like to try it on. It's an exact match for my spring suit, and it will save me a trip to town if I can find a hat here. Just imagine, Rosamund, dear old Sunnybrook turning out a hat like this!"

Milly winced as Miss Allen posed before the mirror in the coveted green hat. Undoubtedly it was becoming to Evalyn, and Miss Lagrange was quite enthusiastic over it.

"Get it, darling!" she urged gushingly. "Oh, here comes Mr. Madison! Good morning, Mr. Madison. Do tell me if Evalyn doesn't look stunning in that hat."

Dick Madison, who had stopped in the store to see Milly Blake, was taken back by the warm welcome he received from the two pretty customers.

He had barely time to exchange a glance with Milly when Evalyn and her friend monopolized his attention.

Half an hour later he left the store with a girl at either side, both talking volubly.

Milly, standing straight and pale behind the counter, listened to Miss Pettigrew's excited chatter with unsmiling face. The little milliner was twirling the green hat on her outstretched fingers.

"Just think, my dear; she said she would give me $20 for the hat if I would promise not to duplicate it." Suddenly she noticed Milly's sad face and recollection came to her swiftly. "Oh, my dear," she added doubtfully. "I quite forgot that you wanted it—and, well, Milly, I always keep my word, so I guess I better telephone Miss Allen at once that the hat is promised to some one else."

Milly leaned against the glass case and closed her aching eyes.

Miss Pettigrew waited, her worn little face sharply anxious over the outcome of the matter.

"Never mind, Miss Pettigrew," said Milly quietly. "I think I'd better have a black hat. It will be more useful. Besides, you can make double the money by selling this one to Evalyn Allen."

"Milly, I am relieved," cried Miss Pettigrew warmly. "I understand why you're doing it, and—well, you can pick out any black hat in the store, and I'll trim it for you, and it won't cost you a penny!"

Dick Madison was a young civil engineer in charge of the construction of a new railroad bridge at Sunnybrook, and Milly had learned to like him very well.

He had dropped into the store to see her, and Evalyn Allen and her friend had monopolized his attention, and in the end they had carried him away with them under the pretext of examining the steering gear of their motorcar. As if the chauffeur didn't know all about that!

So Milly went home early that night with Mrs. Bemis' bonnet in a paper bag and found a delicious supper of hot waffles and honey, but she could hardly eat a mouthful, and when Mrs. Bemis questioned her closely Milly burst into tears and ran away to bed.

Milly was fighting a battle with herself.

She was telling herself that Easter had a deeper meaning than the wearing of new clothes, and she felt that she was very wicked because she could not place the spiritual significance of the great day above her own petty vanity.

But Milly fought the battle and won, and as a punishment to herself she decided not to have a new hat at all. She would wear her velvet winter hat even if the day was very warm indeed.

So she went to sleep with a smile on her sweet lips, and when she awoke in the morning there was peace in her eyes and in her heart.

The following Sunday was Easter, and, although Milly did not see Dick Madison in the interval, there was a little song of contentment bubbling in her heart—why, she could not have told you.

Easter Sunday morning she took her place in the choir, wearing her new soft green dress and her black velvet hat, under which her soft fair hair curled alluringly.

Senator Allen's family came in, Evalyn looking lovely in her new green suit, with the becoming green straw hat.

Milly saw Dick Madison come in. He walked slowly up the aisle, and Mrs. Allen turned and beckoned him into her pew.

Milly's heart almost stopped beating for an instant; then it resumed its even strokes, for Dick smiled a polite refusal of the invitation and turned into the humble pew of Mrs. Bemis, where he shared that little woman's prayer book and hymnal with grave devotion.

When it was all over Milly found Mrs. Bemis and Dick waiting for her at the porch, and they went home together, saying very little, but strangely contented. The Allens' motorcar rushed past them, leaving a cloud of dust behind, but the occupants did not appear to see Dick and his friends.

"Dick's coming to dinner," announced Mrs. Bemis. "I'm having fried chicken and ice cream. You talk to him in the parlor, honey, while I set the table. No, I don't want any help!"

In the parlor Milly composedly laid aside her hat and jacket, and Dick put his gloves and hat on the square piano and faced the girl.

"Milly," he said with a tremor in his deep voice, "I've got an Easter gift for you—if you will accept it—and your acceptance of it will mean a whole lot to me. It will make me the happiest man in the world." He stole a glance at Milly's rosy, downcast face, and, lifting down a white hatbox from the piano, he placed it in her lap.

"Open it," he urged.

Milly untied the white ribbons and lifted the cover. From a bed of white tissue paper she lifted an exquisite white tulle hat trimmed with orange blossoms and white satin ribbon.

"What is it?" she whispered. "For me?"

"It's for you if you'll accept it. It's a wedding hat, Milly, darling. Ah, I know all about the green hat, dear Miss Pettigrew told Mrs. Bemis and me all about it. We understand why you did it, and it's a present from all three of us under condition that you'll wear it—soon—when you marry me!"

Milly's hands trembled

Then she lifted the lovely hat and placed it on her sunny head. She lifted her blue eyes and met his gray ones

"That is my answer, Dick," she whispered softly.

Avoiding Loss of Thimble.

Either a little pocket with elastic run through the hem, fastened to the side of the workbasket, in which to place the thimble or one of the small boxes in which jewelers place rings will be found a great help in keeping the thimble where it can be found when wanted. Every woman that sews knows the innate depravity of this small article—its propensity for hiding under all the spools and everything until snugly ensconced beneath a piece of lace it eludes search for many minutes.

Fairly Warned.

One of Australia's best landscape painters was out with his bag of tricks near Daylesford recently. He had pitched in front of an old two roomed, wattle and dab hut, softened with a crimson flowered creeper, which he thought would make an excellent sketch. While he was working a tall, hairy man came out of the hut and regarded him with some misgiving. The hut dweller approached. "Watcher doin', mister?" he said.

"I'm painting your picturesque dwelling," said Patterson.

The hut dweller regarded Patterson dubiously for a minute, then went indoors. Presently he reappeared with his wife, and the two advanced toward the artist. "Mind yeh," said the man, pointing at the painter, "I've got me witness. You're doin' this at your own expense."

Points for Mothers

The First Teeth.

The moment a spot of decay appears upon a tooth—no matter how young the child may be—that decayed spot should be removed and the hole stopped by a dentist.

If this is not done the decay will quite certainly spread and probably destroy several teeth.

Don't imagine that because they are "only the first set" these teeth do not matter. The first set matters very much. If any of the teeth in it decay and fall out too soon the jaw doesn't have the same chance to expand as it would do if the teeth lasted their full time and fell out naturally when the second ones came up under them.

Then, again, many mothers have an idea that the molars (the big back grinding teeth), which appear at the age of about six, are some of the first set and don't need any special attention if they show signs of decay. They are not. They are some of the second set—the permanent set—and if they decay and have to come out they will never be replaced. If the decay spots in the first set are neglected they will very likely infect these permanent teeth.

When Baby Can Use His Teeth.

Most year-old babies can eat a tiny piece of bread and butter. Some forward mites try to use their teeth even earlier. Cut the bread and butter into small squares and remove the crust to prevent their choking. The bread must not be less than twenty-four hours old. Rub the butter well into it; this makes it more digestible than merely spreading it. When twelve months old the average child may begin to drink from a cup, and gradual weaning from the bottle should then commence. But should any wilful rogue seriously resent the new way of feeding and stubbornly cling to his old friend, the bottle, indulge him for a time. Babies will be babies and have their little fads. Why not? We grown-ups have. Take away the bottle and probably a large proportion of the daily milk will be given up. The little ones should have at least two pints per day.

Unwise Punishments.

Corporal punishment can never do the average child good—never do anything, in fact, except break its spirit and make it timid and shrinking. Blows do not even quiet the little ones effectually, for the slap or box on the ear naturally results in noisy weeping, which in its turn mothers try to quell by another slap. If corporal punishment is necessary, and in some few cases it is—let it be short and sharp, bad while it lasts, but quickly over. Just as constant nagging is so much more harmful than an occasional angry outburst, so the system of slapping a child twenty times a day is far worse than caning it once in two or three months.

For Rickety Babies.

If mothers realized the virtue there is in warm soft water and pure soap there would be fewer puny babies. When the little one is inclined to rickets give it two baths a day. In the morning bath dissolve a gill of sea salt. A bran bath is excellent at night. Put one pound of bran in a loose thin cotton bag. Soak it in the bath water for half an hour while it is getting warm. Squeeze it and keep it in the water during the bath. Put a drop of attar of roses in four ounces of olive oil and rub baby with it five minutes after his evening tub. This is soothing and nutritive for a delicate child.

To Cure Nail Biting.

If a child has formed the habit of biting its nails keep the nails very short. Explain to him how ugly his hands will become and that nail biting is a vulgar habit. At six years a child is quite old enough to understand. Give him a little manicure set and teach him how to use them. The difficulty is he will probably continue to bite the nails through forgetfulness. To quicken the memory put bitter aloes on the finger tips.

Personal Tidiness.

Teach children right from the very first that nothing that needs mending must be put on till the mending has been done, and you will have no trouble to keep them tidy.

"I started this plan," said a model mother, "and taught the children to do their own mending as soon as ever they were big enough to sew, and I think it would be hard to find children who are more particular in this way."

Treating Ringworm.

Ringworm is sometimes developed by delicate children. It is caused by the presence of a vegetable parasite. Give a child so afflicted extract of malt and codliver oil. To apply locally mix one dram of salicylic acid with one ounce of petroleum jelly and rub well into the affected parts.

Give Baby a Drink.

Many mothers never think of giving baby a drink of water. Often when it frets and whines it is just thirsty. If food is given every time there is restlessness the little stomach becomes overloaded and great discomfort follows. Milk is a food, not merely a drink.

Tatting is revived, not only for use on collars, but for centrepieces.

SHRAPNEL CASES.

Fearful Forces They Must Resist Before Time For Explosion.

The shrapnel is really a flying cannon which shoots its charge while in flight or explodes on impact. Its design involves many interesting features, as the case must be strong enough to withstand the bursting pressure and the stresses developed in firing. The smaller cases are now made from bar stock on automatic turret machines at less than the cost of the forgings previously used.

The design and making of a shrapnel case have more behind them than appears on the surface, for, in addition to being a piece of steel turned and bored to the right dimensions, the case must have special mechanical properties.

It must be able to withstand a pressure of from 30,000 to 35,000 pounds per square inch from the powder which drives it out of the gun, though it is tested to 40,000 pounds. In addition to this, it must resist the charge of explosive in the base of the case. This base charge drives the head and balls out of the case when a time or distance fuse is used or explodes it on impact with the earth or any other resisting substance.

This expelling or bursting charge exerts a pressure varying from 20,000 to 25,000 pound per square inch. Further than this, the tensional stress when the case is started whirling through the rifling of the gun by the force behind it must be counted. This rotation starts the instant the shell begins its movement from the breech of the gun, and when we consider that by the time it leaves the muzzle it must have attained a velocity of 1,700 feet per second we can begin to see how an acceleration of 500,000 feet per second is attained.

These pressures explain why it is necessary to make the cases of such high quality material, a tensible strength of 135,000 pounds to the square inch, an elastic limit of 110,000 pounds per square inch, an elongation in two inches of 11 per cent. and the contraction of area 25 per cent.

Vaughan and Tennyson.

In a volume of essays on "Men and Matters' 'Wilfred Ward tells this story of Cardinal Vaughan and Tennyson:

Cardinal Vaughan, then a bishop, was staying with my father at Weston, and Mrs. Cameron and Tennyson came to tea to meet him. Mrs Cameron was, at that time, photographing various people for the characters in the "Idylls of the King." Directly she saw Vaughan's knightly face and figure, she called out to Tennyson: "Alfred, I have found Sir Lancelot." Tennyson, not seeing to whom she referred, replied in deep tones: "I want a face that is well-worn with evil passions." The bishop was greatly embarrassed, and the company a good deal amused.

Origin of the Postal Card.

In 1869, while Professor Emanuel Herrmann of Vienna was seeking a vast amount of information by correspondence for his notable book, "The Guide to the Study of National Economy," the thought occurred to him that many advantages would result from the adoption of a means of correspondence cheaper than the sealed letter. On Jan. 26 he went before the Austrian post director with his idea, an open stamped card, and his suggestion was almost immediately adopted. Within a month the Austrian postal authorities printed and sold 1,000,000 postal cards and thus established this indispensable means of communication.—London Tatler.

To Plant Shade Trees.

The Meaford Board of Trade and Town Council have made an interesting arrangement for planting shade trees and any ratepayer can have maple trees planted in front of his property inside the corporation at 50 cents a tree, by making application to any member of the Town Council or a committee of the Board of Trade. The work will be under the supervision of the Town Council, and the trees will be carefully selected and transplanted to ensure their growth.

A Trick of the Trade.

"Stop!" thundered the client at the barber, who was cutting his hair. Then he continued, in somewhat milder tones:

"Why do you insist upon telling me these horrible, blood curdling stories of ghosts and robbers while you are cutting my hair?"

"I'm very sorry, sir," replied the barber, "but, you see, when I tell stories like that to my clients their hair stands on end, and it makes it ever so much easier to cut."

He Believes In Dreams.

Never be vindictive, even in your sleep.

Mr. Miggs, a well-known citizen of the north end, was chased by a bull in his dreams the other night. Across the pasture dashed Miggs, the bull gaining at every jump. Breathlessly Miggs reached the fence at last and, safe astride the top, turned and kicked the bull in the nose, breaking one of his toes on the wall beside the bed.

He is out on crutches this week.

White Turkeys.

Did you ever hear of a white turkey? There is such a bird, though he is not often found. Perhaps you would imagine he would make extra good eating because of his being different from the general run of turkeys. But his flesh tastes no better than that of his bronze brothers. His feathers, however, are worth three times as much as the brown ones.

Amiable.

"Daughter, is your husband amiable?"

"Well, ma, he's just exactly like pa. When he gets his own way about everything he's just perfectly lovely."

The only safe way when you lose your temper is to hold your tongue.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Medical Value of Rest.

The value of rest in the medical management of acute inflammatory and infectious diseases is not fully appreciated. Its effect on the circulation is significant. The average daily output of energy by the heart is 400,000 foot pounds. By simple rest in bed it is possible to save the heart a daily expenditure of 50,000 foot pounds of energy. The faster the heart beats the less time it has for rest, so that decreasing the pulse rate saves the heart. Again, in the recumbent position this organ is saved the labor of elevating that part of the blood which goes to parts above its own level. Rest of the voluntary muscles is still more important. An immense amount of energy evolved in muscle movement is conserved by rest in bed.

Silhouette and Painting.

The art of painting begins inevitably with drawing—with expression by means of the point; the result—line. This every teacher and academy realizes and has to realize. More, every great school of painting has evolved from it. But this use of the point or drawing soon reaches its limitations, and the brush demands mass, or perhaps it is more correct to say that mass demands the brush. The floating of masses on to canvas or paper, with its edges holding the outline of the form, is silhouette. Silhouette, in other words, is the basis of all mass impressions. Without a sense of silhouette we can utter no large and sublime moods. Yet, strange to say, the small part given to silhouette in the teaching of the art of painting in academies—indeed, more often the utter lack of it—has always struck me as extraordinary.—Haldane Macfall in T. P.'s Weekly, London.

Style Pointers.

Handkerchief linen is employed to make many of the lingerie blouses. Often the only trimming used is simple tucks. The Gladstone collar is a feature of these waists.

Some of the new frocks conceal the waist line entirely. One such costume from Paris shows embroideries of crystal beads threaded on silk where the waist line would be.

It is an excellent plan to match in color the odd slippers worn with the home costume with a sash or flower from the corsage. This admits of wearing out partially worn slippers and maintaining a smart effect.

One fascinating leghorn hat of the floppy kind is edged with tiny frills of white lace, and black velvet ribbon trimming is held in place by clusters of roses. The ribbon ends in a single streamer, which falls almost to the knees.

ELECTRIC LIGHT WAS THE INVENTION OF SIR JOS. SWAN

Aged Scientist Has Given the World Many Remarkable Devices Wnick Have Revolutionized Life.

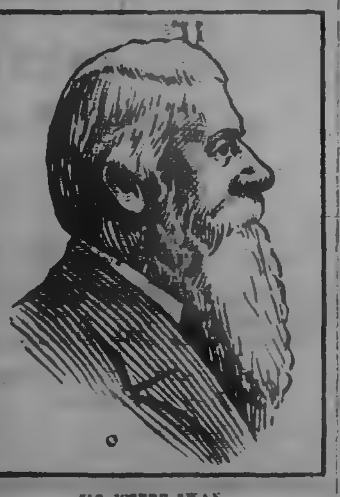
So accustomed are we to electric lighting, and to photography as a household amusement, that it is almost with a shock that we learn that the inventor of both is still alive and vigorous.

Sir Joseph Swan, one of the world's greatest scientists, never possessed the art of getting his name prominently before the public.

Not that he has not had his share of the world's honors. In a synopsis of his life's doings, which appeared in the London Graphic, the scientific acknowledgments of his ability are set down as follows:

In 1881 he was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. The Royal Society elected him a Fellow in 1894; he was president of the Institution of Electrical Engineers, 1898-99, and of the Society of Chemical Industry for 1900 and 1901. Knighted in 1904, on the occasion of the birthday of King Edward VII., in the same year Sir Joseph was awarded the Royal Society's "Hughes" gold medal for his invention of the electric incandescent lamp, and other contributions to the practical applications of electricity. He received the "Albert" medal of the Royal Society of Arts in 1906.

Born at Sunderland on October 31, 1828, Sir Joseph Swan is now in his 86th year. He had early shown a liking for mechanics and chemistry, while a portion of his time was devoted to electrical experiments, in particular the means of producing electric light by the principle of incandescence. He derived special impetus from the trials of William E. Straite, who, from 1845-53, was working assiduously at electric lighting problems. The invention of the mercurial air-pump, by Hermann Sprengel, in 1865, for the production of a vacuum of high tenuity was the immediate ladder to success. In the hands of Bunsen, Graham, and Crookes, the apparatus opened up departments of physical research of supreme interest; in those of Swan (and of Edison) an era in regard to the incandescent light. By 1878, Swan, and a co-helper, Mr. C. H. Stearn, after numberless experiments established the result that when a well-formed carbon filament is firmly connected with conducting wires, and placed in a hermetically sealed glass ball, perfectly exhausted, the filament suffers no apparent change, even when heated to an extreme degree of whiteness. A lamp embodying this new mode was exhibited by Mr. Swan at a lecture in Newcastle in 1879.



SIR JOSEPH SWAN.

In November, 1880, Swan, says The Graphic, read a paper before the Society of Telegraph Engineers. Mr. (afterwards Sir William) Preece in the chair, on the "Sub-Division of the Electric Light." "Supposing, said the author, "the practical difficulties can be overcome, my method assumes a position of importance in view of the (present) extremely limited range of application of lighting by electricity." He described an experiment, tried 20 years earlier, involving the use of spirals of carbon specially prepared, obtained from pieces of paper and card. A little arch of the material was placed in a vacuum, and a current was sent through. The arch became red-hot! The auguries were good for a brilliant light. When the face of matters was altered, through the advent of the Sprengel air-pump, mentioned above, renewed attempts solved the problem of electric lighting by the incandescence of thin filaments of carbon. At the meeting there were shown to a delighted audience, among whom was Prof. John Tyndall, vacuum lamps bearing a fine carbon wire in a state of brilliant incandescence. Mr. Preece said: "We have passed through the various stages of electric lighting, from the first flickering, whizzing, noisy, erratic and troublesome lamp till we have this beautiful, steady light, which is now before us—one of Mr. Swan's latest achievements."

Sir Joseph Swan was manufacturing collodion for photography as far back as 1851.

In 1864 he perfected his "Carbon Process," or "Autotype," the "first commercially, practicable process for making a permanent print." In the '70's, he patented "a highly sensitive or rapid photographic plate, the outcome of an original observation of the effect of heat on emulsions of gelatino-bromide of silver. This revolution brought photography into thousands of homes as a recreation, whilst it enormously increased the means of scientific investigation in the laboratory."

Care of the Eyes.

The day comes to one and all—provided we live the allotted span—when our sight has to be studied. Women should do all work, such as sewing, reading and writing, by daylight as far as possible. Lamps give the best artificial light. The lamp should be placed at your left hand. Do not use the eyes directly after a meal. Bathe them morning and night in cold water to strengthen the muscles. When they feel especially tired and strained use water as hot as can comfortably be borne. With a soft sponge bathe them for several minutes, then give a dash of cold water.

A Check With a History.

A curious souvenir is preserved in the Bank of England in the shape of a note for £1,000 with which Admiral Lord Cochrane paid his fine when he was falsely accused of spreading with an interested object a rumor that Bonaparte was dead in 1814 so as to cause a rise in the price of stocks. The sum mentioned was raised in subscriptions of a penny by his Westminster constituents. The note is indorsed with the name of the intrepid but ill used salt and has inscribed on it a sentence in which he expresses the hope that one day he will prove his innocence and triumph over his accusers. That consummation was not effected until eighteen years later, when he was reinstated by William IV.—London Telegraph.

WHY SOLDIER STANDS ERECT

Not to Look Attractive But to Produce Perfect Health.

Standing straight like thinking straight is necessary for perfect health.

The majority of people have an idea that the soldier is trained to walk straight — head up, shoulders back—in order to look attractive and to have a distinctive carriage of his body.

Soldiers are drilled and trained to walk as they do in order to keep the human machinery in proper working condition and not for appearances. If they could do better work—that is be kept in better health—by any other attitude, it would be taught them.

The military man is trained to walk so as to give every organ inside the body plenty of room to do its work—to keep vital vessels from bending or telescoping.

As the body grows in height the blood vessels and the organs they supply grow to correspond with the height of the body.

For example: A youth grows up to be a man six feet tall. If the development has been natural every blood vessel, nerve and intestinal organ has grown to fit and work at this height of the body. They are adjusted to do their best work at this particular development of this individual whether he or she be short or tall.

Now, if through carelessness or lack of understanding of this important matter, the individual walks with a slough or stoops while standing, he is bending or telescoping several if not all the vessels which supply his body and tissues with nourishment, repair material, blood or oxygen.

The same injurious conditions are brought about when a growing girl bends over while reading, writing or at work. The latest fad in woman's walk—the slouch—is certain to compress the internal organs, bring about local inflammation or obstruction, and, of course, in time injure the health.

If you go about with a drooping head, if you let your neck muscles become so weak that you cannot hold up your head, you are in danger of ill-health slowly stealing upon you.

Do you know why so many sedentary persons have indigestion, torpid liver, poor complexion? Because they go about or sit around with the internal organs telescoped or doubled upon each other. This causes interference with the free flow of blood, presses upon some opening in the liver or closes a duct.

In fact, just picture for yourself an intricate machine of muscles, tissues, glands, vessels and their various ducts, tiny channels and valves, all in their places, each doing their allotted work without trouble and effort, confined in a framework built to hold them, and all this wonderful mechanism gradually interfered with by the bending or buckling of this frame and its covering.

If you were looking at such a machine made by man, you would see at once the necessity of keeping the frame upright and uninjured.

So must you keep the human frame if you would enjoy good health and long life.

Ancient Enamels.

It is certain that glazes having the composition of good enamels were manufactured at a very early date. Excellent glazes are still preserved, and some of the bricks which have been found among the ruins of Babylon have been ascribed to the seventh or eighth century B.C. The glaze on the Babylonian bricks was found upon examination to have a base of soda glass or silicate of sodium. Glazes of a similar character were also manufactured by the Egyptians as early as the sixth dynasty. There can be little doubt that the Greeks and Etruscans were also acquainted with the art of enameling.

Bangs—Something ought to be done, that's a fact.

Excited Individual—Well, I should say there had.

Bangs—Well, to-morrow I'll give you the name of a good veterinary surgeon. It's a shame to have that horse suffer in that way.

With an Eye Toward Economy.

Mr. Perry had been out for a day's fishing. As he proudly displayed the contents of his basket to his wife she exclaimed:

"Oh, Alva, aren't they beauties! But I've been so anxious for the past hour, dear."

"Foolish little one!" said Alva caressingly. "Why, what could have happened to me?"

"Oh, I didn't worry about you, dear," said the woman, "but it grew so late I was afraid that before you got back to town the fish markets would all be closed."

Liquified Air as Explosive.

PAPER GLOBES AND FANS.

Interesting Pose of a Youthful Impersonator—Many Things That Little People Like to Know—Some Distinguished Royal Animals.

As an impersonator Master Grenville Temple Emmett is a success, as the photograph here reproduced shows. He is a little New York boy, son of Grenville Emmett, and posed not long ago at a public entertainment. He represents Lord Althorp as painted by the famous artist Sir Joshua Reynolds. Of course Master Emmett had help in arranging for the picture. But he kept as still as a mouse when the curtain arose and tried not to so much as wink an eye. It is doubtful if Emmett succeeded in not winking, for that is very hard to do. Let any one try it himself. At any rate, the young poser made a very nice picture.

Japanese Fan Game.

Provide yourselves with ordinary inexpensive Japanese fans and Japanese paper globes of various colors. These globes are six or seven inches in diameter. They come folded flat, but all the players have to do is to unfold them and inflate them through the tiny hole which will be found in one end.

Have a goal—make it of two poles six feet apart, with a top crosspiece—at each end of your field. The field should be about the size of a tennis court. Have a smaller goal also in the center of the field.

Choose two captains and let them choose up their sides, the same number on each side. One from each side—two in all—play at a time, each standing in front of his own goal and at a signal from the umpire advancing toward the center, fan in hand.

At the next signal the two captains toss their balls high in the air. It is up to the two players now to keep the balls from touching the ground and to guide them toward the opponent's goal, causing them to pass meanwhile either over or under the middle goal. The only means either one can employ is his fan.

Supposing either ball falls to the ground, the player is privileged to lift it up on his fan without touching it with his fingers and to resume the play, provided his opponent has not yet reached his desired goal.

Royal Beasts.

No other race of animals can show such a history as the black oxen that draw the funeral cars of Japanese emperors. They are of a special breed and for centuries have been kept for the sole use of the imperial family.

The cream colored Hanoverian horses reserved for the British royal family are nearly as famous, but some of these animals once wore the yoke of an alien and an enemy. When Napoleon occupied Hanover in 1804 he seized all the cream colored horses in the royal stables and took them to Paris. The state carriage at his coronation was drawn by eight of these animals.

This insult, as he regarded it, made George III. so angry that he would not use the others of the breed that were stabled in London. Until the fall of Napoleon the state coach was always drawn by black horses when the king opened parliament.

CHAMBERLAIN'S FAVORITES.

Famous Statesman Was Fond of Popular Little Verses.

No politician ever had a greater belief in the oratorical virtues of poetry than Mr. Joseph Chamberlain. As a boy Mr. Chamberlain had a passion for poetry, and it was his favorite study even when, as a small boy, he attended the little preparatory school in Camberwell Grove which was kept by the Misses Pace.

The famous statesman once confessed to a friend that at the beginning of his political career he made a practice of jotting down in a memorandum-book any little verses he came across which he thought might be useful to quote in his speeches. Whether this little memorandum-book is still in existence, it is difficult to say, but a perusal of Mr. Chamberlain's speeches during his strenuous career reveals many interesting facts concerning his favorite poets.

Unlike the late Sir William Harcourt, a pastmaster in the art of classical quotation, and such men as Gladstone, Canning and Peel, who were fond of airing their knowledge of Homer, Virgil and Horace in public, Mr. Chamberlain found inspiration in more popular verse.

At the same time, Mr. Chamberlain was not averse to humorous quotations, and "The Biglow Papers" furnished him with many apt lines. One of his favorite quotations in his early days was the following:

The world's a dreffle bad place for our sins,
Where there allus is critters about
with long pins,
A-prickin' the globe we've blowed up with such care,
An' provin' there's nothin' inside
but bad air.

Another favorite, which was supposed to be extracted from "The Biglow Papers," was:

There ain't no label on a man
I'd read. An' if there was
I'd stick to this unfailin' plan—
A fellow's what he does.

A perusal, however, of that entertaining work fails to reveal these lines, and one can only come to the conclusion that Mr. Chamberlain occasionally supplied himself with his own poetical quotations.

On one occasion Mr. Chamberlain made use of "Pinafore" in the following stanza:

'Tis greatly to his credit,
Although he himself has said it,
He is an Englishman.
And in spite of all temptations
To belong to other nations,
He remains an Englishman.

And in 1885 at Glasgow Mr. Chamberlain, having jotted down these lines from Burns, used them with effect in his speech in that city:

'Tis hardly in a body's power
To keep at times from being sour
To see how things are shared.

A favorite quotation, often employed in Mr. Chamberlain's imperial addresses, was:

Let Britain's myriad voices call;
Sons be welded each and all
Into one imperial whole,
One with Britain heart and soul,
One life, one flag, one fleet, one throne.

Cheap Dinners Going.

Will the Australian lose his cheap dinners? The demand from butchers' assistants in Sydney and in Melbourne for increased wages threatens the extinction of the 9 cent dinner. If this substantial meal of meat and two vegetables followed by "sweets," is to be raised to 12 cents, such a misfortune will be bewailed by the thousands of nomads and vagabonds who make pilgrimage to the cities of the Commonwealth. But they will not be the only sufferers. Their comparatively well-to-do fellows of the clerk and shop-assistant class, will they have to pay a shilling for a capital three-course dinner for which they now pay 18 cents. Perhaps a cup of tea, always a part of the Australian's every meal will now be charged for! Such is the custom, at any rate, in Canada.—London Chronicle.

Early Treatment of Servants.

In a selection from the Newdigate family archives published by Lady Newdigate-Newdegate we get a glimpse of the way servants were treated in the 17th century. Sir Richard Newdigate, who flourished under Charles II., enters in his diary a list of fines imposed for various crimes: "Nan Newton, for breaking teapot, 2s. 6d.; Ri. Knight, for pride and slighting, 2s. 6d.; William Hetherington, for not being ready to go to church three Sundays, 18d.; Cook, dead drunk, 10s." He had a system of rewards as well as penalties, one of the entries reading, "To Tom Cooper, who worked hard after I broke his head, 2s. 6d."—London Chronicle.

Not Up To Expectation.

When Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood paid a visit to his native village at the close of the Zulu War all the inhabitants turned out to welcome him. Among the crowd was a woman who impatiently asked her neighbors where "the 'ero" was.

"That's him," replied one of them pointing out Sir Evelyn's rather spare, slight figure.

"What, 'im!" exclaimed the woman. "'Im kill all them Zulus! Why, even my old man could clout 'im!"—London Answers.

Feminine Partner First.

London has at least a few successful businesses in which the female partner seems to take precedence as witness the great pickle firm of Elizabeth Lazenby & Sons. There is a great public-house, too, in Brixton road which bears the inscription above the door of Mrs. —— & Sons ——, a reminder of the days when the ale-wife controlled not only the inns, but the breweries of Merry England. And do not all oyster lovers know the name of Elizabeth Driver?

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

What a boy doesn't know about neighborhood affairs isn't happening.

Trouble can't find your address, and sometimes good fortune can. So it isn't all hard sledding.

You can't always tell a good thing by its foolish look. Sometimes it is a disguise.

A fair field and plenty of favor is part of what some people want when they care to go in for anything.

Being self sufficient sounds all right, but many a man has found that it is not synonymous with self support.

Some men are about as effective as a joke without a point.

A woman can forgive a fool if she is the reason.

The father of lies himself can't discover a sure way to circumvent a curious woman.

Things are not always what they seem—in which case it is sometimes a surprise to the things.

Any man takes an unholy delight in seeing his bosom friend make a fool of himself.

Having a sympathetic nature lets you in on a lot of trouble.

Being able to do as he pleases is often quite sufficient to account for a man's failure.

OFFICIAL RODE A MILLION MILES

J. E. M'LEOD NEVER HAD A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Dominion Official, Who For Seventeen Years Has Been Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service Out of Toronto, Has Established a Record For Long Distance Traveling—Retires After 38 Years.

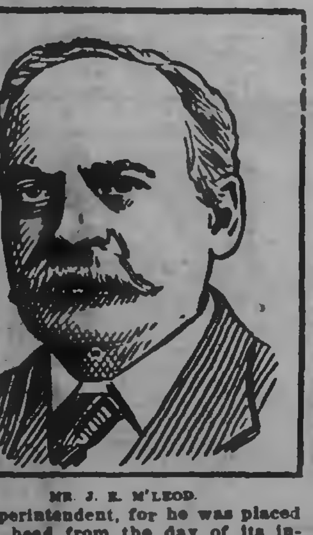
The Ontario section of the Dominion mail service is about to lose one of its heads, Superintendent J. E. McLeod, for seventeen years in this capacity, is about to retire.

Mr. McLeod was made railway clerk in 1876, on April 1st, 38 years ago.

Since the railway mail service was first instituted Mr. McLeod has been its superintendent, for he was placed at its head from the day of its inauguration in 1897. His career ran into no serious accidents, although the miles of his journeys number over the million mark.



MR. J. E. M'LEOD.

He is now enjoying a three months' leave, after which he will be on the retired list with an annual pension of $1,862.50.

Jewels Buried 300 Years.

The London Museum has been removed from Kensington Palace to the more spacious Stafford House. It is now possible to follow a chronological order and to convey in the costumes and the pictures, in the pottery and the weapons, in the books and the thousands of other local relics, a clear and telling history of London from Saxon times until the present age. The most interesting addition that has been made to the Museum is shown in the gold and silver room. It is a case containing 150 jewels of the early seventeenth century that were found by a workman two years ago in calk soil sixteen feet beneath the cellar floor of an old house in London.

There are gold and enamel pendants and rings, enamelled gold chains, a gold and enamel scent bottle set with diamonds and rubies, and a very fine diamond ring, crystal chalices and other communion relics, amethysts, sapphires, rubies, garnets and turquoises.

Like the box in which they were found, with the earth all over them, the pearls had decayed. But for the rest of the treasures, as one visitor was heard to remark, they have the appearance of being so extraordinarily modern that all the gems look as if they might be bought in a jeweler's shop to-day.

What "H. O. K." Meant.

Mr. Roger W. Babson says that in looking up appendicitis cases he learned that in 17 per cent. of the operations for that disease the post-mortem examinations showed that the appendix was in perfect condition.

"The whole subject," he adds, "reminds me of a true story I heard in London recently. In the hospitals there the ailment of the patient, when he is admitted, is denoted by certain letters, such as 'T. B.' for tuberculosis. A visiting doctor was examining these history slips when his curiosity was aroused by the number on which the letters 'H. O. K.' appeared. He said to the physician who was showing him around:—

"'There seems to be a severe epidemic of this H. O. K. in London. What is it, anyhow?'

"'Oh, that means "Heaven only knows,"' replied the physician."

SCALES OF FISHES.

Some Too Tiny to Be Seen, Others as Big as Silver Dollars.

All true fishes have scales, but in some they are so minute or so deeply imbedded in the skin as to be imperceptible. In most kinds, however, they are distinct enough, and in the pompano and the kingfish of the Gulf of Mexico, which affords magnificent sport to anglers, they are sometimes almost as big as silver dollars and are used to make ornaments.

Scales vary greatly in thickness and strength as well as in size. They serve as an armor for the fish, not only against the attacks of enemies, but against parasites and infections of all kinds. When a fish's scales are torn by wounds or accident a fungus is almost certain to take root, develop and finally kill the fish. It is to protect the animal still further that a sort of slime oozes continually from pores in the skin and spreads over the surface of the scales.

The size and strength of the scales of a fish are in direct relation to its habits of life. The eel and catfish, which have no external armor, lurk near the bottom and among weeds and escapes assault by floundering in the mud. Perch and trout, which live in clear water, have stronger and bigger scales, and the best armor belongs to those fishes which are themselves predatory. Most scales show lines of growth on the upper surface, and the number of spawning periods it has passed through and the injuries it has suffered can be read by those who understand the markings.

The most complete and effective armor among fishes is that of the gars or billfish of our American and some African rivers. Here the scales do not overlap, but are lozenge shaped and joined at the edges, like the pieces of a mosaic. Instead of being rounded and horny, they are composed of an ivory-like enamel. This was characteristic of the fishes of that very primitive age called silurian. The seas were then filled with fish, some of great size and ferocity, which had solid, pavement-like armor of this kind and are known as ganoids. A few small species of this primitive type have survived to the present. One reason may be that, except in infancy, they are safe from ordinary enemies.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION

SUGGESTIVE OF POIRET.

Here is a separate blouse in the spirit of Paul Poiret and possessed with the charm of individuality. Roman striped mandarin crepe forms the wide tasselled collar, the girdle and the cuffs, while the rest of the blouse is in plain blue crepe. Here is a most acceptable suggestion for the making over of an old blouse, since Roman striped materials are much in favor and collars are the feature of every outer garment of the day.

Summer squash, string beans, cabbages, asparagus, cauliflower, cucumbers, beets, turnips and carrots are all improved by standing for a time in cold water.

FROM AN OLD RITUAL.

By Bliss Carman.

O dwellers in the dust, arise,
My little brothers of the field,
And put the sleep out of your eyes!
Your death-doom is repealed.

Lift all your golden faces now,
You dandelions in the ground!
You quince and thorn and apple bough,
Your foreheads are unbound.

O dwellers in the frost, awake,
My little brothers of the mould!
It is the time to forth and slake
Your being as of old.

You frogs and newts and creatures small
In the prevading urge of Spring,
Who taught you in the early fall
To guess so glad a thing?

From every swale your watery notes
Piercing the rainy cedar lands,
Proclaim your tiny silver throats
Are loosened of their bands.

O dwellers in the desperate dark,
My brothers of the mortal birth,
Is there no whisper bids you mark
The Easter of the earth?

Let the great flood of Spring's return
Float every fear away, and know
We are all fellows of the fern
And children of the snow.
—From "The Green Book of the Bards."

IS A STRIKING FIGURE.

Ven. Archdeacon Bogart Was Rector of the "Cabinet" Church.

As a result of the resignation by the Ven. Archdeacon Bogart of the rectorship of the Church of St. Alban the Martyr, Ottawa, there passes into retirement one of the oldest active clergymen of the Church of England in Canada and one who has, perhaps, in his time, numbered more of the national leaders in his flock than any other pastor in Canada. He has been rector of St. Alban's since 1881, and up to the establishment of All Saints' Church, some fifteen years ago, his church was the only Anglican place of worship in the fashionable residential section of the capital known as Sandy Hill. As a result St. Albans numbered among its parishioners a large proportion of the Church of England members of the Macdonald, Thompson, Abbott, Bowell, Tupper and Laurier Governments. Since the division of the parish, and the creation of All Saints, St. Albans has rather lost its character of the "Cabinet Church" and several members of the present Government, including the Prime Minister, the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and the Minister of Agriculture worship in the new edifice. The late Sir John A. Macdonald was a devoted adherent of and regular attendant at St. Albans, which is situated half a mile or so from Earnscliffe. The funeral service of the great Prime Minister was held there, and a memorial brass and window recalls his connection with the congregation. To Archdeacon Bogart, for whose devout Christian character and amiable simplicity Sir John often expressed great admiration, fell the duty of ministering to Canada's great son during his last illness.

Archdeacon Bogart, who is a native of Brockville, Ont., is now approaching his eightieth year, and although mentally as bright as ever, he naturally has lost some of the energy and vigor which characterized him when he began his ministrations in Ottawa. But he has never lost the affection of the members of his congregation. The changed conditions in the built-up district immediately surrounding the chuch have resulted in many of the leading families of the congregation moving away to considerable distances; but most of them continue their connection with St. Albans, and the congregation is now representative of all sections of the rapidly growing capital city. This dispersion of the congregation of course means a more extended field of labor for the clergy, while the mission work among the poor, sick and transient classes of the parish is steadily growing. So Archdeacon Bogart, venerable in fact as in title, feels it incumbent upon him to relinquish his historical charge into other and younger hands. Archdeacon Bogart's connection with the Ottawa diocese will be always remembered for his interest in the musical part of the church services.—Chesterfield in Montreal Star.

Maple To Mean Pure Stuff.

Hon. Bruno Nantel's new bill to amend the Adulteration Act in regard to maple sugar and honey provides that no one shall make or sell as pure maple sugar or syrup any article which is not pure maple sugar or syrup. The act goes into force Jan. 1st next. The word "maple" must not be used on goods not pure but resembling maple sugar or syrup. Representatives of certain firms protested at Ottawa that this would prevent them continuing the use of their trade names, but the committee in charge of the bill was firm.

The bill provides similar regulations against the sale of adulterated honey.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, May 18.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, offerings amounted to 700 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 2500 hogs and 300 calves.

A stronger feeling developed in the market for cattle yesterday morning, and prices as compared with a week ago showed an advance of 25c to 50c per 100 pounds, owing to a better demand and a smaller supply coming forward. A feature of the trade was the strength in the market for bulls, which sold 50c per 100 pounds higher on account of the somewhat limited offerings and the improved demand because of the high prices ruling for other grades of cattle. Choice stock brought as high as $8 to $8.25 per 100 pounds. There was also a good demand for butcher's cows for both domestic account and for shipment to Quebec and Ottawa, sales of choice being made at $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds.

Demand from packers was good, and an active trade was done in Ontario selected hogs at $9.15 and Manitobas at $8.65, while sows sold at $6.65 to $7.15 and stags at $4.90 to $4.50 per 100 pounds weighed off cars. There was no change in the condition of the market for small meats owing to the fact that supplies were small.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $8.25 to $8.75; do., medium, $6.50 to $7.50; do., common, $5.25 to $6.25; canners, $4 to $4.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $7.50 to $7.75; do., medium, $6.50 to $7; do., bulls, $5.50 to $8.25; milkers, choice, each, $80 to $90; do., common and medium, each, $70 to $75; springers, $50 to $65; sheep, ewes, $6.50 to $7; bucks and culls, $5.50 to $6; lambs, $8 to $8.50; hogs, off cars, $8.65 to $9.15; calves, $3 to $10.

Gets Two Years First.

TORONTO, May 19.—Two years in Kingston was imposed by the police court magistrate yesterday upon Thomas Ward, who threw bricks through three plate glass windows at Eaton's store, in the hope of deportation. The prisoner had previously been arrested on a trivial charge and was acquitted. He asked on that occasion to be deported, but was told to go to work. With a view to securing a free passage home to England, he adopted militant tactics, breaking windows and doing damage amounting to $300. He will probably be deported by the Government when his sentence expires.

Daring New York Burglars.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Posing as detectives, four men gained entrance to a Broadway motion picture theatre early yesterday, made the watchman a prisoner, handcuffed three workmen who were in the theatre then blew open the safe in the box office, obtaining $10,000. The robbers were in the theatre building three hours and compelled the watchman to wind the watchman's clocks at various points in the theatre at the proper time.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

When stitching have the upper right hand drawer of the machine open. Into it put the bastings and clippings.

A small piece of flannel sewed around the arm of the machine and used as a pincushion will save many pins and needles that otherwise would have been lost.

Have a small brass curtain rod screwed on the wall above the machine. Slip the spools of cotton on it, and they are always in readiness for use.

A crochet hook is useful for pulling bastings and fastening threads.

HOUSECLEANING HINTS.

They May Serve to Make the Annual Overhauling Easier.

The following is an excellent way to remove rust and thoroughly clean a wire spring mattress: Take a hard brush, dip it into a fairly thick paste of whitening and water and brush the mattress with this until all the rust is removed. Then brush with dry whitening. When thoroughly dry brush well and give a coating of hard drying enamel (white for preference), as this prevents the wire from rusting again. If the wire is very rusty indeed first apply powdered bath brick and kerosene, brushing it well in with a stiff brush. Then brush with the dry whitening.

A very easy way of cleaning white paint is to dissolve one teaspoonful of salts of tartar in two quarts of hot water and wash the paint with this. It removes all dirty marks, and, if afterward rinsed with cold water and polished with a chamois leather, the paint looks as good as new.

A cheap and very satisfactory way of staining floors is the following: Buy a small quantity of burnt amber and mix into a paste with a little linseed oil. Rub this into the wood with a rag or paint brush, leave it to dry for a day and then apply a thin coating of plain varnish. It makes a good dark stain and one which does not wear off easily.

To clean leather chairs, first wash the leather with a clean new sponge dipped in a quart of slightly warm water to which has been added a teaspoonful of vinegar, then rub dry with a soft chamois leather. Next whisk together the whites of two eggs and mix with them two teaspoonfuls of turpentine. Dip a piece of clean flannel into this and rub well into the leather. Then dry with another clean rag. It is wonderful how it freshens up shabby leather.

FLARING FLOUNCES.

They Are a Predominant Feature of the Majority of New Gowns.

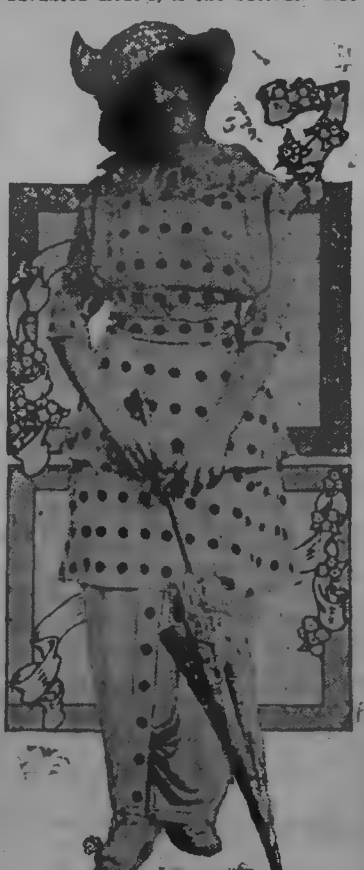
Flounces appear everywhere. They are put on gowns, suits and dresses in ones, twos and threes, while many gowns have small flounces shirred on cords which flare in the most approved manner.

Many are cut in the circular fashion and applied to a simple skirt some distance from the waist line, giving the flare at the right place in the silhouette, but still preserving the slim outline.

One of the predominating features of the newest suits, as being shown in advanced models, is the buttons. Buttons seem to be made out of every substance—some seem to be made out of pebbles, some out of agate and some out of amber. They are larger than ever and long bar shapes and balls seem to be most favored. Colors are decidedly vivid.



WHITE VOILE GOWN.

The pierrot model is a popular one this season. It is carried out in various styles, one of which is illustrated here. The gown is of white voile embroidered with large blue dots. A white straw hat trimmed with chiffon and white wings is worn with this gown. In harmony with it are the white silk stockings and white pumps.

Sweet potatoes are exposed to the attacks of about a dozen serious in-

Agricultural Notes

Experiments at the Agricultural College show that dandelions in lawns are killed by a spray made of a solution of iron sulphate.

The new dining hall at the Ontario Agricultural College is being constructed of stone, and will be ready for occupation next term.

Dairy products are being raised to a higher standard through the efforts of the thirty-four instructors appointed by the Department.

Factory inspection is under the jurisdiction of the Department, and the inspectors last year made 7,348 inspections, covering 5,084 industries.

Sixty-nine school fall fairs were held last fall, representing 531 schools in 31 counties, with an entry list of 18,652, and an attendance of 33,875.

Seventy-five per cent. of the students at the College are from Ontario, and 95 per cent. of the students at the College go back to the land.

Pearce's Improved Tree Bean gave the highest yield per acre at the Agricultural College, both in the fourteen and the five year tests of field beans.

Bee keeping is receiving increased attention, and the Department has on its mailing list the addresses of 8,000 who are understood to be keeping bees.

Four million fruit trees in the nurseries in the Niagara Peninsula were examined last year for San Jose scale, all infested stock being destroyed.

A herd of dairy Shorthorns was purchased in England by the College, to demonstrate the possibilities of combining beef and milk from one animal.

Chemical analyses are being made at the College of the swamp and peat areas of the Province, with a view to making them productive as market gardens.

Ontario received $195,000 last year from the Dominion Government to assist the Department of Agriculture in its work of instruction and demonstration.

About 45 per cent. of the farms have mortgages against them, and these mortgages represent only about 15 per cent. of the total value of the farm property.

The average yields of crops grown at the College for theirteen years are nearly double the yields of similar crops grown throughout the Province for thirty years.

"Buy from Ontario what you cannot grow yourself," was the slogan of an advertising campaign carried on by the Department of Agriculture last year in the West.

The appointment of a Provincial Entomologist has resulted in a great improvement in the conditions of the orchards and nurseries, particularly in the Niagara peninsula.

During 1913 nearly 2,000 people were served, under the auspices of Women's Institutes, by courses in "Food Values in Cooking," "Home Nursing" and "Sewing."

Occasionally a man doesn't show bad taste in dressing because he can't afford it.

Next to obtaining garden seeds that will grow, perhaps the most difficult task on the hands of the citizen of domestic tastes is to find a setting hen that will stay set.

University of Chicago professors have shown by careful experiments that the land is subject to tides as well as the water, thus confirming the observations of many convivial lay scientists.

THE PETERBORO CHORAL SOCIETY THE NEW NAME

Continued Progress Reported at Annual Meeting of St. George's Choral Society

The third annual meeting of the St. George's Choral Society was held in Coleman's Parlors, last night. Reports were received from the Secretar. Treasurer, and Librarian, showing the excellent progress the Society has made. It was regretted that the public did not accord the recent Oratorio production, "Judas Maccabaeus" the full support necessary to make it a financial success, as the expense was very great to the society. The report showed the society with 95 fully paid up members; 33 rehearsals were held during the past season. The music library of the society is continually being added to, and the value of the same is estimated at upwards of $150.00. This is at the disposal of the city choirs at any time they may wish to use it. Mr. R. J. Devey, in his remarks, stated that it was quite a difficult proposition two years ago to attempt to put on a standard work like the "Messiah," in Peterboro, but it was a still bigger undertaking to put on "Judas Maccabaeus," but he was proud of the success achieved, as were all lovers of good music in Peterboro.

Mr. Chas. Coleman also spoke as to the good work carried on by the chorus during the past season, also the faithful work the different officers had done.

Mr. B. Read spoke of the growth of the society and thought the time was now ripe to change the name of the society and put the following motion before the meeting: "That the study of choral music in this city will be best served by endeavoring to extend the scope of this society, to make it a fully representative body; as a means to this end, the society shall from this date be known as the Peterborough Choral Society."

Mr. W. Common, in seconding the motion, said at one time he was opposed to this, but explained his present attitude by the old proverb, "A wise man may change his mind, but a fool, never." The motion was put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

Election of Officers.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mr. W. Stocker.
Vice-President—Mr. C. E. Coleman.
Secretary—Mr. B. Read.
Treasurer—Mr. F. Mather.
Librarian—Mr. T. H. Boddy.
Musical Director—Mr. R. J. Devey.

Pianist—Miss Flowers.

The following gentlemen were also elected to serve on the executive committee: Messrs. Coleman, G. East, W. Gray, J. Howland, G. McKee, and C. Thorpe.

The following is the history of the St. George's Choral Society:

January 12th, 1912—

At an ordinary meeting of the St. George's Society it was decided to form a choral society under the auspices of the society. Mr. B. Read was appointed organizer.

Messrs. Coleman Bros. were approached and asked to give the use of their banquet room in which to hold a meeting. A notice was inserted in the local press asking all interested to attend a meeting on January 23rd.

Mr. C. Coleman acted as chairman of the meeting. It was moved by Mr. B. Read, and seconded by Mr. Chas. Barrett:

"That a choral society be formed, to be called the St. George's Choral Society. Unanimously carried.

The following officers were elected:

President—Mr. C. Coleman.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. B. Read.
Musical Director—Mr. E. Thompson.
Pianist—Miss Flowers.

Notwithstanding much outside criticism a concert was held in the Grand Opera House on April 16th, 1912, which proved a great success, the society by this time boasting a membership of 70.

The following year Mr. R. J. Devey was asked and consented to accept the position of musical director, Mr. Thompson leaving Peterboro to take up a position in Toronto. The "Messiah" was given in the Opera House on April 30th, 1913, and "Judas Maccabaeus" on April 29th, 1914.

DR. TORRINGTON'S OPINION OF JUDAS MACCABAEUS

He Hears That Society is to Present Elijah

Following the presentation of "Judas Maccabaeus," Dr. Torrington, who conducted the final chorus, wrote Mr. R. J. Devey as follows:

Toronto, April 30th, 1914.

Dear Mr. Devey.

I missed you last night and was sorry, as I wanted to tell you what I thought of your society and it's conductor. I expected to see you at the place where your chorus were having a supper and a good time as well, both of which they richly deserved. I was very glad to hear the oratorio again, and to hear that you intend giving Elijah next season. You will all be delighted with it I am quite sure and so will your chorus. I would advise you to make it known to your audience, who should completely fill your theatre. I wish they would build a music hall sufficiently big enough to take in a much larger audience. I could not help feeling that the audience last night were fully in sympathy with you and the splendid chorus you have, and they know they had proved for themseves a grand success, and I told them just what I think of them. I shall come down to hear Elijah. Much credit is due to Mr. Gliddon for his efforts to establish a local orchestra and I congratulate him upon his success and wish him more good luck You want more room for them on the platform and also less crowding of the soloists. I should like to have a talk with you re Elijah some time in the early future, and I would like you to know that I feel as much interest in the production of Elijah by your chorus and orchestra as if I gave it myself.

The soloists all did themselves credit, each having lovely voices and good perception of their parts. If you can send me your newspapers with an account of the concert, I shall be glad.

Wishink you every success in the future and all good luck.

I am, yours fraternally,
F. H. TORRINGTON.

The above is not official. A new committee was formed last night, who will decide the work to be given next season.

UTILITIES COMMISSIONERS HOLD MEETING

Application for Water Services Dealt With

At the meeting of the Water Commissioners yesterday afternoon, Chairman T. F. Matthews was tendered a hearty vote of thanks, for his efficient services, and for his kindness in attending the American Waterworks Convention held in Philadelphia. His expenses of $63.70 will be paid by the Commission.

City Engineer Parsons was heard in regard to the three hydrants to be removed on George Street to suit the main line of the sidewalk.

O'Connell and Corkery wrote the Commission concerning the water rates at 237 Princess Street, and the matter was referred to the City Solicitor for advice, both as to the liability of the present owner and to the sufficient form of petition for water mains to the commission.

B. Jackson applied for a service to 348 Charlotte Street. The secretary was instructed to write the applicant that no action could be taken in the matter.

The superintendent reported as to the running of the McDougal pumping apparatus at the dam, and said that the shaft was running hot. He was directed to report the matter at once to the company.

Dr. McPherson, M.H.O., reported on the condition of the water during the past month. The water was satisfactory.

The superintendent reported on the matter regarding the complaint of J. H. Gray of poor pressure at 198 Charlotte Street, and that this was due to two services for a business and apartment served on a one half inch main.

An application was read from J. H. Gray for a service to 194 and 198 Charlotte Street. The superintendent was instructed to have the services laid.

CONVICTS KILLED

One Victim is Constable Who Freed Krafchenko

STONY MOUNTAIN, Man., May 19.—Ex-Constable Reid of Winnipeg, formerly of Toronto, and convict Hawkins were so seriously injured by the falling of a scantling upon which they were working as carpenters in the building of the new watchtower on the northwest corner of the prison, yesterday afternoon, that they died last night. Convict Reid was the former constable who was sentenced to serve seven years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for his connection with the escape of Krafchenko from the Winnipeg Jail.

Convict Hawkins was a 20-year man, who last summer escaped from the penitentiary, only to be caught the same afternoon. Reid had both legs and one arm broken, besides sustaining internal injuries, while Hawkins had one arm broken and injuries to the chest, caused by the falling of a heavy timber upon it. The convicts were attended by Prison Surgeon McGuire, and the Warden also sent to Winnipeg for Dr. Moody.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION TO BE HELD JUNE 1

Richard Sheehy Succeeds Judge Hayes on the Executive

The first gun in the political campaign which will be waged in view of the forthcoming provincial elections, was fired last evening when the executive of the West Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association, met in the offices of Peck, Kerr and McElderry. The meeting was for the purpose of appointing officers to fill a few vacancies and also to select a date for the convention. The date set by the executive was June 1. It was decided to hold it that day as several of the representatives in the riding who are not residents of the city will be here on that day to attend the reception to the Duke of Connaught. The convention will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Conservatory of Music. It is practically decided that E. A. Peek will be the unanimous choice of the convention.

It was also decided that the chairmen of the various wards and townships would meet in Mr. Peck's office to-morrow (Wednesday evening) for the purpose of arranging to select delegates to the convention.

The resignation from the executive of L. M. Hayes was accepted. Mr. Hayes was recently appointed county judge of Wellington.

Richard Sheehy was appointed to fill the vacancy, while John Edgar and John T. Craig were appointed chairmen of Wards 1 and 5 respectively, those positions also having been vacant for some time. R. Ruddy, K.C., was appointed assistant secretary.

Those present at the meeting were: James Kendry, president; William Buller, first vice president; T. T. Milburn, second vice president, Township of Smith; Walter Fisher, Ward 2; Joseph Mills, Ward 3; T. E. Bradburn, ex-M.L.A., E. A. Peck, M.L.A., W. Hill, Ward 4; Reeve Howden, North Monaghan; C. E. Moore, Township of Smith.

Wilted vegetables may be freshened if allowed to soak in cold water. Old wilted potatoes become solid and crisp when soaked in cold water; if soaked for long after paring, they lose some of their starch and mineral matter.

ROUTE TO BE TAKEN BY DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

Vice-Regal Party Will See Much of the City

The reception committee completed another leg in the details for entertaining the Duke of Connaught and party on June 1, at a meeting held last evening. The route of the drive was mapped out while several other items were disposed of. The route will be decorated from a fund set aside by the committee, as well as the Retail Merchants' Association, the members of which have signified their intention to co-operate with the committee. The official route is as follows:

From the C.P.R. station along the lake shore road to the cemetery; through the grounds, if the directors will permit; back by the lake shore road, and down Romaine to Aylmer, to Lansdowne, to Park, passing the De Laval, Colonial Weaving and Canadian General Electric plants, thence by Stewart, to Hunter Street, west along Hunter to Park, along Park to Gilmour, along Gilmour to the Monaghan Road, passing the William Hamilton Co. to McDonnel street, along McDonnel to Aylmer, to Hunter, to George and up George to the Central Park, so as to take in the decorated portion of the city. That portion of the route covers about seven miles, and will occupy about one half hour of the Duke's stay here.

Leaving the park, the party will proceed up George to Argyle, passing the hospital and thence over to Water Street, along Water to Inverlea Park, through the park and across the Smith Street bridge into Nicholls Oval, thence to Concession to McFarlane and around the canal to the lock. After inspecting the lock, the party will return to the C.P.R., via Concession, Vermont, Maria, Burnham, Hunter, Water, Brock, Victoria Park and thence to the station.

A letter was read from Canon Davidson asking that the plans be arranged so that the royal party could visit St. John's Anglican Church. The committee decided that time would not permit, and consequently the request had to be refused.

N. C. Cameron, of the Retail Merchants' Association, wrote, stating that the association's members would decorate their places of business where the party passed.

Police Chief Thompson will be asked to take charge of the work of seeing that invited guests are placed in the vehicles set aside for them.

A letter was received from Arthur F. Sladin, the Duke's private secretary, informing the committee that his royal Highness approved of the reception plans.

The committee decided to communicate with the Minister of Militia, asking his department to decorate the armouries for the occasion, as the Duke will visit there. It was also decided to ask J. H. Burnham, M.P., to use his influence in having the request granted.

The position the children of the schools will occupy at the reception was left to the members of the reception committee.

Rev. F. J. Sawers reported that several patrols of boy scouts from outside points had made requests for permission to be present, and the arrangements along with arrangements for the inspection of the cadets were left with the reverend gentleman.

ALL SAINTS' WORKERS MADE GOOD USE OF THEIR TALENTS

Returns of $800.15 From Talent System and Building Fund Cards—Thirty-nine Returns Yet to be Made

Highly satisfactory returns were made at All Saints' Parish Hall last night, when the ladies who took part in the Talent System, reported on the results of their work and the young people of the Sunday School on the results of their efforts with the building fund cards.

The splendid total of $800.15 was placed on the table and as there are thirty-nine returns yet to be made, it is anticipated that the $1,000 mark will be reached.

The Sunday School contributed $172.75 through the building fund cards. Not a few of the children in the Primary Department had their card filled, making a total of $5. In the returns by the ladies, was one of $50.25, and many others of $10 and upwards.

Rev. R. B. Grobb presided at the meeting, and he thanked the workers most heartily for their assistance. He said that the building of the chancel had been made practicable by the ladies and that the smaller amounts were appreciated just as much as the larger ones.

Those assisting in the musical programme were Misses Johnston and Spicer, Mr. Herbert Rush, and Prof. Schlochow. Miss Lillian Rush read the following report of the Talent Society for the year 1913-14:

On the evening of May 5th of last year a very enjoyable congregational gathering was held, at which the returns of the Talent System were brought in. The splendid sum of $1,117.29 was realized. After returning the amount of $82.50, borrowed from the Wardens, and depositing $1,000 to the Building Fund, there remains in the Union Bank to the credit of the Talent System, $46.01, including interest and $10.50 in quarters not distributed.

Expenses:

| May, 1913 .. .. .. .. | .50 |

DID IT IN SLEEP

Accused Prisoner Pleads Somnambulistic Insanity

CHICAGO, May 19.—Wm. Keith, on trial here for the murder of Walter Paul, made a plea of "somnambulistic insanity," through his attorneys.

Keith contends that he dreamed he entered a saloon and sent for Paul; that he dreamed he drew a revolver and said: "You ruined one family, but you will never ruin another," and that he dreamed he fired and Paul fell dead. In fact, everything appears to have been a dream except the revolver, the bullet in the victim's body and the report of the coroner's jury.

Investigation is alleged to have shown that in Alabama Keith and his people were known as "sleep walkers."

MAINS ARE LOCATED WITHOUT EXCAVATING

T. F. Matthews Makes Interesting Report on Convention of American Water Works Association at Philadelphia

T. F. Matthews, chairman of the Water Commissioners, attended the convention of the American Waterworks Association at Philadelphia, and at the meeting of the Commissioners yesterday afternoon, Mr. Matthews gave a report of the convention as follows:

I was pleased to avail myself of the opportunity to attend the Thirty-fourth Annual Convention of The American Waterworks Association, held in Philadelphia, May 11th to 15th. I believe it was a most successful convention, in point of attendance and in the interest shown by those present at the various meetings. There was a very fine display by manufacturers of various devices, tools, etc., and I believe it is in the best interest of any municipality of importance that the Superintendent or others interested should attend these Conventions and keep in touch with modern practice.

I was particularly interested in several papers given and in the discussions following, among them being: "Present Day Water Filtration Practice," by George A. Johnston. "Equitable Hydrant Rentals and Better Methods for Apportioning Fire Protection Costs," by John W. Alvord. "Use and Benefits of Pressure Recording Gages," by J. M. Diven. "Some Economic Relations between the Water Supply and Typhoid Fever," by John Gaub. These will be published in the Annual, and you will find them exceedingly instructive. The discussion of the first named paper, on Water Filtration, resolved itself into an argumentative controversy between the advocates of Slow Sand and Rapid Sand or Mechanical Filtration methods. The average cost of construction of the former system is equal to $20,000 per million gallons of filtered water, daily capacity, and the latter to $15,000 per million gallons of filtered water daily. This average cost is arrived at from the actual experience of a number of cities.

I was present at a demonstration by the A. P. Smith Company, when a 6 inch pipe was cut and a valve inserted without interfering with the flow of water through the mains. I also looked into the merits of The Grove Electric Indicator, an instrument for locating underground mains and services without excavating. This instrument is the result of exhaustive experiments conducted for the Water Department of Washington, D.C., and is in my opinion essential to every municipality where the records and measurements of mains and services are incomplete. From what I learned, it is the history of nearly all waterworks systems that during the early years of installation there was not that attention paid to the keeping of proper records that has been paid during the last few years. Peterborough is not any exception, and as road-paving extends, it may be advisable to purchase this or some other instrument in order to avoid extensive and expensive cuts in our roadways.

I had the opportunity of visiting the main Filtration Plant of the city of Philadelphia, situated at Torresdale, on the Delaware River, approximately eleven miles up stream from the centre of the city, and just outside of its north-eastern boundary. It is said to be the largest works of its kind in the world, having a daily capacity of 240,000,000 gallons, and occupying an area of over 200 acres.

The water is first pumped into the preliminary filters, or pre-filters, as they are called, and then flows by gravity to the final or slow sand filters and afterwards to the Filtered Water Basin; from there to the city pumping station through a conduit 10 ft. 7 in. internal diameter and over 120 ft. underground. I witnessed the cleaning of the sand in one of the final filters by the Nichols' method, by which the dirty sand on the top of the bed was shovelled into a hopper and from there sucked into a separator, where it was washed and immediately put back in the filter bed, the wash water containing the matter extracted from the sand being sent to the sewer. This Filtration System consists of:

120 pre-filters, each ⅛ acre.
65 Final filters, each ¾ acre.

and filtered water basin 610 ft. x 762 ft., having an available depth of 15 ft.; the cost, including pumping station and equipment, being over twenty million dollars. The proportion of typhoid cases dropped, after filtered water was supplied, from 67 per 100,000 population in 1906, to 14 per 100,000 population in 1909.

I was unable to remain over for the last two days of the convention. But, as I said at the commencement of this short report, it is my opinion that this Commission should be represented at the Conventions of the Waterworks Association when held within reasonable distance.

DOCTOR HOPES TO SAVE SIGHT

Wesley White's Condition Reported Favorable

The condition of little Wesley White, the victim of the dynamite accident at Campbellford on Sunday, and who is now in Nicholls Hospital, is reported to-day as being very favorable. Dr .D. Carmicheal, who is in attendance, informed the Review today that there is every hope for the lad's recovery. Dr. T. P. McCullough is looking after the boy's eyes, which were thought to be seriously affected, and he expects to save the sight of both of them.

BUILDING PERMITS

Three permits issued to-day for buildings in East City amount to $33,000. The buildings are the new Catholic Church on Roger Street, at $20,000; rectory attached to the church, at $9,000; alterations for Separate School on Robinson Street, $4,000.

Talk That Counts.

Ephum Johnson was up before Judge Shimmerpate on a cruelty to animals charge.

"Deed ah wasn't abusin' dat mule, Jedge," the old man demurred.

"Did you not strike it repeatedly with a club?"

"Yassah."

"And do you not know that you can accomplish more with animals by speaking to them?"

"Yassah; but dis critter am diff'nt. He am so deaf he can't heah me when Ah speaks to him in de usual way, so Ah has to communicate wid him in de sign language."

BUSH FIRES ARE RAGING

Cobalt District is Again in Peril

COBALT, May 19.—All day Sunday wagons were bus moving dynamite from an old magazine belonging to a powder company, as bush fires were raging in the vicinity. In this magazine, which is situated on the old Silver Queen property, there was stored 290 cases of dynamite, or approximately seve tons. Late on Sunday night this magazine was burned down, but by that time all the powder was in a place of safety. The magazine was situated only about a mile from the town.

Bush fires are raging round Cobalt, but damage to property has so far been light.

Englehart In Darkness.

ENGLEHART, May 19.—A bush fire between here and Charlton Sunday afternoon destroyed nearly two miles of electric light poles, leaving both towns in darkness Sunday night. If dry weather continues another week there are certain to be extensive bush fires. Yesterday smoke in three different directions indicated as many forest fires.

To retain the color and natural flavor of beans, peas, carrots or other sweet-juiced vegetables, gently simmer them in slightly salted water for soda destroys the delicate green color of these vegetables while salt intensifies it.

THE GLOBE PREVARICATES.

THE TORONTO GLOBE asserts, facts to the contrary, that the C.N.R. problem is due to Borden alone. In a long article the language of which shows plainly an attempt at concealment, it tries to lay the C.N.R. problem at the door of the Conservative party. Thus, it misrepresents the facts when it says that in 1911 Sir Wilfrid Laurier "never gave any aid or any promise of aid to carry a third transcontinental through the mountains of British Columbia to the Pacific." The fact is that the Laurier Government recognized the C. N. R. as a national railway by granting it aid, ostensibly to link up the prairie sections and the lines in Ontario and Quebec. Perhaps Laurier did not think Mackenzie and Mann were going to build through the mountains, but that does not alter the facts. It does not matter what the C.N.R. intended to do—the fact is Sir Wilfrid granted it aid in 1911 by Chapter 6 of the statutes for that year, because "it is in the interests of Canada as a whole that another line of railway designed to assist in the direct and economic interchange of traffic between the eastern and western portions of Canada." What has the Globe to gain by a perversion of the truth ?

Moreover, the Hon. W. S. Fielding has given approval to the Government's proposition through the columns of the Daily Journal of Commerce. Three provincial Liberal Governments have asked that aid be granted to the C.N.R. Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself, has said that aid should be granted but he does not approve of the details of the Government's proposal. In view of all the criticism and the facts every intelligent citizen is justified in supporting the proposition of the Borden Government, upheld as it is by a large section of the Liberal party throughout Canada.

THE PRICE OF NEWSPAPERS.

OF LATE, there has been considerable newspaper discussion on the cost of newspapers particularly as regards subscriptions. One paper says there is a general tendency to advance subscription rates all over the continent. It alleges that the enormous increase in the cost of production is responsible for the advance, and the two leading papers in Winnipeg have lately notified their readers that they must pay more in future for their newspapers. The price they will charge will be ten cents per week. The same rate holds in Vancouver, Regina and Chicago. The Cincinnati-American, a one-cent morning newspaper, established by B. H. Kroger, a millionaire merchant, has suspended publication, and the other papers will charge their former rates of three cents per copy or twenty cents a week. In many American cities the subscription rates are much higher than in Canada. In Boston the price is from $6 to $8.50 per year ; in Buffalo $5.50 ; Chicago, $5.50 to $6 ; Cleveland, $5.50 to $7.50 ; Detroit, $5.50 to $7.50 ; New York, $6.50 to $12 ; Philadelphia, $5.50 ; St. Louis, $5.50 to $8.

The increasing cost of newspapers is a serious problem. In the early days of newspapers one hundred years ago, men paid from ten cents to sixteen cents a copy for their newspaper. Such a price was prohibitive to a great many people, the result being that newspapers were hired or passed around from one family to another. Circulations were naturally small and the newspapers were not large. The course of progress has been to reduce the price of newspapers and to increase their size, manifestly a policy that can not continue without either change or disaster.

Moreover, the mechanical means of production have undergone a transformation as great or greater than that of any other industry. The machinery for the production of newspapers is of a costly and expensive kind. Invention has brought many improvements, but, at the same time, greatly increasing the cost of a newspaper plant. The use of automatic machinery has permitted the development of large newspapers, both in size and circulation. Thus, we have some New York papers putting out a Sunday edition of one hundred pages. Toronto papers frequently reach the forty page size. It is quite true that the people who get forty page and one hundred page papers, cannot read half of what the paper contains. If newspapers are to fulfil their legitimate function of supplying the people with a daily account of the happenings of the world at a price within the reach of the public they must cut down the number of their pages and make the matter of a higher standard than it is. There has been too much quantity and not enough quality.

The Review does not try to give its readers bulk but rather to give them all the news in a paper in as compact a form as possible. It does not try to load its pages with half-priced "ads." but to charge a fair and uniform price to all.

TRADE OF U. S. WITH ARGENTINA.

AMERICA'S rapidly expanding commerce with Argentina is indicated by the fact that exports into that country are four times greater in value today than ten years ago. In the same period imports into the United States from that country trebled. Figures published by the Department of Commerce show that United States exports to Argentina in the last calendar year aggregated $55,000,000, compared with $5,000,000 in 1893 and $14,000,000 in 1903. Imports from Argentina into the United States rose from $5,000,000 in 1893 to $27,000,000 in 1913.

POPULATIONS COMPARED.

A RETURN showing the growth of population in Australia and Canada at decennial intervals has been prepared by the Commonwealth statistican. During the fifty years from 1851 to 1901, the population of Australia increased from 437,665 to 3,824,913, a gain of 3,387,248, while that of Canada, which increased from 2,384,409 to 5,371,315, showed a gain of 2,986,906, or 400,342 fewer than Australia's gain for the same half-century. This advantage on the part of Australia was, however, more than balanced in the decennium 1901-11, when Canada's gain of population exceeded Australia's by no fewer than 1,091,534. For the sixty years Australia's gain of population was 4,131,042, as against 4,822,234 for the same period in Canada, a difference of 691,191 in favour of Canada.

VISIT THE PARKS.

FEW CITIES in Ontario possess finer or as fine parks as the city of Peterborough. Jackson Park contains a natural beauty that art can not impart to less favored and perhaps wealthier places. Then Victoria Park at the present time is ablaze with all the glory that many colored brilliant tulips can impart to any garden. It is encouraging moreover, to notice throughout the city on private property the number of tulips that impart an attractive appearance to otherwise austere places.

The tulip is essentially a spring flower, which is bright to a degree and its brilliancy is quite in keeping with the impetuosity that spring imparts to the life of trees and flowers. For a long while they have been sleeping, to all appearances devoid of life, now they suddenly break forth with shining green leaves, with brilliantly colored flowers and delicately tinted blossoms. The tulip typifies youth and prophesies a slower but more fruitful growth later on.

Just now, Victoria Park with its many flower beds and bright green grass is a delight to the eye and a credit to this city. If people want to get a refreshing view of spring loveliness, they will go far to find better examples than can be seen in Victoria and Jackson Parks.

A DICKEN'S CHARACTER DIES.

A CABLE to the Mail and Empire the other day, announced that the original of Charles Dickens' Little Nell in the Old Curiosity Shop has just died. That was Mrs. Harriet Tice, born in 1827 in a house which is claimed to be the original of the Old Curiosity Shop, and John Pepperell, her father, was supposed to be the original of Little Nell's father. It does not matter very much whether the cable is true or not. Dickens wrote from life ; he walked down London streets and met the characters he described. He embodied them in works of fiction, which are among the greatest in the English language. It does not matter whether Little Nell or her grandfather ever really lived or not. When the story is read, the question is asked, could this have been true ? Could the persons have acted as Little Nell and her grandfather did ? The relationship to life is the vitalizing factor in Dickens' novels. Because these characters could have lived, because they are seen with more or less variation in actual life, is the real reason for the living popularity of Dickens' works, as well as for the lessons contained in the story of his characters.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE GRAIN GROWERS' GUIDE has been so hard pressed to slam the Borden Government on its C.N.R. proposition that it has on the whole praised the Conservatives. It concludes by opposing Sir Wilfrid's position when it says the Government should have taken over the system. The Guide of course, being so partizan, will be inconsistent in supporting the Grits in order to say something adverse against the Conservatives. Such a position does not improve the influence of The Guide.

LEST YOU FORGET, we remind the people of this city that this is Clean-up Week. That means that everybody is to put their residences in apple-pie order. Don't have the neighbors talking about any untidy place on your street.

SIR WM. MACKENZIE says the allegations of W. F. Nickle and R. B. Bennett are false. While Sir Wm. didn't prove anything we can imagine what he thinks.

THE TRIAL of Lieut. Becker in New York has this advantage—it furnishes a lot of good newspaper copy while it lasts.

WE NOTICE that waitresses in Toronto have formed a union but have failed to state what the minimum tip is.

BY THE WAY, have you cleaned up your front lawn and back yard ?

Rowell's Policy Weak.

Orillia Packet.

The Opposition in the Legislature didn't strengthen their position during the session just closed. Their efforts to fasten upon the Government the stigma of an alliance with the liquor party, gave a tone of insincerity to their temperance platform, and made it appear that they were simply attempting to exploit the temperance movement for party ends. This impression was accentuated when one of the members who was foremost in making the charge had to confess that he himself had sought an alliance with the liquor forces, on a basis of cash payment for his services, and when another Liberal advocate of temperance was shown to have stretched the law somewhat seriously in his desire to assuage the distress of drouthy patients. There is room for honest difference of opinion as to what measures are best calculated to overcome the evils of the liquor traffic. But Mr. Rowell does not strengthen his case when he asks people to believe that a Government which has done so much to make Local Option effective is an ally of the liquor trade.

LEMONADE

By Walt Mason

It is a helpful, soothing drink, when flies are bad and days are hot; and whether it is white or pink it always seems to hit the spot. I drink it with the lovely dames where drug store clerks take in the kale; I drink it at the baseball games, at home I sip it by the pail. Of all soft drinks it is the best, as every learned physician knows; it always soothes my savage breast, and gives my warlike soul repose. It takes the fungus from my tongue, and kills the toadstools in my throat; and I feel brave and gay and young, when all my innards are afloat; when they're afloat in lemonade, my head is clear, my nerve is strong; I face my duties unafraid, and put up hay the whole day long. And when the cool, gray morning breaks, I do not see, beside my bed, a bunch of hydra-headed snakes with pea-green antlers on each head. I rise refreshed, so full of vim, and of aggressive strength so full, that when I've sung my morning hymn, I go out doors and whip a bull.

Birthdays of Note

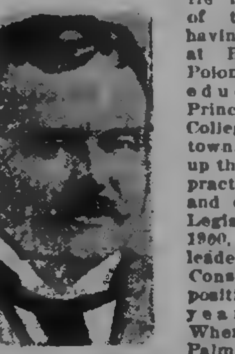
TUESDAY, MAY NINETEENTH

To-day the Hon. Alexander Mathieson, K.C., premier of Prince Edward Island, completes his fifty-first year.



He is a native of the Island, having been born at Brackley Poiont, and was educated at Prince of Wales College, Charlottown. He took up the study and practice of law and entered the Legislature in 1900, becoming leader of the Conservative Opposition three years later. When Premier Palmer resigned in 1911, after having been defeated in two bye-elections, Mr. Mathieson was called on to form a government. He did so and, appealing to the country, was returned to power by a large majority.

Also born to-day:—

Hon. A. W. Atwater, Montreal, born Montreal, 1856.

L. C. Belanger, Sherbrooke, born 1840.

ON FRENZIED HURRY

I THINK I've said afore that the proper study of mankind may be man, but, to know him well, you've gotter study dorgs and other critters.

If the people who rush and worry and sweat over the doin' of trivial things knowed dorgs better, they'd take life a hanged sight easier. If you've ever owned a dorg or studied a dorg you've larned that his life is a mighty short one. Six to eight years he lives and enjies life and then the dorg angels come down and gather him up and thre ain't no Fido any more. It may strike you as peculiar that a big, strong dorg's earthly existence was so short, but have you ever figured out why?

I'll tell ye why. A dorg's life is short 'cause he lives too blamed fast. He's everlastin'ly in a hurry. He don't walk where he wants to go, he runs. He wears his pore heart out rushin' life, that's what he does!

Well, supposin' you look about ye; notice the hustlin' throngs, watch a man hurryin' to catch a boat or a car, watch the way foolish people are wearin' their pore hearts out hurryin'. You wanter know why many a useful life has been cut short—that's the answer. Too much hurry, worry, flurry!

It would seem as though we was born in a hurry, live in a hurry and die in a hurry. We can't control the fust and last but we kin do a lot towards controlin' the livin' part. Let's go slower and injoy more!

Vegetables with a strong flavor, like cabbage, onions and turnips, should be cooked in a large amount of water and kept boiling rapidly and a small bit of soda will improve them by softening their fibres.

Mistaken Courtesy.

An old Irish countrywoman going to Dublin by train, says The London Times, stepped into a first-class carriage with her basket and made herself comfortable.

Just before the train started the conductor passed along and, noticing the woman and the basket, said gruffly:

"Are you first-class, my good woman?"

"Begor, I am, and thank you," she replied with a smile, "and how do you feel yourself?"

TURNBULL'S

FANS WITNESSED BATTLE ROYAL BETWEEN SENATORS AND PETES

A Scrappy Battle With Good Battery Work and Sharp Fielding

CRESSWELL and Shockcor were real stingy mortals yesterday afternoon with the result that local ball fans witnessed as tidy a contest as has been staged on the local lot in some time, even if Shaughnessy's warriors did make off with the battle by a score of 2-0. It was a toss up who was the stingier of the two, as Shockcor allowed five hits and Creswell seven, but from a point of benevolence, ife either had any stored up in their make-up, Creswell carried off the honors as he issued a pass in the fifth which resulted in a run for the visitors, while he became tender hearted in the third and allowed two hits to be sandwiched in with a sacrifice fly, and Ottawa counted one. Otherwise Creswell was as close as Cy Perkins' broken down wagon is to the ground. On the other hand, Shockcor was stingy in all but one innings, and then reckless base running robbed the locals of a chance to break into the run column.

URBAN SHOCKCOR

Ottawa's right-hand pitcher. He hails from Cleveland, pitched semi-pro ball at Detroit, was signed by Fort Wayne and turned over to Ottawa.

Both twirlers were backed up by air tight fielding, as the two errors, one of which was chalked up against Peterboro and one against Ottawa did not figure in the casuality list. The shake up in the local infield proved a great improvement, and that department of the local brigade looked fifty per cent stronger. King was moved to short in place of Price, and he displayed all kinds of speed and a great arm. Fox at second looked after all that came his way in good style, and had three hits, while Gorman and Byrne also played good ball. Miller behind the plate held Creswell up throughout. The shift in the team seemed to inspire confidence.

The Ottawa brigade look just as strong if not stronger than last year. Nill at second is an improvement over Smykal, while Fried, although only a kid, has all kinds of nerve, is fast and can whip them across and is a better man all around than Crowder. The outfield is the same as last year. Shockcor is a new addition to the hurling corps and looks like a good one. Lage is as good as ever behind the pan, while Dolan, although his hitting is below standard, fielded good. Bullock is the same noisy, hard working third baseman.

Both teams connected with the pill, but the sluggers failed to hit them where they aint. Blount had five put outs, three of the hard sort, to his credit, and covered a lot of ground, while Lefty Rogers had six which he pulled down, so there were some pokes out of the inner garden. The infield of both teams were called upon to gobble up some hot stuff and Nill's stab of King's slam in the ninth frame was a neat piece of work. Dolan also robbed Blount of a hit by a nice stop.

Joe Byrne pulled a neat play in the fifth which helped some. Fried was on second and Bullock hit a sizzler at Joe, and the latter fell in stopping it. Fried made third and ran around the bag, but before he could get back, Byrne made a flying leap at him and got him a foot off the bag.

Ottawa scored its first run in the third when after Fried had filed to Gorman, Shockcor, and Bullock singled. Shockcor scored on Nill's long sacrifice fly to Blount. Bullock went out stealing. The Senators got their other run in the fifth, when Creswell passed Powers, who went to second on the hit and run, which put Lage out at first.. Fried then doubled and Powers scored. They were dangerous again in the sixth, when after Nill had flew, Shag bingled and politely swiped second standing up. He went to third when Creswell threw the ball to the outfield. Rogers was passed, and things looked dark, but Dolan and Powers skied out.

The locals had their chance in the fourth when Fox singled to centre, but was out trying to stretch it into a double. King doubled a moment later, but there was no one ahead of him. In the eighth, Miller, the first man up got on, but Schettler, who was sent in to wallop for Creswell, fanned. Blount flew to Rogers and Miller was forced out on Fox's punch to Fried. Tracey heaved the ninth for the locals and the Senators were retired in order.

Summary:—Two base hits, King, Fried. Sacrifice fly, Nill. Stolen bases, Shaughnessey. First base on balls, off Creswell 2, off Shockcor 1. Struck out by Creswell 4, by Shockcor 5. Double plays, Lage to Miller. Passed balls, Miller. Left on bases, Peterboro 5, Ottawa, 5. Innings pitched, by Creswell 8, by Tracey, 1. Hits off Creswell 7 in eight innings; off Tracey none in one innings. Umpire Bedford. Time of game, 1.40.

Two of the hits chalked up against Creswell were doubtful ones. Swartz after a hard run had his hands on a drive which he dropped but the play went as a hit. In the fifth, when Bullock drove that hot one at Byrne it is doubtful if Joe could have thrown the runner out, so Bullock gets credit for a hit. It made no difference, however, as Byrne after recovering from the speed of Bullock's poke, tagged Fried out after he had over run third.

It was a great game to look at, and only a few breaks in the luck gave Ottawa the win.

The locals choked off a chance to score when Fox tried to make second on a single in the fourth. It was a chance, but as taking a chance often wins games, what's the difference?

Shaughnessey is still there with the old fight. He started in before the first ball was pitched. Creswell was a little slow getting out and "Shag" yelled, "Come and let us get at you."

The shake up in the infield proved a good move. Fox is about as tidy an infielder as any of them, while King looks even better at short than he did at the keystone position.

COSEY DOLAN

At the initial station for the Senators.

The locals are connecting with the pill and only a break in the luck has been cutting off hits. They can be expected to start a regular clean up day shortly.

Nill made a clever stop of King's hard drive in the ninth.

Miller clouted one which looked good for a few bags in the third, but Lefty Rogers was playing deep for him and caught the pill at a hard run.

Umps. Bedford said farewell to Peterboro for the time being when he hopped the early morning train. The umps received instructions during yesterday's game to report at Brantford for duty to-morrow. Outside of a few mistakes on Saturday, Mr. Bedford looked like a real umpire, and his decisions as a whole while here were entirely satisfactory.

A rare double play was pulled in the first inning. Fox was on first with one down. There were two strikes on Wilcox and Fox took a lead off as Shockcor wound up. When Lage dropped the third strike, Fox started for second and was thrown out by a block. Wilcox was out by virtue of the rules which do not require the catching of the third strike with a runner down and first occupied.

CIRCUIT NOTES

St. Thomas although they had five errors yesterday nosed out Toronto 5-4.

Brantford outclassed the Yanks and won 8-2, while London beat Hamilton 6-3, the latter having five boots.

Ottawa is back in first place after an absence of a day from the top position.

Ransome, a catcher, and Padgett, a twirler, have been released by the Hamilton club to the Hornell club of the Inter-State League.

Umps. Raley narrowly escaped a mobbing at Hamilton Saturday when he called Taylor, the Brant pitcher out at the plate. The players and the umps. indulged in a free for all.

Erie Dispatch.—The Yanks can't win many more ball games in the manner they have been. Luck has a peculiar way of switching to the other fellow in the end.

Rube Deneau has signed up an outfielder by the name of Dolan, who hails from South Bend. The Dolans are now in the majority, with Cozy of Ottawa, his brother, also a first sacker, with Hamilton, Frank Dolan, a pitcher with Hamilton, and Brantford's new addition.

LAWN TENNIS AT BOWLING GREEN

B. H. Meyers is Elected Secretary Treasurer

The Lawn Tennis Club of the Bowling Green held an organization meeting last night in the parlors of the Oriental. The first item of business considered was the agreement with the Bowling Club, which was carefully discussed. The following officers were elected:

President—Dr. A. W. McPherson.
Vice-President—J. McNab.
Sec.-Treas.—B. H. Meyers.

The following were elected as an executive committee: C. B. Adair, J. Brightman, Mr. McCrimmon, J. G. V. Boone, and F. Cole.

On motion the officers were empowered to confer with the Bowling Club officers and settle the terms of agreement, and to take what action is necessary to complete arrangements for opening the courts. The fees are to be paid by June 1st.

The club expect to have a much increased membership this year, and to have the courts open in about a week or ten days. Three splendid courts are contemplated, so that some lively competition will no doubt take place. Any that are desirous of joining should communicate with the Sec.-Treas. without delay.

COMMENT

As You Like It

The vacuum cleaners were at work last evening and as a result Ryberg, a catcher, and Eddie Price, the youthful shortstop, were given their release. The executive also decided that the team needed bolstering up in other spots, and Manager Blount was instructed to look for three or four new players. The directors feel that some real hitters are necessary to send the team on an upward journey, and no time will be lost in securing them, even if the club has to raid the Federals, says the village kidder. It was also stated that the club's efforts to secure Scott, a short fielder, who was released by the Pittsburg Feds, had failed.

There are many who will doubt the wisdom of the local club directors in releasing Price outright. True the youngster did not measure up to Class B calibre, but he is still young. Lack of experience and confidence seemed to be his biggest drawback, as he has a nice arm and lots of speed. The club directors would have acted wisely if they had farmed him to a club identified with a league where the class of ball is not quite so fast, as Price will surely improve, because he has shown that he has the makings of a neat player in his make-up.

As to Ryberg. The backstop was not nearly as good as Kelly, all things considered, and Miller easily earned the first string place.

Umpire Riley will probably work here for the balance of the series. He is the official who got in wrong at Hamilton and nearly escaped a beating on Saturday when he called a Brantford man out at the plate. First of all he called him safe. Then the Hamilton crowd raided him. In a second he called the runner out, and in the mix-up both sides tried to disfigure his umps' countenance.

Frank Shaughnessy is one who does not think the Petes are so weak. "Shag" says the team played nice ball yesterday, and it was a toss up. He says the warm weather will help some.

Kane will make his season's debut for Ottawa to-day, with Lage behind the pan, while Schettler and Miller or Kelly will work for the locals.

Once upon a spring night dreary, as
I pondered weak and weary,
O'er a bunch of baseball "copy" safe
behind my office door,
Suddenly there came a ringing of the phone bell and a singing
"Lady-bug," then hurled this at me:
"Tell me, mister, what's the score?
Tell me just how bad they beat us, only this and nothing more."
"Lady-bug," says I, "now dearie, what's the use of growing weary
At the antics of our Curley and his Peterboro bunch?"
"If you'll only start in rootin' that old team will soon be roosting
At the top of all the others. Wise up kid, and take my hunch."
So I ask you what's the use sir, to start knocking like the deuce, sir,
Just because the team to date has got the small end of the score.
Sure, they've had some blamed rough going and have made a darn poor showing,
But I ask you, what the Dickens is the use of getting sore?
Let us boost the White Caps and continue evermore.

Chapdelaine is catching for Woodstock in the W. O. B. L., and on Saturday his team defeated Brantford by 12-3. Dubbio Shea worked in the middle garden for Woodstock.

A rather farcical ball game was participated in last evening at Riverside Park, betwen the Posties and Clerks. Due to the pitching of Hagerman for the latter, they won 10 to 2.

Even after a man has lost all confidence in himself he may refuse to give the undertaker a show.

CRICKET

The Lakefield Cricket Club visited Peterboro Saturday afternoon and were beaten by the local club 79-37. The scores:

Peterboro—Thompson, 0; Graham, 0; Foster, 7; Lawrence, 14; Bennett, 0; Boone, 14; Patterson, 7; Pattison, 0. Parkins, 6; Stanfield, 22; Chamers, 2; Bush, 7.—79.

Lakefield—Fenwick, 2; McCullough, 2; Marling, 11; Gilray, 0; Patterson, 0; Graham, 4; Cameron, 2; Steward, 0; Sime, 0; Mackenzie, 6; Merritt, 5.—37.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BALL

The game between Queen Alexandra and Queen Mary in the junior public school league last evening resulted in a win for the former by the close score of 15-14. It was anybody's game during the seven innings, as both Williamson and Simpson were hit frequently.

The batteries:

Queen Alexandra — Simpson and Head.

Queen Mary — Williamson and Flowers.

Umpire, Mr. Voaden.

Puzzling Differences in Weights.

Which is heavier, a pound of feathers or a pound of lead? They weigh the same.

Which is heavier, a pound of feathers or a pound of silver? The pound of feathers is heavier, because feathers are weighed by avoirdupois weight, which has 7,000 grains to the pound, while the precious metals are weighed by troy weight, which has only 5,760 grains to the pound.

Which is heavier, an ounce of feathers or an ounce of silver? An ounce of silver, because in the troy ounce there are 480 grains, while in the avoirdupois ounce there are only 437 ½ grains The avoirdupois pound of 7,000 grains is divided into sixteen ounces, while the lighter troy pound of 5,760 grains is divided into twelve heavier ounces.

The Dark Ages.

The dark ages were so called from the fact that for 1,000 years or so in the period between the fall of the Roman empire and the revival of learning Europe was in intellectual darkness. Scholarship had practically disappeared from the earth. Very few were able to read or write. Nearly all knowledge of the arts and sciences, of history and literature, had perished, and the almost universal ignorance lay upon men like a great cloud. The wisdom of the past was locked up in Latin, which was known only to the scholars, and it was not until about 1453 (at the fall of Constantinople) that the Greeks began to enlighten the darkened mind of Europe.

No Need of Them Some Day.

At a monthly examination a boy of fourteen failed to spell 15 per cent. of his words correctly. The tutor told him this was surprising and must not happen again. The boy replied that he thought be had done pretty well on the whole.

"You must study those words over and over again," replied the tutor. "This must not occur at any future time. Study them so that you can remember them forever."

The boy stood still in silent contemplation for a few moments and then remarked:

"I was just thinking that I wouldn't live that long."

SCHOOL CHILDREN HEARD THE ORGAN

All the children of the local separate schools, numbering nearly 1,000, and the sisters of Mount St. Joseph, House of Providence, St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Vincent's Orphanage, and St. Mary's Convent, assembled in the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday afternoon and had the privilege of hearing the new pipe organ. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien D.D., assisted by Rev. J. J. O'Brien and Rev. J. V. McAuley, gave Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, and also spoke a few words, explaining the reason that organs are found in churches and their purpose.

Mr. J. Armstrong, the organist, played the accompaniment to the children singing the O Salutaris and Tantum Ergo.

MAY LAND SOME ONE IN JAIL

Men and boys who make a practice of passing remarks to women on the street will stand a good chance of being arrested. There have been numerous complaints received regarding this habit.

A campaign was commenced against this practice some time ago by the Women's Council at the time of the agitation over the appointment of a woman police.

A city official remarked yesterday that it was partly the fault of the parents who allowed their children over the ages of sixteen to spend much of their time on the main streets.

PEBLO CHILDREN'S EYESIGHT

It is astonishing the number of children who suffer from the effects of eyestrain, and many of them are unjustly blamed for being unambitious or mentally stupid. It has been shown by authentic investigation under municipal direction that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the children in public schools have defective vision and should wear glasses.

We make a specialty of examining children's sight by the most improved scientific methods, and if your child does not need glasses, we will tell you so frankly, and make no charge for the examination. But if your child should need glasses, we will guarantee that the glasses we fit are the proper correction, and will give perfect results. Our 10 years of successful optical business in this city is the guarantee we offer you.

We carry a special line of children's spectacle frames in heavy weight, in Gold Filled and Aluminum.

PLAINTIFFS ASK $500

Wrongful Conversion of Lands is Alleged

Two writs of a county court nature have been issued by G. N. Gordon, one on behalf of John Nixon, and the other in which Albert Kennedy is the plaintiff. The Dixon action is against William J. Stockdale, and is for the recovery of $500 for trespass and wrongful conversion of lands as well as the removal of timbers. Other than the damages the plaintiff asks for an order forcing the defendant to remove a fence erected on the land and also to give up the land. The property in dispute is described as Lot 4, concession 11, Township of Harvey.

In the other action Albert Kennedy asks for damages to the extent of $500 for personal injuries received while in the employ of the William Hamilton Company. The Charlton, Engleheart Light Heat and Power Company is named as a co-defendant

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BEAUTIFYING OUR FAIR CITY.

Editor, Review:

Dear Sir,—There is a great deal of expression from different citizens through the press and otherwise in regard to the beautification of our city, to make it a better and cleaner city, and calling from the various quarters asking for the extensive co-operation of the citizens to carry out this great scheme, I am sure many citizens are glad that some are waking up to see the need of a cleaner city and in return we as citizens will ask our council to co-operate with us in making it as such. It is too bad after the hard labor and toil of many citizens in trying to make nice homes that we should be molested or disturbed by building a nuisance and a filthy dumping plant called the incinerator in the centre of the city, causing such a filthy odor that the Matthews Packing House is not to be compared to it. People are making remarks all over the district and one remarked to me they would have to move away from their nice home if something was not done to stop it. I myself went out on the front verandah the other Sunday and it was, to speak plain English, rotten. I had to go in and shut the doors and on going up town a week ago it smelled rank around the corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie. When there is a north-east wind people have remarked it was just as bad over at Braund's store, corner of Park and Albert Streets. It is when the wind blows that the places at a distance smell it and where there is no wind the residents near by get it as the filthy smoke comes down. And then to think that the Sanitary Inspector, Mr. Spence, one who is in office to look after the sanitary conditions of our city, should go before the Board of Health, according to the statement from the press, and say that he had been down at the plant several nights and found no smell, and that it was all imagination of the people. I am sure Mr. Spence would have found more odors than he wanted to find if he had gone in the right direction for it, for people are not all fools, imagining something to be when there is nothing. When they get it in reality then they are aroused, and if Mr. Spence can let the like of this pass without notice it is high time some of the city officials take him to some specialist and see if he has not lost his sense of smell. If something is not done to remedy the trouble I feel we as citizens will have to enter an injunction against the city for the loss sustained to our properties, and for being injurious to health.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

ONE WHO NOSE.

NEW STORE OPENS ABOUT JUNE 1ST

Turnbull's new departmental store at the corner of Simcoe and George Streets will, it is expected, be opened on or about the first of June. The various departments at present contained in the three stores of the Turnbull Co. will be at the service of the people in the new store, and then in the course of a few months other departments will be opened.

The formal opening will not take place until the commencement of the fall season, as the building has not been quite completed. By that time the additional departments will have been added and a general opening will be held.

During the next few weeks your "SALADA" Tea will reach you wrapped in a silvery sheet of aluminium instead of lead. So perfect is the manufacture of these wonderful sheets that they are even more air-tight than lead, and eight of them weigh no more than a single sheet of lead.

Exit Common Informer.

It was not always a good thing to be a common informer. One remembers the instance of an act that was passed making the penalty for a certain offence a fine of $2,500—half to go to the informer. In committee, imprisonment for two years was substituted for the fine, but the rest of the clause was allowed to stand. In consequence this part of the act became practically a dead letter, no common informer being desiring of securing his just and legal due.—London Chronicle.
